STUNT WEEK IS ASSURED

W. M. REGAN, '12

A Stunt Week at commencement time is assured. The following plan has been unanimously approved by the Senior class and indorsed by the Faculty.

Commencement week and examination week will be transposed. Commencement week will begin June 1, and examination will start June 7. During this week there will be no classes and the first three days of the week will be given over to the various department stunts. The rest of the week will be taken up with the graduation exercises proper.

A tentative schedule for the activities of this combined Stunt and Commencement Week has been approved. The baccalaureate sermon will be Sunday, June 1. Then will follow the stunts.

Monday morning will be given to the School of Education; Monday afternoon to the University Women's May Day stunt. The May Pole dance will be from 7 to 8 Monday night, and will be followed immediately by the Mock Trial.

Tuesday morning has been reserved for the Journalists' Yellow Extra and play. Tuesday afternoon and evening for the Farmers' County Fair.

Wednesday the Engineers will have the forenoon; the afternoon will be given to the Academs and a business meeting of the alumni at perhaps 4 o'clock. The Phi Beta Kappa address will be Wednesday night.

The regular commencement exercises will be at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, June 5, followed by short class-day exercises and the alumni luncheon. The President's reception will be Thursday night.

All seniors will be excused from the final examination so all of their time and energy can be used in directing the various stunts and in making the week as enjoyable as possible for the visitors and alumni.

The University women, the Farmers, and the Lawyers have agreed to give their respective stunts at this time. The Engineers, while they intend giving their St. Patrick's Day celebration March 17, have agreed to give a stunt at Commencement time.

When this article was written no definite action had been taken on the matter by the schools of Education and Journalism, but it is probable they will give their stunts commencement week.

Why has the above plan been adopted by the students and faculty? It is believed by some that such a plan will bring about better stunts while others think that less attractive stunts will result. All are agreed, however, that the movement means much to the future welfare of the school. The commencement exercises will be greatly improved and the alumni will be drawn back more and more each year and more strongly organized and more interested alumni will result. This will do much towards making Missouri a bigger and better school.

The whole movement is another manifestation of that loyalty to the institution which the under graduates have always exhibited. It is that "Old Missouri Spirit" in another garb.

The change involves a considerable sacrifice on the part of the students. The under classmen will be forced to remain several days longer than they otherwise would. A very conservative estimate of a student's expenses for a week is $5. At that rate the week will cost the students $10,000.

Will the alumni spend an equal amount in returning and helping to make the week a success?

A short time after that "Great Disaster" at Lawrence last fall, I met a prominent attorney in a small town about 80 miles from Columbia. He was a graduate of the class of '88. After we had gone over the reasons why Jayhawkers had walloped us, he remarked in parting, "Well, I wish you folks down there would either teach those Tigers to play football or quit trying."

Now, if the change helps to dispel that sort of spirit from the minds of the alumni and helps to make them realize that the University of Missouri is still as much their school as it was when they were students, the plan will be a success and the students will be satisfied.

ALUMNI VIEWS OF STUNT WEEK

St. Patrick's Day Is Sacred.

The Alumnus: Upon reading in the Alumnus of the plan to have all the stunts Commencement week, I wish to say—and I believe most alumni, at least Engineering alumni, think the same way—that it is altogether wrong to have the stunts all in one week at the end of the school year. It doesn't make so much difference with the other departments as it does with the Engineers. We Engineers have always looked upon our stunt St. Patrick's Day as a sort of sacred event in which we would honor our Patron Saint. Our song "St. Patrick was an Engineer" showed our belief. That day was sacred in the heart of every true Engineer at Missouri. You who are not Engineers do not understand it, and if the Engineers of today have sentiments favorable to the proposed change I must say that their true spirit is failing. How can St. Patrick's Day be celebrated in June? And if this celebration is to be discontinued, then all traditions of the Engineering School will be wiped out.

The article speaks of the commencement exercises as they now are as inadequate, yet it says that the Class Day exercises and the senior play are to be abolished. Why are they to be abolished? If Class Day were conducted in the proper manner, I don't see how it could be abolished. How grand it is to see in the big Eastern schools old graduates walking arm in arm in the Class Day exercises. Getting back to the stunt week—I can't see how it can be a success at that time in the year. The article states that it is proposed to excuse all seniors from examinations. What about the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors? Are the seniors to arrange for the stunts?

Towards the end of the year every student is busy preparing to wind up the year a success in his studies. He has no time to arrange for stunts at that time, and if the stunts are to amount to anything it will take at least one month to arrange for them. Then again the article states that the faculty is considering a plan whereby the exercises will be held the week preceding examinations. How can any student be prepared to take his examinations after a week of fun and enjoyment?

It is impossible. The faculty is always trying to raise the standard of scholarship, and now it proposes a plan to keep it down.

Will Help Bring Alumni Back.

The Alumnus: I want to second most heartily the suggestion made in the current issue of the Alumnus regarding Commencement week. If the students will pull off their various stunts at that time it will go a long way toward getting the alumni back. I attended Commencement last year for the first time since 1906 and was amazed to find that less was being made of Commencement than in my own day—and there was little enough done then. There is no reason why we should not have as big a Commencement as any other institution, and I sincerely hope the efforts you are now making will be crowned with success. I expect to attend Commencement again this year, and if I can do anything to arouse interest among the alumni in this part of the country I shall be most happy to do so.

