There Are Too Many Sleeping Beauties in American Homes . . .

If you could peek into America's living rooms during after-dinner hours, you'd find many a sleeping beauty like the one above.

These people aren't tired — they are victims of light — too glaring light — too dim light — wrong lighting of one kind or another.

Better light will help keep them awake and alert. You can help bring this about by cleaning fixtures, reflector bowls and bulbs, using correct size bulbs and shading them properly.

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION of THE UNIVERSITY of MISSOURI, Columbia, Missouri

DEAR ALUMNI AND UNIVERSITY FRIENDS:

GI Joe and GI Jill are fighting battles on the far flung fronts of the world . . . fighting hard. Yet they all take time out once in a while to write that welcome letter home . . . to Mom and Dad, to sweethearts, to husbands and wives. These letters portray accurately how the average soldier and sailor feels about the war and what he's fighting for. They will be valuable to the historian of the future as he attempts to interpret World War II.

Only in the last few years have historians turned to such sources to re-write and reinterpret the War of Secession. Bell Wiley's "Life of Johnny Reb" is such a history. Prof. Wiley has written a rich and interesting story in this book of the life of the average southern soldier. In years to come books will be written about things that men and women saw, thought, and did in this war.

People do not want to give up their collections of letter and manuscripts now, of course, yet in a few years they will be thrown away. From all indications, it is estimated that 90 per cent of such collections from World War I have already been destroyed.

The letters that the folks at home receive should be saved and, in time, deposited in a safe place so that future generations will know what took place in people's hearts and minds when this struggle was going on.

The Western Historical Manuscript Collection of the Library of the University of Missouri would be a suitable place to deposit such materials. The director, Prof. W. Francis English, invites the families of service men and women to save their letters, clippings, diaries, and other materials and when the war is over and the veterans have returned home to make a deposit of the collections with the University. What could be more fitting than to have the personally written records of the Missouri men and women of this war placed in the Library of their state university.

The Alumni Office will be glad to refer any questions you may have about the collections to Prof. English, or you may write directly to him.

Savitar Frolic Will Be Revived

The much-discussed and once-banned Savitar Frolic, an annual presentation of skits and individual acts sponsored by the University yearbook, will hit the boards again this spring. Permission has been given to use the University auditorium the night of April 11.

Proceeds from the show, which in the past have been relatively high for a student performance, have been pledged by the Savitar to go into a loan fund for the specific use of veterans attending the University.

Four prizes will be awarded this year. One each for the best men's and women's group, and one each for the best individual performance by a man and woman. Gerald Popper, student manager of the show, urged that all organizations and individuals begin work on scripts at once for a March deadline. All acts will be subject to the approval of a faculty censoring board.

Dr. Otto Returns to M. U.

Dr. G. H. Otto, has returned to the University as assistant professor in geology. He has been working at the University of California and with the Scripps Institution of Oceanography at La Jolla, Calif., on a confidential navy project.

Flying Fortress Named For M. U. Graduate

Mrs. Anne "De-De" Busiek, American Red Cross worker, has been added as a cheering section for a Flying Fortress of the Army Air Forces.

The combat-wise B-17, veteran of more than 25 missions, carries Mrs. Busiek's nickname "De-De" into battle on its prow. The crew has learned that it can count on Mrs. Busiek for encouragement and moral support, and they share with her the details of every flight.

Graduated from the University in '40, Mrs. Busiek flew as a hostess on Braniff Airways for more than a year, and then joined the faculty of Stephens College to instruct future hostesses. In the summer of 1943 she joined the Red Cross and immediately volunteered for foreign service. Her first stop was Casablanca, the beginning of a tour which brought her to southern Italy.

The enthusiasm with which "Miss Anne" has worked to make dances, parties, and get-togethers of all kinds a success has extended her popularity far beyond "De-De's" crew.

"As long as the boys keep her flying, I'll be rooting for them," said Mrs. Busiek when asked about her namesake.

Jacob Warshaw Fund Established for Spanish Study

A Scholarship fund to be known as the Jacob Warshaw Scholarship in Spanish has been established in memory of the late Dr. Jacob Warshaw by his wife, Mrs. Hazel Warshaw, the University board of curators announced recently. At the time of his death Sept. 30, Dr. Warshaw was chairman of the department of Spanish and professor of Spanish at the University.

The scholarship fund will consist of sums paid to the curators from time to time. The fund now totals $1600. A contribution of $1000 was made by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lewin of Santa Monica, Calif., and Mr. Allen Warshaw of Boston, Mass., sent $500 in behalf of the Warshaw family. It is hoped that there will be many more such contributions to help the fund grow so that it may accommodate a number of students for scholarships.

The annual income from the fund will be used for a scholarship for one year to an outstanding student in any school of the University, including the graduate school, who has maintained a high scholastic record in Spanish or Portuguese. The student must agree to continue study of the language at the University of Missouri.

The number of scholarships awarded and the amount of each will be determined by a special committee of five members of the University staff. Two members will be teachers of Spanish or Portuguese, two will be from the University faculty in general, and the chairman of the loan fund committee, appointed by the president of the University.

