Do You Know

1. That Missouri University has a Memorial Union Building under construction?
2. That your Alma Mater is paying tribute to her 98 sons?
3. That you, Missouri alumnae, have pledged less than the sons and daughters of Wisconsin, Michigan, Georgia, Iowa, Texas, Purdue, and Indiana?—$136,000.
4. That the student body raised $191,000?
5. That the goal is $500,000?
6. That this is your opportunity to give a lasting gift to your Alma Mater?
7. Why do you hesitate?

For information write Mary Houk, Executive Secretary of Memorial Fund,

*Mid the hills of old Missouri
At the gateway of the West,
Stands our dear old Alma Mater,
Loved by all of us the best.*

*Gathered 'round her stately Columns,
Sweetest mem'rie e're will cling
Of the days when Alma Mater
Sheltered us beneath her wing.*

Do You Recall That Day in June

When, 'neath the shadow of the Columns, you and your Co-Ed planned the future that was to be yours to create?

Because she had enjoyed the same advantages as were yours, her helpful counsel, words of advice, and implicit confidence in you—made more certain your success.

There are many splendid young women who will not be able to enjoy the advantages of a University education, with the accompanying greater opportunities for helpfulness, because of the lack of sufficient funds.

FEBRUARY, 1923

COLUMBIA, MO.

The Co-eds Fifty Years Ago

Fifty years is a long way to look back. One absorbed in the present can scarcely realize the revolutions in thought and practice that have taken place in that length of time.

I distinctly recall the mental shock that was felt by many people in Missouri when the Act of the Legislature was passed making her State University co-educational. Severe criticisms from many quarters were made upon those who had labored to bring it about. Wise heads were shaken dubiously and dire predictions indulged in as to the consequences that would result from the Act.

Columbia herself was considerably stirred. She had in her midst two splendid colleges decoted exclusively to the education of girls. The beautifully secluded environment in which each of these colleges guarded and trained its students accorded perfectly with the ideals of "Woman's sphere" in life. It was one of the joys of Columbians—especially of the male portion—to see led through the street on Sunday mornings on their way to the College Churches the two graceful processions of well chaperoned maidens, peeping shyly from beneath pink or blue be-ribboned sun bonnets, designed to protect the mfrom too rude a gaze of the outside world. Was this dream of fair women now to disappear before a race of "Blue Stockings" sitting barefooted in the class room with men and straining their minds upon the same problems the male students were laboring to solve?

Surely no loyal Columbian, at least, would encourage the new departure. When it was rumored that my sister and I, granddaughters of one of the founders of the town, were to be enrolled by our parents at the opening session I remember that friends of my mother's from some of the first families of the town, came to reason with her and to warn her, and the president of one of the women's colleges, probably thinking that financial reasons alone induced her decision kindly came and offered her free tuition for her daughters in his college that she might refrain from setting such a bad example in the town.

Nevertheless, on that fateful day in September when the University bell rang for the beginning of the first term under the new system, my sister and I were among the small number of girls—most of them from out of town—whose timid feet crossed over the line, and began to blaze the trail for higher education of women in the West.

The President of the University at that time, Daniel B. Read, who brought the idea to the attention of the State and was its most enthusiastic advocate, never ventured at first to open the actual doors of the University building itself to us, but we were assigned to a corner of the campus remote from that beautiful and sacred citadel, in a frame building remarkable only for lack of beauty or convenience.

This was known as the Normal building and was presided over by Prof and Mrs. E. L. Ripley who were to be our directors and chaperons. Here, men students from the Preparatory department, (which then existed in connection with the University) and those students taking the Normal Course were sent down to be instructed in the same classes with us, and here, to our joy, came some of the finest professors of the University to conduct some of the classes. What students of that day will ever forget Prof. Oren Root, or his ringing voice as he lectured on literature and history! Narrow wall no longer held us, and unattractive surroundings were forgotten as he carried us in imagination through scenes of beauty and romance and sent us hunting through libraries with a new interest in books. Miss Mary B. Read, gifted daughter of the President of the University, and instructor of Modern languages in the institution, gave us even better things than the German or French she so splendidly taught. We all wanted to be like her—"A perfect woman nobly planned," beautiful to look upon, and as modest and gracious as she was beautiful.

Attendance at Chapel for morning devotions had always been compulsory upon the men students and professors. As our term advanced, it dawned upon the Faculty that their prayers and Bible readings would be helpful to the girls also, so it was decided that we be permitted to attend. Accordingly we were formed into a line at the Normal building, and, with Professor Ripley at the head and Mrs. Ripley forming the rear guard, we began another advance upward, and passed under the great columns and into the august building—not to be seated, however, on the same floor with the men, but given a place in the gallery above. There, with becoming modesty we sat with downcast eyes—upon the student body below—while the prayers and scripture lessons went on to the edification of our souls.

The resourceful Professor Ripley shortly organized us into a choir, and a new feature was added to the Chapel exercises as our suppressed emotions found outlet in song. Tenors and basses in the audience below trembled to make the harmony complete and from one and another there came up a cry to our leader,

"O, may I join the choir invisible," or if not in the poet's exact words, in others just as appealing, for the request was granted, and an avenue of intercourse was established both pleasing and profitable. Frequent meetings for choir practice were quite necessary for its members, and in this way some friendships began between the boys and girls which were lasting ones.

Opportunities for social development in the early days at the University were meagre indeed compared to the free and easy intercourse of today. What social life there was at that time was conducted with more or less formality. If a man desired to make a call upon one of the girls or to escort her to one of the "Open Sessions" at the Women's colleges or the University which by the way, furnished at that time, the chief entertainment of the town, he wrote her a formal note presenting his compliments and "soliciting the pleasure." This was dispatched by a bare-footed colored lad, who waited leisurely on the doorstep of the girl while she penned a like formal reply. Girls in that day did not speak to each other of their "dates" but the eager question was, "Did you get a card?" and our attitude was always one of watchful waiting for the same, whenever a social occasion loomed ahead.

The first society organized by the girls at the University was a literary one which we named the "Jean Ingelson Society" in honor of the greatest woman poet then living. We ventured to send a letter across the sea to her telling who we were and why we had named our society for her. We were greatly thrilled some weeks afterward by receiving a note from her acknowledging the compliment and enclosing an autographed verse, which we framed and kept hung on the wall of the room in which we were permitted to meet. The words of this verse come again to memory as I write,

"Oh can this be my own world?
'Tis all gold and snow,
Save where scarlet waves are hurled
Down yon gulf below!"
" 'Tis my world! 'Tis thy world!
City, field, and shore,
For he that hath his own world
Hath many worlds more."

Whatever the poet may have meant by these lines, we found in them no end of inspiration—probably because they seemed to voice our realization of the new world opening to us, and our duty to find out and establish our right relation to it. A second society for girls was shortly after organized, called the Castalian, and was sponsored by Mrs. Ripley. There were no sororities introduced at the University until after my time.

The first girl to be graduated from the Normal School was Miss Lula Gillette then of Hannibal, Mo., and the second was Miss Eliza Gentry, now Mrs. C. A. Young of Kansas City. Both of these young women went forth immediately to fill important positions in the educational world.

