About Sweaters

A real sweater—a Spalding sweater for example—lasts from 10 to 15 years. The ordinary sweater lasts one, two or three years and then its shape, looks and color are gone. That is poor economy.

"Pure Wool"

Means Nothing

"Three-Eights" Wool

Means Everything

Any wool may be pure wool. But three-eights bloo wool, sheared from the neck and chest of the sheep, where it's longest, warmest and strongest, and then spun into worsted, is the world's best wool—and the only wool we use in weaving Spalding Honor Sweaters. This is real economy.

NOVEMBER, 1925

COLUMBIA, MO.

You'll Be Sorry if Your'e Not in Columbia for Homecoming--Nov. 14

The Mass Meeting, the Frolic, the Stunts, Class and School Reunions, Parade, the Game Itself—With the Tigers Headed Toward Another Valley Championship—It's All for You, and Nobody Else Is to Blame if You Miss It.

NOVEMBER 14! Homecoming at Columbia! Between 5:30 o'clock Friday November 13, and midnight Saturday, November 14, will be crowded a series of events that you will regret missing if you do not come for Homecoming. It is a program for everybody.

"Welcome Home" expresses briefly the greeting the student undergraduate body at Missouri seeks to extend to its graduate brothers and sisters on November 14. That this welcome be as warmly expressed during the short period is the aim and aspiration of the 1925 Homecoming Committee, headed by Bob Hill for the alumni and T. J. Powell for the students.

As in former years, the center of the celebration will be about the Missouri-Oklahoma football game Saturday afternoon on Rollins Field. With the defeat of Nebraska, the Kansas Aggies, Rolla and Ames behind the Missouri Tigers, what is going to happen to the Sooners? You should be there to see that game, and let the team know you are here when you join in a great big Varsity.

The first of the program will be inaugurated on Friday evening, when the M Men join for their annual dinner at the Y. M. C. A. At the same time the past student presidents will have a dinner. From there, both groups will go to Rollins Field for the big mass meeting, where the Engineers will have built a stage and arranged the lighting. The program of speeches by graduates and former students, coaches and well-known Missourians will be broadcast over WOS by remote control from Christian College.

Directly after the mass meeting taps will be sounded from the Memorial Tower in honor of the heroes in whose memory the tower is being built. This will inaugurate a new University custom, and henceforth taps will be sounded on Armistice Day, on Founders' Day (April 19), and on Commencement Day.

At 9 o'clock, and lasting until 1 o'clock the annual frolic will be held at the Rothwell Gymnasium and an informal mixer will be given at the Women's Gymnasium. The frolic will be purely a dancing affair while the mixer is an informal reception and dance. At both, stunts will be given

Homecoming! The crowd at the station. The Oklahoma band with a girl in the lead. Broadway decorated. Looks like a circus. Dr. Wrench and his cape. And Daddy Defoe. Here comes Bob Hill talking at the top of his voice. A taxi piled with luggage, making a turn on two wheels. A Pierce-Arrow down to humble the collegiate Fords. Some razzers. Pretty ceds buying balloons. Stephens and Christian are parading. Ninth Street and Red Campus. Gee, I'm glad I've come for Homecoming!

Emery Paxton, Phi Delta Theta house; Mortar Board, Clara Demeter, Chi Omega house. Also, those desiring to attend the past student presidents' dinner on Friday should notify Henry Depping, Jesse Hall, as soon as possible.

At 9 o'clock the class reunions will be held in the various schools. In many the election of officers will be held, and business will be transacted. The deans of the schools have consented to have "open house" at this time. In previous years, the registration of alumni and former students was done in Jesse Hall, irrespective of school, but this year all registration must be done in the school formerly attended. School chairmen among the students have been appointed to take charge of the alumni gatherings.

From the alumni meeting, everyone is requested to join the Homecoming parade at 10:45 o'clock. Graduates and former students are expected to march by schools and each will be headed by a banner of the school and the present students.

The parade is no doubt to be bigger and better than ever. It would make a Ringling or a Barnum want to have the manager sign a ninety-nine year contract. This parade along will be worth coming to Columbia to see.

At 2 o'clock the game with Oklahoma will start. The Razzers will be out doing their stuff, assisted by girls who will also put on stunts. The field will be decorated in red and white, and gold and black, and it will all be too good to miss.

The big game will be broadcast over Station KFRU at Stephens College and WOS by remote control from the Christian College Studio.

Directly after the game, a tea will be given for visiting, women, alumnae and former students by the Women's Self Government Association, in the Women's Gymnasium with members of the Council serving.

Saturday night is the night set aside for fraternity, sorority and organization dances. So far there have been many announcements made of parties, and most of them will be in honor of the visitors among the alumni and guests from Oklahoma.

There will be no cross-country meet by University students, among which will be the "Old Gold and Black Review," given successfully at the mass meeting preceding the Ames game. Many old grads who saw it at that time said that it is by far the best student stunt they have ever seen, and University students are of the same opinion.

On Saturday morning Mystical Seven, QEBH, and Mortar Board will give their breakfasts, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Former members who wish to attend these breakfasts are requested to let the following know, either by letter or by phone some time before Friday evening: Mystical Seven, John Riley, Elks' Club; QEBH, with Oklahoma at the time of the game this year.

Max Truitt, the secretary of the Commercial Club of Columbia can secure rooms for those applying to him, at the rate of $1.50 per night. He says there will be enough rooms for all, and he requests that application for them be sent in as early as possible.

The M-K-T and Wabash railroads have offered the rate of fare and a half from any point in Missouri, starting Friday, November 13, and good until the following Wednesday. No stopovers will be allowed. Groups of twenty-six or more can secure special Pullmans, if desired.

We promise that you and the eleven or twelve thousand others who are coming back for Homecoming will have a month's vacation in two days, to say nothing of a rejuvenation, around the Columns of old Missouri. You should be sorry, and you will be sorry, if you are not in Columbia on November 14.

WILL BLOW TAPS DURING MASS MEETING

Taps will be blown during the Mass Meeting on November 13, the night before Homecoming, in honor of the memory of the boys who lost their lives in the World War.

The blowing of taps is sponsored by the Memorial Committee of Nine in the hope that this will become a tradition at the University.

The plan is to have one or more buglers stationed on the top of the Memorial Tower and at a specified time say about 8:30 during the Homecoming Mass Meeting on Rollins Field the night of November 13 ask the eight or ten thousand persons who are attending the Mass Meeting to come to attention while taps are sounded. The sound of taps coming from the Memorial Tower, floating over Rollins Field as these thousands of loyal Missourians stand at attention, should furnish a thrilling acknowledgment of their devotion to the boys who gave their lives for others.

