BONES OF STEEL NERVES OF ELECTRICITY

THE MODERN skyscraper eats electricity and breathes power. Its bones are of steel . . . its arteries and nerves are electric wires. Its heart is the substation below the street level, through which flows electric power to light and ventilate its acres of floor space, to lift its swift, silent elevators, and to paint its soaring contours with floodlights.

Although the electric equipment is but a small part of the cost of a building, it is one of the architect's major tools. For he thinks in terms of service to tenants, earning power for the owner, and beauty to the community. He uses electricity to make the building live.

General Electric serves the architect by supplying every element of electric equipment and accepting responsibility for its successful performance. On anything electrical, whether designed for skyscrapers, homes, or factories, the G-E monogram is a safe guide to dependability.

FOR THE HOME: Millions of American homes are made happier and more comfortable by electric appliances bearing the G-E monogram. These include refrigerators, radio sets, fans, vacuum cleaners; motors for many other electrically driven household devices; MAZDA lamps, wiring systems, and Sunlamps; Hot-point electric ranges and appliances.

FOR INDUSTRY: G-E research and engineering have made important contributions to every basic industry, including apparatus for generating, transmitting, and applying electricity; electric furnaces and heating devices; street, traffic, airport, and Cooper Hewitt lights; Victor X-ray apparatus; equipment for railroad and marine electrification, and for street railways.

SOME BENEFITS OF THE MISSOURI ALUMNUS LIFE SUBSCRIPTION PLAN

FROM THE STANDPOINT OF A SUBSCRIBER:

1. It makes possible the payment in one sum for a life subscription to The Missouri Alumnus, thereby avoiding the trouble and embarrassment of being reminded each year that "Dues are due."
2. It insures the individual keeping in touch with University life, his former schoolmates, and keeps him informed as to all matters pertaining to the University.
3. It is a good investment for him. The money which is paid for a life subscription is invested in interest bearing bonds.
4. It is a safe investment. The contribution becomes part of a fund which is controlled
5. and managed by the Board of Directors of The Alumni Association.
5. It enables him to have a better magazine for the reason that such a method will provide a definite income which will enable the editor to secure better and higher priced advertising, to contract for printing and materials on a much more favorable basis, and to conduct the affairs of the magazine on a much more business like method that formerly, making possible a much higher grade magazine.
6. Such a plan would help solve for many the problem of a suitable gift to the members of the graduating class each year.
7. What a splendid Christmas, birthday or wedding gift.

Christmas and the University

There is a striking similarity between the spirit of Christmas and the spirit of a great—our great—university. There is a likeness of enthusiasm in the two institutions, a certain youthful air of expectancy, a curiosity, a hopeful keen-eyed peering into the future and a crescent interest in oneself and one's companions. There is a healthfulness in both institutions which draws from within the hearts of men and women their very best, and starts mankind off toward new horizons and more worthy goals.

There is an interchanging of gifts; gifts of material things, on the one hand, and of mind, of ideas, of knowledge and of patterns of living on the other. But around all gifts, of both types, is that wrapping of enthusiasm and of kind and hopeful regard which makes happiness contagious and the true vision of success clearer, stronger and closer at hand.

Christmas at the University—too often considered only as a period of vacant classrooms and empty halls—is like the burning in unison of twin tapers, the union of great, kindred spirits, ever burning brighter. It is a time when thousands of enthusiastic students scatter over the state and over the nation, imparting their enthusiasm and their youthful cheer to all they meet. It is likewise a time when professors and teachers pay visits to other institutions of learning, conferring with their colleagues, and bringing back new strength, new thought, new zeal.

Christmas is also a time when alumni pause for a moment to reconsider what of lasting merit there is in the world about them, and when intelligent people everywhere begin to take an inventory of their common property, looking at all things in a new light of cordiality, of sympathetic understanding, and of possibilities for service.

The University of Missouri greets its alumni today in the midst of another Christmas season, and to its greeting I add my personal message: A happy Christmas to you all!

The Homecoming Was Great . . .

We're Looking Forward to Even a Greater One Next Year!

By Ed A. McLaughlin, '31

More than 25,000 people of whom at least half were alumni returned to the campus of "Old Missouri" this year for a glorious Homecoming celebration. There was everything here to keep everybody occupied all the time for the entire three days. The golf tournament was the opening event on Friday, followed by the big mass meeting that night in Brewer Field House, and the big bonfire afterwards on Rollins Field. There were at least 8,000 people at the mass meeting, and there must have been 10,000 at the bonfire.