The committee may award the scholarship to the same scholar in succeeding years. Mrs. Warshaw said the scholarship will be as substantial as possible, and the income of the fund will not be divided until it becomes large enough to permit more than one scholarship of $50 a year.

The scholarship will be paid in installments at the beginning of each semester of the year for which it was made, until the fund becomes large enough for a monthly payment.

If, in the future, the committee decides that the scholarships no longer serve a useful purpose, or cannot be continued as contemplated the curators may use the income to promote a scholarship. First consideration will be given to students of Spanish or Portuguese, and the fund will continue to be known as the Jacob Warshaw fund.

Dr. Warshaw was connected with the University for 30 years, from 1909 until his death. He served five years as professor of Romance languages at the University of Nebraska, 1919-1924. He had been chairman of the Spanish department here since 1926.

Dr. Warshaw edited a number of textbooks, and was the author of a Spanish grammar and composition book. He was a frequent contributor to professional journals.

Louis Grinstead Leaves University After 16 Years

Louis R. Grinstead, for 16 years assistant agricultural editor at the University, left Columbia recently for an indefinite period of rest and medical treatment. Temporarily he is at his old home in Memphis, Mo., but he may go soon to one of the Southwestern states.

Mr. Grinstead served with the 89th Division during World War I and was a victim of German gas on the Western Front. On his return he attended the University under the rehabilitation program of the government.

Mr. Grinstead received his degree in 1926 in agricultural journalism from the School of Journalism of the University, and is a member of the Kappa Tau Alpha, journalism scholastic fraternity. He was a free lance writer for two years. In February, 1929, he became the assistant agricultural editor in the College of Agriculture of the University, a position he has held since that time.

Dr. Heinberg Elected To Executive Council

The American Political Science Association has elected Dr. John G. Heinberg, professor of political science at the University, to its executive council for the three-year term, 1945-47.

Dr. Heinberg was elected Feb. 1 at the council's meeting in Washington.

Prof. Branson Publishes Book on State Geology

"The Geology of Missouri," a 700 page book by Dr. E. B. Branson, professor of geology at the University has been published. The book is No. 19 of the University Studies.

A comprehensive account of the state's geology, the book has been in preparation four years. Part of the material is from original research, and part from compilation. The book has 49 plates and 51 figures.

In addition, the book contains a bibliography of Missouri geology, covering material from 1814 to last December. About 350 papers written by present and former members of the University faculty are listed.

The section on Missouri fossils was written by Cornelia Cameron, and the section on clays, by W. D. Keller, professor of geology.

Secretary to Seven Presidents, Miss Hickok saw M.U. Grow

By Katherine Goldsmith, B.J. '45

As secretary to half the presidents of the University, Miss Estelle Hickok has held a finger to the pulse of the University for almost half its lifetime. Running the affairs of the office, carrying out details of administration, smoothing over little frictions in the working of a vast organization—these are but a brief pattern of the tasks Miss Hickok performed for seven presidents of the University. She retired this fall after 43 years. Still she has not given up her work for the University, but is carrying on an important job, involving records reaching back over a hundred years.

When President Jesse asked Miss Hickok to come into his office as stenographer he was following his wife's suggestion that she would make an excellent assistant. She was the first woman to become secretary to the president, following Henning Prentis, now president of Armstrong Cork Company.

At the time she took over her duties at Academy Hall, now called Jesse Hall after President Jesse, all there was of the University was compressed into what is known as Francis Quadrangle. There were ten buildings: the six now standing, Parker Hospital, and the observatory, which was later moved bodily to accommodate Jay H. Neff Hall.

No West Campus existed, she recalls, only a horticultural ground with red clay banks and an orchard. She also recalls that to get from College Avenue to Hitt Street, you had to hop clay banks, which was a trifle inconvenient with the long skirts of that day. There were no walks, only cinder paths.

Before Miss Hickok was called to the president's office, she worked under J. T. Gerould, librarian in 1901. The library then filled the entire west end of Academic Hall and chapel services at 8 every morning in the library were part of the University program. She remembers Forrest C. Donnell, one time governor and now United States senator from Missouri, as a curly-headed blond freshman, attending these services.

Then she became secretary to Dean Henry J. Waters of the College of Agriculture in what is now Switzer Hall. Here she "inherited" the entire agricultural faculty. Dictation often began late in the afternoon and frequently she didn't leave the office until 7 or 8 p. m. Then there was the walk home down the dark cinder paths along Eighth St. to Broadway. Broadway was almost as black as Eighth, she pointed out, because the lights went off at 7 p. m.

One thing she remembers about Switzer Hall is the ringing of the class bell. It was operated by a one-armed janitor, "Turner," who tolled the bell for years by looping the rope around the hook on his arm.

Jesse Hall was quite different from what it is now, Miss Hickok explained. There was a fish pond and sunken garden at the rear of the building in place of the horseshoe shaped walk. Water lilies, goldfish, and sometimes freshman decorated the pool. The pond was the dunking spot for freshman students during hazing activities.

Only two men were allowed in the women's gymnasium. They were President Jesse and Professor Defoe, chairman of the discipline committee and tutor of the University. No men were allowed in the building when the girls played basketball, attired in their long gym bloomers, striking below the knees, and full black blouses with long sleeves.