The Memorial Committee plans to have taps sounded four times each year, at Homecoming, Armistice Day, University Founders Day and Commencement. The buglers are always to be stationed on the Memorial Tower. The students, alumni, townspeople, all, will be asked to come to attention, no matter where they are or what they are doing, at the time that taps are blown on these four occasions during the school year.

W. S. Branham Has Sold His Store.

Warren S. (Peck) Branham, B. S. in Ag. '11, has sold his millinery and women's store at the corner of Broadway and Tenth Streets, Columbia. He has not made plans for the future.

University Golf Links To Be Open to Alumni

During Homecoming festivities and commencement week of each year the University golf links will be open to Alumni and former students. (No guest card required.)

Alumni visitors to Columbia non residents of Boone County) during the summer period between commencement week and the opening of the next school year may secure guest cards for not to exceed two weeks. Applications for such guest cards are to be made by the Alumni Recorder or by the holder of a golf course player's card.

Guest cards are issued from the office of the Secretary in Jesse Hall.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT WOULD RAISE 12 MILLION A YEAR

Approximately 12 million dollars a year would be raised for public education under Governor Baker's proposed constitutional amendment, to be submitted to the people for adoption next November. This will be about 4 million dollars more than they now receive.

The new amendment will call for the repeal of an article of the constitution which provides that the legislature must appropriate one-fourth of the general state revenue for the support of free public schools. For some years it has been the custom of the general assembly to appropriate one-third of the revenue, realizing that the constitutional allotment was insufficient.

The governor proposes to set aside, by constitutional provision, 60 per cent of the amount derived from taxes included in his amendment for the free public schools and the remaining 40 per cent will be diverted to the support of the University of Missouri, Rolla School of Mines, the five state teachers' colleges, Lincoln institute and the Missouri schools for the blind and deaf.

The governor proposes to obtain his educational fund in the following manner:

Retention of the 5 per cent property tax. A severance tax of not less than 1 and not more than 2 per cent of the cash value of all minerals mined in Missouri.

A levy of 10 per cent on the selling price of all cigars and cigarettes.

Transfer of all inheritance tax receipts from the general revenue to school fund.

The governor has called for criticism of the plan and suggestions for its improvement.

TIGERS RUN OVER ROLLA IN ONE-SIDED GAME, SCORE 32-0

The Tigers defeated Rolla on Rollins Field on October 17, 32-0. The first string men started the game, and after scoring fourteen points a substitution of an entire team was made by Coach Henry. Later in the game another substitute team was sent in, making three distinct teams performing against the Miners. The field was muddy, but the day was clear and cold. A week of rain kept down the attendance.

The Miners were a plucky lot and never let up a second during the entire game.

They started in the first quarter and made one of the finest marches from the kickoff right down to the Tiger twenty-yard line. It was apparent, however, that they had spent their force and from then on the Tigers goal was never in danger. About two hundred students from Missouri School of Mines at Rolla accompanied their team. It was the first game with the Miners since 1914, when the Tigers were defeated, 9-0.

Henry Depping, president of the student body, spoke at the mass meeting before the Rolla game, cautioning against overconfidence on the part of the Tigers and students as a result of the Tiger victory over Nebraska. Talks were made by Dr. J. C. Jones, director of the Memorial Union and Stadium Campaign; Coach Gwinn Henry; "Pete" Jackson, famous Tiger; and Prof. Jesse E. Wrench.

Ames Falls Before Championship Charge of the Tigers--Score 23-8

Game Was Full of Thrills and Uncertain Until the Second Half,
When a 50-Yard Pass of Whiteman's Started Our Real Scoring—Only Undefeated Conference Team.

THE TIGERS defeated Ames, 23-8, at Columbia on Rollins Field, October 31, before a crowd of seven thousand. The game was most spectacular, full of thrills from start to finish. Missouri scored in the first two minutes of play on a forty-four yard punt by Jackson to midfield, a forward pass from Jackson to Clark to the Ames 28 yard line, several line plunges, a pass by Whiteman to Coglizer for a touchdown. Missouri failed to kick goal.

From then on to the middle of the quarter Ames threatened our goal several times but failed repeatedly to gain when they were just within a few feet of a touchdown. Finally Ames scored the touchdown, but they too failed to kick goal, and the game was tied, 6-6. Until the end of the half the Missouri rooters were terribly worried for the Tigers were being outcharged by the Ames Aggies and it didn't look good at all.

But the last half of the game was different. Coach Henry had apparently inspired the Tigers to play up to their usual standard and warned them that a defeat by Ames would make them lose the Valley Championship. The Tigers presented entirely different football from the beginning to the finish of the second half. After a few minutes of play in the third quarter the Tigers tried three successive forward passes to make their downs and it was apparent that a kick would be made. Bacchus playing left end and playing the game of his career surprised everybody by dropping back to punt, for he never kicks. An Ames man almost tackled him but Bacchus evaded the onslaught and shot one of the longest forward passes ever made on Rollins Field for a few feet over fifty yards to Teddy O'Sullivan who caught the pass on the Ames one-yard line. Whiteman went over for a touchdown on the next play.

The success of this long pass seemed to take pep out of the Ames players. The play was one of the biggest surprises ever staged on Rollins Field. The crowd was astounded. On Captain Whiteman's attempt at the extra point for goal he missed, but the Ames team was off-side and the point was allowed. Score, Missouri 13; Ames 6.

A few minutes later the Tigers advanced the ball within striking distance of the Ames goal where Captain Whiteman successfully completed a fifteen yard place kick for three points. Score, Missouri 16 Ames 6.

Then Coach Henry began to make substitutions; the game was on ice for the Tigers.

Just at the beginning of the fourth quarter Teddy O'Sullivan blocked an Ames punt and recovered it behind the Ames goal line for a touchdown. Whiteman made good at try for the extra point. Score Missouri 23; Ames 6.

About the middle of the last quarter Ames again had the ball on Missouri's five-yard line, first down, when Bacchus recovered an Ames fumble at the Tigers ten-yard line. When the Tigers attempted a punt Richerson fumbled but recovered on the Tiger six-inch line. Missouri took time out for a conference and gave Ames an intentional safety when Moulder grounded the ball, making the score, Missouri 23; Ames 8. The safety permitted the Tigers to take the ball on their own thirty-yard line.

Winning the Ames game placed the Tigers at the head of the Missouri Valley Conference football field. Missouri is the only undefeated team in the Conference.