The Homecoming committee spent hours of planning and preparation for the big event, and there was plenty of excitement.

It might be well to suggest here that our larger mass meeting in the future, should be held in the open with an efficient speakers' amplifying system arranged. Since Brewer Field House was built primarily for athletic events and not speaking programs, acoustic properties are not so good, even with an amplifying system.

The Homecoming "Frolic" was held shortly after the bonfire and was attended by approximately 300 persons. A number of fraternity and sorority dances also were held on the same evening.

A very befitting ceremony of which Gov. and Mrs. Henry S. Caulfield and President Walter Williams were the central figures inaugurated construction on the South Wing to the Memorial Union. The ceremony on Saturday morning followed a parade of the University R. O. T. C., and a processional of state and University officials from the South steps of Jesse Hall down Memorial Avenue to the Tower. Brief addresses were delivered by several prominent Missourians who have been connected in various ways with the progress of construction on the Memorial Union.

A great number of reunion breakfasts, luncheons and dinners at Columbia's cafes and hotels added to the atmosphere of the three-day program. Several of our alumni associations held their annual election of officers, while other organizations convened merely for renewing old acquaintances and discussing the football situation as it existed when "they were on the campus."

The usual greetings by means of shaking the hand and slapping the back, methods that are always befitting at Homecoming were in evidence from one end of Columbia to the other. Bob Hill was swamped as usual, but try as you may, Bob will always keep calm. He's just grown that way through the ages.

The crowd exceeded expectations of almost everyone, although adequate provisions had been made to care for 35,000 had they "just happened" to have tried a surprise. But summing everything in just a few words, the Homecoming was great, and here's looking forward to even a greater one next year.

Dr. E. L. Miller Heads "M" Men
Dr. Edwin L. Miller, A. B. '08, Physician of Kansas City, was elected President of the M Men's Association and Freshman Coach Anton J. Stankowski, B. S. Ag. The alumni speaker, V. R. Overturn, of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., talked on the subject "What the School of Business and Public Administration has done for the Alumni."

Dean F. A. Middlebush spoke on the progress of the School of B. and P. A. and reported an increase of approximately ten per cent in the school enrollment.

Greene; Counselor, 1930-35, Dr. Winford L. Post, Joplin; representative on the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association, Dr. E. Lee Miller, Kansas City.

Plans for the legal incorporation of the association under the name of the University of Missouri Medical Alumni Association, submitted by out-going officers, was adopted.

Report of the McAlester Memorial Committee was also heard. This committee is in charge of the organization of the Andrew Walker McAlester Memorial Foundation for the promotion of popular medical education among the people of the state of Missouri. This memorial fund is to be established by subscription or request. Dr. McAlester was dean of the medical school from 1872 to 1909.

The association also paid its respects to the memory of Dr. Guy L. Noyes, former dean of the School of Medicine of the University, by standing in silence for one minute.

CORRECTION

Miss Helen Dahnke, B.J. '25, now Mrs. Tom Little, on the staff of The Tennessean, Nashville, was reported among the deceased in the October Alumnus. This was an error and we regret exceedingly that the mistake was made. The notice was meant to cover the death of Mrs. Norman D. Humphries of Detroit, Mich., formerly Nelle P. Dahnke, who died on December 28, 1929, in Detroit, and left an infant daughter, Nancy Nelle Humphries. Mrs. Humphries worked in the Secretary's office of the University one year. She was a member of Chi Omega.

FUNCTIONS AND NEEDS OF THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

By Dean W. J. Robbins

A Graduate School consists of a faculty, of the Student Body, of material items such as buildings and books, laboratories and other equipment and of a Spirit—the spirit of investigation and research, of penetration beyond the boundaries of knowledge into the realm of the unknown. The days of the covered wagon are gone. No longer can adventurous pioneers move out to the edge of civilization and battle with nature. But there is still a frontier—the frontier of knowledge which, for its extension, demands the same qualities as those required of the pioneer; restlessness, initiative, courage, persistence, faith and a desire to conquer.

The graduate faculty and the student body of the Graduate School are pioneers at the frontier of knowledge. The place of the axe, the rifle and the plow of the old pioneer is taken by the libraries and the laboratories of the modern university. The early development of our country depended upon the success of the original pioneers. Our present civilization with its comforts and conveniences is the result of the efforts of these modern pioneers, and its continued existence depends upon their success.