Miss Hickok came here from St. Louis, where her family was among the early settlers. She had her early training in secretarial work at Barnes Business College. She worked first for the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. and later for a typewriter company. It wasn't until 1901 that she came to Columbia with her brother, who took over Walter Williams' Columbia Herald for a year.

One of her jobs was planning assembly programs for 10 o'clock every Thursday morning, which featured among other things lantern slides and student talent. Another duty was to receive all visitors to the president's office. One visitor she remembers was a well-dressed man, who would not give his name, but asked to see President Middlebush. She found out later he was a gangster, just released from prison. His reason for the visit—just curiosity to interview a college president.

"Students today do not engage in half the mischief they did in the early years of the University," Miss Hickok reflected. "One prank I remember was a bonfire started in the middle of Broadway near Tenth St. The flames reached 15 to 20 feet in the air and broke show windows along the street.

"Once Agriculture students painted 'farmers' all over the smoke stack on the power house. It cost the pranksters $30 to get it off. Another year, they planted lettuce in front of Jesse Hall which sprung up in time for the Farmers' Fair, spelling out the word 'farmer.'

"Engineer students climbed through the ceiling opening at Jesse Hall to plant their green flag on the pinnacle of the dome. Then, so no one could remove the flag they riveted a huge log in the opening to the dome."

A prize prank involved a cannon presented to the University after the first World War. Dr. J. C. Jones was president. His son, Lloyd, now a major general in the army, was in charge of the student military program. When the cannon was presented it was said to be capable of shooting 12 miles. According to Miss Hickok, students decided to see if this were so. Placing blank powder in the barrel they set it off—and broke almost every window pane on the Quadrangle. Dr. Jones ordered the cannon removed to a place where it would be less temptation. Lloyd Jones took charge of the moving. After setting it up near the stadium, he decided to give it a last trial. The final shot broke windows all along Rollins Street.

"The centennial celebration of the University in 1939 was a highlight of my association with the University," Miss Hickok said. "Never have I had the opportunity to see so many prominent persons."

She recalls the fire which destroyed the Manual Arts Building. It started at 4 a. m. Soon about 400 persons had gathered, attracted by the blaze of light.

Miss Hickok remembers the service at which Mark Twain received his LL.D. degree from the University.

"He looked exactly like his pictures, with a great flowing moustache and bushy hair."

Miss Hickok's years at the University are crowded with many pleasant

Only a Piece of Paper!

It may be the torn-off cover of a cardboard box, a piece of an old magazine, some discarded wrapping paper.

But if saved and collected, it may become the container for a quart of blood plasma that will save a GI's life.

Or it may become part of an airborne container that will drop food or medicine to liberated peoples.

Our armed forces need every scrap of waste paper. Throw it away and you're throwing away helmet linings, gun covers, ration containers—countless war materials too numerous to mention. Save every scrap to help bring victory and peace.

College of Agriculture Celebrates Seventy-five Years of Service

By Jeanne Rogers, B.J. '45

Three-quarters of a century ago the College of Agriculture was established under the Land Grant College Act, February 1870. The school was to be a distinct department of the University, supported by income from the sale or lease of their lands, plus any money received privately. The Agricultural and Mechanics College was to be located in Columbia if Boone County could raise $50,000 and donate a farm of not less than 640 acres for the school's use. In September 1870, the college opened with an enrollment of six students, a far different figure from the 1054 enrolled in 1938.

The early development of the college met opposition and even ridicule from the farmers, and it is almost a miracle that it survived under the bludgeonings which continued for many years. As time went on, however, these attitudes changed to ones of confidence and understanding. The two deans and directors who were largely responsible for this change of feeling and for the development of the College during the last half century are H. J. Waters and F. B. Mumford.

To evaluate the work of the College of Agriculture in its fullest extent would be difficult, as it covers many phases. It is not just another college for it serves the largest single class in Missouri—the farmers. Remembering the early antagonism of this group, it is apparent that a revolution has occurred among farm people and for this the college must be given credit. Economic results that have greatly increased the farmer's income through new and better yielding crops, improved methods of feeding and handling livestock, the prevention of plant and animal diseases, and innumerable other services also are added to the college's accomplishments.

The agriculture students organize and promote many colorful activities. The Farmer's Fair with its parade, side shows, minstrels, follies, concluded by a horse show was one of the outstanding features of the past.

Barn Warming, still the social hit of the year, is presented in all the rural aspects that girls clad in gingham aprons and sun bonnets, escorted by men in the traditional overalls can afford. This dance originated in the College barn but now is held in Rothwell Gymnasium.

The Agriculture Club which organized the Missouri Corn Growers' Association in 1903 manages these social activities and publishes the “College Farmer.”

The Hudson-Rollins tract of land along Hinkson Creek was the site of the first college farms. The College of Agriculture and the Experiment Station in 1938 operated 1975 acres of land.

Social fraternities made up of agriculture students are Alpha Gamma Rho, Farm House, and Alpha Gamma Sigma. Alpha Zeta is the agricultural honorary based on scholarship and leadership.

A history of the college has recently been written by Dean Emeritus Frederick B. Mumford who has been associated with the college staff as professor of agriculture, professor of animal husbandry, and dean and director for a period of 43 years.