H. W. PRENTIS, Jr., '03.
Armstrong Cork Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Will Enliven the Exercises.

The Alumnus: I am pleased to note that the various schools are arranging to have their stunts Commencement week. I quite agree with you that it will enliven Commencement exercises and tend to draw a larger attendance at that time. Mrs. Nelson and myself are looking forward to our Commencement visit with a great deal of pleasure.

EARL F. NELSON, '04, '05.
Milan, Mo.

"Here's One Against It."

The Alumnus: Don't you think the alumni are forgetting the students when they want to have all the stunts Commencement week? It seems to me they are. It may be that I look at it this way because I am "just out," but I know the second semester seems twice as long as the first, and if we do away with the stunts, a fellow will never get to be a senior. The stunts break the monotony of a long and steady grind. Here's one against it.

H. H. HECK, Law'12.
Rich Hill, Mo.

Yes, But After Exams.

The Alumnus: By all means, let's have stunt week at Commencement time. But wouldn't it be better after exams.

MISS EULA BOGGESS, '11.
Butler, Mo.

The Alumnus: Let "stunt week" become a reality.

H. E. HOWE, '06.
Ashland, Va.

St. Louis Approves.

The Alumnus: The plan suggested in the Alumnus of holding the department stunts Commencement week is the very thing. It will do more than anything I know of to develop a feeling of unity between students and alumni and a stronger spirit of loyalty on the part of both.

The plan was discussed at the last Alumni meeting here and met with decided favor.

J. E. CHASNOFF, '11.
Secretary St. Louis Alumni Association.

All Right if All Right.

The Alumnus: Of course we want the stunts at Commencement time—at least this alumnus does—provided the students can and will put up the same class of stunts that they have been producing.

But if the greatness of the stunts must suffer on account of high pressure during examination week or on account of many students going home, then let the stunts remain as before.

I would rather hear of a magnificent stunt being carried out by all the students of my Alma Mater than to see a poor display poorly executed by a few students.

Give us the stunts Commencement week if real stunts can be produced at that time.

Yours for a big University, a big Commencement, and a great big Stunt.

M. E. SHERWIN, '08.

Professor of Soils, College of Agriculture, West Raleigh, N. C.

Suggests "Frat" Reunions, Too.

The Alumnus: I remember Commencement of '11 as a week of boredom. Anything would be an improvement, and the stunt week sounds promising. The fraternities and sororities might help out by having their reunion banquets that week.

MISS CLARA SCHWIEDER, '11.
Monett, Mo.

Would Give Medal to Regan.

The Alumnus: It is my opinion that W. M. Regan, '12, deserves a medal of some sort for suggesting the stunt week to help "cheer up" Commencement time. I have heard a number of graduates give as their reason for not returning to Columbia Commencement week that it was always the same and of no interest except to the one who was to be graduated that year.

If you should succeed in working out such a plan, you may count on my presence that week, and also the presence of all those with whom I have any influence.

MISS ELIZABETH BRASFIELD, '08.
Charleston, Mo.

Would Come to See Stunts.

The Alumnus: I am heartily in favor of the proposed plan to have a stunt week at the end of the year. I, for one, have never been back to Columbia Commencement week since my graduation, but I should certainly make an effort to be present when possible if such a plan were adopted.

MRS. C. F. MARTIN

(MISS MAUDE WILLIAMS), '06.
109 South St., Warrensburg, Mo.

The Alumnus: You may count both Mrs. Scott and myself as heartily in favor of the plan to hold the various University stunts Commencement Week. When we revisit Alma Mater, as we plan to do in '14 and '15, we shall be delighted to find around the Columns so much of the life and spirit of Missouri.

PRYOR T. SCOTT, '04.
Grand Junction, Colo.

In Midst of Revolutionists.

John R. Grigg, Engineering '10, who has been in Mexico since his graduation until he returned to Missouri last summer, was in Columbia recently and told something of his experiences among the revolutionists. He was one of eight white men in charge of a gold mine working 500 Mexicans, five days' journey from a railroad.

Shortly after he was graduated, Mr. Grigg went to Mexico and became superintendent of the mill at a gold mine, Lluvia de Oro, in the southwestern part of the state of Chihuahua. Of the eight men in charge, five were graduates of Columbia University, New York. The mine was captured once by the revolutionists and some of the Mexican workmen were killed.

Mr. Grigg was in charge of the night shift at the mill and his worst trouble, he says, was to prevent stealing. The superintendents were held responsible for everything stolen. One night he caught a man trying to take several hundred dollars worth of ore. He left Mexico last summer, following President Taft's proclamation warning all Americans to leave the country. At present he is sales manager for a crate company at Joplin.

A WORD FROM W. T. LENOIR, '49

Reading one's own obituary is a privilege that is not "enjoyed" by many, but W. T. Lenoir, A.B.'49, A.M.'52, University of Missouri, who is now a retired physician and lives at 2626 May street, Cincinnati, read an account of his own death in the Missouri Statesman in 1850.