The girls who elected to take the full academic course of the University and who were now ready for the upper classes were so few in number that it was not practicable longer to send instructors down to them, so we were given the privilege of men to go direct from the home or boarding place to the class rooms at the University which fact shows how prejudice was fast wearing away. We did this without any embarrassment whatever. The professors welcomed us cordially and our men class mates treated us always with the greatest gallantry and respect.

The faculty of the University was not large but had in it many able scholars and great teachers. It would be a great privilege even in the best colleges of today to study mathematics under a Joseph Ficklin, or to receive daily inspiration in the classroom from such a fascinating author, lecturer and great teacher as James K. Hosmer.

The first woman to complete the full University course was Miss Anna Ware, who received the B. S. degree in '72. I had the privilege of being graduated the year following receiving also the B. S. degree and, like Miss Ware, being the only girl in a large class of men.

By this time opinion throughout the State was adjusting itself rapidly to the new idea. Two girls had finished the University course laid out for the men. Others were making creditable progress in the undergraduate classes, and none of the calamities predicted at the start had come to pass. The women did not become mannish; they did not break down in health; nor did the University course have to be lowered to accommodate them. Instead, some of the highest competitive prizes were won at the very start by the women students. I remember that Miss Ware won the prize given in the study of Constitutional and International Law; Eliza Gentry won the Oren Root history prize; and even a London paper of that day copied the item that the highest Greek prize at the University of Missouri was won by a woman, Miss Julia Ripley.

Missouri had to be shown, and seeing was believing. The first girl graduates of the University have a right to be proud that the trail they blazed, in the face of so many discouragements, has grown into a beautiful avenue of privileges for the girls of today. It is a challenge to them to "carry on," more ably for,

"The best is yet to be—"

The end of life for which the first was made."

Another important door has recently been opened to the women of the country. Missouri again looks to her educated women to show her that, not a calamity, but a higher and nobler service to the home and the State, is to be the result.

Mrs. Sarah Gentry Elston, who wrote the above article, was formerly Miss Sarah Jane Gentry, B. S. '73, M. S. '76. Her home in Columbia was on the site of the present Y. M. C. A. Building. A fellow student of Mrs. Elston's was Eugene Field,

Dr. George Lefevre Dies

Dr. George Lefevre, chairman of the department of zoology of the University for 24 years, died at his home at 703 Maryland Place at about 7 o'clock January 24, following a brief illness with a cold which developed into pneumonia. He was 53 years old.

Doctor Lefevre is survived by his wife; his 5-year-old son, George Lefevre, Jr.; two brothers, Dr. Albert Lefevre of the University of Virginia, and Arthur Lefevre, Houston, Tex.; and a niece, Mrs. Horton Blackman of St. Louis.

The funeral services were held at the home at 3 o'clock, the next afternoon. Burial was in Columbia Cemetery.

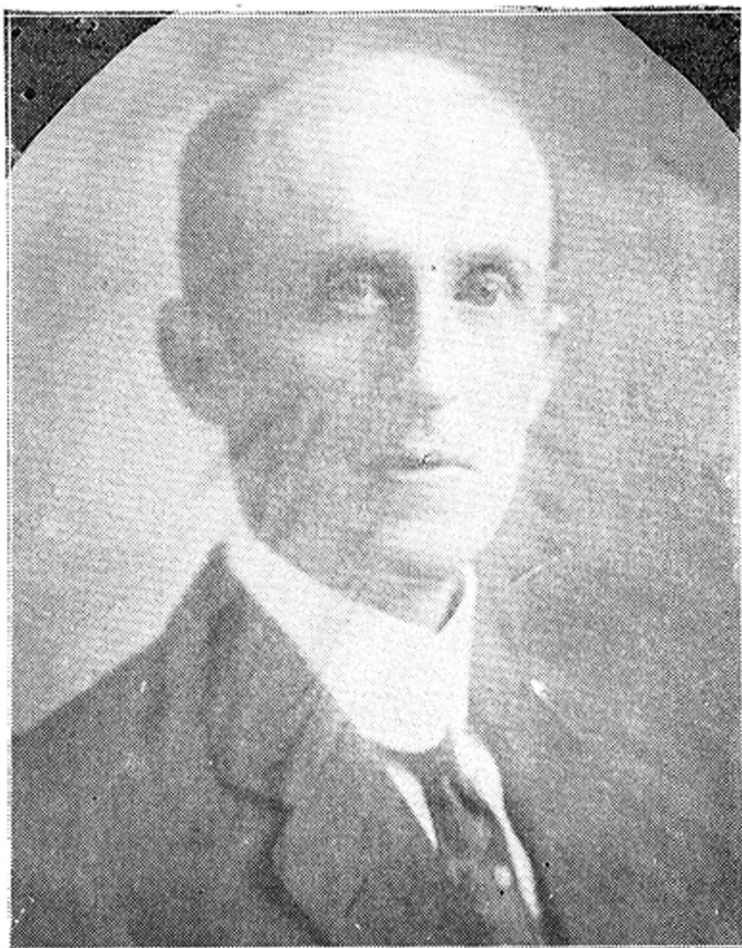

Dean Walter Miller, acting president of the University, announced Thursday that all University exercises would be suspended at 2:45 o'clock Friday afternoon that students and professors might attend the funeral of Doctor Lefevre.

The active pallbearers were: Dr. Guy L. Noyes, Dr. Max Meyer, Prof. W. G. Manly, Dean Walter Miller, Dr. Dan G. Stine, Prof. W. C. Curtis, Prof. O. M. Stewart and Dean Isidor Loeb. The honorary pallbearers were: President J. C. Jones, Prof. N. M. Trenholme, Prof. H. M. Reese, Prof. H. M. Belden, Prof. A. H. R. Fairchild, Prof. Jonas Viles, C. B. Miller, Prof. T. S. Barclay, and Henry S. McQueen.

Doctor Lefevre came to the University in 1899 and since then has taken a leading part in the growth and development of the institution. He had served as a member of the most important committees of the faculty and had taken an active part in the administrative work and in intellectual leadership. He was spoken of by members of the faculty, who have been associated with him for nearly a quarter of a century, as a man of the highest honor and strong personality.

Dr. W. C. Curtis of the department of zoology who has been associated with Doctor Lefevre for many years, said:

"As a graduate student and assistant in zoology at the Johns Hopkins University from 1891 to 1898, Professor Lefevre was regarded as one of the most brilliant men who had ever been enrolled in that institution. This early promise was more than justified by his subsequent career. His colleagues throughout the country admired his keen intelligence and his gifted personality."

His associates on the University faculty Thursday in expressing their sorrow at his death spoke of him as being the most stimulating of men and a charming social companion. The imprint of his wonderful personality and brilliant intelligence is indelibly stamped upon all with whom he was associated in the University of Missouri and elsewhere.

Among the members of the staff of the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass., as well as among the faculty of the University of Missouri, he was one of the most respected men in either institution. Under his leadership the department of zoology here attained a high reputation for honest work and esprit de corps. The Biology Building was the creation of his mind more than of any one man, for during its construction he was the one most relied upon by the administration, the architect and the departments of botany and zoology.