Mere physical equipment cannot insure good teaching, but a modern college of agriculture is impossible to conceive. For many years the college suffered from lack of land, suitable buildings, and essential equipment. The first building to be erected for the use of the College of Agriculture was Switzler Hall in 1871-72. No building ever constructed on the college farm excited as much controversy and public interest as the so-called “Sanborn Barn.”

In 1898, it was announced by the Board of Curators that a new “chair of domestic economy to train women for household duties” had been established. Instruction was given in the building now called Swallow Hall, but the department was handicapped by the lack of suitable quarters. A donation of $50,000 by James Joseph Gwynn of New York to be used in constructing a building for home economics and an appropriation from the Legislature made it possible to construct the Mary Louise Gwynn Hall.

“No one in the beginning realized that the College of Agriculture would become what it is today,” said Dean Mumford in his history of the college. “An educational institution of higher learning with not only the conventional four-year college course giving instruction to hundreds of students, but also an agricultural experiment station with an international reputation and an extension service with county agents in every county in the state.

Missing or Dead

"He who loathes war, and will do everything in his power to avert it, but who will, in the last extremity, encounter its perils, from love of country and of home . . . who is willing to sacrifice himself and all that is dear to him in life, to promote the well-being of his fellowmen, will ever receive a worthy homage."

Dead

PFC. JAMES BRUBAKER, f. s. '40-'41, was killed in action in Belgium Jan. 15. Mrs. Brubaker, the former Janie Martin, is a student in the University.

MAJ. CHARLES HARRY APPLE, B.S. in B.A. '38, was killed in a plane crash Feb. 2. At the time of his death Maj. Apple was a member of a personnel section of a troop carrier wing of the 12th Air Force. He had been overseas since the spring of 1943 and had seen service in Tunisia, Sicily and Italy.

LT. RICHARD J. WATERS, f. s. '37, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, previously listed as missing in action over France last July 8, has since been reported killed in action on that date. Lt. Waters was captain of the University track team in 1937.

LT. LEROY DYKE, f. s. '39-'41, was reported killed in action on Luzon, Jan. 28. Before being ordered to active duty with the Field Artillery immediately after Pearl Harbor in 1941, Lt. Dyke had been a senior in the College of Engineering at the University. He had been in active overseas service since August 1942, when he left San Francisco, Calif., for Hawaii, Guadalcanal and other South Pacific bases.

CPL. LAWRENCE L. WREN, who attended the University under the Army Specialist Training Program during March and April 1944, was killed in a B-24 crash near Troy, Ore.

LT. JOHN N. RICKER, f. s. '44, was killed Jan. 26, at Birmingham, Ala., in a crash in a plane take-off. Lt. Ricker, a C-47 co-pilot, entered the service in February, 1943.

ENSIGN ALVIN D. ELLIS, f. s. '39-'41, was killed Jan. 31 in a plane crash northeast of Brookings, Ore. The navy patrol bomber left San Pedro, Calif., Jan. 30, on a ferry flight to Seattle, Wash., and nothing was heard from the plane until the burned wreckage was sighted from the air Feb. 6. Ensign Ellis left the University to enlist in the Navy Air Corps. He was commissioned Dec. 15, 1942.

And all these coordinated into an educational system unique in modern life and primarily motivated by a deep and earnest desire to make a major contribution to the social and economic well being of rural people.

"It was vital to the life of the University itself that the institution secure the location of the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Columbia. Dr. Viles in his history of the University of Missouri says, 'It seems hardly too much to say that the board and the presidents from 1865 on deliberately and intelligently staked the very survival of the institution at Columbia on the location of the College of Agricultural and Mechanic Arts there and the development of a real university.'" memories. She enjoyed her work for each of the seven presidents.

"It would be impossible to choose a favorite from among them," she continued. "They were all so nice."

They, too, have nothing but praise for her years spent in the president's office. Walter Williams expressed his gratitude to her in a letter, scrawled with unsteady hand a month before his death.

Enclosing a clipping over which he had penned the title "for Miss Hickok, the best private secretary ever," he wrote:

"So much of whatever success my administration as president has attained is due to you, that I am writing to express my deepest gratitude. No one could have had as loyal, faithful, efficient, and conscientious a secretary. You have filled a most difficult position admirably."

This is a fitting tribute to a person who has given almost a half century of service to the task of aiding the University presidents.

"A GUY CAN DREAM, CAN'T HE?"

SURE. And most of the fighting men we hear from are not only dreaming of home, but are putting some wide-awake, serious thinking into it. Nearly every letter we get asks: "What are my rights as a veteran?" "How about my National Service Life Insurance?" "What about a civilian job when the fighting stops?"

Last year we put the answers to the first two questions in a free booklet for the benefit of the million or more men already demobilized. We were surprised to get thousands of requests from men still on active duty, many of them in combat theaters on all fronts. So we have brought out a new, enlarged edition — including a comprehensive survey of job opportunities.

Write to us at 501 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., and ask for the free, 40-page booklet, "Information for Veterans of Our Armed Forces." No matter whether you're still in or now out of service, it will tell you what the score is.

