On this Missouri Review podcast, we present our final 10-minute play, "Avian Invasion." This entry is the work of six first-time participants at the National Audio Theatre Festival's Audio Theater Workshop, and was the second runner-up in the 10-minute play category of our 2007 Audio Competition.

At the 26th annual Audio Theater Workshop, held June 23-30, 2007 in West Plains, MO, six first-time participants united to form The National Audio Theatre Festivals' first Freshman Class. To gain an overview of the audio theatre process these artists worked as a team to write, direct, produce and act in a short form play. The end result of this team effort was "Avian Invasion," which was a runner-up in the Missouri Review's 2007 Audio Competition.
