Welcome to the College of Veterinary Medicine Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital at the University of Missouri.

Our hospital, located at Clydesdale Hall, is a state-of-the-art teaching and medical services facility. In addition to regular check-ups and preventative healthcare for companion animals and livestock, we feature specialized treatment, such as emergency medicine and critical care, soft tissue surgery, dentistry, ophthalmology, neurology, oncology, dermatology, cardiovascular medicine and surgery, and orthopaedic surgery.

Veterinarians throughout the Midwest refer animal clients to the Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital for specialized diagnoses and treatment. With sophisticated therapeutic equipment, including an underwater treadmill, advanced imaging techniques, and groundbreaking equine lameness diagnostic methods, we are a center for animal healthcare.
