

December 17, 2011

2011 Audio Contest Runner-up: Bill Ratner

Like 15

g+1 4

Tweet 1

Share

On this week's podcast, we feature Bill Ratner's essay, "The Archiving of an I Love Lucy Bit-Part Player," which was the First Runner-up of our 2011 Audio Competition in the Prose category. Bill Ratner is a seven-time winner of The Moth Story Slams in Los Angeles. He is a voice on movie trailers, documentaries and computer games, and the cartoon voice of Flint on G.I. Joe, Robot Chicken, and Family Guy. His essays and short fiction are published in The

Armor Fatl, Plelades, Southern Anthology, Spork, NiteBlade.com, National Cheng Kung Literary, Paper Maché Press, TV Marquee, and Coast Magazine. (Bill's uncle, Robert Jellison, actually played the role of Bobby the Bellboy on I Love Lucy.) More of Bill's stories can be found on billratner.com

AUDIO MP3

TMR Podcast: Bill Ratner Audio Podcast [11:14] Hide Player | Play In Popup | Download

Audio Home

Podcast

Interviews

Audio Contest Guidelines

Past Winners

design by bright box Ideas © 2011

HTML Snippets Powered By : XYZScripts.com