In the University at large, Doctor Lefevre probably had a more important role in influencing policies than any member of the faculty not an administrative officer. For almost twenty-five years he had been an efficient member of important committees, particularly in recent years, including those on budget, educational policy and public exercises. He was also editor of the University of Missouri Studies and a member of the University Council. "His opinions were regarded highly and it was often a matter of comment that one could disagree with him most decidedly without a shadow of personal animus. He recently said to a friend with whom he had fought many a verbal battle and with whom he in general disagreed, "With me, agreement is no test of friendship."

Doctor Lefevre was born in Baltimore, September 16, 1869. He was the son of Jacob Amos Lefevre, a Presbyterian minister. He received his college training at Johns Hopkins University, later holding two fellowships and receiving his Ph. D. degree. After serving as instructor there and at the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass., he came to the University of Missouri as chairman of the department of zoology.

Doctor Lefevre has contributed to many American and German zoological journals and has made extensive investigations in his subject. He spent much time and effort upon investigations of artificial propagation of the pearl button mussel for the United States Bureau of Fisheries. He also published papers of importance along the line of Genetics, Cytology and Tunicata.

He has been secretary of the staff of Investigation of the Marine Biological Laboratories since 1913 and a member of the Board of Trustees since 1909. He was a member of the American Society of Zoology, the American Society of Naturalists, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Beta Kappa, and Sigma Xi.

Following is a copy of resolution from the Alumni Association of Washington, D. C., relative to the death of Dr. George Lefevre. Space does not permit the publication of all the resolutions. This is only one of the many resolutions that were received from Alumni Association all over the country.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

RESOLVED, That the University of Missouri Alumni Association of Washington, D. C. has heard with profound sorrow of the death of Dr. George Lefevre, late a professor of Zoology, University of Missouri.

RESOLVED, That as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased; as a tribute to his high character and distinguished service to the cause of science and to the University of Missouri, that the Secretary communicate a copy of these resolutions to the Alumni Recorder, University of Missouri, and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased.

(Signed) WALT MANDRY,
President.

University of Missouri Alumni Association.

JACOBINA BRANDENBURGER
Secretary-Treasurer.

The following is a letter from just one alumnus, Geddes W. Rutherford of Grinnell (Ia.) College. Many were the letters received of this nature showing the high esteem in which the alumni held Dr. Lefevre.

Mr. R. L. Hill,
Alumni Recorder,
University of Missouri,
Columbia, Missouri.

My dear Hill:

The death of Doctor Lefevre has moved all alumni and alumnae who knew of his sterling manhood and fine scholarship. It seems to me that it would be fitting for the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association acting of course in behalf of the alumni and alumnae, to formulate a fitting memorial expressing the deeply felt loss of Doctor Lefevre to the former students and to the University. I believe this statement should be presented to Mrs. Lefevre, that it should be spread on the minutes of the Alumni Association, and that it should be printed in the Alumnus.

I am quite sure that alumni and alumnae, far and wide, would heartily approve of the action of the Executive Committee in this direction.

Very truly yours,

GEDDES W. RUTHERFORD

Many Alumni Here Farmers' Week.

Over 2,500 were registered during Farmers' Week in Columbia, Jan. 15-19. The largest banquet that the College of Agriculture has ever given during Farmers' Week closed the week's program in Rothwell Gymnasium. Nine hundred and thirty-two persons were there including Governor Arthur M. Hyde and about seventy-five members of the 52d General Assembly, some of them accompanied by their wives. The Legislators and their families were brought to Columbia the morning of the 19th in motor cars from Jefferson City to be the guests of Columbia and the University and attend the Farmers' Week banquet. They returned to Jefferson City that night.

F. B. Mumford, Dean of the College of Agriculture was toast master of the banquet. The speakers included President J. C. Jones, Governor Arthur M. Hyde, William R. Painter, President pro tem of the Senate; Oak Hunter, '98, speaker of the House of Representatives; W. B. McGregor, representative of Linn County and Chairman of the House appropriations committee; Al Crawford, representative from Macon County and President of the Missouri Farm Clubs; J. Dal Swiers, representative of Christian County; B. F. Boland, President of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation; Miss Sarah L. Turner, representative in the Legislature from Jackson County; F. H. Hopkins, representative from Atchison County; Mrs. M. T. Smith, representative from St. Louis County; Jewell Mayes, Secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture; Sherman V. Houston, President of the Missouri Live Stock Producers' Association; and D. L. Bales, representative from Shannon County.

Many of the alumni and former students of the University visited in Columbia during the week. The seniors of the College of Agriculture headed by Prewitt B. Turner, President of the Ag Club, gave a luncheon at the Daniel Boone Tavern on Jan. 17 for the alumni who were Farmers' Week visitors. One hundred alumni and former students and seniors attended. George W. Catts, B. S. in Agr. '17, Agricultural Commissioner of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce was toast master and he did a mighty good job of it. Speeches were made by Pres. J. C. Jones; Dr. H. J. Waters, formerly Dean of the College of Agriculture and formerly President of the Kansas Agricultural College, now editor of the Weekly Kansas City Star; Dean F. B. Mumford; Prewitt B. Turner; John F. Case, President of the State Board of Agriculture and member of the University Board of Visitors; Jewell Mayes, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture; Ira D. Mullinax, A. B. '03, Field Editor of the Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat, St. Louis; and Coulton M. Becker, B. S. in C. E.

Echoes From the Tiger Camp

Past, Present and Future Dope

Yes,—We Lost Once, But Wait.

Well,—they beat us all right, that is the score was 21 to 19 in the Jayhawk's favor when the time keeper's gun roared, but that doesn't tell the whole story.

The entire game was a riot, thrill upon thrill brought yells of applause and cheer after cheer from the audience. Both Tiger and Jayhawk played with an intense earnestness that kept the Tiger rooters tense with excitement.

The first half was a regular whirlwind of action by both teams and ended with the score tied, 6 to 6. In the second half Missouri started of with a leap and before the Jayhawk was well aware of it, had built up a lead which made it seem safe enough, to the stands. The Jayhawk then turned the tables with an attack that literally seemed to overwhelm the Tigers. A number of long shots and free throws and they had crept to a tie. A miraculously long and accurate field goal by Bowman and a free throw by Ackerman established a lead that the Tigers were fighting like demons to overcome when the final whistle blew and made the game history.

It was not a defeat to be downcast over, only the fact that it was Kansas made us blue. Referee Quigley, that true-blue sportsman, stated that it was one of the fastest, cleanest games he had ever officiated in. There was excessive fouling, due to the fast snappy play of both teams, but no more than was to be expected under the circumstances.

Capt. Browning, as usual, starred for Mizzou, making 11 of the 19 points. His floor work and shooting were beautiful to see. Ackerman, a sophomore, was the Jayhawk star, making 11 of their 21 points. The play of both teams was splendid both on offense and defense. Bunker and Hayes did some exceptional guarding at times.

Missouri and Kansas seem to have everything much their own way in the Valley basketball race and the fight for the championship narrows down to another chapter in the ancient Tiger-Jayhawk feud.