HERE'S A SAMPLE OF THE INTERESTING CONTENTS:

- Highlights of the "G.I. Bill of Rights"—
How to continue your education, guidance on loans, benefits, etc.
- Your National Service Life Insurance—
How to keep it in force, how to reinstate, and convert, with rates.
- The word on—

Tigers Open Track Season, Defeat Nebraska, 64-29

Coach Tom Botts' fourth year Missouri track team made an impressive debut Feb. 10, winning an indoor dual meet with the Nebraska Cornhuskers 64-29 in Brewer Field House. The Tigers captured eight firsts in 12 events, took first and second places in four events, and established a new meet record in one event.

Big Bill Bangert, winner of the discus championship and place in the shot put at the National Intercollegiate AAU meet in Milwaukee last year shattered a shot put meet record established by Ed Wibbels of Nebraska in 1942. Bangert's put measured 51 feet 9 1/4 inches, bettering the old mark by two feet and three and a quarter inches. The big shot putter might have bettered that mark if his put of 52 feet, six inches had not been nullified by a technical foul. Ed Quirk placed second to Bangert to give Missouri a clean sweep in the weights.

Dick Miller put the Cornhuskers in front with a vault of 12 feet in the pole vault event. The Conference's leading vaulter cleared 12 feet 6 inches in the Kansas meet last week.

Harry Exler and George Quinn were double events victors for Missouri. Exler cleared 5 feet, 10 inches to cop first place in the high jump. He scored his double by edging out teammate Bob Crowson in the broad jump with a mark of 21 feet 3 inches.

George Quinn, scored a popular win in the distance events. Winning easily against Kansas University in the mile last week, Don Morrison was rated to give the Missouri miler a real race. Possessing a nice stride, last year's Nebraska State Scholastic mile champion extended Quinn until the final lap. Quinn put on a sizzling finishing kick that carried him across the finish line yards ahead of Morrison who staved off a bid by Missouri's Dale Dean to take second place and three points.

Entered in the two mile run four events later, Quinn jumped to the lead from the start, beat off every bid, lapped one runner, and finished with a sprint on the 16th turn of the Field oval to amaze the crowd. Quinn posted 10:47-8 for the two mile run.

Rated as the Conference's second best man in the hurdles, Norval Barker was a two events winner for Nebraska. Barker won a clean sweep in the 60 yard high and low hurdles in the good time of :08.1 seconds and :07.3 seconds respectively. Missouri's Robert Miller placed second to Barker each time.

Dean Kratz, Big Six indoor 440 and 880 champion, missed scoring a double event win for the Cornhuskers by an unfortunate fall. Winning the 440 handily, Kratz appeared to be an easy winner in the 880. Going into the final turn 15 yards ahead of Dick Killough, Kratz' spike caught on the board rail on the inside of the track causing him to pitch forward to the track. Kratz made a game bid for victory but Killough beat him to the tape by inches.

Bob Crowson negotiated the 60 yard route in :06.4 seconds, just .2 seconds off the meet record.

Missouri's mile relay team of Bill Bussjaeger, Bob Busch, Bob Symonds and Jerry Seigfried scored a handy win over Nebraska's entry. Bob Symonds, running next to the anchor man, opened a big lead in his 220 for Seigfried to finish without being extended.

Both Ed Weir, Nebraska coach, and Tom Botts of Missouri made last minute lineup revisions. Handicapped by lack of manpower, Weir was forced to leave Ken Hollins, weight man, at home to play against Kansas University in a basketball contest. Botts didn't allow Bill Slagle, distance runner, to compete because of a bad ankle.

Arthur Cochran had to drop out of the two mile run on the 12th lap because of a pain in his side. Cochran was running with leaders when he was forced to withdraw.

Upperclass Wins Intra-Squad Meet

Bill Bangert and Ed Quirk, Tiger shot put men, broke the upperclass and freshman records in their event for Brewer Field House on Jan. 27, as the upperclass tracksters outpointed the freshman unit, 60-41, in an intra-squad meet.

Bangert put the shot 50 feet 7 1/2 in. to break the record of Elmer Aussieker, 48 feet 3 1/4 in. made in '42. Quirk's put sailed 48 feet 1/2 in. to invalidate the mark of a freshman named Ellis, 47 feet 9 1/2 in. set in 1937.

Both shot-putters pace a squad of Tigers which at this point appears better than a fair wartime team.

While the shot put won the honors for the day, the 50 spectators were pleased by the final event, the mile relay which the upperclass quartet won by a foot. Bob Symonds' third lap performance gave the upperclassmen such a lead that a drive by Jerry Seigfried as anchor-man for the freshmen failed to catch Rog Miller. Seigfried's time for his quarter was a flashy 53 seconds.

Botts' midget miler, George Quinn, exhibited a tremendous last lap kick to take both the mile and two mile runs going away, as an upperclass representative, with 5:33.8 and 10:29 times.

The only other men to cop the events were Rog Miller in the low and high hurdles and Harry Exler in the high jump and broad jump. Exler showed good form and marks and fine possibilities for improvement in his events. Miller also ran the anchor leg of the mile relay and high jumped and Exler ran the 60-yd. dash.