Mr. Lenoir practiced medicine here for a number of years and is well remembered by a few of the older residents of Columbia. He wrote recently to Irvin Switzler, registrar of the University, whom he knew while he lived here, telling of a remarkable experience at sea, the loss of a ship with 150 passengers and other interesting details of his life:

"In August, 1850, with my school-boy friend, Haydon Lanter, a relative of the Persingers and the Spences of Boone County, I took passage on a Baltimore clipper-built brig at San Francisco for Panama. Outside the Golden Gate was encountered a terrific storm. The captain said it was the worst he had ever seen. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon a mighty wave dashed over the ship and carried my noble friend to a watery grave.

"No monumental pile marks his resting place, but I shall ever hold him dear in memory for his fidelity and true nobility.

"Neptune was irate and storm after storm beat upon us. We drifted nearly down to the Equator. After several weeks of dire suffering, privations, threatened starvations and mutiny, we ultimately, in a dilapidated condition, cast anchor on a Central American coast. Soon the tattered sails were repaired, the larder replenished, empty water casks filled and wood put aboard.

"I saw the staunch brig weigh anchor and proudly under a fine breeze and the Stars and Strips, sail out to sea. That vessel, its crew, its commander—Captain Morton of Bangor, Maine—and one hundred and sixty passengers were never seen or heard of afterwards.

"Being heartily tired if not disgusted with 'life on the ocean wave,' I crossed Central America in an ox-stage—a crude box on massive solid wooden wheels a foot thick and six feet in diameter. The wheels were attached to rough axles without axle grease. Every revolution sent an outlandish creak that could be heard a mile distant, surprising and frightening the denizens of the jungles.

"The stage was pulled by four oxen, driven by a cruel native with a ten-foot pole armed with an iron spear that made the poor dumb brutes 'skedaddle' in swinging trot.

"If my chariot was less pretentious and pleasant than the modern auto, it was a strong, safe conveyance, a model of music and drawing.

"My family knew not of my privations, toils and hardships, but a friend, Frank Barrow, of Portsmouth, Virginia, wrote them I had taken passage on the ill-fated ship. After several weeks thorough search was made by government officials for the vessel, it was reported 'lost.'

"The loved ones at home painfully and sadly accepted this as proof of the fate of 'the lost Lenoir' and they clothed themselves with the insignia of mourning.

"The late Colonel William F. Switzler wrote and published in the Missouri Statesman my obituary. I have read it and I was impressed with the kind, big-heartedness of the colonel for he minimized my faults and magnified my virtues.

"I will not write more of the exciting events and the trying experiences attending my journey, nor will I attempt to describe the joyous surprise of citizens, the hearty hand shakes and the enthusiastic welcome given me, when unheralded, four and one-half months after passing through the Golden Gate, I cast anchor on Broadway at Van Horn's Hotel. The fatted calf was killed and if the ring did not grace the finger, I was encircled by the loving arms of a grateful and happy family.

"That remarkable obituary was published in November or December, 1850. I would love to re-read it and show it to my children.

" 'Tis said that 'home is where the heart is'—then I'm a stranger in a strange land, dragging out a homesick, unsatisfactory life, a state of indolent ease, and do-nothingness which is incompatible with common decency, a travesty on good citizenship and manhood. I feel the weight of years, realize the decadence of powers and know that the lengthening of shadows portend ere long the setting of life, I have safely and gracefully passed the first quarter stone on the eighty-sixth round of the stadium and in the language of the great statesman, 'I still live.' In the proclamation of the Bull Moose—'My hat is in the ring.'

"This hum-drum existence is not all anguish and cold, but cheered and warmed by sympathetic hearts who have made 'the winter of my discontent' glorious by a flood of light from congratulatory letters and New Year greetings. I didn't know I had such a host of friends. It has been a big but pleasant task to write acknowledgment of the receipt of these gems of friendship.

"Through you I send salutations to R. B. Price, Judge Switzler, Banks Sebastian, Cash Newman, Will and Ben Anderson, Doctor McAlester and that noble old patriot and Christian gentleman, Uncle Bob Smith.

"Your life-long friend,

"W. T. Lenoir."

ALMOST A MAGAZINE

By OSCAR E. RILEY, B.S. in J.'11, A.B.'12

Being the specific history of a recent short-lived literary attempt, but a history which in substance might apply to a dozen or so student publications in Missouri's graveyard.

Six young literary lights, plentifully supplied with the fuel of enthusiasm, met in the room of the poet to evolve from the great idea a college magazine. That they might view the situation more clearly they sat in a London fog of cigarette smoke. In the curling fumes from the fragrant tubes they saw the vision of a magazine which would bring them college fame and, by its bubbling humor, bring joy into the lives of fellow students.

Copies of the Harvard Lampoon and the Cornell Widow were passed about and made the butt of many jokes. The pity of it all, they thought, that such magazines should represent such famous schools. Their first issue would show these Eastern editors a thing or two. They decided to give their college the best magazine in the country. Staff titles were parceled out by secret ballot. Subjects were assigned. Copy was to go to the printer in three weeks.

A week later the sextette again met. Two had short stories they had written in high school. The others had irresistible excuses.

