We are announcing a few changes in our staff this month.

Jim (James Albert) Ambrose will take over the On Campus spot vacated by Kathi Banta. And Joe Farmer has joined us as feature writer.

Jim Ambrose graduated from St. Louis U. high school, 1943. During the war he served as Army machine gunner in Italy, was discharged in 1945 for wounds received in Combat. Jim came here last Sept., is a pre-journalism student, intends to major in advertising, minor in photography. He would like to work as copywriter or in advertising photography after college. Favorite relaxations: movies, and sitting in the shade with a cool drink.

FARMER

AMBROSE

Joe Farmer is a junior in J. school, hails from Ft. Worth, Tex. He was in the Navy, served in the Philippines and invasions of Luzon and Okinawa. Joe was married in Jan., 1946, entered M.U. that fall. Main interest: journalism. He plans a newspaper career. Hobbies: writing short stories, golf, horses, and collecting books.

Kathi Banta, who has supplied us with five months of good On Campus copy, is off to Indiana with her typewriter on her knee. We are sure she'll do a good job for the Hoosiers, too.

More staff news: Arnold Millner, our sports editor, was married June 1 to Janice Lyle of Columbia. Congratulations!

Now about that poll: Several months ago we asked for opinions on extra-curricular activities versus classwork. Returns were 100% for classwork. So, at least as far as those who wrote in are concerned, we might just as well drop extra-curriculars.

Sincerely,
The Editors

ALUMNUS REPORTS ON JAPANESE WAR TRIALS AND LIFE IN JAPAN

By SMITH N. CROWE, JR., A.B. '41, LL.B. '43

In November, 1946, after a thirty-two-day voyage from New York, via Panama and Honolulu, I arrived in Yokohama to take part in the Japanese war trials. Most of the time since then I have been a Prosecution Counsel at the trial of Tojo and 27 (now 24) other defendants here in Tokyo. In this capacity I have assisted in the preparation of several phases of the prosecution.

The case has been divided into general phases dealing with Japanese aggression in Manchuria, China, the South Seas area, and the Pacific area. Prosecution is directed of course, not against the Japanese people as a nation but against the individual leaders of the country who led her down this disastrous path. To facilitate and expedite work, the individual defendants were assigned to Prosecution Counsel, usually one to a defendant.

I have been particularly concerned with Hata, a former Field Marshal and War Minister of Japan, and Togo, the Japanese Foreign Minister at the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The Court is composed of judges from eleven Allied nations, and our prosecution staff has associate prosecutors from each of these countries. This has, of course, made my work additionally pleasant and interesting, as there was constant association, professionally and socially, with these representatives from all parts of the globe.

I had the pleasure of working with the Chief Prosecutor, Joseph B. Keenan, on important phases of the case. The most interesting part, in my opinion, was the Japanese-American negotiations of 1941, in which the defendant Tojo was especially involved.

The prosecution has two important purposes. One is to bring justice to the Japanese who were responsible for Japan's aggression; the other is to advance another step toward the establishment of a world community based on law and order—not war and aggression.

If there is one outstanding feature of Japan, I should think it would be that it is a land of contrasts. I have seen shoeless, hatless, coatless beggars, every inch of their tattered clothes patched with any kind of cloth, asleep in the sun just outside the most beautiful temples one could imagine.

In the country the peasants come out of their fields and gather around the jeep to hear music coming from the built-in radio. Yet in Tokyo, there is all the hustle and bustle of a modern city. The downtown section looks much like any other city—minus skyscrapers, due to the earthquake peril. Kimonos walk side by side with western dress down the streets of any Japanese town.

Tokyo was 70% destroyed by our bombers, but millions of people emerge every morning from somewhere or other. Their food, of course, is entirely different from ours. The day I found myself eating raw fish without excusing myself, I put in for return to the States! The thing could get to be a habit!

[Ed. Note: Since the case on which Mr. Crowe was working went to court Apr. 16, he intended to leave for home sometime last month, according to our last letter from him.]

K.C. ATTORNEY ASSISTS AT JAPANESE WAR TRIALS

A. W. Brooks, A.B. '36, LL.B. '38, is assisting as attorney for the defense in Japanese war trials.

Former Kansas City attorney, Brooks entered the Army in 1942. He was sent to Japan on secret work, was discharged as captain two years ago.

