The phenomenon is a common one. Shippers explained. When one hive has got too crowded the best way to deal with it is to break the hive, shake it and turn it into a new queen. After the new queen breeds with lots of male bees, she takes over the hive.

The old queen takes a bunch of honey and some worker bees and they leave. They often hang out on a branch somewhere and send out scouts to look for a new home;” he said.

The swarm can stay for hours or even days.

A honey bee colony typically consists of three kinds of adult bees: Workers, drones, and a queen.