Four submitted masterpieces which they read aloud at 5 o'clock the next Tuesday afternoon. The expected round of applause was forthcoming. It was found the copy on hand would fill all but four-fifths of the magazine. For the remaining bagatelle they had a whole week. Ideas came in profusion and the session ended in high hopes.

Early, for a Saturday morning, the real work began. At tables foraged from nearby rooms they filled sheet after sheet with their humor, wit and satire until the noon hour thrust itself upon them and compelled them, reluctant, to hie their steps to the dining room. This duty over, they again sailed into their literary labors. Toward night they found they had enough on hand to fill the magazine. While all were rejoicing the work was ended, the advertising manager drifted in, sank into a chair, and announced that with previous pledges he had enough contracts to carry the first issue. Bedlam ensued.

The staff copyreader submitted the manuscripts to the printer on Tuesday and on Saturday afternoon the conclave made up the magazine by cutting up the proof sheets and pasting them in their proper places in a blank booklet the exact size of the magazine-to-be. The artist had been more diligent than his fellows, so even his proofs were back by this time. To make the longer stories fit, paragraphs were elided. A few impromptu jokes were written to fill blank spaces and the make-up schedule went back to the print-shop.

In due time the magazine was ready for sale. News stories purported humorous shouted the merits of the new enterprise and its product from the columns of the college daily. Advertisements reiterated the great benefit about to accrue to the college community.

On the morning it was to appear, six alarm clocks were startled to find themselves going off at 4 o'clock. Six half-awake youths stumbled into clothing and met, eyes blinking, at the appointed place. Then each took hammer, tacks and his quota of placards and covered his assignment. Some, as had been pre-arranged, slipped the posters under store doors. Students going to eight o'clocks read on every bulletin board and in every show window of the newcomer.

By night every copy of the first issue was sold. Mortar-board bedecked students from the girls' colleges had aided valiantly in the rush. Staff members had been chosen to attend church socials to explain the magazine's good points to the boarding school misses and had done their work thoroughly.

New features marked the first issue. That night the editors gathered for the happiest hour of their official career. Each tried to look as if unaffected by the sudden success. Then each met the others in turn, praised their stories or verses and received welcome congratulations. All agreed the strain had been so intense they could rest a week or so before writing copy for the second issue.

When work was begun afresh the editors found themselves against a stone wall. They had lavished their stored-up ideas on the maiden number and soon the linotypist would be demanding jokes galore. All got down to work in earnest as the time grew short. Subjects suggested to the editor were assigned to staff members who volunteered to handle them.

Each succeeding issue was better than the last from a journalistic viewpoint, but the students went back to reading professionally humorous magazines in the library as money became scarce. Sales fell off gradually. But they fell, just the same.

When the editors found the imminent mid-year examinations a stern reality, they tacitly agreed to postpone the next issue until after the examinations. The next issue never appeared.

AROUND THE COLUMNS

Schulte Is the New Coach.

Henry F. Schulte of the University of Michigan is now at Missouri filling the place made vacant by the resignation of T. E. Jones, track coach and assistant football coach.

Mr. Schulte is a graduate of the University of Michigan in 1907. During his entire four years at Michigan he made a special study of conditioning men under Fitzpatrick, now with Princeton. He was a football, baseball and track man there three years. In 1907 he was selected as guard and tackle on the all-Western football team. After graduating at Michigan he remained as assistant coach and took additional training in physical training. In 1908 he had charge of athletics at the state normal school at Ypsilante, Mich. For the next three years he had charge of the gymnasium and athletics at the Cape Girardeau Normal in this state. Last year he was called back to the University of Michigan to be assistant coach.

"Mr. Schulte was brought to our attention by Fitzpatrick of Princeton, who is considered the best trainer and track coach in America," says President Hill. "Fitzpatrick placed Schulte at the top of all men he could recommend for the place. For this reason we feel sure we are getting the best man for the place. He was also strongly recommended by the University of Michigan where he had charge of field work in football last fall. Schulte was the real leader of football there."

Freshmen Into Fraternities.

The effect of a ruling which this year permits fraternities and sororities to initiate pledges who have made fifteen hours' credit the first semester is being watched with much interest by both faculty and fraternity members. Last year the University rules required that a student must have twenty-four hours' credit in the University before becoming a member of a fraternity or sorority. The change this year permits a freshman who makes normal credit the first semester to to be initiated and live in the chapter house the remainder of his freshman year.

About 150 first-year men were pledged to fraternities last semester. The numbers as announced by the different chapters are:

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 14 members, 9 pledges; Sigma Nu, 14 members, 9 pledges; Alpha Tau Omega, 16 members, 8 pledges; Pi Kappa Alpha, 17 members, 6 pledges; Kappa Alpha, 16 members, 10 pledges; Phi Gamma Delta, 16 members, 9 pledges; Kappa Sigma, 18 members, 9 pledges; Delta Tau Delta, 19 members, 4 pledges; Phi Kappa Psi, 15 members, 8 pledges; Sigma Chi, 6 pledges; Beta Theta Pi, 10 pledges.

To M. U. for Graduate "Ag." Work.

