Shostakovich headlines cultural events season

Kammergild performance features composer's grandson

Pianist Dmitri Shostakovich, grandson of the famous Russian composer, will make his St. Louis debut on the UMSL campus Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. in the J.C. Penney Auditorium.

He will perform Shostakovich's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C minor with Kammergild, UMSL's orchestra in-residence.

Born in 1961, the younger Shostakovich began his musical studies at the age of 7 at the Central Music School, studying piano with Elena Khoven. He made his debut in 1978 as a soloist with the Government Academic Symphony Orchestra under the direction of his father, Maxim. He later performed with the U.S.S.R. Radio and Television Symphony Orchestra and toured throughout the Soviet Union, Italy and Germany.

In April 1981, Maxim and Dmitri Shostakovich requested and were given political asylum by the United States while they were on tour in West Germany.

Kammergild is led by music director Lazar Gosman, a Soviet émigré who founded the group in 1978. Gosman is also artist in-residence at UMSL. music director of the Soviet Émigré Orchestra and performing artist and professor of violin and chamber music at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Additional performances of the Kammergild during the 1984-85 year are:

Nov. 18, St. Louis Art Museum, 8 p.m. — Bottesini’s “Concerto for Violoncello and Contrabass,” featuring Savely Schuster and Carolyn Buckley

Jan. 27, St. Louis Art Museum, 2 and 4 p.m. family concerts — Saint-Saëns’ “Carnival of the Animals” (guest artists are pianists Pamela Mia Paul and Ignat Solzhenitsyn, age 11, son of Soviet émigré Alexander Solzhenitsyn)

Feb. 17, J.C. Penney Auditorium, 8 p.m. — Pergolesi’s “Stabat Mater” for Chamber Chorus and Orchestra

May 20 (tentative date), St. Louis Art Museum, 8 p.m. — Haydn’s “Violin Concerto in C Major” with Gosman as violin soloist

Reserved season tickets are $45 for a subscription and $10 for a single ticket. Open seats are $6 for a single and $25 for a subscription. Mail requests should be sent to Kammergild Chamber Orchestra, 318 Music Building, UMSL. More information is available by calling (314) 553-5991.

Music events include guests, campus performers

The Intercampus Concert Series at UMSL will feature four performances. All concerts will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the J.C. Penney Auditorium.

Tickets will cost $7 for the general public, $5 for faculty and staff and $3 for students. Subscription prices for all four concerts are $20 for the general public, $15 for faculty and staff and $10 for students. More information is available by calling (314) 553-5536.

Performers and performance dates are:

Muir String Quartet, also known as the Yale University Quartet, 1980 first-prize winner of the Evian International String Quartet Competition — Oct. 14

Viktoria Mullova, a Soviet émigré violinist with a world-class reputation who won first prize in Moscow’s prestigious Tchaikovsky Competition in 1982 — Nov. 29

Gallery 210 season opens with Anderle

UMSL’s Gallery 210, founded in 1972, enters the 1984-85 year under new direction. Tom Patton, assistant professor of art, is the new director, succeeding Sylvia Walters, now chairwoman of the art department at San Francisco State University.

Patton joined the UMSL faculty in 1983 to teach courses in photography. He has asked Jean Tucker, a resident fellow in UMSL’s Center for Metropolitan Studies, to curate the exhibit opening the gallery season, Conversation With the Masters: Intaglio Prints by Jiri Anderle, from Sept. 4 to 28. The 32 works in the exhibit are on loan from the Jacques Baruch Gallery in Chicago.

Anderle, a contemporary Czechoslovakian artist, has been called “a man of artistic virtuosity and a profound world view to correspond with it” by critic Lucia Adams.

The works in the exhibit date from 1966 to 1982 and are of intaglio techniques combining etching, drypoint, mezzotint and brushed-on copper.

Because of the brilliance of work from this master of “peintre-graveur” and historical references to art history, the exhibit should be of interest to art and art history students as well as the general public.

Gallery 210 is located in Room 210 of Lucas Hall on the UMSL campus. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday. More information is available from the gallery, (314) 553-5976.