The attorney's wife and two children joined him in Japan last year. The family intends to remain in Tokyo, where Mr. Brooks will continue to practice law.

NEBEL HEADS AID FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

A. W. Nebel, B.S. in B.A. '30, A.M. '35, was appointed director, State Crippled Children's Service, effective May 15.

Nebel resigned as associate professor, rural sociology, last June. He was social service worker for St. Louis Children's Aid society before joining faculty here in 1934.

He will succeed Dr. Dudley Conley, retiring dean of medical school, who has been acting as director pending appointment of full-time director.

DICKERSON TO GO ABROAD

Dr. Gordon E. Dickerson, associate professor of Animal Husbandry, will leave for Europe June 5, to attend the International Congress of Genetics, Stockholm, Sweden, July 7-14.

Dickerson's paper, to be read at the congress, is titled "The Importance of Heterosis for Total Performance in Animals." It deals with hybrid vigor, a term used for favorable products derived from cross-breeding of two or more strains of animals or plants.

Dr. Dickerson was granted a leave of absence by the Board of Curators, who also awarded him a grant to help defray expenses.

Before going to Sweden, Dr. Dickerson will visit genetic research centers in England, Scotland, Norway and Denmark. His wife will accompany him.

The University Forestry Club released its first yearbook, The Missouri Log, for distribution.

The publication features articles on the progress of fifteen years of Missouri forestry development. It contains pieces on national forests, progress in state forestry here, and research problems.

Published by forestry students, the book will be an annual publication. It will be distributed to U. S. foresters and to Missouri groups and organizations interested in forestry.

BULLETIN ON EDUCATION IS AVAILABLE NOW

A University bulletin, "Suggestions for Procedure for Missouri Boards of Education" is available for distribution.

The bulletin deals with organization, training and retaining personnel, finance, pupil problems, equipment and textbooks, health and safety, public relations, building programs, and transportation.

The publication is a revision of one issued in 1945. It was written by Dr. W. W. Carpenter, Dr. A. G. Capp, profs of education, and Dr. Loren G. Townsend, dean of College of Education.

J. GRAD'S IDEA HELPS WORLD FRIENDSHIP

Charles P. Nutter, B.J. '29, was subject of a feature article in Kansas City Star, May 2.

Formerly superintendent of Southwestern division, A. P., Kansas City, Nutter is now manager of International House, New Orleans. International House, result of Nutter's own ideas on better co-operation between American and foreign businessmen, is a thriving center of international business. There world traders meet and become friends, with encouraging assistance from the Missouri graduate.

Nutter got the idea while working for A. P. in New Orleans before the war, but establishment of the center was postponed until 1943. Nutter left his K. C. job to take over as manager two years ago.

The center, supported by a non-profit corporation, is sponsoring an International Trade Mart, early in July.

WILLIAMS GETS PULITZER

Playwright Tennessee Williams, '29-'30, reported last month as winner of the New York Drama Critics award, has also been awarded the Pulitzer prize.

The play, "A Street Car Named Desire," which brought him both honors, is also reportedly doing well at the box office.

ST. LOUIS ALUMNAE MEET

Director of alumni activities Herbert Bunker spoke to St. Louis Association of the University Alumnae May 1 at Hotel Lennox, St. Louis.

Mrs. Arthur Hayes, Maplewood, Mo., was in charge of reservations.

JOURNALISTS RECEIVE AWARDS AT THIRTY-NINTH ANNUAL J. WEEK

By JOE FARMER

The School of Journalism held its Thirty-ninth Annual Journalism Week May 3-7, featuring speeches, luncheons, meetings, and presentations. Many phases of journalism were discussed by magazine editors, public relations men, publishers, writers, correspondents, photographers, and radio and television experts.

Five journalists and two publications were honored in the nineteenth annual presentation of the Missouri Honor awards for Distinguished Service in Journalism. Dr. Frank Luther Mott, dean of the School of Journalism, presented awards to David C. H. Lu, A.M. '32, chief correspondent of Central News Agency of China; Don D. Peterson, B.J. '17, former advertising director of Scripps-Howard Newspapers; Jack Shelley, B.J. '35, news manager of Station WHO, Des Moines, Ia.; Joyce A. Swan, B.J. '28, vice-president of Minneapolis Star and Tribune Company; Inez Robb, B.J. '24, INS foreign correspondent; Life magazine, represented by Wilson Hick, '14-'17, managing editor; and the Atlanta Journal, represented by Wright Bryan, '26-'27, editor.