The excellence of the efficiency of the Missouri College of Agriculture is evidenced by the fact that three honors winners have chosen Missouri as a place to do their graduate work. Three winners of $400 scholarships at the National Dairy Show in Chicago in 1911 are doing graduate work here. The awards were made with the provision that each must choose some school other than that from which he was graduated. The men are: R. C. Jenson, a graduate of the South Dakota Agricultural College; A. C. Stanton, of Maryland Agricultural College, and K. B. Musser, of K. S. A. C. None of the men knew the others were coming to Missouri when he selected this school.

Baseball Practice Begins.

Practice has begun for the Tiger baseball men. Until weather conditions become more favorable, the chief work will be with battery candidates indoors. Practically all of last year's squad will be out for the team this year and with much promising freshman material. Coach Field is hopeful for a winning team.

The pitching staff thus far is composed of Angerer, perhaps the best Varsity pitcher last year, Helm, Helmreich and Capp of the freshman team last season. Hall, Mohler, Graham, Lansing and Delano will try out for catchers. Delano is promising material by those who recall the big man's work for the freshmen last spring. The infield candidates are Brainard, Hornback, McCue, Carter, Houston, Wheat, Lyle, Woolsey, Barclay and Palfreyman. The outfield candidates are Captain Taylor, Gray, Dickinson, and Helmreich. Helmreich will alternate as pitcher and outfielder.

The schedule so far completed is Westminster, April 10, and Ames April 18, 19 here; Warrensburg at Warrensburg, April 22; Kansas Aggies at Manhattan, April 23 and 24; Kansas at Lawrence, April 25 and 26; Drury here, May 3; Oklahoma here, May 12 and 13; Ames at Ames, May 16 and 17; Kansas Aggies here, May 19 and 20, and Kansas here, May 23 and 24.

"Nick" Sees Winning Team.

Captain Nicholson believes Missouri has good prospects for a winning track team this spring.

"For instance," says "Nick," "we have Floyd and Talbot for pole vaulters, each good for more than eleven feet—this is something the Tigers have always been weak on.

"Kirksey can beat anything in the Valley when it comes to getting over the low hurdles. He will not participate in any of the indoor meets but will surely win his event in the outdoor ones and there's Thatcher for a good second in the low hurdles. Besides, he's sure on the shot put and the discus throw.

"We have five good men out for the mile and the two mile. They are Wickham, Terry, Hurst, Moss and Smith. We ought to win something with this bunch.

"Chapman, Murphy and Hupp are good on the half-mile and probably will show up for counting places in their events.

"For the quarter-mile there are Breckner, Knobel, Hutzell and Murphy.

"Entered in the high hurdles, high and broad jumps, there are Shepard and myself, and I think between the two of us we ought to win a few points.

"On the other hand our team might be greatly improved. We have men sure enough of first places but it's the seconds and thirds that we will be short on. Our team though, is as good as any Missouri has had for several years and I expect some good results."

New Beta House Is Finished.

The Missouri members of Beta Theta Pi have just moved into a new $30,000 chapter house at College and Keiser avenues. The house is of brick, three stories, and will accommodate thirty men.

In the basement there are laundry, boiler, coal and trunk rooms, two rooms for servants and a chapter room. On the first floor there are living, reception and dining rooms, which can be thrown into one room, a butler's room, kitchen and cloak room, and quarters for the chaperon.

The second floor contains seven bedrooms, two shower baths and two linen closets. On the third floor there are seven bedrooms and one shower bath.

Gould A. Sturgis, who was graduated in civil engineering here in 1911, had general supervision of the building. Lee Tate assisted him. The building was begun last April.

The formal opening of the house was held the last week in February. On the first day there was a reception to the faculty and students. This was followed by a dance and a banquet.

Another Fraternity at M. U.

Delta Omicron, a social fraternity, has just been organized at the University. It is understood application for a national charter will be made soon. The nine charter members of the fraternity are:

The pledges are: L. C. Ruggles, Monett, Mo.; A. M. Sames, Centralia, Mo.; R. D. Shouse, Shelby, Mo.

Hall to Edit 1913 Yellow.

William E. Hall, a senior in the School of Journalism, has been chosen by the students in that department to be managing editor of the "yellow extra" issued as a part of the Journalists' stunt. Mr. Hall has been at Missouri two years. His home is in Ohio and he was a student at Ohio State two years.

Dean Hinton to Leave M. U.

Judge E. W. Hinton, LL.B.'90, dean of the Missouri School of Law, has resigned the deanship to accept a place in the faculty of the School of Law of the University of Chicago. He will continue his duties as dean throughout this school year, and will take up his work at Chicago next fall. Dean Hinton says his only reason for leaving Missouri is that Chicago offers a larger salary.

Two years ago Chicago University called upon Judge Hinton to install there a practice court upon the model of the practice court he had originated and installed at the Missouri Law School. He lectured each week that semester in Chicago.

Dr. Hugh Black Coming Again.

Dr. Hugh Black will visit the University again in April. He will spend about a week lecturing here sometime near the middle of the month.

Man 55 Years Old Joins "Frat."

A 55-year-old student was recently made a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the University of Missouri. His name is A. F. Treakle, and with Mrs. Treakle, he is taking the short course in agriculture. His home is in St. Louis. He is the oldest student ever initiated by the fraternity in Missouri.