"Bun" Browning is carrying off the point making honors with his usual dash and fight. To date he has a total of 150 points, 49 in field goals and 52 free throws. This almost

We get one more chance at the Jayhawk,— on February 28. All the Tigers will say concerning that game is,—“Wait till we play 'em.” It will be February 28 at Lawrence, and will probably decide whether the Valley will see a tie for first place this year or not. Garrity Has Resigned.

Another puzzling angle in the football coach problem has been presented to Director Clevenger with the resignation of Henry Garrity, head baseball coach and assistant football coach, who has accepted an offer to become head football coach and athletic director of the Wake Forest College at Raleigh, N. C.

Garrity was brought here last fall upon the recommendation of W. W. (“Bill”) Roper, coach of the Princeton team on which “Hank” played in '21. Garrity worked as assistant under Tom Kelly until Kelly resigned in the middle of the season and then became a member of the coaching staff which also included Z. G. Clevenger, “Chuck” Lewis and Bill Dunckel. It was this group which coached the Tigers for their decisive defeats of Washington and Kansas in the last two games of the season.

Since Kelly's resignation no definite solution of the coaching problem has been reached. For a time a tentative working agreement had been reached, or at least considered, whereby Z. G. Clevenger would become head coach, assisted by Garrity and Dunckel, while "Chuck" Lewis would go to Princeton for the first few weeks of the season, work under "Bill" Roper, and then return to Mizzou with the necessary knowledge to back up the Princeton system which Garrity and Dunckel were to use.

Whether this plan will be continued or not, or whether some other one will be substituted lies with the athletic committee. It is thought that some plan has already been decided on but as yet it has not been made public.

Garrity will remain here through the spring and summer to coach Varsity baseball. It is understood that he received a considerable increase in salary from the Wake Forest College.

1923 Tiger's Prey Is Listed.

Alumni should hail with delight the news that five of the eight football games that have been scheduled for the Tigers next fall will be played in Columbia.

The list of 1923 games was completed on January 11 when Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director, received a long distance call from A. W. Briggs, coach and athletic director of the Southwest Missouri State Teachers College at Springfield, saying that his team would meet the Tigers here on October 6.

Five games at home means four opportunities to see the team in action besides the big game on Homecoming Day, November 10.

This is the schedule:

October 6, Springfield Normal at Columbia.

October 13, Ames at Columbia.

October 20, St. Louis University at St. Louis.

October 27, Nebraska at Columbia.

November 3, Kansas Aggies at Columbia.

November 10, Oklahoma at Columbia (HOMECOMING GAME)

November 17, Washington University at St. Louis.

November 29, Kansas at Lawrence.

Tigers Face Hard Track Schedule.

Confronted by a stiff schedule, Coach Bob Simpson is slowly but surely whipping his track team into point winning condition. Although the material this year is somewhat below that of other years in number of point winners and letter men, the team will no doubt turn in some surprising scores before the season is ended.

Simons is the only veteran sprinter out. Capt. Evans, Ruark, Schnebly, Utz, Schemmer, Terry and Hill are out for the quarter mile. It is from this group that the mile relay team will be chosen. Evans also runs the 220 with Simons.

Trowbridge, Brasfield, Island, Stark, Meeker, and Pittenger make up the milers and half milers. In the weights Etter, Franklin, Ogle, Smith (football captain-elect), Graham, Keifer, Sutton and Surface are out daily. Bunker may be spared from the basketball squad long enough to enter some of the meets, also.

Sinz, letter winner in 1921, Stewart and Donohue, a product of last year's freshman team are out for the pole vault. Waddell, who was next to Brutus Hamilton as high point winner for Mizzou last year, Chauncey Simpson, Utz, Lyons, Cunningham and Bond, of football fame, are our best bets as hurdlers. Chauncey Simpson, Bob's younger brother, is also doing well in the broad jump. Reid and Bransford, both newcomers to the squad, and Waddell, are high jumping in fine form.

It is probable that five relay teams will be sent to the Drake and Kansas Relays this year—quarter mile, half mile, mile, two mile and four mile teams. While it is too early to forecast any results for the season it is likely that, with hard work and training, we will fare as well if not better than we did last year. It wouldn't be the most surprising thing in the world if we spoiled K. U.'s party at their own relays on April 21.

The track schedule is as follows:

Indoor

Feb. 17—K. C. A. C. meet at Kansas City.

March 3—Illinois Relays.

March 9—K. U. at Kansas City.

March 24—Missouri Valley Conference at Kansas City.

Outdoor

April 21—Kansas Relays at Lawrence.

April 28—Drake Relays.

May 5—Kansas Aggies at Columbia, High School Day.

May 12—Oklahoma at Columbia.

May 19—Kansas at Lawrence.

May 25-26—Missouri Valley Conference at Ames.

June 1-2—Western Conference at Ann Arbor.

State High School Cage Tourney.

The high school basketball teams of Missouri will compete at the University of Missouri March 9 and 10 for the state cage championship in the annual tournament which is held under the auspices of Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director. Some thirty or more teams have already entered the tourney, which promises this year to be the largest yet held. The team winning the state championship will be awarded the Thomas E. Wilson trophy, while members of first and second place teams in each of the three divisions will be awarded watch charm trophies.

Division of the tourney into three classes instead of two is expected to do much to improve the class of basketball. More equal competition and fewer games to reach the final rounds are assured, and this feature alone has already brought in a larger number of entries.

The tournament offers a splendid opportunity for alumni of the University scattered over the state to send athletic material to the University. Many schools with good basketball teams will not enter the tourney because of the expense involved in sending the team to Columbia. A little effort on the part of alumni and local business men could remedy this situation, give the boys the trip, their school a great deal of the right kind of publicity, and help the University.

It will be well worth the while of every high school boy in the state to be here for the tourney. The teams are entertained by the University, rooms and meals furnished, will be shown through the University, will see the 1923 Tigers in action in an exhibition game against the freshmen, and, all in all, will have a big two days whether they win a place in the final round of the tourney or not.

Mr. Alumnus, get busy. Find out if the high school team in your town is coming to Columbia March 9 and 10. If not, why not? The boys are entitled to the trip, and you, as an alumnus, should have them here.

News From Alumni Centers— Patterson Heads N. Y. Assn.

N. Y. Alumni Have "Bob Hill Nite."

Edwin W. Patterson, LL.B., '11, formerly of Kansas City, was elected president of the New York Alumni Association at a dinner given on "Bob Hill Night", January 29, at Stage Door Inn, 43 West 47th street. Russel M. Bandy, B. J. '15, was elected secretary, carrying with it an elevation to the presidency one year hence. Bandy is from Columbia.

Patterson announced his policy as including the promotion of good fellowship at, and outside of, the alumni dinners. He said he stood for cooperation with other alumni associations and with the University.

Bob Hill, alumni recorder, was the guest of the evening. Twenty minutes after stepping off the train from Columbia, with Mrs. Hill, he was busy at work pointing out features in the film, "The Mirror of Old Mizzou" which was being filmed in the Famous Players projection room at 485 Fifth Avenue. Then he led the parade to the Stage Door Inn, where young women, temporarily out of stage work, checked the hats and coats and afterward acted as hostesses at the tables where there was served one of those meals for which New York is famous.