The citation to Mr. Lu, first full-time Chinese foreign correspondent in the United States, was in recognition of "his activities in promoting a better understanding of China in the United States, and of the United States in China." Mr. Lu was the first student to receive the Yen-ching-Missouri Exchange Fellowship in Journalism, 1930. He has been with the Central News Agency of China since 1936, and a correspondent in this country since 1941.

Mr. Patterson was cited for "his brilliant career in all departments of newspaper work," especially in the field of advertising. Mr. Patterson has been employed by the Kansas City Star; Associated Press; U. S. Mrs. Robb has worked for the Tulsa (Okla.) Daily World and New York Daily News. For the News, she covered the coronation of King George VI and the wedding of the Duke and

INEZ ROBB

Duchess of Windsor. As an INS reporter, she has interviewed celebrities in many countries, including General de Gaulle of France, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President Peron of Argentina, and two successive Chilean presidents. Mrs. Robb's formula for success is this: "It doesn't hurt a girl to have a pair of large Irish blue eyes. It's never been a handicap. Intelligence is secondary."

Mr. Shelley was recognized for "his untiring inquiry into new methods and possibilities for the improvement of his chosen medium of news-dissemination."

Mr. Shelley served as war correspondent in European and Pacific theaters during World War II, for station WHO and the Central Broadcasting Company. He covered the Battle of the Bulge, the surrender of Japan, and mass B-29 raids from Guam during the last weeks of the war.

Mr. Swan was cited for "his unselfish service to the civic interests of his community and to the cause of education for journalism." He has been with the Minneapolis Star and Tribune Company since 1928, working in various departments of the company and many civic associations and clubs.

WASHINGTON AREA ALUMNI PLAN TO ATTEND MIZZOU-NAVY GAME

By C. H. SCHOOLEY, B.J. '25

Greater Washington Area Alumni, already making plans to support the Tigers at the inter-sectional Missouri-Navy game in Baltimore, October 16, kicked off the ticket sales at a May 27 meeting of the D. C. Chapter. The meeting was first to be presided over by new president Dr. James Steele Williams, A.B. '21, Ph.D. '24.

A block of 200 seats has been reserved for Washington area alumni and their families for the first gridiron meeting of Missouri and Navy. President Truman is expected to attend, and official Washington will be well represented.

Curiously, the game will have a traditional M.U.-K.U. flavor, as George Sauer, new civilian head coach at Navy, came from Kansas after Don Faurot declined an invitation to coach Navy in order to stay on at Missouri. The Faurot-Sauer rivalry thus renews itself.

At the May 27 meeting, David Lu, A.M. '32, Chief Correspondent of the Chinese Central News Agency, in Washington, who received an Honor Award for Distinguished Service in Journalism at Journalism Week, [See p. 3—Ed] was speaker. David, as honor guest, ably discussed Chinese American relations and journalism.

Memorial resolutions honoring Rep. Orville Zimmerman, LL.B. '11, veteran Kennett Congressman who headed the D. C. alumni at the time of his sudden death on April 7, were read by John T. Barker, former Missouri attorney general, and unanimously adopted.

At the annual Founders Day luncheon, Senator Forrest Donnell, A.B. '04, LL.B. '07, reviewed the history of the University, "the first state university to be established west of the Mississippi." Senator Donnell paid generous tribute to Prof. Jonas Viles for his Centennial History of the University, 1839-1939. He reviewed passage of the Geyer Act in 1839, establishing a university, and Boone County generosity in giving $117,000 in lands and funds to outdo offers from other competing counties and win its location at Columbia.

"When the first degrees were given in 1843, one man stood at the head of the class, and the other graduate was necessarily at the foot," Senator Donnell said. He reviewed historical high points, growth and expansion since the fire of 1892, and concluded:

"The University now has ten colleges, more than 125,000 students have attended, and 36,000 have graduated. For direct participation in the war program, 14,468 were trained. Neither trustees, faculty, nor even the students, but the people of Missouri, by their support, have assured its success. That success is a challenge to us who have attended, to conduct ourselves as worthy citizens, and rededicate ourselves in affectionate regard to its continued public service."