Additional exhibits scheduled during 1984-85 are:

Hamady’s Perishable Press — Oct. 3-Nov. 5

New Directions in the New Decorative — Nov. 12-Dec. 7

Howard Jones (tentative) — Feb. 22-March 24

Culture and Record: 19th Century Photographs — April 6-May 3

Theater schedule lists four plays

University Players will present four plays during the upcoming season. All performances are at 8 p.m. in the Benton Hall Theater on the UMSL campus. Ticket information and confirmation of the announced schedule are available by calling (314) 553-5733.

The schedule:

“A Man for All Seasons” — Oct. 25-28

“Deathtrap” — Nov. 30-Dec. 2

“The Time of Your Life” — Feb. 21-24

“Star-Spangled Girl” — April 19-21

range from music to dance

Excellence in the performing arts has become a tradition with the UMC Concert Series. Itzhak Perlman, the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, Yo Yo Ma and the Northern Sinfonia of England with Barry Tuckwell highlight the upcoming season.

The St. Louis Symphony, which Time magazine ranked second among American orchestras, will perform two concerts with guest pianists and a family pops concert.

The Concert Series also features return performances by the New York City Opera National Company, the Houston Ballet and the Nikolais Dance Theatre.

Performances, which are in Jesse Auditorium, begin at 8 p.m., except for St. Louis Symphony performances.

Information and ticket prices are available from the UMC Concert Series office, 135 Fine Arts, UMC. (314) 882-3875.

Faculty, staff and students of UM and other institutions belonging to the Mid-Missouri Association of Colleges and Universities as well as paid members of the University Alumni Association are eligible for discount ticket prices. Tickets are available by writing or phoning the concert series office or from the Jesse Box Office Sept. 17-21 and Sept. 24-28 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. If tickets are available for individual performances, they will go on sale about two days before each event.

Michael Buds will again present concert previews preceding some performances. A schedule of these previews, informative talks designed to illuminate and entertain, will be announced in the fall. There is no admission charge for the previews.

UMKC

Art of tall buildings, music, theater part of season

Buildings exhibit, Steinberg drawings at gallery

If Superman really did leap tall buildings in one bound, he must have noticed on the way up the architectural and artistic details of those buildings. A highlight of the upcoming UMKC Art Gallery season will be an exhibit on the art of tall buildings, scheduled for Jan. 25 to March 1.

The exhibit will concentrate on the formal and ornamental, rather than the technological and structural, aspects of tall buildings, design. Curator for the show is George Ehrlich, UMKC professor of art history. Gallery director Craig Subber will coordinate the exhibit.

A special guided bus tour of seven Kansas City buildings designed by Holt, Price & Barnes from 1906 to 1931 and a gallery lecture by Ehrlich are part of the exhibit.

Another highlight of the gallery season will be an exhibit on Somalia scheduled for March 22 to April 26. The exhibit brings together the oral poetry, art and material culture of the people of the African country. The exhibit’s precious textiles, fiber, wood, clay, leather and other materials have been selected from public and private collections in Somalia, Europe and the United States.

The UMKC Holiday Sales Exhibition Nov. 16 to Dec. 14 will feature art objects from around the world. The sale of items ranging in price from $5 to $500 will benefit the gallery’s exhibition and programming fund. Ethnographic and folk art, jewelry, cards, ceramics, prints and other one-of-a-kind objects will be on sale.

Other exhibits planned for the 1984-85 year:

- Saul Steinberg: Drawings and Watercolors from the Hallmark Collection, 23 drawings produced by Steinberg in the 1950s and 1960s — July 12—Sept. 7
- R.M. Fischer, an exhibit of sculptural lamps and fountains following Fischer’s one-person exhibit at the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York — Sept. 5-Nov. 9
- UMKC Student Exhibition — May 31—July 26
- Modern Interiors, 20 lithographs by UMKC faculty member Stephen Gossell, author of a book entitled “Modern Interiors” — May 31-July 26
- Furniture Designed by Roger Kraft, a selection of designs by the Kansas City architect — May 31-July 26
- Handicrafts — July 26-Aug. 19
- Exhibition of mobiles for guest artists and performers at the University of Missouri — Aug. 25-Oct. 27
- Cass, will give piano concerts Feb. 19 and March 5, respectively.
- UMKC’s Bach Aria Group, opens Sept. 20 and includes $7.50 soloists. $10 and $7.50 ticket information is available from the UMKC Box Office, (816) 276-2714.