Bob told of the enrollment of the University, of the feats of athletes on the field and in winning Phi Beta Kappa honors, of the scholarship given by the Missouri Women's Club of New York and of the visit made by legislators to Columbia on Friday of Farmers' Week. Then he answered queries about alumni friends of those present at the dinner.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Bandy, Mr. and Mrs. C. Heckler, Miss Henshaw and her mother, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kinyon, Dr. and Mrs. Bert Munday and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Riley, Mrs. Ivie MacCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Walmsley, and Messrs. Carter Alexander, Frank H. Birch, Homer Croy, Morris Ory, Will Findlay, O. R. Guyere, Frank F. B. Houston, Marquis Lockwood, Frank M. Lowe, Jr., Dr. H. P. Marley, Paul C. Morton, Oliver E. Saylor, Jackson V. Scholz, Sterling Thompson and Vincent W. Vandiver.

Washington D. C. Alumni Party.

The Washington D. C. Alumni Association of the University of Missouri held its annual meeting on Tuesday night, January 30, in the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. where the room and operator for the motion picture projector were furnished free by the Washington D. C. Y. M. C. A.

"The Mirror of Old Mizzou," the picture taken of the Homecoming exercises and Missouri-Kansas football game on last Thanksgiving, were shown. Talks were made by President Walt Mandry, John S. Hornback, Earl B. Smith, Carter Alexander, and Miss Ilena Bailey. Joe Simpich, a student of the University, and one of the most noted of the Missouri world war heroes, attended the meeting. He was in Washington representing the student body of the University of Missouri in an effort to have Colonel W. E. Persons, in charge of the R. O. T. C. Unit at the University of Missouri, retained for another four year period. Colonel Persons' first four year assignment expires in April.

Bob Hill, alumni recorder, and his wife, attended the meeting. Bob told of the activities of the University now and interjected remarks about the motion pictures as they were shown.

Since this was the annual meeting of the Washington D. C. alumni, officers were elected for 1923 as follows: president, Walt Mandry; vice-president F. C. Hilder; secretary-treasurer, Miss Jacobbena Brandenberger; corresponding-secretary, Miss Louise Marbut; directors, Miss Ilena Bailey, P. C. Alexander and Miss Lola L. Scruttsfield.

Many of the Washington alumni were unable to attend the meeting because of so many other engagements of the city and because many of them were out of town. Volney McFadden took Joe Simpich in charge during Joe's stay in Washington. President Walt Mandry and all the officers were re-elected for 1923 and were given a standing vote of appreciation for their work during 1922.

Walt Mandry and John Hornback are law partners in Washington. Professor Marbut was unable to attend the meeting account of illness but three of his children attended. Professor Marbut has a son, Martin, in the University now. Another son, Fisk, is with the Missouri State Highway Commission.

Chas. G. Ross, Washington correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, was busy practicing for the Gridiron Banquet program and was unable to attend the meeting.

Forest S. Lyman was in Washington on business on the night of the meeting and enjoyed the "Mirror of Old Mizzou." Floyd L. Kelso, Ardmore, S. Dak., general superintendent U. S. Department of Agriculture, attended also.

The Washington D. C. Alumni Association expressed appreciation of the work being done by the members of the Board of Curators and by President Jones and passed resolutions expressing regret over the death of Dr. George Lefevre.

COLE COUNTY ALUMNI

The following story appeared in the Capital News, of Jefferson City, January 28:

Thomas Lawson Price was elected President of the Cole County Alumni and former student association of the University of Missouri at a banquet held last evening at the Central Hotel. The other officers chosen were: Ben F. Seward, Vice President, and Paul Schmidt, Secretary-Treasurer.

The organization was an enthusiastic success in every way. There were approximately 50 former students and alumni of the University present. There were numerous members present who attended the University over twenty years ago. The majority, however, attended within the last ten years.

The principal speaker of the evening was John Carleton Jones, the President of the University of Missouri. President Jones spoke on the present situation of the University, its financial problems and the amount allotted it by the State Legislature as compared to sister states, the future outlook and what it promises for the institution, the benefit of the University to the farmer and to each community in the State.

President Jones was followed on the program by Merrill Otis, Assistant Attorney General, who recalled

Subscription to the Alumnus is $3 a year. Changes of address should be received by the Missouri Alumnus before the fifteenth of the month to insure prompt delivery of the magazine for that month.

Checks, drafts and money orders should be made payable to the Missouri Alumnus and all business correspondence should be so addressed. Address all news items to the Managing editor of the Missouri Alumnus, 114 Jesse Hall, Columbia, Mo.

Let's Have a "Parents' Day."

"Parents' Day", similar to Dad's Day and Mother's Day at other institutions, was started at the University of Missouri last spring. Unfortunately those in charge of making Parents' Day a success did not organize properly and as a result the day was not as successful as it should have been.

Parents' Day can be made one of the most outstanding events of the school year at the University. It can be made an institution itself. It can be made just as valuable an asset to the University as is Journalism Week, Farmers' Week, Engineers' Week, Ministers' Week or Medical Week.

Parents of the boys and girls enrolled in the University should be given an opportunity to visit the institution in the springtime of every year. An appealing invitation should be sent to the parents of the students to come to Columbia and visit the University; to imbibe some of the University spirit; see the manner in which classes are conducted and watch the daily life as their sons and daughters live it while going to school.

Think what this would mean to have the parents of the students see the University; its buildings; equipment; to meet the teachers, and acquire a feeling of being part of the institution. Think what it would mean to the State Education System for these parents to go back to their respective homes and talk in a constructive way for education. Parents' Day should have the unstinted cooperation of every member of the faculty and of every student in the University and of every citizen of Columbia and of all the alumni.

Still Working on the Song Book.

The material for the University of Missouri song book is being compiled. The school has never had a song book that included all the University songs, both words and music. The alumni all over the county have been requesting that such a book be published. They want a University of Missouri song book for their homes; one that can be placed in the high schools of the state of Missouri and one that can be used for alumni gatherings.

Catering to the desires of the alumni, the Alumni Association has sponsored publication for the University of Missouri song book. The material already gathered for the book includes all the University songs, all the yells and an effort has been made to secure the words and music of one song from each of the sororities, fraternities and other organizations on the campus. It is no easy task to get this much material together.

Following is a list of the names of the songs that have been compiled for the book, also a list of the yells: "Old Missouri," "Mid the Hills of Old Missouri," "I'm a Son of Old Mizzou," "Down at the Athens of Old Mizzou," "Missouri-l-oury-i-a!" "Song of the Missouri Waters," "Tiger Song," "What's the Matter With Old Mizzou," "A Hot Time in Tiger Town," "My Son Lou," "The Tiger-town Gang," "The Tiger Walk," "The 'Miss' in Missouri," "Campus Moon," "Anyone from Missouri," "When I get Back to M. S. U.," "Castle of Dreams," "Alma Mater of Mine," "St. Patrick Was an Engineer," "Alumni Song," "March Time," "Eskimotoring" from the Breeze Bug, "I'm a Sampler," "Gypsy Jean," "Put and Take," "Four Little Puppets," "Of You," "When Cupid Plays the Two of Hearts," "Woo Me—Come Woo Me," "Under Luna's Looney Light," "Lavender Lou," "Your College Life Is A Dream Life," "How'd You Like to Have," etc., "I've Been Working On the Railroad," "I Had a Dream Dear," "Dear Old College Days," "Dixie," (everybody up for the kick-off), "Star Spangled Banner," "America," "My Bonnie," "Auld Lang Syne," "Good Night Ladies," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Juanita," "Every True Song," Farmers' Follies Songs.