Leslie Cowan, University Vice President, brought greetings from the campus, and from President F. A. Middlebush. Other chapter officers elected in addition to Dr. Williams, scientist-geologist with the U. S. Geological Survey, are Ollie E. Reed, B.S. '08 M.S. '10, first vice president; Chester H. Gray, Law '04, second vice president; Katherine Helm, A.B. and B.S. '09, M.A. '13, re-elected secretary; Lawrence J. Shaw, B.S. '41, re-elected treasurer, and Frank B. Sheetz, oldest alumnus in the chapter, who attended the engineering school, 1885 to 1887, sergeant-at-arms. Others in attendance at the Founders Day meeting:

Clark Nichols, LL.B. '06; Erwin C. Elkins B.S. '23, M.A. '25; Garland B. Conley, A.B. '23; J. Barnard Gibbs, B.S. '24; Mary Susan Estes Gibbs, '25; E. F. Robinson, B.S.C.E. '03, C.E. '06; N. K. Barr, B.S.E.E. '24; Edward R. Egger, B.J. '18; Melvin W. Sneed, B.S. '34, MA. '36; Mrs. F. B. Sheetz; Mrs. John M. Evans; F. H. Shelledy, B.S.A. '17; J. R. Kline, B.S.A. '17; Helen J. Roman, M.A. '38; Rebecca Walborn, A.B. '36, M.A. '39; Robert N. McMullen, LL.B. '00, A.B. '04; Roy E. Miller, B.J. '10; William E. Atterbury; Dr. W. D. Curtis, A.B. '30; Martha Whitlow Clapp, B.S. '46; Harvey S. Clapp; Belmont Farley '18; Mildred Ristine Prewitt '31; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Baity, LaPlata; John T. Baker; C. Herschel Schooley; David Lu; J. P. Leggett, '25; John S. Hornback, A.B. '16; LL.B. '18; H. C. Hensley, B.S.A. '16; F. F. Espenschied, '04; Milo H. Brinkley, B.S.C.E. '03; James C. Messersmith, A.B. '43; John Boyle Gordon, B.S.A. '09.

Law Day festivities for the 76th anniversary of University Law School, April 24, were formally opened with an address by Richard J. Chamier, A.B. '31, LL.B. '33, president of the Law School Alumni Association.

The day's program was highlighted by an annual banquet, the Law School dance, and talks by prominent judges and attorneys of Missouri.

A dinner was given at the Daniel Boone Hotel by the Law School Foundation in honor of student members of the Missouri Law Review. Norwin Houser, '31 judge of the 27th Missouri Judicial Circuit spoke on lawyers' opportunities in rural communities, and John W. Oliver, '36, Kansas City attorney, spoke on urban opportunities in the law profession.

The initiation of Rush H. Limbaugh, A.B. '16 who is practicing law in Cape Girardeu, into the Order of Coif was preceded by the junior finals of the Case Club, held in the law library. Albert M. Clark, Supreme Court judge and honorary member of the Alumni Association, and Rubey M. Hulen, Federal District Court judge, also an honorary member in the Alumni Association judged the competition.

Adding to the festivities of Law Day were receptions held by Phi Alpha Delta, and Phi Delta Phi, and a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Clark for the Columbia Alumni of Phi Delta Phi. Mr. Clark received his LL.B., in 1906.—F.A.

The firm, known as Layne, Leene, and Greene Television Advertising Agency, is in New York, N. Y. It plans to stress adaptation of commercials to entertainment, rather than mere insertion of advertising matter, according to the directors.

LAW SCHOOL FOUNDATION ELECTS TRUSTEES

Missouri Law School Foundation, at a recent meeting, elected trustees for a period of three years, Dean Glenn A. McLeary, of the Law School, announced.

Newly elected trustees are Roland F. O'Bryen, LL.B. '25, St. Louis; William E. Kemp, A.B. '14, Kansas City; Samuel Liberman, LL.B. '18, St. Louis; Paul Koontz, A.B. '17, LL.B. '18, Kansas City, and Oak Hunter, '97-'99, Moberly.

Members of the foundation voted to raise $10,000 to be added to the sum bequeathed by the late Earl F. Nelson, for establishing the Earl F. Nelson Lectureship. Funds will be used to bring distinguished law men to Columbia for a series of lectures each year.