Conservatory hosts chamber artists, soloists

Chamber groups everywhere will perform the music of Johann Sebastian Bach this year to commemorate the 300th anniversary of his birth, and none can offer his music with more intimacy than the Bach Aria Group, which has been performing Bach’s works for 37 years. The Bach Aria Group’s March 29 performance in White Recital Hall will be a highlight of the UMKC Conservatory of Music Chamber Artists Series.

The Chamber Series opens Oct. 28 with a concert by the conservatory’s resident ensemble, the Volker String Quartet. The quartet, which has won acclaim in the Midwest, is made up of faculty members who also perform with the Kansas City Symphony: Tiberius Klausner, violinist and concertmaster, Morton Shaukin, violinist and concertmaster; Hugh Brown, principal second violinist; and Robert Battey, assistant principal cellist. The quartet will also perform Feb. 17 and April 25.

On Jan. 29, clarinetist Richard Stoltzman and pianist/bassoonist Bill Douglas will perform on the stage of White Recital Hall. Headlining the Soloists Series will be 24-year-old Viktoria Mullova, a violin virtuoso who made headlines last year when she defected from Russia to seek artistic freedom in the United States. She will perform Nov. 28.

Lee Lavisi, described by Newsweek magazine as “a pianist’s pianist,” will perform Feb. 12.

Tiberius Klausner & Friends will appear Dec. 2. Two other conservatory artists in-residence, Ruth Anne Rich and Richard Cass, will give piano concerts Feb. 19 and March 5, respectively.

After each concert this season, members of the White Recital Hall audiences will be able to meet and chat with performers at informal receptions in the lobby of the Center for the Performing Arts.

Season subscription price for UM faculty, staff and students and senior citizens is $50, a savings of $25 over individual concert prices of $7.50 for guest artists and $5 for conservatory artists. Season tickets for the general public are $70; individual tickets are $10 and $7.50. Ticket information is available from the UMKC Box Office, (816) 276-2704, Center for the Performing Arts, 4949 Cherry St. All concerts begin at 7:30 p.m.

Theater schedule

“La Ann Hampton Laverty-O’Berlanter’ by Preston Jones, a studio production, will open UMKC’s academic theater season in September. Performances are scheduled for Sept. 20 to 23.

Three other studio productions are scheduled, including the premiere of “The Women Fiere Are No Different,” an award-winning play by Nancy Beckett, a student at the Yale School of Drama. Beckett won the Spouse Abuse Education and Intervention Project playwriting competition sponsored by the UMKC School of Education Family Study Center and the Junior League of Kansas City. She won $2,000 and the chance to have the play produced at UMKC. The play is scheduled for March 28 to 31.

The remainder of the tentative 1984-85 academic theater schedule:

- “Hedda Gabler” by Henrik Ibsen — Oct. 11-14
- “Blood Wedding” by Garcia Lorca — Oct. 25-28
- “Harlebedracon” by Matt Houston and Francis Cullinan — Nov. 15-18
- “Division Street” by Steven Tesich — Dec. 6-9
- “The School for Scandal” by Richard Sheridan — April 18-21

Missouri Repertory begins 21st season

A spirited tradition continues as Missouri Repertory Theatre, the professional acting company in residence at UMKC, celebrates its 21st consecutive season. The season will feature a four-play summer series through Sept. 16 and a four-play winter series from Jan. 24 to April 13.

The Dickens holiday classic, “A Christmas Carol,” will be performed Nov. 28 through Dec. 23.

The Rep will continue to perform both rotating repertory and stock productions.

The summer series repertory plays are “Strider” by Mark Rozovsky, the magical, musical story of a horse; “True West” by Sam Shepard, a funny and frightening play about the conflict between two brothers trying to write a screenplay for the perfect western; and “Come Back, Little Sheba” by Kansas playwright William Inge, an American classic about a marriage on the rocks.

The summer series will close with a stock production of “Fifteen Strings of Cash,” a traditional Chinese play about government corruption, directed by internationally renowned Chinese actor and director Ying Raecheng. He is currently at UMKC as a Fulbright Asian Scholar In-Residence.