Mr. Treakle is a former college man and was for years connected with educational work in Missouri. He has been superintendent of schools at Harrisonville, Versailles, and California, Mo. He holds a Missouri teachers' life certificate and once attended Illinois State Normal. Mrs. Treakle was graduated from that school.

Mr. and Mrs. Treakle have been interested in the Delta Tau Delta fraternity a number of years. Their only son, Jesse, was a member of the Beta Upsilon chapter at the University of Illinois for three years. In that time they made frequent visits to the school and came to know each member of the "bunch" by his nickname, for both are good "mixers."

In the summer of 1910, when the son had completed his third year in the University, he was invited to bring a friend and visit his mother and father in Colorado. Young Treacle chose William Robert Chambers, a fraternity brother, to go with him. While on a camping trip both were struck by lightning and killed. Each was 23 years old. Members of the fraternity here were acquainted with the young men.

Mr. and Mrs. Treacle from that time have traveled extensively throughout the country. They continued to be interested in college work and so came to the University of Missouri to take the short course in agriculture as a sort of vacation. And then they would be glad to get a touch of college life again once, they thought. Anyway the agricultural study would help in orchard work, in which Mr. Treacle is interested, and also in cultivating farms which he owns about the state.

While in Columbia Mr. and Mrs. Treacle found it pleasant to recall old days with members of the fraternity here. They were entertained frequently and became popular with all the boys. Mr. Treacle says he is delighted to be a member of the fraternity to which his son belonged and in which he had so many friends.

To Teach With "Movies."

Lessons will be taught with moving pictures in the School of Engineering of the University. This device has not been used in classes at the University before. A new moving picture machine with a moving picture camera has been purchased for the Engineering Experiment Station. It will be used for class work only. The first use will be in connection with lectures of a general nature. Dean H. B. Shaw said:

"We bought the machine for use in demonstrating engineering processes. There are films, for example, showing the evolution of iron ore into the finished steel product. Such films as these will be of interest in our work and will give the student a clear vision of what he reads about.

"At first the machine will be used in connection with lectures and demonstrations of a general nature. It is quite probable, however, that it will come into use in the class room. There are many subjects that can be readily demonstrated with the machine."

A. Lincoln Hyde, assistant professor of bridge engineering, says the greatest value of the moving picture in educational work is that it supplements reading with visual images. Classes in engineering are taken to factories and mills for demonstrations, but in such work as that of the Panama Canal it is impossible to take the class to see the work. Here the motion picture can be used effectively.

"I think the moving picture will become a great factor in educational work. We expect to own a number of films of interest in our work. It will be possible for us to make many films. We hope to purchase others.

"There is no reason why the machine we have may not be used for other demonstrations than those of our department. It is only a question of getting the films."

Attend Theta Banquet.

The guests from out of town who attended the annual banquet of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority in Columbia February 12 were: Miss Pearl Pinkle, Waterloo, Iowa; Miss Anna Ruby Dillard, Sedalia, Mo.; Miss Anny Barck, St. Louis; Miss Peach Rogers, Springfield, Mo.

Law Building "Steamed."

The breaking of a steam pipe main in the Law Building February 11 caused the building to receive a "Turkish bath" inside. The pipe broke about 5 o'clock in the morning. The damage was not great, but the accident left the varnish sticky, wrinkled window shades, and damaged some book bindings. The break occurred immediately beneath the office of Dean E. W. Hinton, where the most injury was done.

Tigers Win 5, Lose 4.

In basketball this season the Tigers have won five and lost four Conference games. They lost three and won one from Ames, but these do not count in the championship series because in basketball the Conference is divided into two sections and Ames is in the northern division. The team returned February 20 from a ten-day trip on which they won four games and lost three.

Only two Conference games remain to be played; they are with Kansas in Columbia, February 26 and 27. The season's scores thus far are:

Missouri 18,	K. S. A. C. 31.
Missouri 27,	K. S. A. C. 34.
Missouri 29,	Washington 11.
Missouri 38,	Washington 13.
Missouri 25,	K. S. A. C. 24.
Missouri 12,	Kansas 22.
Missouri 20,	Kansas 34.
Missouri 23,	Washington 15.
Missouri 33,	Washington 31.

Is Phi Beta Kappa Speaker.

Dr. Paul Shorey, head of the Greek department of the University of Chicago, will deliver the annual Phi Beta Kappa address at the University this year. The date announced in the catalogue for the address is June 10, but the plan to have Stunt Week at Commencement time probably will necessitate a change in the day.

Bennett Clark Leaves M. U.

Bennett Clark, son of Speaker Champ Clark, left the University at the close of the first semester and will continue his law course at George Washington University in Washington, D. C. Mr. Clark was a senior in the College of Arts and Science and a junior in the School of Law here. It is understood he will be parliamentarian to his father in the next congress.

Million and a Half for M. U.