The foundation also voted to establish a prize as a memorial to James Lewis Parks, former Law School dean. Fifty dollars' worth of law books will be given the student who does the best work in a course to be specified by the faculty at the beginning of each year.

Know an alumna who'd make a good Queen? Send us her name.

MIDDLEBUSH ADDRESSES SPRINGFIELD ALUMNI

Increasing enrollment of non-veterans here is occupying the attention of officials, Pres. Middlebush told an alumni group in Springfield, Mo., recently.

Dr. Middlebush explained that this transition is not decreasing enrollment. Educational authorities estimate that the 1960 enrollment will be higher than the present one, he said.

Undoubtedly, the present temporary buildings can be replaced without much delay, to meet the needs of the future. But, he added, the big problem is to increase the faculty, since all colleges are competing for a competent staff.

GRAD GETS NEW YORK BANK POST

August Maffry, A.B. '26, A.M. '28, Ph.D. '30, was elected a vice president of Irving Trust Co., 1 Wall St., New York.

Maffry came to Irving Trust Co. from Export-Import Bank, Washington, where he was vice president and economic advisor. For more than ten years he was connected with U. S. Dept. of Commerce, and served on a number of international commissions.

Don't forget to nominate a Com-inghome Queen for Homecoming.

STUDENTS' CHILDREN TURN HINK INTO FAMILY PICNIC GROUNDS

By KATHI BANTA

In the early spring thoughts of the average Mizzou student lightly turn to a spot south of Columbia known as the Hinkson, (or more familiarly, as "the Hink") and the migration starts. Laden with blankets, food, and other accessories to a picnic, at least half the student body starts out on foot or packed into cars, for a gay evening of singing, eating and general camaraderie.

The Hink has been the favorite location of Missouri students ever since the founding of the university in 1839. And now, to the outsider, the Hinkson on a warm spring night looks just as it always did. Parties of one to twenty-five couples occupy the beaches for most of the twenty-six miles of the creek.

But, wait, what is this shrill cry that echoes from the cliffs! Mama!! Drawing closer to one of the parties, the eavesdropper sees one of the blue-jeaned girls detach herself from the party around the fire and rush to the water's edge to rescue a two-year old from the cold water into which he has strayed. As she returns to the fire with the child, the light reveals a clothes basket just close enough to keep its six-months old occupant warm, and just inside the circle of firelight. Four or five small children build forts and castles in the sand. An irate father leaps after his adventurous three-year old who has just poured a bucketful of sand neatly down his back. A sleepy little girl lies with her head in her mother's lap, overcome by the excitement of the picnic.

The Hinkson is merely reflecting the change that has come over college life in the post-war years. Married veterans and their wives manage to capture all the facets of college life with a couple of small children for active company. Picnics are as much a favorite with the children as with their still young parents, and college life goes on with few hesitations.

From the trailers at Fairway village, Dairy lawn, and other camps, from quonset huts and small, cramped one-room apartments, Mizzou's adult collegiates capture college life with a vengeance and beat just as well-worn a path to the Hinkson as do their younger contemporaries. Perhaps the weinies are cooked more thoroughly, and the parties break up earlier and are better organized, but when it comes to the spirit of the thing, there isn't much difference.

GEOLOGY STUDENTS OFF TO SEE WYOMING

This summer about thirty-five students and five professors of the Geology Department will leave the University for the Wind River Mountains of Wyoming. There, in the foothills of the Wind River Mountain Range of the Continental Divide, is Camp Branson, the summer laboratory for geology students of the University of Missouri and in some cases, students of other universities.

For the thirty-ninth year since the camp was initiated by Dr. E. B. Branson, professor emeritus of geology here, students will get instruction in field methods and mapping, geologic mapping and field studies and research problems in sedimentary igneous and metamorphic rock.

Camp Branson, one of the oldest teaching geology field camps, was built largely through the personal effort, funds, time and inspiration of Dr. Branson. Dr. Mehl, also of the University helped a great deal in the supervising part of the actual building of the camp before the war. The camp was formerly known as Camp Lander, but the name was changed last year, by the University Board of Curators, when Dr. Branson became professor emeritus.

On June 7, students and professors will leave the University. The students, in University cars, will do reconnaissance geology along the route through Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming. Once situated in the camp, they will take trips to the Grand Teton National Park, Wind River Canyon, and Hot Springs State Park at Thermopolis. They will make a study of the Atlantic City gold fields at the south end of the Wind River Range, and a trip will be taken to the Yellowstone National Park.