Yells: "Old K. U.," "Yea Tigers," "Locomotive," "The Dutchman," "Hang the Jay Hawk," "The Gang's All Here," "Missouri," Academic, Engineers, Lawyers, Medics, Journalists, Farmers, "Farmers' Song," "Germany Land," "Varsity," "The Jay Hawk," "The Growler," "Eat 'Em Up Tigers," "Yea, Tigers," "The 1914."

Doubtless there are other songs that the alumni want included in this list, perhaps there are some yells that have been overlooked. Please Consider this an urgent request that all the alumni check the list carefully and write the office of the alumni recorder at once your suggestions as to additional songs and yells to be included in the publication, and to send any ideas that will help to make the publication of the Missouri song book an attractive one.

Keep Up the Good Work.

The County Alumni Associations in the state of Missouri have been doing excellent work for the University since their organization. Too much commendation cannot be given them. Their interest in the University of Missouri, especially in seeing that the University secures sufficient appropriations, has been splendid.

Many County Alumni Associations are holding monthly meetings at which they have prominent speakers. The newspaper men of their respective counties are always invited to attend the alumni meetings and, as a result, the newspapers of the state have been unusually kind in advocating constructive educational measures.

The motion pictures of Missouri University scenes and activities, which were taken by the motion picture camera, presented to the University of Missouri by the Alumni Association, have met with approval everywhere they have been shown. There has been a great demand for the pictures,—greater than we ever anticipated. For instance the pictures that were taken Home Coming Day, when Missouri defeated Kansas at football, is booked up for weeks in advance. Motion pictures are being taken on the campus and made up in news reels for showing at alumni meetings and these too, are very popular. They are also being shown in high schools of the state and Commercial Club meetings with success.

Many of the County Alumni Associations are entertaining the high school seniors of their county at dinners or dinner dances,—one or two each year. Several of the Associations have a scheme of looking after the high school seniors, urging them to go on and take a college course. Some help to finance those who are in need. The matter of scholastic standing is coming in for more and more attention on the part of the alumni.

A few of the Associations have plans to raise money for county scholarships to be offered to students who are going to enroll in the University. These scholarships amount to $250, in most cases, and this certainly is going to be one of the best things that has been undertaken by the County Alumni Association.

An Appeal From St. Louis.

ILL-PAID UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

That attacks on the state university are made in the Legislature and that bills are introduced hampering it in divers ways is not a cause for particular alarm. An attitude thus hostile is common in every state which has a university of any prestige.

But if our critics of university regimes and features are at least as active as those of other states, are Missouri supporters of higher learning under the state's own auspices as tireless and aggressive as those elsewhere and are they represented in equal strength in the General Assembly? It seems not. A sad neglect somewhere is indicated by comparisons of singular illumination. Of the faculty members at Columbia less than eighty receive more than $3000 a year, a merely conventional salary in the successful business enterprises of the present. About eighty more receive from $2000 to $3000 and ninety others from $1000 to $2000. The average for the entire faculty is $3,454 for each—nearly $1500 less than the average at Illinois University and nearly $1000 less than the average at Iowa University. If our average is only $320 less than that at Nebraska

University and $42 less than at Kansas University, we may remember that $320 and even $42 means much to those of the teaching profession under existing conditions. At the legislative hearing at Jefferson City, J. C. Jones, president of our state university, spoke of material faculty losses due to the small pay. More such losses will impend unless the scale of compensation is increased. Those faithful professors who have stuck to Missouri despite the pay attraction of fields just as useful elsewhere should be rewarded. Such devoted loyalty ought to find able champions in the Legislature.

Every farm "bloc" legislator should acquaint himself with what the university is doing for agriculture. The soundest, most effective assistance for farmers is given in support for work of this special value. Federal agricultural agencies are remote and indirect. The state agricultural colleges are in close touch with the farmers of their jurisdiction and afford direct, near-by, and most substantial assistance. The appropriation for the next two years for farm research and instruction is placed at $710,000 in the university budget, and the farm "bloc" should see that the school gets it. The budget for new buildings $1,287,000 should be examined in a spirit of breadth and generosity. The university has never been adequately housed and late expansion in the student body has brought imperative new needs.

For maintenance during the last biennial period the Legislature granted $1,250,000. This year $1,950,000 is asked and it should be granted that the pay roll may be brought up to current standards. The total tentative budget of $4,902,247 would bring very near to Columbia the day of opportunity for which it has waited so long. Is the Legislature so unsympathetic to higher education as to deny it?

Miss Mary Powers Dies.

Miss Mary Powers, a senior in the School of Education of the University, died at Parker Memorial Hospital, Feb. 10, of double pneumonia.

When her condition became critical, word was sent to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Powers, of Temple, Tex. They arrived several days before her death and remained with her continuously.

She had attended Centenary Seminary in Tennessee, National Park Seminary in Washington, D. C., and the University of Texas. She would have received the degree of B. S. in Education here in April. Her plans were to return to Texas University next fall and complete her work for the degree of A. B. and A. M. at Christmas.

She lived at the home of Miss Jessie Cline, 707 Missouri Avenue.

New Stephens College Building.

Science Hall, the new Stephens College building, was occupied for the first time on January 30. All classes except those of the conservatory and the school of expression will be moved into the new building. The first floor of the new building will include a suite of offices for the ter part of March or the first of April. Women, Dean of the Faculty, Board of Curators and for the secretary. The office of the Stephens Standard People, a Stephens College publication, will be in the tower room. The house warming, which will be open to the public, will be held in the latter part of March or the first of April.

Memorial to Miss Parker.

A memorial room will be established in the Margaret K. Long School for Girls at Tokyo, Japan, in memory of Edith Parker, missionary for the United Christian Missionary Society. Miss Parker died of smallpox at Kobe, Japan, January 13, while spending her vacation away from the college.

Miss Parker, who was the daughter of W. H. Parker of Columbia, was graduated from the University in '08 with a B. S. degree in Education. In 1909 she was sent to Tokyo by the Carrollton Christian Church to serve as a missionary. At Tokyo she was at the head of the domestic science department of the Margaret K. Long School for Girls. She was to have become dean of the Interdenominational College at Tokyo in March of next year.

the pleasant memories of college days to those present. Roy Godfrey of the State Board of Agriculture, made a short speech which further emphasized the points made in President Jones' address. He was followed by W. M. Oakerson, head of the city schools here.

The Association adopted a resolution endorsing the plan of the Kiwanis Club here to bring the University Glee Club to the city before the first of April.