One of the most novel features of the Ames game was the Dads' Day part of the program. Many fraternities and sororities had invited their Dads to Columbia and there were scores of parents here for the game, but the Dads who were greeted most cordially and who received the bulk of attention were the Dads of fifteen of the Tiger football players, including Captain Sammy Whiteman's Daddy. The Dads carried numbers on their backs corresponding to the numbers on the sweaters of their sons. They sat on the bench on the field and there has never been exhibited on Rollins Field a sight so interesting as to see those fifteen Daddies pulling for the Tigers and yelling until they were hoarse.

There were over three hundred on the special train of rooters from Ames, including their fine band of sixty-two pieces.

The biggest mass meeting of the season was held the night before the Ames game. Void Null, vice-president of the student body, presided. The speakers included Earl F. Nelson, former president of the St. Louis Alumni Association; A. Bliss Wilder of St. Louis, former football player of '08-'09 and '11; Dick Bjornson, Alpha Gamma Rho convention delegate and a former North Dakota football player;

Jean Bradshaw, president of the band; Miss Maizie Mills, President of W.S.G.A., chairman of the committee collecting outstanding payments on student Memorial pledges and a mighty cute "Gold and Black Review" chorus of twenty-four girls, costumed and directed by Franceswayne Allen.

MISSOURI BLUE BOOK OUT SOON

Contains Many Things of Interest to University Folk

The 1925-1926 Missouri Manual, official Blue Book of the state, is being completed by the publications department of the Secretary of State, Charles U. Becker, at Jefferson City, and will contain a number of special features relating to the University. Among these features is the Memorial Tower, which will occupy the position of honor in first position in the Blue Book. There also is an extensive article on the University proper, with a list of all employees; one with a picture of the stadium; one of the Agricultural College; a sketch of the School of Journalism; and engravings of all of the deans and President Brooks, with a biographical sketch.

Numerous references occur throughout the 1925-1926 blue book. It will be a valuable book to have in the library of anyone interested in the state of Missouri.

Secretary Becker selected, for the third time, Charles W. Fear of Joplin to compile, edit and issue the book.

Those wishing to secure copies of the manual should write to their state senators or state representatives at once. A copy also will be sent to each publication issued in the state.

Former Yell Leaders Invited Back.

This year's homecoming celebration is not going to exclude the former yell leaders, according to "Doc" Miller, who was re-elected this year as Varsity yell leader. He cordially invites all those back, who, in their own school days, were wont to "cut up sumpin' awful" in order to get concentrated action from the student body. "Doc" says that all those who come back will get an opportunity to "strut their stuff" this year just as they used to do.

Come back, all ye former generals of the noise-making department of the University, and let's see you go.

ONE OF THE COLUMNS LOST SOME OF ITS TOP THE OTHER DAY

A large piece of stone fell the other day from the top of the south side of the second column from the east.

It is thought that the heavy rains of the last month had caused the piece to break loose.

Engineering students rushed to the fallen stone and carried it to the Engineering Building. They will attempt to replace it. Some years ago engineering students reinforced the top of the Columns with the idea of preventing erosion and weathering.

The small pieces of stone were picked up as souvenirs by students who gathered hurriedly around the Columns. Papers carried a story about the fallen piece and the next day scores of people visited the campus to inspect the Columns.

Arts and Science Will Be Ready, Too.

Plans are being made to meet the alumni of the College of Arts and Science in the corridors of Jesse Hall and in the Dean's office during the morning of Saturday, November 14. There will be a booth for registration and Dean F. M. Tisdell and other representatives will be there to greet the alumni.

Dr. Jay W. Hudson

"The Eternal Circle" is the title of the most recent book by Dr. J. W. Hudson Professor of Philosophy, University of Missouri. It is a most interesting and entertaining story, as is all the material which has been prepared by Dr. Hudson. He is known by hundreds of alumni and former students and they will welcome an opportunity to read another book by him. His "Abbe Pierre" and "Nowhere Else in the World" held wide-spread interest among the alumni.

Says Our Need of an Art Building Is Somebody's Opportunity to Serve

President Tells Art Lovers' Guild That Development of Aesthetic Appreciation Will Increase the Individual's Enjoyment of Life and Add to Our Material Prosperity.

INSTRUCTION in art means to many persons the training of portrait and landscape painters. Since most people have little or no contact with either artists or painters, the whole question of artistic training becomes of little direct interest to them. Art galleries are, in their minds, institutions to be built in large cities by wealthy contributors and are to be visited for the most part by what seems to them to be a peculiar and somewhat abnormal class of persons called artists.

I desire to point out to you that instruction in art as conducted in the School of Fine Arts of the University of Missouri has quite a different major purpose. While it must ever be mindful that an occasional individual among its students may possess the ability to develop into an artist, nevertheless its method and aim is quite a different one, and its success will be in no way impaired should such a genius never be recorded among its alumni.

The chief purpose of the art department of the University is the development of a widespread aesthetic appreciation that will ultimately reach in some degree every citizen in the State. In the doing of this we have in mind two things:

First, that by whatever amount we can increase the aesthetic appreciation of any individual, by so much we increase his possibilities of enjoying the beautiful whether it be found in the works of nature or in the handicraft of man.

Second, and more important, that by whatever amount we can elevate the standards of appreciation of the beautiful among all our citizens, by so much we shall increase also our general material prosperity.

For the accomplishment of the first of these purposes we need to bring the student into continuous contact with the best available examples of the work of masters, and in addition thereto to provide opportunity to exercise their own artistic creative impulses. The University is fortunate in having already collected a large amount of excellent material, most of which, however, cannot now be used because we have no suitable place for its display and inspection.

It is the second of these purposes that is the least widely understood. It is a well established fact that our national prosperity is closely related to our ability to export our products for profitable sale in foreign markets. Insofar as we export raw material to be manufactured elsewhere, the aesthetic element is of little moment. But with manufactured items the situation is far otherwise.

In many countries, France, Germany, and Italy, for example, we find a people of comparatively high aesthetic standards. The manufactured products exported to such countries by us must not only appeal to purchasers who by nature and by training have a greater appreciation of the beautiful than do most of us, but they must also compete with the native products made by workmen of high aesthetic standards who for generations have been producing goods with aesthetic merit. Until such time as American products can approach those of foreign manufacture in aesthetic merit, our export trade must be largely limited to those items in which quantity production, or superiority in usefulness, gives us the advantage. Even at home we are compelled to buy many articles of foreign make, if we desire the most beautiful.

Since by far the larger portion of our manufactured articles are sold at home to a public that makes small demand for an aesthetic product, our factories have little incentive to give emphasis to beauty as well as to usefulness. The cost of making plaids, for example, would not be perceptibly increased if the divisions were in the right proportions and the colors were harmoniously arranged. If the buying public demanded these qualities, American plaids in color and design suitable only to a Sioux Indian would no longer crowd our counters. When all manufacturers likewise produce textiles correct in coloring and design, it will no longer be necessary for those who seek and can afford the finer things, to import them from Europe, and on the other hand our products will find a wider export market.