Students will be granted one hour's credit for reconnaissance work along the trip, and eight hours' credit for work done after encampment. They will return to Columbia July 30.—J.F.

JOURNALISM WEEK

DAVID LU

Mr. Bryan accepted the award in behalf of the Atlanta Journal, for the Journal's "leadership in the progressive ideas and liberal sentiments of the great South;" and "its excellence as a state paper." Mr. Bryan has been on the Journal staff since 1927, editor since 1945. During the war, he was captured by the Germans; later released by the Russians. He was one of 19 war correspondents who were awarded the Medal of Freedom for service during the liberation of Western Europe. The presentation was made by General Dwight D. Eisenhower at the National Press Club in Washington.

Mr. Hicks received the Honor Award on behalf of Life magazine, which was cited for "its leadership . . . in the techniques of picture-making and picture-reproduction." and "its brilliance in innovation and editorial invention." "I found my career on the third try!"

"It wasn't that I failed in my first two jobs," writes Edward L. Sittler, Jr. of Uniontown, Pa. "But I was dissatisfied with my progress. So one day I took stock of myself.

"What did I want out of life? Well, my wife and I liked to travel, and do community work . . . and I felt capable of earning a larger income. Above all, I wanted to know that I was doing work my neighbors recognized as important.

"So I tried a third career. I became a Mutual Life Field Underwriter. For 10 years now, with time out for the Army, I've devoted myself to building security for the families of my community. Do I have what I wanted? Decidedly yes! My income has increased substantially and it is steadily rising. I enjoy a professional standing and I have plenty of leisure for hobbies and outside activities."

"It's cheaper with a sweeper!"

It is, too, when you figure in time and energy and general wear-and-tear! As a matter of fact, one cent's worth of electricity will clean a large rug and 5 others like it in less time than it takes to drag them down to the yard for beating! Electricity does dollar duty for penny prices, not only for rug-beating, but for countless other household tasks. It costs much more to deliver today, but the average family still gets twice as much electric service for its money as it got 20 years ago.

Scene of $50,000 Fraternity Fire

N. Van Pelt

Late one night early in May, a shout echoed through the Phi Gamma Delta house. Irritated references to "Quiet Hours!" couldn't quiet it. Ron Hoff wasn't joking, the house was on fire and he was out, like Paul Revere, to spread the alarm. It took quite a while to convince the boys that the house really was on fire, but when they were convinced, the place hummed with frantic activity. The boys managed to salvage most of their clothes and furniture, but $50,000 damage was done to the house and its contents before the fire was put out. The Phi Gams are now scattered to fraternities and their annexes all over campus, hoping to refurbish their house this summer.

The Journalism School Show was presented to the public eye on Friday, May 14 and Saturday, May 15. "The Eyes Have It" was written by Norman Kennelly and Richard Matheson. The entire score for the two-act musical comedy was written by Matheson. The plot was that of a show being produced within a show.

Columbia was overwhelmed by visits from two gentlemen of interest. Henry Wallace spoke to a large audience of followers (and curiosity seekers) on the Court House Lawn Monday, May 3rd. Errol Flynn arrived in town Thursday, May sixth, and occupied a room in ye Daniel Boone Tavern which hasn't yet recovered from the onslaught of Co-eds, Stephens and Christian girls. He accompanied his friend, Peter Stackpole, on a photographic mission to Columbia and left the next day.

Missouri Workshop One-Act Plays were staged Wednesday, May 12, in the University Auditorium. Five plays were presented by student directors and casts. The five authors, all students were awarded prizes totalling $105. The plays were picked by a board of five professors from seventy entries in the annual contest.

BENGAL OF THE MONTH

BOB BOEHLLOW

Have you ever sat in the stands at a baseball game watching a pitcher trying to nip a man off first base? Usually all that happens is that the hurler and the first sacker play a little game of catch while the base runner inflicts wear and tear on the seat of his pants and figuratively thumbs his digits at the perspiring pitcher. Generally the spectators get a bit fed up and shout for the pitcher to hurl to the batter. But at Mizzou games in which pitcher Bob Boehlow is on the mound, fans root for Bob to play catch with first sacker Jack Frier—because so far this year, the Tiger ace has nipped five over-zealous enemy base runners off the sack.