Bob Crowson hit the tape first in the 60-yard dash and second in the low hurdles. Larry Willett's last lap kick won the quarter-mile, Dick Killough finished well ahead of Willett in the half-mile. Fred Stein took the pole vault at 11 feet, showing his best form of the year.

Putting his entire squad together showed Coach Botts is exceptionally strong in some events and weak in others. The loss of trackmen to the armed forces has hurt the team in vital spots. With luck enough to hold the squad he has now, Botts may come up with a winner in the Big Six this year.

In Bangert and Quirk, the coach has two rare finds in the weight-throwing field, and both men have developed entirely as Botts' proteges.

M. U. Trackmen Overwhelm Kansas Jayhawks, 74-30

Missouri's Tiger trackmen smothered the Kansas Jayhawk 74-30 February 17, in Brewer Field House in a convincing demonstration of track might, with Missouri gaining ten first places in 12 events, and a tie in one, the pole vault.

So thorough was Missouri's second Big Six indoor triumph of the season, that the only event the visiting Kansans showed any display of strength in was the 60-yard low hurdles. Norval Jackson, Kansas City Southwest athlete, and teammate D. Patterson, streaked over the hurdles to hit the tape in one-two order before Missouri's Bob Crowson, who took third place.

But aside from the low hurdles race, and the first place tie in the pole-vault between the visitors' Morrow and Missouri's Gene Furnish, the Tigers dominated the meet.

For the second consecutive week Harry Exler and George Quinn won two events each for the Tigers, and Bill Bangert shattered another meet record with the shot put.

Bangert established a new meet record in the shot with a put of 51 feet 5½, bettering Missouri's Elmer Ausieker's mark set in 1941 by more than 4 feet. Ed Quirk took second place for Missouri in the shot.

George Quinn, Tiger bantam distance star, added another pair of wins to his tally of victories by taking the mile and two mile events. Quinn's time of 4 minutes 39 seconds was slower than the previous week's winning time. Quinn, a front runner, took the lead in the early laps and managed to stay ahead for the finish.

In the two-mile run, Quinn lapped so many runners it was hard to tell who was in second and third positions. Bill Slagle for Missouri came in second behind Quinn, while Hudson of Kansas hung onto third position. Quinn's time for two was 10 minutes, 21 seconds.

Harry Exler scored first in the high jump, clearing 5 feet 10 inches, and in the broad jump, Exler leaped 21 feet 10 inches to edge out Bob Crowson by three inches.

Bob Crowson repeated his last week's triumph in the 60 yard dash by sprinting first, inches ahead of the Bengals' Bill Dellastatious. Crowson's winning time was 6.5 seconds.

In a closely contested race, Bob Symonds edged out Bille Danneberg, Kansas speedster, in a stirring finish in the 440 yard dash.

Dick Killough, divinity student of Missouri was too fast for Larry Willett in the 880. Killough defeated Don Kratz of Nebraska in a recent meet, and won again this time.

Stepping over the 60-yard high hurdles with reckless abandon, Roger Miller of Missouri hit the tape inches ahead of Norval Jackson of Kansas. Jackson came back to score Kansas' lone first of the meet in the 60-yard low hurdles.

Gene Furnish provided the surprise of the meet. Kansas' Morrow was conceded a first in the polevault according to the form sheet, unless he broke his pole or sustained an injury. Furnish, never having topped 11 feet, was as surprised as Coach Botts when he cleared 11 feet 3 inches to tie Morrow for first place.

Kansas had three fast runners in the relay, but one runner who just competed in the preceding event, allowed the Missourians to romp home first in the mile relay.

60-yard dash—Crowson, Missouri; Dellastatious, Missouri; Danneberg, Kansas. Time: .06.5.

Mile run—Quinn, Missouri; Hudson, Kansas; Dean, Missouri. Time 4:39.3.

440-yard dash—Symonds, Missouri; Danneberg, Kansas; Seigfried, Missouri. Time: 53.3.

High Jump—Exler, Missouri; Sergeant, Kansas; Robison and Rouse, Kansas (tied for third). 5 feet 10 inches.

Shot Put—Bangert, Missouri; Quirk, Missouri; Robison, Kansas. 51 feet 5½ inches (new meet record) former held by Elmer Assieker, Missouri, 1941, 47 feet ¾ inches.

60 yard high hurdles—Miller, Missouri; N. Jackson, Kansas; Sargeant, Kansas. Time .08.1.

Pole-vault—Furnish, Missouri, and Morrow, Kansas tied for first; Busch, Missouri and Stein, Missouri tied for third. 11 feet 6 inches.

880-yard run—Killough, Missouri; Willett, Missouri; Hamilton, Kansas. Time 2:06.8.

60-yard low hurdles—N. Jackson, Kansas; D. Patterson, Kansas; Crowson, Missouri. Time: 07.4.

Two mile run—Quinn, Missouri; Slagle, Missouri; Hudson, Kansas. Time: 10.21.

Mile relay—Won by Missouri (Busch, Miller, Seigfried, Symonds) Time: 3:40.

Broad Jump—Exler, Missouri; Crowson, Missouri; Leigh, Kansas. 21 feet 10 inches.