To be sure, America produces much that is highly beautiful, but such products are usually expensive. What we desire is that beauty shall be added to usefulness in every article, even the cheapest, because by instruction in art we have a nation trained to love the beautiful, and to insist that even the cheapest of our products have aesthetic merit. The cheapest wooden mantel will cost no more to make and will be just as serviceable if the designer gives it a proportion of height to width that is pleasing instead of offensive.

This effort to elevate the aesthetic standards of our people, is at this time especially desirable in order to offset the tremendous loss occasioned by the rapid development of the factory system. But a brief generation ago hundreds of thousands of men and women were compelled by necessity not only to design but to make most of the things they used. The fashioning of an ax helve was a work of creative art quite different from the factory process that turns out ax helves by the millions, leaving the man who runs the machine no other interest in them

Dr. Henry Jackson Waters, Former Dean Here, Is Dead

HENRY JACKSON WATERS, B.S. in Ag. '86, 60 years old, the first graduate of the Missouri College of Agriculture, Editor of the Weekly Kansas City Star, died at his home, the Carlton Hotel, Kansas City, Mo., on October 26.

Funeral services were held on October 29 in Columbia in the auditorium of Jesse Hall. The body arrived on a special train accompanied by a delegation of prominent citizens of Kansas City. University exercises were suspended for the funeral. Rev. Luther Wesley Smith, assisted by Rev. G. W. Hatcher conducted the services.

Henry Jackson Waters was born in Center, Ralls County, Mo., November 23, 1865, the son of George Washington and Lavina James Walters. The former was himself a well known Missouri agriculturist.

Dr. Waters devoted his life with almost religious fervor to the advancement of agriculture. He brought to his work a purpose humanitarian in character. He talked, taught and wrote authoritatively and unremittingly of those methods which he hoped would improve not only the condition of the American farmer but, at the same time, the wealth and happiness of the whole nation as well.

The quality of his ideas and character won recognition and brought him into many offices of responsibility and honor.

Dr. Waters was president of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture, 1908-1909; dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri, 1895-1909, president of the Kansas State Agricultural College, 1909-1918. In 1914 Dr. Waters was sent as a special commissioner to the Philippine Islands. He acted as a member of the president's industrial Commission in 1920 and the president's agricultural conference in 1922. In wartime, he was federal food administrator for Kansas and chairman of the war industries board of that state. He served in the committee on transportation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in 1922.

Besides these major offices, he held others of much importance. They included presidency of the International Dry Farming Congress, 1913-14; the presidency of the Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Science; chairman of the Kansas State Council of Defense 1917-1918; chairman of the Kansas War Industries Board, 1917-18; chairman in animal nutrition at the graduate school of agriculture, the University of Illinois.

He was the author of several books, including, "The Essentials of Agriculture," "The Development of the Philippine Islands," "Animal Husbandry," (in co-authorship of Prof. E. G. King of Purdue), "Essentials of the New Agriculture," and several text books.

Dr. Waters received his primary education in the public schools and was prepared for college by his father, George Washington Waters, an engineer, sheep and mule farmer in Ralls county, Missouri, and lecturer.

Dr. Waters was graduated from the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri in 1886, but remained there as a graduate student for two years longer. He then served the college as a teacher of agriculture for two years after which he was given the chair of agriculture and charge of the experiment station of the Pennsylvania State College, from which Missouri recalled him in 1895 to be dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the experiment station at the University of Missouri. After several years of work he was granted a leave of absence for a year and a half which he spent in the study of animal nutrition in the universities of Leipzig and Zurich, returning in 1905.

Shortly after his return he was elected dean of the college of agriculture of the University of California, but was held under contract to the Missouri university. Subsequently he was proffered the presidency of the Colorado Agricultural college, but declined.

Besides his B. S. A. degree the University of Missouri, Dr. Waters received an LL.D. there in 1910 and an LL.D. degree from the New Hampshire State College in 1913.

In the fourteen years during which Dr. Waters headed the Missouri agricultural college the institution grew in size and importance and became one of the leading colleges of its kind in America. Many new buildings were added and divisions of agricultural instruction included in the curriculum. In the last year of his tenure as dean of the college of agriculture, Dr. Waters served as president of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture. He resigned as dean in 1909 to accept the presidency of the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan. When Dr. Waters came to Missouri as dean of the College of Agriculture, the college boasted only twenty students. It had obtained the opposition of farm organizations throughout the state and had been condemned bitterly.

Two years later the state legislature gave the college its first independent appropriation and four years later it was supported strongly by the agricultural interests of the state. When Dr. Waters resigned in 1909 there were more than 700 agricultural students enrolled.

Dr. Waters perfected and developed the extension system of teaching agriculture by mail to those students who were unable to attend the college in Columbia.

A state survey sponsored by Dr. Waters was begun to determine Missouri's resources in soils, forests and streams. An investigation in animal feeding instituted by the dean, attracted attention throughout the world. Much of the present knowledge as to the proper scientific feeding of swine is based on the results of Dr. Waters' experiments.

Dr. Waters was married to Miss Margaret Ward Watson, June 3, 1897. He is survived by her, his mother, Mrs. Lavinia J. Waters, Los Angeles; one son, H. J. Waters, Jr., Columbia; two brothers, Dr. Baxter Waters, pastor of the Budd Park Christian Church, Kansas City, and W. S. Waters, Vandalia; three sisters, Mrs. A. N. Lindsey, Clinton, Mo.; Miss Julia Waters, Los Angeles; Mrs. John K. Briggs.

W. M. Godwin, Pe.P. '84, Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Clinton, Mo., sent the following story in connection with Dr. Waters:

"I was a student in the University of Missouri at the time Dr. Henry J. Waters was the lone 'hayseed' of the institution, and always admired him for his many qualities as a student and friend.

"One of the incidents of his college life occurred on his graduation day.

"A great political storm had beat about the head of Dr. S. S. Laws, then president of the university, because of his determined, even obstinate, advocacy of the establishment of a department of agriculture.

"Since there were perhaps sixty graduates from the departments of arts, science, pedagogy, law and medicine, it was contended they were worth while, whereas there being only one from the department of agriculture, it was a waste of money and folly to continue it.

"After Dr. Laws had delivered the sixty or so diplomas to the graduates of the other departments he stopped and told in substance the following story:

"Once there was a conclave of the females of the jungle. Like the more civilized matrons, the conversation was about their young. Each mother made her boast. The tigress that she gave birth to three or four whelps at a time. The bear boasted of as many as six or eight; the 'possum presented her litter of fifteen, and so on. After all except the lioness had had their say, the others began to deride her because she gave birth to but one cub at a time. Lifting her head above all the rest she replied, it is true I give birth to but one at a time, but he is a lion.'