Pitching to the plate the grinning, stocky right hander wows the opposition with a varied assortment of hooks, curves, and sinkers, and his blazing fast ball sets the rusty gates a swinging. This is the first year Bob has worn a Tiger uniform and right now he is the ace Bengal hurler with four wins and one defeat. He has mastered St. Louis University twice, Washington University (St. Louis) once, and Oklahoma once. His only defeat came at the hands of Kansas State when he took over as relief hurler. No matter what the occasion, even when the going is rough, the 23-year-old star sports a winning and infectious grin.

Bob got his first real experience at Normandy High School in St. Louis and in 1943 joined Uncle Sam's gyrenes. While in the service Bob went to school at North Texas Agricultural College where he played football and was then transferred to Arkansas A&M. There he again took up the baseball cudgels, won 7 and lost three. After his tour of duty at A&M, Bob was sent to sea and saw convoy duty on the victorious road to Germany.

No doubt the quartermaster officers of Bob's outfit must have heaved a collective sigh of relief when he was handed his discharge, for his favorite indoor sport is eating. In this field he is quite as much the artist as on the diamond. Recently Bob had to spend three days in Noyes Hospital, an institution not particularly distinguished for generous servings of chow. When he was released, Bob headed at full speed for the local boarding house where he appeased his inner man and attacked the larder. He was timed at 45 minutes for this one sitting and during this time his only comment was, "pass the potatoes, pass the gravy, pass the bread, pass the butter, pass everything." The house proprietor, possessing rather sparse vegetation on the cerebellum, further decreased the growth while witnessing Bob's antics. For prodigious eating feats far above and beyond the call of duty, Bob has been tagged with the nickname of "The Vulture."

Bob is a junior in the College of Education and will be around to bolster the Tiger battery next year. After graduation he hopes to teach industrial training.

Generally a coach or a manager is well pleased with a hurler as long as he can pitch 'em up, and is not too concerned with hitting. "Vulture," however, doesn't go in for anything in a half way fashion. His stance at the plate is unorthodox to say the least. He does bear a resemblance to a vulture about to take off, but the important fact is that Bob's willow really kisses the horsehide. The boxscores show his batting average is a ripping .323, a mark many a slugger would be proud to possess.

When not engaged in diamond practice, studies, or serious eating, Bob likes to putter around building model planes; and he has produced some fine looking jobs.

Given adequate fielding support, and offensive power by his teammates, plus a good meal under his belt, Bob will gain laurels a plenty and will go down in the records as one of Missouri's outstanding athletes.

TIGER ALLEY

The high-flying Bengal track team sustained two serious losses to their array of stars with sprinter Harry Guth out for the rest of the season with injuries, and quarter miler Bob Schuster also ailing. Nevertheless, the Tigers are hands-down favorites to run off with the Big Seven outdoor crown at Lincoln on May 22.

The last month has been a busy and successful one for Tom Botts' blazing thinclads. At the Drake Relays, April 24, the Tigers garnered the most second place positions, while the first place bacon was wrapped up in the 480-yard shuttle relays by the Missouri team of Bill Day, Bob Blakeley, Bill Self, and Madill (Bud) Garter. The Tigers ran the course in the record time of 59.4 seconds and nosed out second place Ohio State by a good three yards. This new record was not allowed by the officials because they claimed Self made a faulty touchoff, but the victory was allowed for Missouri.

The two-mile relay event saw Missouri placing second behind Ohio State while Wisconsin ran third. At the Kansas Relays the Badgers had nosed out the Tigers, and this was something of a sweet revenge for Tigers Bill Chronister, Bob Bosworth, Charles Lancaster, and Duane Wolfe.

Harry Guth's absence was sorely felt, for in the half-mile relay the Tigers took only fourth position. Without much of a respite, Gil Phillips, Bob Schuster, and Elmer Klein, who had run in the half-mile, plus Dick Schmidt had to compete in the mile-relay, and they came in third behind a strong Texas A & M team.

Dick Ault really had tough luck. Leading in the 440-yard hurdles, he tripped over the tenth hurdle and Minnesota's Les Hofacre beat him out with a record-making time of 52.7.