Bangert Wins N.A.A.U. Shot Put, But Prefers The Metropolitan

Bill Bangert, the singing shot-putter from the University of Missouri, decided to choose art over athletics.

It was a successful Metropolitan Opera audition that prompted the choice, although he was even more impressive in winning the National Amateur Indoor shot putting title in the busiest day of his life.

Bangert started out in the afternoon by singing two arias before maestro Wilfred Pelletier, who was sufficiently impressed to urge him to return for training after he finishes college.

Ending the prologue from Paggiacci and the aria from Faust's "Soldier's Farewell," Bangert hurried to another studio for a tryout with the Fred Waring glee club.

Barely making connections, he went to Madison Square Garden for the National A. A. U. track and field meet where he opened festivities singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Then he went out to win the shot put event over a field of 16 of the nation's better putters with a toss of 50 feet, 5¼ inches. Felix Doc Blanchard of the Army was second with 48 feet 7½ inches, while George Sullivan of Notre Dame took third with a put of 48 feet, ½ inch.

Tigers Lose 58-30 To Iowa State Five

The Tigers' defense collapsed Feb. 9, as Iowa State launched a major offensive against Missouri's basket, winning 58-30, before 1600 cage fans. The retreating zone-defense, successful against the Cyclones in Columbia, was solved by Coach Lou Menze's cagers early in the game. Iowa State grabbed the lead after five minutes of play, which they never surrendered.

The Cyclones, apparently unaffected by the lack of practice because of a polio epidemic, were paced by Jim Meyers who swished the basket for 22 points. He received some strong support from Orlyn Feuerback, the other forward, who poured in 11 points, and Bob Mott, center, who accounted for six field goals.

For the second straight game, the Tigers' offensive was weak. Earl Stiegemeier, who has played most of the season at a guard position, scored seven points from a forward post. Gene Kurash, with six markers and Lane Bauer with five tallies, were the only Missouri cagers to seriously pierce the Cyclone goal.

Trailing 25-15 at the half, the Tigers were helpless before the Cyclone onslaught, as the following period was an unending parade in the direction of the Missouri basket. Coach Edwards called on every defensive and offensive play in his basketball bag of tricks to halt the torrid home quintet, to no avail.

Missouri Bows to Iowa Preflight Sharpshooters

The Tigers took the court against Iowa's Seahawks February 10, with only a few hours' rest, coming directly from Ames, Ia., where they had played Iowa State the previous night. They managed to give Coach Nordly's hoopsters a battle most of the opening half, but lost 59-36.

The Tigers fell back before the Hawks' fast-breaking offense and superior ball handling. They were on the short end of a 29-17 score at the end of intermission.

The Seahawks wove a tight defense around their basket, forcing the Bengals to rely on long shots. It was the Hawks' 15th win in 18 starts this season, and their eighth in succession, while the Tigers' losing streak was lengthened to three straight.

Earl Stiegemeier led the Tigers in scoring again, swishing the hoop for 11 points, while Gene Kurash found the range for seven.

The Iowa scoring was divided among four cagers, Baggott and Weaver at forward, Holland at center, and Klein at guard. The quartet accounted for 48 points. Klein, who was highpoint man for the evening with 15 tallies, dropped in shots from far out and on fast breaks, while Joe Holland, who racked up his 210th point that night, was passing more than when he appeared in Columbia.

Bengals Beat Nebraska In 2nd Overtime, 55-54

Lane Bauer made his farewell game one long to be remembered in the annals of University of Missouri basketball February 17, when he enabled the Tigers to tie Nebraska, 44-44, with his charity toss when two seconds of play remaining in the regulation period.

Fouled by Bob Koenig, Cornhusker guard, near Nebraska's goal, Bauer stepped up to the free-throw line after Riegert, referee, had explained to all contestants that the game would be over if he missed the toss. His shot struck the rim, rolled over the top and dipped into the basket. Seven minutes later, in the second overtime session, Bauer, who reported for military service the latter part of February, sank a left-hand shot. A minute afterward, he feinted Koenig out of position, and dribbled in for a lay-up shot. Those four points gave Missouri a 55-51 advantage, just enough to stave off Koenig's long shot and a foul shot by Vic Hoemann, the final score reading 55-54.

The partisan crowd, admiring Coach Edward's plucky cagers after they had overcome a 12-point deficit late in the second half, refused to accept defeat when the Cornhuskers jumped to a 4 point lead in the first overtime period. Leonard Brown, diminutive Bengal guard, retaliated with a long shot and Capt. Earl Stiegemeier duplicated the feat with time running out. This set the stage for Bauer's game-ending shots.

Both teams played race-horse basketball using a fast break and practically abandoning defense of their respective goals. Both seemed to be ruled by the axiom that a good offense is the best defense.

The Tigers succeeded in shackling Art Peterson, the Big Six's leading scorer, who didn't score his first points until the halfway mark of the second period.

However, the lanky center managed to sink six field goals and one free throw for 13 points, high point-getter for the visiting Nebraska quintet.