"Turning to the completion of the delivery of the diplomas, in thunderous tones, Dr. Laws called, 'Bachelor of agriculture, Henry Jackson Waters.'

"The applause drowned whatever else might have been said.

"A pleasing, potential prophecy, powerfully fulfilled."

B. T. Galloway, B. A. and B. S. '84, LL. B. '02, botanist and plant pathologist Washington, D. C., attended the funeral of Dr. H. J. Waters.

The Memorial Union and Stadium

Work on the second unit of the union is progressing satisfactorily and the wonderful beauty of the Tower increases day by day, as the various layers of stone are put into place.

The Board of Curators is advertising for bids on the first unit of the Stadium to cost $300,000 and they expect to open the bids about the first of December. They have borrowed $200,000 on the Stadium pledges. If all subscribers will pay the amount now due on their pledges, the Board can let the contract for the first unit promptly and can push the work rapidly. They cannot do this, however, unless pledges in arrears are paid up. Will you not at once pay the amount due on your pledge, or as much of it as you can, even if you must make some sacrifice to do this?

If you cannot pay now, perhaps you could send in a predated check for the amount due. If you could conveniently pay your entire pledge, it would assist us greatly. Many of our subscribers are doing this. We are counting on your help.

The Tigers, by winning over Kansas Aggies and Ames, have further demonstrated the power of the Missouri spirit and have shown how worthy they are of your efforts in their behalf to furnish them a bigger and a better Stadium. Under the direction of Miss Mazie Mills, President of W. S. G. A., a campaign is now being put on for the collection of all arrears on pledges made by students in the last campaign. In this work Miss Mills has chosen about one hundred girls as her assistants.

The Memorial Committee of Nine has appointed a Committee to make up the list of names to be inscribed in the Memorial Tower. This Committee consists of E. M. Stayton, Kansas City; Eddie Klein, St. Louis; and Verne Wilson, Jefferson City. The Committee is now preparing the official list that will constitute our Honor Roll.

While you are in Columbia on Homecoming Day do not fail to examine the Memorial Tower, and imagine how beautiful it will be when it rises to approximately the height of the derrick now surmounting it. Then walk out south of the Golf Links and look at the ideal location chosen for the Stadium and imagine how attractive it will be in its superb setting. You will have a feeling of intense satisfaction in the reflection that you have a part in both of these fine Memorials.

Kansas Aggies Give Missouri Real Scrap in Mud to Win, 3-0

The Tigers defeated the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan on October 24 by the score of 3-0. Captain Whiteman scored the 3 points on a place kick in the third quarter. The kick was made on the fourth down after the Tigers had carried the ball to the Aggie 2-yard line. In this same period Bacchus blocked an Aggie punt and recovered the ball on the Aggie 1-yard line where the Tigers were held for four downs.

The game was played on a rain-soaked, slippery field. Glenn Smith, center, was absent from the line-up on account of an influenza attack. Studebaker's punting was missed tremendously in the game.

The team was without the assistance of Coach Gwinn Henry during the week preceding the Aggie game. Coach Henry was called to his home in Brownwood, Texas, on account of the illness and death of his father. He returned to Columbia in time to make the trip with the team to Manhattan.

The Tiger line-up included: Bacchus, l; Lindenmeyer, lt; Walker, lg; Ferguson, c; Richerson, rg; Stafford, rt; Coglizer, le; Stuber, qb; Whiteman, rrb; Clark, lhb; Jackson, fb.

Only two Tiger substitutions were made—Grantello for Whiteman and Miller for Richerson.

Coglizer blocked an Aggie place kick in the last Aggie play of the game, when it looked as if they were going to tie the score.

Harry E. Reed, B. S. in Ag. '14, of the department of Animal Husbandry, Kansas State Agricultural College, Roy M. Green B. S. in Ag. '24, and Frank L. Duley, B. S. in Ag. '14, A. M. '15, loyal representatives of the Manhattan Alumni Association met the Tigers on their arrival and offered every courtesy to them.

The Kansas Aggie cross-country team, valley champions, won the cross-country run at Manhattan on October 24. Score: Missouri, 40; Aggies, 15.

PRIZE IS OFFERED FOR NEW UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI SONG

By JAS. T. QUARLES
Dean of the School of Fine Arts

It has long been felt among loyal Missourians that there was a great need for a song which should embody the true Tiger spirit, so frequently displayed in athletic and other campus activities. The "Alma Mater", with its stately movement, does not exactly fill this need, although it is beloved of all the Alumni of our Alma Mater. It is not a distinctive Missouri song, for the reason that some half dozen other schools use it for their Alma Mater.

The Glee Club, at its appearance at the contest in New York, experienced this lack of identification with Missouri when it sang the "Alma Mater". To the ears of most college men of the east, it is regarded as the Alma Mater of Cornell University and, therefore, cannot be distinctive of Missouri.

A good, aggressive song is, therefore, an imperative need of the University. It would be most valuable for stirring up enthusiasm of all types of Missouri meetings, among the Alumni as well as among the student body.

Realizing this need, an enthusiastic and loyal Alumnus of Missouri has offered a prize of $50.00, to be awarded for the best song which should embody the true Tiger spirit. This Alumnus wishes to remain unknown. The conditions of the contest are as follows:

A marching song embodying the true Tiger spirit, and suitable for mass-singing is believed to be a real need in the University life. The contest is, therefore, instituted for the purpose of stimulating the production of such a song.

1. The words to be original and to be intimately related to the life of the University.
2. The music to be original, with a strong rhythmic swing, and devoid of complexity. The range of the melody must not exceed the interval of the tenth, namely C to E. It must be suitable for mass-singing.
3. This contest is open to all members of the student body, the Faculty and the Alumni of the University.
4. All manuscripts to be signed with a nom-de-plume, the real name to be placed in a sealed envelope signed with the nom-de-plume and attached to the manuscript.
5. A prize of $50 to be awarded for the song selected. No prize will be awarded, however, unless a song of suitable excellence be submitted.
6. The contest will close on the 1st day of May, 1926. If no prize is awarded in this contest, a new contest may be instituted for the following year.
7. The judges will consist of the Dean of the School of Fine Arts, the Director of the Glee Club, the Director of the University Orchestra, and the President of the Glee Club.

8. Manuscripts must be handed in to the office of the Dean of the School of Fine Arts, on or before May 1st, 1926.
9. The winner to whom this prize is awarded will relinquish all rights of copyright and publication, including rights of renewal, to the Glee Club of the University of Missouri.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR PRESENTS A STONE TO SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, presented a stone taken from St. Paul's Cathedral in London to the School of Journalism Nov. 10. The stone is the gift of the Institute of British Journalists to the School of Journalism of the University.