The month of May was ushered in with a flourish by the thinclads. Meeting Nebraska in a dual affair at Rollins field, the Bengals reaped their 12th straight dual meet victory by thoroughly subduing the Cornhuskers 87-2/3 to 42-1/3. Considering the fact that Nebraska has been offered as the Big Seven team which could give the Tigers their toughest fight, the victory was particularly satisfactory. Five meet and two school records tumbled to the Tigers and they also tied one meet and one school mark. Nebraska could salvage first places in only the javeline throw, the pole vault, and the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Cracking an 18 year-old school outdoor record, Bob Schuster whizzed the 44-yard dash in 48.3 seconds.

Madill Gartiser, who thrilled the fans at the Big Seven indoor meet at Kansas City earlier this year, again showed his prowess on the hurdles. He skimmed over the 220-yard barriers in 23 seconds flat, breaking his own outdoor mark for this event. In the 120-yard high hurdles, Bud finished in a dead heat with team mate Bob Blakely in 14.6 seconds. This was a new meet mark and ties the school record.

Big Ed Quirk heaved the shot for a distance of 52 feet, 4-7/8 inches and broke a record. The Missouri mile-relay team of Gil Phillips, Dick Schmidt, Elmer Klein, and Duane Wolfe breezed around the oval in 3:10:7 for another record. Sonny Howard got into the record breaking class when he cleared the bar in the high jump at 6 feet two inches.

Kansas State served as another doormat for the Tigers in a dual meet held at Rollins Field, May 8. The Missourians rolled up the score to down the Kansans 88-1/3 to 42-2/3. Eight meet records were broken by the Tigers and they tied another.

Rollin Prather of the Wildcats was the star of the afternoon, winning in the shot put and the discuss throw. Records broken by the Tigers include: Madill Gartiser in the 120-yard high hurdles, 14.5, and 220-yard low hurdles 23 seconds flat; Charees Lancaster, half-mile, 1:57.1; Gil Phillips, 220-yard dash, 21.3; the mile relay team of Lancaster, Klein, Schmidt, and Wolfe, 3:18.2.

As they stand now, the Tiger thinclads could hold their own with any team in the country in a dual meet. At least that is the opinion expressed by Nebraska track coach, Ed Weir. Ed's contention is backed up by this Alley and by hordes of Tiger fans. Alumni can well be proud of M.U.'s track team and coach.

Fireworks Ahead

Addressing the Mizzou Quarterback Club of Kansas City, football coach Don Faurot lashed out at six major colleges for making wholesale raids on football talent in Missouri. Coach Faurot named Tulane, Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi State, Arkansas, and Kansas as the offenders.

Don told the assemblage that the Tigers depend on home state talent to make up the overwhelming majority of the football team and that the University doesn't care to stand by and watch other schools grab off Missouri talent.

The coach said the schools he named as offenders were paying the expenses of prospective players to visit their campuses.

Tulane University officials denied the charges and asked Faurot to name names.

Latest reports have the National Collegiate Athletic Association investigating Don's charges, and if they are substantiated a lot of fireworks are due to pop.

Faurot stated that two boys from St. Louis area were sent to Kansas by alumni of the Mound City. All Missouri alumni without a doubt want the Tigers to ride on the crest, and one way of insuring it is for all you Alumni to get busy and start extolling the virtues of M.U. to high school graduates who might look good in one of Don's new-look football uniforms. Alums around Kansas City should strive particularly hard to interest prospective collegians about M.U. as this city is considered open territory between Missouri and Kansas. If you Alumni want to have an open season on Jayhawks start the ball rolling right now, and send the boys to M.U!

One of the dark horses of the conference has emerged from the crowd and is now leading the baseball pack in the Big Seven. The Nebraska Cornhuskers are running rampant, having won their last eight games, and right now are at the top of the heap. Missouri has a mathematical chance of winning the pennant by half a game, provided Nebraska loses both its remaining games with Iowa State (most unlikely), and M.U. wins its four road tussles with Kansas State and Colorado.

Coach "Hi" Simmons is singing the hitless blues. Defensively, the Tigers are all one could ask for, fine pitching, generally good fielding, but few and far between hits on the offensive side of the ledger. Although in their last game with Kansas State the Tigers clicked for 11 runs on 12 hits, this type of batting spree has been a rare exception. The possible acquisition of a Big Seven title rests upon the Tigers sharpening up their batting eyes.