Dale Freeman, one of two players starting their initial game for the Bengals, was the high scorer for the evening with 14 points. The former Mansfield star kept the Tigers in the running late in the second half with a jump shot and a free-throw that put the Tigers within one point of Nebraska, 44-43. Twenty-eight seconds later, Bauer dropped his game-tying goal.

The overtime periods wouldn't have been necessary if the Tigers had been hitting from the free-throw line, as they missed 16 attempts. The Bengals were guilty of 15 fouls while the Nebraska five committed 20 personal miscues.

Bauer and Freeman accounted for the Tigers' first nine points, putting the Tigers out in front, 9-5 at the quarter mark. The Cornhuskers bounced back on Costello's rebound shot and foul toss, supported by Strahan's follow up shot. Freeman, bothered by a sore left knee left the game at this point, and the Cornhuskers went on to assume a 18-14 half-time lead. The lead changed hands five times in the opening 20 minutes.

The Cornhuskers lengthened their four-point edge to 23-14, before Brown took a pass from White and looped in a southpaw shot from the free throw circle. Freeman and Koenig traded baskets, and Peterson's first goal found the Tigers on the short end of a 29-20 count.

After Coach Lewandowski's cagers had gone ahead 32-20, the Tigers came to life with Stiegemeier and Gene Kurash tossing in long shots. Kurash sank another long field goal, Brown followed up his own shot, but the Tigers still trailed by a difficult margin after Peterson and Hecox dropped in one hand shots.

The Tiger guards, Stiegemeier and Kurash, found the range and bagged two more long field goals to bring the Tigers within two points of the Cornhuskers, 37-35. At this point, Kurash committed his fifth personal foul of the game, as the red and white clad cagers from Lincoln assumed a 42-38 lead.

Stiegemeier registered a set-up and Freeman scored his jump shot and foul throw to offset Jim Strahan's long shot. The score remained 44-43, until Koenig made his costly foul.

Kansas Humbles Missouri, 64-33

The Kansas Jayhawkers had little trouble taming the Missouri Tigers Saturday night, Feb. 24, running up a 64-33 score before a packed Hoch Stadium, as Phog Allen's quintet moved one step nearer to the Big Six crown. After breaking a 3-3 score at the outset, the outcome of the game was never in doubt as the Kansas rim-raiders went on a scoring rampage which snowed the Tigers under.

The Bengals were on the short end of a 32-14 count at the half. Capt. Earl Stiegemeier succeeded in shackling Gordon Reynolds, Kansas, outstanding offensive star. He accounted for 96 points in eight games for the Crimson and Blue prior to the Tiger game. But the Tiger guard held the conference's third leading scorer to one field goal. When Stiegemeier fouled out of the game with eight minutes remaining the Tiger cause was hopeless anyway.

While Reynolds was being checkmated, Charley Moffett was playing his best game of the season, contributing 29 points to the Kansas cause. His 12 field goals and five gift shots represent the best offensive performance by a Kansas athlete since Charley Black poured in 33 points against the Gold and Black in the 1942-43 campaign. Moffett sank shots from every angle on the court and raised his point-per-game average to 9.7 this year, with one game against Iowa State remaining on Kansas' schedule.

While Kurash was having considerable trouble holding Moffett under wraps, the latter did an effective job of keeping Dale Freeman from the basket. The freshman star who led all scorers in the Nebraska game didn't have five shots at the basket in the first half, and could sink but two charity tosses all night.

Two Games Added For Veterans' Benefit

Two innovations in the University's Department of Physical Education have recently been designed for the benefit of veterans on campus who are unable to participate in the more strenuous sports. As outlined by Dr. Darwin A. Hindman, chairman of the department, dart baseball and shuffleboard have become increasingly popular since they were first introduced.

"Of course, veterans are excused from attending physical education classes," he explained, "but many volunteer anyway. They find out that we're not giving the service-type of physical training, and sign up for basketball and the other sports just for the fun they can derive from it, and we don't want handicapped veterans to sit on the sidelines because a particular sport is too fatiguing. They enjoy playing dart baseball and shuffleboard, and though neither game calls for much physical exertion, both require considerable skill and have a high recreational value."

M. U. Reappoints Faurot and Staff

Lt. Don Faurot's contract as head of the University football staff has been extended until Feb. 28, 1946, by the Missouri Board of Curators, it was recently announced.

Faurot's staff has been kept intact. It includes Chauncey Simpson, acting head coach; Herb Bunker, line coach; Harry Smith, assistant coach now on leave to work in a war plant; O. J. DeVictor, trainer, and Lt. John C. Simmons, freshman coach on leave with the navy.

But switchboards and telephones and electronic equipment of many kinds must still be made by telephone factories for the armed forces.

Your patience in this emergency makes us eager to take care of your home telephone needs just as soon as possible.

Have a Coca-Cola = Viva!

(YEAH MAN!)

...or being the good neighbor in Brazil

Your American's good-natured invitation Have a "Coke" is a good-neighbor policy in three short words. It marks that brand of friendliness which our fighting men carry with them everywhere among our Allies. In many lands from Alaska to South Africa, Coca-Cola is spreading the custom of the pause that refreshes,—that refreshing moment devoted to just being friendly. Enjoy it at home, too, with frosty Coca-Cola from your own refrigerator.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO., Columbia, Mo.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".