The University of Missouri will receive approximately one and one-half million dollars for the next biennial period if the appropriations bill which has been introduced in the lower house is passed by the General Assembly. The bill was introduced by O. H. Swearingen, '97, of Kansas City, chairman of the committee on appropriations. The amount is $1,417,500, of which $525,000 is to come from the general revenues and $892,500 from the inheritance tax fund. For the School of Mines at Rolla $249,000 is provided.

These buildings at Columbia are provided for in the bill:

Library Building (this building also to house the State Historical Society), $200,000.

Stock-judging pavilion, $25,000.

Biology Building, $100,000.

The bill provides $15,000 for equipment for the new Agricultural Chemistry Building and $8,000 for the School of Journalism. A specific appropriation of $25,000 is made for extension work.

The bill provides for a $45,000 appropriation for the fruit experimental station.

66 Courses by Correspondence.

The Extension Division of the University is now offering sixty-six correspondence courses. All receive credit towards the academic or education degree, except a few which apply on a two-year winter course certificate in agriculture. Several students who finished a regular term lacking only a few hours necessary to a degree are finishing their work by correspondence. Samuel D. Gromer, Pe.P.'83, S.B.Pe.'89, is secretary of the Extension Division.

IN ST. LOUIS

By LOUIS B. PORTNER

The first meeting of the St. Louis Alumni Association this year was held at the City Club February 6th, and was a rousing success. It seems that the new administration headed by Wm. T. Nardin, is determined to make a record in the way of arousing activity and enthusiasm among the local alumni. There were thirty-two alumni at the first meeting. It was determined to make the City Club, located at 9th and Locust streets, in the Board of Education Building, the permanent meeting place of the Alumni and that the Association avail itself of the use of a special dining-room there every Thursday from 12 until 1:30. A special invitation is extended to all visiting alumni and former students.

The All-Department stunt for Commencement week was discussed and approved by those present. An engineer moved that Commencement week be changed to St. Patrick's day in order to assure a larger attendance. It was also decided to hold the annual banquet early in the Spring, and a committee was appointed with William T. Gentry as chairman, to arrange for it. The banquet will be more of a popular nature than those of former years, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The second meeting was held February 13th and there were about twenty-five present. The same good spirit and enthusiasm which marked the first meeting was exhibited at this meeting.

There is no question but what these Alumni meetings can be productive of great good to the Missouri men in St. Louis, and it is only just that the efforts of those who manage these luncheons should be repaid by an attendance that justifies their work. If the standard set at the first two meetings of this year can be maintained, there will be no need for regret on this score, but it might be timely to insert here a word of urgent invitation so that every Missouri man will feel that it is incumbent upon him to attend these luncheons. As before stated, we want all visiting alumni, and former students to attend these luncheons where they will all get the "glad hand."

"Something Really Worth While."

The Alumnus: I am pleased to see the interest taken by many alumni, which is an indication that something really worth while is being developed. That the Alumnus has been permanently launched is my hope, because there is no other one thing that keeps our interest (Mrs. White was Lucille Farnham in school 1910-11) so centered around the "U."

GEORGE C. WHITE, '10.
Assistant professor in dairy husbandry,
University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

He's Holding Back Some News.

The Alumnus: I have just finished reading the January number, and I feel that I have had a nice visit in Columbia. I haven't been back since graduation in 1909, and with The Alumnus now a regular visitor I can keep posted on the news of Old Missou. Your question "Do you want to know when a classmate does something, etc." made me stop and think. I like to hear what the others of my class are doing, where they are living. The Alumnus is the best place to find out. If each one of us would write a few words about ourselves, just to tell others how we have turned the world up-side-down, I am sure no one would think us conceited. A man should practice what he preaches, so guess it's "up to me" to "deliver the goods." (Billy Sunday's in Columbus, and all kinds of slang are permissible).

The year 1909 seems a long way back. Since that time I have received an A.B. from Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio. I spent two years teaching agriculture and science in a Quaker Academy in Indiana. At present I am taking graduate work in rural economics at Ohio State University. I could tell you something more interesting (at least to myself), but will save that for some other time.

By the way, it was through The Alumnus that I learned A. P. Weiss, Missouri '10, was teaching here in Ohio State. Yesterday I looked him up and we had an interesting chat about old times.

ROBERT B. KINKEAD, B.S. Ag. '09.

"Lemonaders" Take Notice.

The Alumnus: Am mighty glad to get the magazine, but I always feel pretty badly when it arrives for it makes me want to be back in Columbia and power to make it a success.

HARRY E. SHEPHERD, '09.
Cashier Citizens State Bank, Seneca, Mo.

Tiger and Jayhawk, Lawyers.

The Alumnus: Beg to report that I ran for county attorney of Chase county last November and got the "whey" beat out of me. The thing which went farthest toward beating me was the fact that I got so few votes. Outside of that, I made a gallant race, "worthy of a Mis-sourian and a Democrat, suh!"

Have formed a partnership with Dudley Doolittle, congressman from the Fourth district. I furnish the spittoon and the book of anecdotes, and he provides the rest of the library. He is a K. U. product, but outside of that he is a fine chap.

WALTER J. GRESHAM, Law '11.
Cottonwood Falls, Kan.

Wonders How Grads. Did Without It.

The Alumnus: The second number of The Alumnus has not reached me, but I suppose my subscription was delayed because of the distance. The first and third numbers are both at hand, and what I can't see is how we have been managing to struggle along all these years without such a magazine.