Those attending the banquet were: Thomas L. Price, Ben F. Seward, Marjorie Woodrum, Stella Heldman, W. M. Oakerson, Mrs. Means Ray, Jessie Miller Seward, C. W. Brown, Foster B. McHenry, Claude P. Owens, Irl Brown Krause, Stanley P. Howard, Dean Wilson, William R. Tweedie, John Guy Gibson, J. Carl Elliott, William M. Deaton, Geo. S. Huddleston, Louis W. Brittingham, Merrill E. Otis, Mrs. Merrill E. Otis, Dora L. Erhart, T. J. Erhart, Floyd Elmer Ross, Stratton Shartel, Richard L. Gwinn, L. W. Helmreich, Edwin D. Brasfield, Maud Brasfield, R. L. Tatum, Richard Doris, Irene Slate, Chas. Dewey, Bernie Herwitz, Paul Schmidt, John Kurtz, John Mayes and George.

NEW ENGLAND ALUMNI MEET

A meeting of Missouri Alumni in and around Boston was held at the American House, Thursday evening, January 25th. The arrangements were in charge of Mr. Arnold Leonard, President, and Mr. Claude B. Cross, Secretary-Treasurer. The season of Grippe and Grand Opera, not to mention approaching mid-years, was not conducive to a large attendance, but the fourteen enthusiastic folk who got there felt well repaid for their efforts. An excellent dinner was followed by a short business meeting at which Mr. Cross was elected President and Mrs. Hunter, Secretary-Treasurer, and then the speaker of the evening was introduced, Dr. Harlow Shapley, Director of the Harvard Astronomical Observatory and "one of our most eminent Missourians." Most interesting and instructive was his illustrated lecture on "Star Stuff." In a forceful and humorous way he made some of the accomplishments and problems of modern Astronomy comprehensible to the lay mind and his pictures gave us an idea of the wonderful development of astronomical photography in recent years. A social hour followed the lecture and the evening closed with the singing of "OLD MISSOURI" by all and a Missouri yell by some of the more recent graduates.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Cross, 6 Newport Road, Cambridge; John Gilmore, 30 Langdon street, Cambridge; Russell S. Grove, 953 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge; Mrs. Helen Sewall Hunter, 41 Wren street, West Roxbury, Mass. (Boston 32); Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hogan, 66 Avon street, Somerville (care Bayer); Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Leonard (Mrs. Leonard was June Von Norstrand) 90 Marion Road, Watertown; E. A. Mayes and Harland F. Mayes, 203 Craigie Hall, Cambridge; Eugene E. Montgomery, 45 Walter Hastings Hall, Cambridge; Dr. Harlow Shapley, Harvard Observatory, Cambridge; Anton A. Tibbe, Jr., 45 Walter Hastings Hall, Cambridge.

KANSAS CITY ALUMNAE

By Nelle Mae Carter Daily, B. S.-H. E. '12, A. B. '13.
3816 Virginia, K. C. M.

On Saturday, January 13th, the Kansas City Alumnae Association held a business meeting at the University Women's Club house, 3606 Warwick Boulevard. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. W. Shanahan, the vice-president, Mrs. Guy V. Head, presided.

As an aftermath of the Christmas meeting, when Dean Tisdell and Dean Johnston told the Association of the needs of the University, emphasizing anew the tremendous importance of the appropriation being granted in full, it was voted to send a representative from the Kansas City Association to help urge Missouri legislators to do their utmost for the University. Miss Mary Chorn, a recent graduate whose record as a student is well remembered has been chosen to go on this mission. Each member was urged to exert all the influence she could bring to bear on legislators personally or otherwise.

The new officers elected for the coming year were: Miss Mary Chorn, president; Mrs. Guy V. Head, vice-president and Miss Lucille Meinhoffer, secretary-treasurer. According to the new constitution adopted at this meeting, the executive committee is composed of these officers and the retiring president, Mrs. Shanahan. This committee has interesting plans in the making for the Association.

An opportunity for visiting and renewing old friendships was given over the teacups, following the business meeting.

Athletic Committee Re-organized.

Following favorable action by the board of curators of the University upon the resolution of the alumni calling for increased representation in the athletic affairs of their Alma Mater, the committee on intercollegiate athletics was reorganized here the night of February 5 with four alumni members present. The new members, who were chosen by Kansas City and St. Louis alumni, are Dr. H. H. Shackelford of St. Louis and Shannon Douglass of Kansas City. Dr. O. M. Stewart of the University faculty was also added to the committee and E. Sydney Stephens and T. K. Catron, both of Columbia, continued as alumni members.

Both Dr. Shackelford and Mr. Douglass are graduates of the University of the class of 1910. Dr. Shackelford received his A. B. degree in that year and Mr. Douglass received an LL.B. degree. Dr. Shackelford received an A. M. degree in 1913. Mr. Douglass was captain of the track team while a student at the University, and both he and Dr. Shackelford have been very active in alumni affairs since graduation. Both are past presidents of their local alumni organizations.

Dr. Shackelford and Mr. Douglass were appointed by their respective alumni associations to serve until commencement, when the state alumni association will elect their successors at its spring meeting here.

The first work of the reorganized committee was to take up the question of who is to coach the Missouri football team next fall. The committee is reported to have reached a complete agreement in the matter and an early announcement is expected.

As now organized the committee includes: Dr. J. C. Jones, president of the University; Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director; Dr. W. G. Manly, Dean Isidor Loeb, Dr. W. A. Tarr, Dr. O. M. Stewart, Frank L. Martin, E. Sydney Stephens, T. K. Catron, Shannon O. Douglass and Dr. H. H. Shackelford.

MISSOURI GEOLOGIST

Harold S. Cave is spending a few days in Columbia. Mr. Cave and T. M. Prettyman have just finished a report on the petroleum possibilities of Georgia. The report will be published this spring as a bulletin of the Geological Survey of Georgia.

Cave received his A. B. from the University in 1917. He spent 1919 in graduate study in geology at the University of Missouri, and then went to Yale University where he did two years' graduate work in Geology. He hopes to return to Yale to complete the requirements for his doctor's degree soon.

John T. Hall is in the oil brokerage business in Fresno, California. He graduated from the University in 1917, majoring in geology, and spent one summer working on the Devonian of Missouri with Prof. Branson. Hall is married and has one child, a daughter.

About the middle of January, Prof. Branson decided to accept an offer from the Gypsy Oil Company to do geological work in New Mexico for six or seven months. He secured a leave of absence from the University and made hurried arrangements to leave for Tulsa about January 29. After spending a day or two in consultation with officials of the Gypsy Oil Company in Tulsa, he left for Denver. He intended to leave Denver about February 6 for Gallup, New Mexico, where he would find a car waiting to take him to the vicinity in which he intended to work.

A letter received from Professor Branson at Colorado Springs told of his having dinner with a party of former students of the Department of Geology in Tulsa on January 31. In the party were W. B. Wilson, chief geologist for the Gypsy Oil Company, H. M. Scott, geologist and part owner of the Riverland Oil Company, Robert Riggs, Consulting Geologist and geologist for the F. W. Freeborn Engineering Corporation, and L. M. Neumann, chief geologist of the Carter Oil Company. On the afternoon of that day Prof. Branson called on R. S. McFarland, A. B. '16, geologist in charge for the Twin States Oil Company.

