This work describes a tilted-target RF magnetron sputter deposition system to grow nanoparticles in a controlled way to obtain particles as small as 0.5nm upto 2nm with 0.2nm step size. The use of these Pt nanoparticles as charge storage device with phenomenal control over charging is demonstrated. Moreover, these charge storage device were used with a Boron based oxide to exhibit neutron detection schemes.