Riley Receives Senior Journalists.

The seniors in the School of Journalism visited the newspaper offices in St. Louis in January. Here is how Oscar E. Riley, Journalism '11, in a letter to a friend in Columbia, told of the visit of the mere students (Riley is now reading copy on the Globe-Democrat):

"I had given up hope they were coming. But as I hung up my coat and hat Saturday night, someone said the 'trippers' from the University were due at 8 o'clock.

"The minutes dragged. In spare moments I righted my desk. Prof. Ankeney would be coming—in one corner I placed an artistic picture; Dean Williams also—in a conspicuous spot a dictionary appeared. But Dr. Martin and Prof. Powell came in early and checked their overcoats with me, and in the excitement I covered both picture and dictionary with the overcoats.

"Then they all swooped down on me.

I see it all as through a glass, darkly. But first came Siegel Mayer. I thought he was alone, but he stepped aside and there stood a crowd—just as curtains pull sideways on the platform when one is graduated from high school. In the center of the stage, well up front, was Mann, dapper as always. On his right stood Howard, the impressionable; on his left Birdsong, reform enthusiast. And, to complete the illusion I was on the highest mound in the shade of the column farthest west, emerged Hicklin and MacKay.

"I was introduced to a girl. So much excitement all in a bunch had robbed me of a few happy words I had memorized for such an occasion. But I had a friend. "Tactful Joe" Chasnoff brought me safely over the thin ice. Then Mr. Martin almost led me into where the ice had been, before it was carted to the ice house. Dean Williams came in, perhaps saving me an icy plunge. Brief word with him. Soon all had gone.

"On behalf of Kenton, Talley, Arnold, Chasnoff, Tindall, Hoelke, Smith, and myself, I wish you would thank them for the memories they revived and for the glimpse they afforded of college days—one of the happiest periods of life. Our colony welcomes permanent additions, too."

From the Philippines.

The Alumnus: I am interested in the University because it was the first to give me a degree. One of my ambitions was to be graduated from a state school, and Missouri was my choice from the time I landed in America, eight long years ago. I want always to remember her as my Alma Mater; I want to keep in touch with my classmates of 1909; and although I am writing this 12,000 miles away from you, I feel as though I am on the campus neath those massive Columns.

To me distance plays no part and race no difference. This will not sound very strange to those who knew me while in Columbia. I belong to no race; I am not of the Mongolian or the Caucasian race; I belong to the human race, a race that needs much enlightenment; above all I am a cosmopolitan. May the Cosmopolitan Club thrive successfully in every American university. When any of you happen to be blown across the ocean to our island home, you will find us poor; our hoard is small, but our hearts are full.

Some Missouri alumni are here: Dr. Ruskin Lhamon, '07, is assistant professor of anatomy in the Philippine Medical School; Dr. Gibson, formerly of M. U., is assistant professor of physiological chemistry; Dr. J. R. Pinion, '09, is first lieutenant, Medical Corps, Philippine Constabulary; C. P. Davenport, '10, is third lieutenant in the Constabulary. I am now assistant medical inspector in the Bureau of Health for the Islands and visiting surgeon for St. Paul's Hospital. After taking my M. D. degree at Northwestern University in 1910 I became house physician at the City and County Hospital, San Francisco; in 1911-12 I was surgeon for the Colorado, Syndicate and Keystone Mining companies.

100 Miles From a Railroad.

The Alumnus: We are out here in Central Oregon on a ranch 100 miles from a railroad, and only get our mail once a week unless we go eight miles after it. Things are pretty primitive here, but we will have some interesting experiences to relate when we do return to civilization.

My husband was a student in engineering at M. U. from '02 to '04 and assistant in shopwork during those years. He took his degree, B.S. in M.E., at Iowa in '08. We are always glad to hear from the University.

MRS. F. G. BAENDER.

We Don't Object the Least Bit.

The Alumnus: The Alumnus is good stuff—if I may be pardoned the slang.

DR. FLOYD B. RILEY, A.B.'04.
122 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Driver Beat K. U. Again.

The Alumnus: Our local Alumni Association, composed of "Shorty" Nelson and myself, make up in enthusiasm what we lack in numbers. We can boast of more luncheons than any other local—and a perfect attendance record at all of them. We meet every few days, and talk always veers around to the days at the 'Varsity.

By the way, good news—my team nosed out K. U. in basketball last Saturday night in a whirlwind finish, 41 to 40. It sho' feels good to do this.

W. L. DRIVER, '09.

Oh, the Prof. will don new duties,
And the Pres. his cares will doff,
When a Prof. becomes the prexy,
And the Pres. becomes a prof.

CLASS OFFICERS ELECTED

Below are given the class officers which have been selected through ballots mailed to the general secretary.

For reunions or other class activities, it is urged that alumni write to their class officers. The officers' names will be printed each month in the Notes of the Classes, and they are welcome to use the magazine for any communications to their classmates.

To save space the words "president," "vice-president," and "secretary-treasurer" have been omitted below. Figures are used this way: 1 meaning president, 2 vice-president, 3 secretary-treasurer.