An academic procession formed in Jesse Hall at 2 o'clock. As the ambassador appeared on the steps a salute of nineteen guns was fired by the artillery of the R. O. T. C. unit. This is the first time in the history of the University that it has honored the ambassador of a foreign nation.

The procession marched to the stone that had been placed in front of Jay H. Neff Hall. Here a speech of presentation was made by the ambassador and response was made by G. D. Dealey, vice-president of the Associated Press and president of the A. H. Belo Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas.

Following the ceremony the procession marched to the University Auditorium where the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on Sir Esme Howard, Admiral Robert E. Coontz, and Mr. Dealey.

The stone will be used as the base for a meridian plate that was given to the School by the graduating class of 1925. On this plate the distances from the school to the larger cities of the World are given.

The ambassador and his party arrived in Columbia from St. Louis Tuesday morning. They were the guests of Marshall Gordon for breakfast. At noon a luncheon was given in honor of the ambassador and Mr. Dealey by the Round Table Club. In the evening a banquet was given by the University at the Daniel Boone Tavern.

Journalism Folk Coming, Too.

Miss Sara Lockwood, secretary of the Journalism Alumni Association, is anxious to have all of the alumni and former students of the School of Journalism assemble in Neff Hall at 9 o'clock on Homecoming morning, November 14, to participate in a Journalism "hand shake." Rex B. Magee, of Jackson, Miss., president of the Journalism Alumni Association, will preside with Dean Walter Williams acting as chief hand shaker. The Journalism alumni never lose an opportunity to have an enthusiastic gathering and their first Homecoming meeting this year promises to be such an outstanding success that it will be an annual party.

Debating Board Had to Hold Extra Evening for Tryouts

THE interest in debate has been higher than usual this year," said G. W. Hulbert, debate coach, when he announced that the Kansas-Missouri teams would meet on about December 10th, in Columbia to discuss the question: Resolved, that the United States should enter the World Court.

So many students appeared in the preliminary contests that the debating board authorized an additional evening of tryouts. This was never done before. Sixty students competed for places on the squads.

In the preliminaries the debating board consisting of J. W. Rankin, H. G. Brown, and S. I. Langmaid, judged. The following students were chosen for the freshman squad: T. L. Carroll, M. M. Christensen, K. M. Gentry, Vincil Harmon, R. H. Moore, H. E. Raber, G. C. Ross, and Clyde Welman. The following upperclassmen were chosen for the Varsity squad: A. K. Anderson, Lewis Atherton, J. P. Bradshaw, E. C. Frye, Elza Johnson, L. N. Manley, Mary L. Ramsey, C. F. Shubert, H. G. Sigman, and George Wise.

These are the schools with whom the University will hold debates: Washington University, University of Iowa, University of Kansas, and the University of Oklahoma. Probably there will be an additional debate or two with teams travelling through the state.

The interest of the women students was the principal feature in the debate tryouts. Eight came out, and one succeeded in winning a squad position. Miss Ramsey is from Knobnoster, Mo., and has had no debating experience. She has been very active, however, in the women's forensic organization on the campus.

than his hourly wage. We are thus losing the interest of aesthetic creation and this I believe accounts in most part for an apparent sloppiness of work about which we hear so much complaint.

The development of judgment is a slow process in any case and for that particular product called aesthetic judgment the process is perhaps slowest of all. It cannot be acquired by reading a book or two about the history of art, or visiting an art gallery once or twice. It must instead be developed by daily exercise over a long period of time. Consequently our ultimate hope is in the public schools wherein our children may have daily opportunity to grow in aesthetic appreciation, not necessarily because there is a special teacher of art, but because every teacher will know the necessity of unfolding this too often neglected side of the child's nature. It would scarcely be an exaggeration to say that nationwide instruction in aesthetic appreciation is of as great practical worth as the study of arithmetic.

For the fulfillment of these aims, it is clear that one of the major needs of the University is a building that shall serve the double purpose of housing and protecting our accumulated works of art in such a manner as to make them duly accessible to the student body. And the further purpose of providing rooms suitable for the developing and perfecting of the instruction in art.

The immeasurable good that an art building could do if situated here where it can annually influence thousands of young men and women surely destined to become leaders in the communities in which they will live, should make an irresistible appeal to some one seeking to write his name as one who has used his resources for the great benefit of mankind.

The importance of the work justifies the erection of such a building at State expense, but because, in the public mind, the practical value of the aesthetic is less clear than it is of many other subjects, there is no hope that the needs of art can be provided for until many other urgent needs are supplied.

Thus there lies before any man or woman of vision a great opportunity to provide at the University an Art Building that will, because of conditions here, render an immeasurable service.

B. and P. A. Alumni to Organize

Dean F. A. Middlebush of the School of Business and Public Administration, has issued an invitation to all of the alumni and former students of the B. and P. A. School to come back to the University and Columbia for Homecoming on November 14. He is particularly anxious for the alumni and former students to meet in the B. and P. A. Building from 9 to 10:45 on the morning of November 14 and at that time perfect a permanent organization of the alumni and former students of his division.

Royal D. M. Bauer, B. S. in B. A. '23, representative of the alumni of the School of B. and P. A., on the board of directors of the general Alumni Association, is taking an active part in bringing about a successful meeting on Homecoming morning and the permanent organization of the alumni and former students of this division. Hereafter the B. and P. A. alumni will hold their annual meeting at Homecoming time. Permanent officers will be elected on November 14.

Reception for Ag. Alumni Nov. 14

Dean F. B. Mumford and Mrs. Mumford of the College of Agriculture, with the assistance of W. A. Cochel, Kansas City, and P. F. Showengerdt of Columbia, president and secretary, respectively, of the Agricultural College Alumni Association, will hold a meeting and informal reception in the library of the New Agricultural Building, from 9 to 10:45 on Homecoming morning. All Ag Alumni and former students are urged to assemble there.

BARNWARMING STUNT PULLED OFF WITH USUAL PEP AND FUN

The Barnwarming, the annual dance of the students of the College of Agriculture, said to be one of the biggest student stunts in the United States, was held in Rothwell Gymnasium, October 29, the night before the Ames game. The Gymnasium was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and fodder and baled straw. Entrance to the Gymnasium was by a sliding chute and a typically arranged barn lot. The alumni booth included every comfort for visiting alumni with a bountiful supply of ginger bread and apples. Outside, west of the Gymnasium the Ags had prepared a typical barnyard scene for those who did not care to dance. Provision was made for a Weiner and marshmallow roast.