"In Denver," he writes, "I attended a meeting of the Rocky Mountain Geological Society. I was entertained at Colorado Springs by I. Allen Keyte, professor of geology in Colorado College, an enthusiastic Missouri alumnus, and I visited with Daniel Shutts, professor of geology and general science in Colorado Springs High School, and L. D. Votaw, assistant principal of the same high school. Keyte, Shutts, and Votaw were all members of the first University of Missouri field class in geology in 1911".

At a program given by the Chamberlin Geological Club on February 1, Prof. M. G. Mehl talked on "The Influence of Geology on the Life and Customs of the Hopi Indians". Virgil Cole gave a summary of the articles on the geology of the Hopi Indian country. Harold Boyd described the methods of collecting vertebrate fossils and told some of the interesting incidents experienced while collecting fossils in the Petrified Forest of Arizona as a member of last spring's field party.

Dr. Helen Strong was in charge of the program given on January 18, which consisted of: The Geology of Hawaii, by Dr. Strong; Hawaii by Airplane and Motor, by George E. Page; and the Trade of Hawaii, by Ben Stinson.

Prof. Branson's departure for New Mexico has made some changes necessary in the teaching schedule of the department. Prof. Mehl has taken Prof. Branson's classes, and James S. Williams has taken over two of Prof. Mehl's classes. Henry S. McQueen, who will get his master's degree in April, has taken the field supervision of Prof. Mehl's course in field methods.

Edward Million is considering a position as teacher of science in a high school in Iowa. Million graduated from the University in 1920. He was with Prof. Tarr in the field in Colorado in the summer of 1919.

Miss Vera Goessling is teaching geography in Crescent College at Eureka Springs, Ark. A letter says:

"The country here is beautiful. Outdoor life is the life,—tennis, horse-back riding, and tramping with basket ball and base ball as 'runners-up'. I wanted badly to be in Columbia last Thanksgiving but couldn't make it."

Miss Goessling received the degree of B. S. in Ed. in 1921 and took the A. B. degree in 1922. She specialized in Geology and Geography. Miss Goessling taught geography at Stephens College during her last year in the University.

Owing to an unavowed delay in the arrival of a picture, we will not have a biographical sketch of an alumnus of the department in this issue. The series will continue in the next issue, however.

An item in the January ALUMNUS which stated that James L. Gartner had given up his connections in the producing business and intended to go into consulting work was in error. According to a recent note from Jimmie, we find that he is still in the producing business and has not been recently engaged in consulting work. We have been trying to get the material from Gartner for an article on his activities in the producing field, but so far our efforts have been unsuccessful.

R. J. Riggs, graduate student in the department in 1913, has just become geologist for the F. W. Freeborn Engineering Corporation, Tulsa, Oklahoma. He writes that he joins their staff to handle strictly geological problems. From the University of Missouri, Riggs went to Chile in geological work in 1914. From Chile he went to Bolivia where he was employed as geological engineer at one of the big tin mines. He returned to the United States in 1915 and has had an office as consulting geologist in Tulsa most of the time since. He was an aviator during the War. He did some of the geological work in locating small oil wells in Bates and Vernon counties, Missouri.

Prof. James R. Cowan, A. B. (University of Missouri) and A. M. (University of Chicago), will be in charge of the courses in Geography at the University of Missouri during the summer term. Prof. Cowan is head of the Department of Geography in Northeast High School at Kansas City, Mo.

Fourth Annual Scoop a Success.

The fourth annual Scoop dance, the annual party of the students of the School of Journalism, was held Jan. 12 in the ballroom of the Daniel Boone Tavern. It was the most successful Scoop ever given. The ballroom resembled a huge ice palace with artificial icicles, snow, and colored lights. Miss Gladys McKinley was crowned Scoop queen by Dean Walter Williams. Miss Catherine Ware and Miss Ferol Stark were maids of honor. Scoop extras were given out just as the queen was crowned. The programs were in the form of a front page of a newspaper and each dance had a story written about it. The favors were yellow quill pens. Irwin McEwen was in charge of this year's Scoop and deserves a lot of credit for his efforts.

whose first poem she still treasures as a fond possession.

A number of years after Mrs. Elston left the University she became teacher of English in the Manual Training High School in Kansas City, a position that she resigned just a few years ago after holding it for seventeen years. She was married in 1877 to Dr. John W. Elston, who died in 1900.

Mrs. Elston has two daughters and two sons. One son, Allan V., received the degree of B. S. in C. E. from the University in '10. A daughter, Margaret, was in the Class of '11. Mrs. Elston's present address is 3409 Indiana avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglass V. Martin, Jr., announce the arrival of a New Year's son, Douglass Vass Martin, 3rd, born January 1, 1923. Mrs. Martin was formerly Miss Ethel M. Sykes, B. S. in Ed. '16. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

"Dear Bob: Just a line to let you know that a new Tiger has arrived. William Robert MacKay, eight and a half pounds, arrived January 8. Mrs. MacKay was Miss Mabel G. Crouch, B. S. in Ed. '18. At present I am teaching in the Cleveland High School in St. Louis. Fraternally, Jas. L. MacKay."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wilson announce the arrival of Richard Clay on January 15, 1923. Mrs. Wilson was formerly Miss Alva Marie Clay, B. S. in Ed. '19. Her address is 2704 Tracy, Kansas City, Mo.

STEENBERGEN-BRYANT.

The wedding of Miss Sarah Van Meter Steenbergen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Steenbergen of Columbia, and Stanhope B. Bryant, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanhope Bryant of Winston-Salem, N. C., took place January 13, at the Presbyterian Church in Roanoke, Va., in the presence of the president of Virginia College, and a number of faculty members and the bride's sister, Miss Catherine Steenbergen, who is a student in the college.

Mrs. Bryant attended the public schools in Columbia for several years. She was graduated from the University City High School in St. Louis, and upon her return to Columbia she entered the University of Missouri. She is a member of Theta Alpha Phi. Mr. Bryant was graduated from the Virginia Military Institute and also attended the University.

COOPER-WALDEN.

Miss Constance Cooper and Austin Walden of Moberly were married January 17. Miss Cooper is the daughter of the Rev. R. H. Cooper of Fayette. She is a graduate of Howard-Payne College and of the Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Tex. Miss Cooper is a member of the Phi Mu sorority.

Mr. Walden was graduated from the University in 1920. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Two secret marriages which took place on New Year's Eve have been made public, that of Miss Henryetta Hosek of St. Louis, a student in the University, to Derwood Neher of Kansas City, and that of Miss Ethel E. Vogt of Ferguson to Claude E. Carmichael of Mound City, both students in the University.

Both couples will make their homes in Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael will continue their work in the University. Mrs. Neher will also go on with her work, while Mr. Neher will re-enter for the spring term.

Mrs. Neher formerly attended the University of Colorado, where she was a member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority. Mr. Neher is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma, chemical fraternity, and Phi Beta Pi, medical fraternity. Mrs. Carmichael is a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, and Mr. Carmichael of the Daubers.