When they conquer a new fact an entire field may be opened for human happiness. The development of modern medicine rests to a considerable extent upon the results of the investigations of Pasteur into the purely academic question of the origin of life. One Newton, one Virchow, one Willard Gibbs, Hertz, Maxwell or Einstein can change the entire order in his respective sphere and give us fundamental truths which modify, even revolutionize, the entire life of peoples.

The University of Missouri, through its Graduate School has played a role of increasing usefulness in this great endeavor. What does it need to continue in this new pioneering a part worthy of a state with its history, material resources and people?

First. The greatest need is men and women with the time for research and ability to do it. No matter how excellent the building, the library and the laboratory facilities nothing can be done without these men and women. The University is now organized largely on the basis of a teaching institution. Productive research should be recognized as a University function and responsibility. Adequate provision should be made for it. This means money for additions to the staff of people of the highest ability; money to relieve able men and women from teaching and administrative responsibility; money to retain men and women on the staff who are now attracted by the higher salaries offered by other institutions and by industry. We cannot expect pioneering to be done by those already fully occupied in tilling the cultivated fields, nor can we expect them to do their work here if greater material rewards and professional opportunities are offered elsewhere. The University of Missouri in its Graduate School should be occupied with the solution of state, national and international problems. This is a responsibility which, from its location in the center of the United States, its material resources and the character of its people the state of Missouri bears.

Second. Funds are needed for research. The Graduate School has no money available for assisting able investigators. The publication of an important piece of research is delayed or prevented because of the lack of $50 to prepare illustrations or to meet part of the cost of printing. The efficiency of a research man is decidedly handicapped because of the lack of funds to supply him with the necessary assistance. There should be available a Liquid Research Fund which could be devoted to those investigations most fundamental, most promising and most in need of assistance. We pride ourselves upon our efficiency. Yet we will not provide a highly trained and capable investigator—and they are only too few—the assistants with whose help he could multiply his own efforts and fructify his ideas. Research is not a luxury to be done in spare time with inadequate facilities. It is a necessity and must be treated as such.

Third. Funds are needed for fellowships and scholarships in the Graduate School. Even at the low stipends now available from 85 to more than 100 applications are received annually from eager young men and women who desire to prepare themselves for productive research. Not more than 15 or 18 out of the number which now apply can be assisted, and those but meagerly.

An examination of the staff of any University or large industry will show that our supply of highly trained men is insufficient and that we are annually bringing from Europe a considerable number of young investigators trained in the research laboratories of Europe. No criticism can be offered of the usefulness nor of the character of these men. They add to our resources. At the same time our obligation to develop our own investigators cannot be disputed. We should make it possible for those with the desire and the ability to prepare themselves for careers of future leadership in investigation and research.

Fourth. The work of the Graduate School is considerably handicapped by deficient library facilities. Some departments are unable to give work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy because of the lack of books. Some are forced to send to other libraries for the work of their candidates for the degree of Master of Arts and in all departments faculty and students suffer from the limitations in library facilities.

Fifth. Assistance is needed for publication of the results of research. Scholarly and important work by members of the faculty and students remains unpublished and available only for those few who have access to the manuscript itself because of the limitation of funds for publication.

Sixth. The work of the Graduate School is handicapped by the lack of sufficient laboratory facilities. Graduate students in some departments are working in basement rooms and members of the faculty are forced to limit their investigations because of lack of laboratory space, greenhouse space or field plots.

Whether Missouri plays as significant a part in the new pioneering as it did in the old depends upon how the state and the people of the State of Missouri regard this modern type of pioneering and upon the intelligent assistance of the alumni of the University of Missouri. We should look forward to a University which acts as a center for research of state, national, and international importance—an institution through which the state of Missouri can contribute its part to the progress of civilization.

Berryman Henwood Appointed
Missouri Supreme Court

* * * * *

Berryman Henwood, LL. B. '04, cum laude, Phi Delta Phi, of Hannibal, who has been a commissioner of the Missouri Supreme Court since April, 1927, and was assigned to Division Two of the criminal division of the Supreme Court, was on November 25 appointed by Governor Caulfield, Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court, to fill the unexpired term of Judge Robert F. Walker, who died on November 19, 1930. Judge Henwood assumed office immediately. His appointment is until January, 1933.