Miss Rita Smith of West Plains was crowned Harvest Queen and presented by Dean F. B. Mumford. The orchestra platform was suspended from the ceiling and was appropriately decorated. A special edition of the College Farmer called the "Barnwarming Extra" was distributed after the Queen was crowned.

There were many special features on the dancing program, with the Harvest Moon in all its glory, square dances, jiggling contests. There was also a hog-calling contest, participated in by C. L. Brewer, Director of Athletics, Bob Hill and Albert K. Heckel, Dean of Men. Dean Heckel won the contest because he teaches a class in citizenship and the freshman class predominates the Ag vote.

As usual, the Barnwarming this year was bigger and better than ever before, due to the diligent efforts of the officers: Thomas Trimble, manager; Homer Young, secretary-treasurer; Norwood Benning, ass't manager; and Tate Sweeney, assistant secretary.

The Ags put on a special stunt at the Ames mass meeting.

John L. (Olie) Olson, B. S. in Ag. '23, manager of the St. Joseph Orchard Company, Dundee, Fla., and Mrs. Olson attended the Barnwarming and the Ames game. Mr. Olson was manager of the Barnwarming in 1922. Floyd Barnhart, B. S. in Ag. '22, of Caruthersville, Mo., attended the Barnwarming and Ames game. Floyd is actively engaged in arranging details for a Glee Club trip in Southeast Missouri.

Paul V. Slusher, B. S. in Ag. '25, Phi Gamma Delta, Lexington, Mo., last year's Barnwarming manager, was a guest at the dance this year.

Dean Kerner Will Welcome Graduates

A meeting for organization of former students in the Graduate School will be held in the corridor of Jesse Hall, on the second floor just outside of the Graduate office from 9:00 to 9:45 Saturday morning, November 14. The purpose of the new organization will be to bring former graduate students together and to promote interest in graduate work among the friends of former graduate students. Acting Dean Kerner will be present to receive all former graduate students whether they have received a degree or not in the Graduate School.

LOS ANGELES

The Los Angeles, California, Chapter of University of Missouri Alumni, whose roll includes names of more than 300 graduates and former students now living in Los Angeles and surrounding cities, met at the University Club of Los Angeles, Friday evening, October 16, to elect officers for the coming year, and to discuss plans for a bigger, better, and more enthusiastic organization in 1925-26.

The first feature of the evening was a very charming dinner, a fitting preliminary for the feast of oratory which was soon to follow. After a suitable interval for the renewing of old friendships and the welcoming of new-comers to our ranks, the retiring president, Porter M. Albright, opened the business session with a direct and forceful speech, reviewing the work accomplished during the past year, and looking forward to even greater growth and development during the coming season. Nominations for the new term of office were then in order, and as the different names were presented, it was entertaining to note the frequent and most appreciative mention of the past presidents Dr. D. Morie Weymann and Porter M. Albright, and their able assistants who have worked with the greatest devotion and self-sacrifice for the establishment of a live alumni organization in this locality.

The following officers were elected for the season of 1925-26: President, Phil S. Gibson, 1204 Loew's State Bldg.; vice-president, Herbert Gawl, 1414 S. Vermont; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Helen H. Pierce, 5028 Stratford Road.

Mr. Gibson's inauguration speech was full of welcome news concerning out Alma Mater, as well as delightful plans for our own gatherings this year, and was enthusiastically applauded by those present. The meeting was then thrown open to all the alumni, who improved the opportunity to bring forward a variety of interesting suggestions for keeping alive the good old Tiger spirit among our membership. The Los Angeles alumni send greetings to all our fellow alumni.

KANSAS CITY

"We had a wonderfully fine crowd of enthusiastic alumni and greatly rejoiced with all other Tiger Supporters at the victory over Nebraska," wrote Mr. Banks. "We are not going to wait another year for a banquet but plan to have a combination dinner and pep meeting on November 16th, the Monday of the week of the big game. Arrangements have also been made for informal luncheon each Saturday at the Lafayette Hotel where all Missouri alumni and former students will find a warm welcome. We have arranged to get together at a radio to listen in to the balance of the Missouri victories."

The Little Rock Alumni Association unaniously endorsed the action of the alumni association in automatically placing the names of all degree holders on the Alumnus subscription list.

St. Louis Alumni Meet Daily

The St. Louis alumni are enjoying immensely the permanent round table that is reserved for them each day at the Busy Bee. The St. Louis alumni are getting the habit now of going to the Busy Bee every day for luncheon at this special alumni round table, where they can get together daily and thrash over alumni and University affairs.

Doesn't This Look Good!

DR. HENRY J. WATERS

The Alumni Association of the University of Missouri wishes to go on record in expression of appreciation of the character, life, and work of Doctor Henry Jackson Waters, first graduate of the College of Agriculture, and to express a deep sense of loss in his untimely death.

His character admirably exemplified the virtues of a stalwart faith, an abounding charity, unquenchable optimism, and a gracious sympathy. His life admirably expressed the virtues of moderation, fidelity, industry, sincerity and earnestness in every relation. His work was done with a vigor, an intellectual honesty, a comprehensive grasp of his field and a devotion to duty such as to inspire cordial cooperation in others.

The Alumni Association has not only lost one of its most distinguished members, who has by his achievements reflected great honor upon his alma mater, but also one whose lively interest and ready counsel were always of the greatest value to the Association.

Curtis Hill

Curtis Hill, C. E. '96, Beta Theta Pi, former Missouri State Highway Engineer and City Engineer of Kansas City, died at his home, 4210 Holmes Street, Kansas City, on Sunday afternoon, October 17. Members of the family believe that his death was the result of injuries suffered June 7, 1918, when he was shot in the head by a contractor, Nicholas Miller, who had become obsessed by a belief that Mr. Hill was oppressing him.

Mr. Hill several times had cautioned the contractor against going ahead on municipal construction without complying with specifications. Miller sat behind a railing within five feet of Mr. Hill at the meeting. He was told that no more money would be paid him for work on the Fiftieth Street bridge over the Blue River until he complied exactly with the plans of the city engineer. In a moment he arose, pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired twice. The first shot grazed Mr. Hill's lip, the second bullet entered his forehead above the left eye.

For several months Mr. Hill lingered between life and death. Then he recovered slowly, and went to Montana for a year. On his return he suffered a relapse and went to New Mexico for a year with his family. But he returned and was able to work after a period. Until the resignation of Robert W. Waddell, former city engineer, Mr. Hill was retained as an assistant city engineer, and last April the city council provided for his retirement on a permanent salary of $3,000 a year. Miller was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and died in prison.