The winter series repertory plays are William Shakespeare’s “Romeo and Juliet,” the immortal story of two star-crossed lovers; “Crimes of the Heart” by Beth Henley, a Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy about the reunion of three very Southern sisters; and “Master of the Sea” by Gardner McKay, the world premiere of the touching sequel to last season’s “Beau Markos.”

The winter series ends with a stock production of “Peter Pan” by J.M. Barrie, a fun-filled fantasy for the family. The Rep will employ all its technical wizardry to create an enchanting Never-Never Land.

All Missouri Repertory Theatre performances are in the Helen F. Spencer Theatre in the UMKC Center for the Performing Arts, 4949 Cherry St. Special discounts on season and individual tickets are available for UM faculty, staff and students. More information and reservations are available at the UMKC ticket office, (816) 276-2704.

Ticket discounts

As in past years, any faculty/staff discounts offered for cultural events on any campus are available to staff members on all campuses.

Performing Arts Series offers folk, classical music

The Performing Arts Series at UMR features seven events for 1984-85, including folk music, musical theater and chamber music.

Season tickets are $30 for students and retirees and $35 for the general public. Single performance tickets are $6 for adults and $5 for students and retirees. Order forms are available by writing Campus Performing Arts Series, University Center-West, UMR.

All performances begin at 8 p.m. at the Cedar Street Center, except for the Mair Quartet, which will perform at Centennial Hall in University Center-East.

The schedule:

Gordon McCann and Art Galbraith
Sept. 25
The late Ozarks folklorist Vance Randol­dolph called Art Galbraith the best Ozarks fiddler he had ever heard. A fiddler for 65 years, Galbraith plays the Scottish/Ozarks tunes (hornpipes, jigs and reels) handed down for generations through his family, as well as more contemporary waltzes, rags and blues. Since 1976, he has been accompanied by Gordon McCann, a guitarist and noted Ozarks folk art historian. The duo's authen­ tic style and audience-pleasing flair have won them invitations to such major folk festivals as the National Folk Festival at St. Louis, Missouri, and the American Festival at the University of Missouri-Rolla. They also perform throughout Missouri and Arkansas.

Lee Lusivi
Feb. 11

Lee Lusivi has developed a respected career as soloist and chamber musician. He was a student of Rudolf Serkin and Mieczyslaw Horszowski at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute of Music where he is also head of the piano department.

Lusivi's solo activities through the years have included a list of major recital and orchestral engagements across the United States, Canada, Mexico and Europe. He has performed with nearly every important or­ chestra in North America and under such distinguished conductors as Bernstein, Or­ mandy and Steinberg. His European career has included appearances in London, Vien­ na, Berlin and other major capitals.

Muir String Quartet
March 1

The Muir String Quartet is known as one of the world's finest chamber ensembles. It has won two major international competitions, made two tours of Europe and per­formed extensively throughout the United States.

Campus musicians offer free concerts

A series of free concerts at UMR during the 1984-85 year features performances by students and guest artists. Admission is free to students, faculty and the general public.

Of UMR's 10 instrumental and two vocal groups, the larger groups offer several major concerts during the academic year while smaller groups perform for special occasions on campus and offer formal concerts for a variety of audiences.

Olson Fund for the Arts to enhance cultural events

Dear Colleagues,

Cultural events — both the performing and the visual arts — have always been important to the University community. All four campuses have excellent offerings of music, art, dance and theater planned for the upcoming year. Such exhibits and performances play a significant role in the educational process and enrich our communities as well.

This year is a special year for the arts through the Olson Fund for the Arts, members of the University community as well as friends of the University can support the arts while honoring the contributions made by President Emeritus James C. Olson and his wife, Vera. The funds will support concerts, exhibits, lectures and other special arts events throughout the University system.

We are working to build the fund into a permanent endowment of $250,000 through one-time, tax-deductible gifts from corporate and individual donors. If you have not sent a gift, I hope you will consider recognizing the Olsons in this way and affirming your own support for the arts. Contributions should be sent to the Olson Fund for the Arts, 321 University Hall, Columbia.

Sincerely,

Melvin D. George, Interim President