Mr. Hill was born on September 4, 1870, on a farm near Independence, Mo., and received his elementary education in the Rock Creek country school, at Englewood. He won three "M's" in football at the University, played quarterback in 1890-'91, and the year he was captain, in '93. After graduation he went first to St. Louis and obtained work in the sewer department of the city. His record was so satisfactory that in 1905, when Joseph

W. Folk became governor of Missouri, he appointed Mr. Hill state highway engineer. Mr. Hill moved to Columbia, and there initiated the engineering work of the state highway system. His work won praise. When Herbert S. Hadley, Republican, succeeded Governor Folk in 1909, Mr. Hill turned in his resignation. "I'm a Democrat and I guess you don't want me," he said. "You stay until I tell you to go," Governor Hadley replied. And Mr. Hill stayed until March 31, 1913, when Mayor Jost appointed him city engineer of Kansas City.

In both professional and social circles Mr. Hill was highly regarded. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Flora Hill, a son, William Hill, a freshman in the University, and a daughter, Mrs. Clayton Gordon, 4908 Lydia avenue. A second daughter, Miss Katherine Hill, died early last year in New Mexico. Other relatives are four brothers, Dr. William H. Hill, 4210 Holmes Street; Jacob G. Hill, in the transfer business here; Lyle Hill and Adam Hill of near Independence, and a sister, Mrs. Fannie Brooks Abston, Englewood.

Luin R. Carnahan

Luin R. Carnahan, a junior in the School of Law last year, member of Delta Theta Phi, died on October 21 in St. Louis after an illness of three months, following an operation. Funeral services were held at his home at Springfield, Mo.

STUDY OF RURAL COMMUNITY

Bulletin by Prof. Morgan and Prof. Howells Based on Boone County Survey.

"Rural Population Groups" is the title of a bulletin just issued by Professors E. L. Morgan and Owen Howells. It gives a synopsis of a study of Boone County, and seeks to analyze the status and relationships of neighborhoods and communities in a typical Missouri county, and to show what appears to be the present trend in functional responsibility between them.

The results shown should be of value to county extension agents, teachers of vocational agriculture, social workers, secretaries of chambers of commerce, teachers, ministers, and others interested in a rational development of the small town and the open country.

BUSY BEE CANDIES

THE ORIGINAL TURKEY-WALK

This was once a holiday in Virginia and the Carolinas. Competitors were blindfolded, and the one who walked nearest to a certain stake won a turkey.

The sport today—whether it's steak or turkey, whether you're blindfolded or just "pic-eyed"—is to find your way to the Busy Bee Tea Rooms and get in training for the Thanksgiving gorge.

We want to direct the attention of the alumni to the Varsity Band under the leadership of George Venable. The band is a wonderful organization and a great credit and asset to the University. Jean Bradshaw is president of the band of 54 this year. Every band man works hard, practices regularly, plays whenever requested, and that band plays exceedingly well. The band needs permanent financial support to enable them to travel over Missouri for concerts. Watch the band at the Washington game in St. Louis, at the Kansas game at Lawrence. You'll be proud of it.

We are strong supporters of the band, even if we do sell shoes to students and alumni.

Welcome to Homecoming Old Grads

We look forward to Homecoming for we enjoy seeing the students of other days. We have a host of friends among the alumni and former students. They were our customers when they attended the University. Many of them have sent their sons and daughters, now enrolled in the University, to trade with us and scores of them visit the store at Homecoming time each year to purchase clothes from us. We are thankful to the alumni for this patronage. We advertise in the Alumnus to show our appreciation of alumni support.

Please come in to see us when you are in Columbia for Homecoming on November 13 and 14.

Ask Vote on 'Compulsory Citizenship'.

The Student Council has called a special election to permit the students to express themselves regarding compulsory military training. The vote will be taken Nov. 17.

Henry Depping, president of the student body, has received another petition now, signed by 683 students, asking the student council to call a student election within 30 days to vote on the question: "Are you in favor of citizenship being compulsory?"

The course in citizenship is the outgrowth of what the older alumni will remember as "freshman English."

Columbia to Vote on City Manager Plan.

Emmet C. McDonnell, mayor of Columbia, has called a special election for Dec. 8 to vote on whether or not Columbia shall adopt the city manager form of government. Prof. Thomas S. Barclay, A. B. Homecomers!

You don't realize it after quick thought, but in reality you attend Homecoming for more than just to see a football game.

1. You come home to see old friends, classmates and haunts. You want to see the old gang.

2. Important! You want to see how the University has developed. You really are interested and you want to help.

Your help is needed now as never before. Every Memorial Union and Stadium subscriber who returns for Homecoming should visit and inspect the Memorial Tower and the Stadium site, pay up to date the outstanding payments on his pledge and urge others to do so.

The Memorial pledge money is needed. We are strongly behind the two Memorial projects.

METHODIST CORNERSTONE IS LAID

New Church Being Built at Ninth and Locust Streets.

The corner stone of the $325,000
Missouri Methodist Church here was laid on Tuesday, October 20, by Bishop W. F.
McMurry of Fayette.

The corner stone was placed at the north west corner of the church at Ninth and Locust Streets. The stone bears the inscription: "Missouri Methodist Church,
A. D. 1925. Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life."

When completed, the new structure is expected to be one which will compare favorably in size, beauty, and utility with other great church buildings of the state.
The building was started in August.
Completion within the limit of eight months will be made unless unexpected delays are encountered. A house for the pastor, another unit of the building plans, will be built later east of the church building.

The University Glee Club, composed of

THE ROAD OF TRAVEL LUXURY

This little armature, vest pocket size, is used in small motors that drive electric blowers used in hospitals to dry plaster casts.

The Largest and the Smallest

Look carefully at any direct-current electric motor and you will see the "armature," which spins around inside the "field" and converts the electric current into power.

Between the largest and the smallest G-E motors are thousands, of many different sizes, including the small motors that you see on fans, sewing machines, washers, and vacuum cleaners. The General Electric Company is making motors for every kind of useful service.

The girl holds a little armature. Behind it is the largest single unit we have built, for a direct-current motor of 4500 horse power, for use in Detroit to help make automobiles.

Your Catalog Is Your Salesman

IT should be dressed in as good taste as your human representative should. And there is no reason why it cannot be. Paper does not have to be expensive to be attractive. Good looking type costs no more than ordinary type. You do have to pay a little more for the experience that knows how to assemble attractive paper, type, and good workmanship into a superior catalog.

But that experience is worth more, and it will save you some worry and trouble. Most of all, though, it will send out your catalog—your salesman—well dressed, fit to compete with the salesmen from rival businesses or institutions.

Many years of experience in this college town—for a long time printers to the University of Missouri—have built up a plant and a working force that keep our printing out of the realm of the commonplace.