Judge Henwood married Miss Adele Tucker, who was enrolled in the University for one year. They have four children, a son, Berryman Junior, nine, and three daughters, Marion, twelve, Virginia, sixteen, and Ethelyn, nineteen. Ethelyn has been enrolled in the University.

Forensic activities for the month of November included two debates and a peace oratorical contest. The first Missouri debate of the year was held on Nov. 22, at which time a University of Missouri team, James Wilson of Bethany and Sheridan Morgan of Kansas City, upheld the affirmative of the question: Resolved, that the chain store is detrimental to the best interests of the American public. High school debaters and their coaches throughout the state were guests at the debate which was held largely for their benefit since they are using that question this year. Washington University defended the negative.

On November 25 the University's international debate of the year was held. Hans Juergan Graf Blumenthal and Herbert Schaumann, representing the National Union of Students of Germany, defended American culture by upholding the negative of the question: Resolved, that the foreign indictment of American culture is justified. The affirmative was represented by R. Jasper Smith of Springfield and Albert Reeves of Kansas City, both of whom were on the Missouri squad last year. The debate attracted a large audience and although both Germans spoke with a pronounced foreign accent they held the attention throughout. Count Blumenthal is a law student while Schaumann is interested in philosophy and journalism.

While in Columbia the German team was entertained with a tea given by Dr. and Mrs. James W. Rankin, a dinner by the Athenaeum Society at which they were made honorary members of Athenaeum, and a reception at the Sigma Nu house.

On Nov. 19 Wallace Palmer of Independence won the peace oratorical contest with his speech, "The Plan for Peace." Mr. Palmer spoke at the University of Missouri's representative in the finals at Jefferson City on Dec. 6.

It was announced on Dec. 1 that Mr. Bower Aly, instructor of English, has been appointed as director of forensic activities to succeed Professor Wilbur E. Gilman who has resigned to serve as chairman of a committee which is conducting a survey of the teaching of speech in Missouri. Mr. Aly was formerly associate director.

REQUIRED OF ENGINEERS

Enlargement of the "cultural" subjects required of graduates of the College of Engineering has been announced by Dean E. J. McCaustland who said that "we of the engineering faculty are convinced that the engineer should not be without the graces of civilized speech and writing."

In addition to the six required hours of freshman composition, engineering students are now required to take three hours of public speaking and two hours of technical writing, a course offered especially for the engineers. To quote the Dean: "It was recently called to my attention that we now require more English study of our students than is required in the College of Arts and Science."

The annual income shall be used for the aid of needy and worthy boys in acquiring an education at the University of Missouri.

Mr. McDermand had lived in Kansas City since 1901. He was President of the Columbia Hog and Cattle Powder Company. His son, Frank R. McDermand, Jr., now head of the Company, was enrolled in the University in 1918, '19 and '21.

RUSSELL THOMPSON PRESENTS ELECTROMATIC TYPEWRITER TO M. U.

Russell G. Thompson, B. S. E. E. '14, Tau Beta Pi, Sigma Xi, designer of the new electric typewriter, manufactured by the Electromatic Typewriter Co.,

Rochester, N. Y., has presented one of his machines to the College of Engineering of the University, according to President Walter Williams. The machine was a personal gift to Professor M. P. Weinbach of the College of Engineering. Mr. Thompson was a student in electrical engineering under Professor Weinbach. The Electromatic typewriter was the subject of an article in the November issue of THE ALUMNUS. The machine has created quite a lot of discussion among the Engineering alumni.

CHINESE STONE LIONS FOR JOURNALISM WEEK

Dr. H. H. Kung, minister of industry, commerce and labor of the National government in China, has given two stone lions to the School of Journalism and has notified President Williams that they will arrive here in time for formal dedication during Journalism Week, May 3-9. The stones, weighing 3500 pounds each, come from Chufu, birthplace of Confucius, where they stood for five centuries. Dr. Kung is a lineal descendant of Confucius. The lions will be placed before Neff Hall and stand as a token of Chinese-American amity. President Williams has invited the Chinese minister to the United States to present the lions on behalf of the Chinese Government as a part of the Journalism Week program.

Paul Claudel, French Ambassador, and Robert Dollar of steamship fame, have accepted President Williams' invitation to attend the Journalism Week exercises.

CHICAGO ALUMNI START MONTHLY MEETING SERIES

Miss Mary Leitch, Secretary of the Chicago Alumni Association, writes that on October 29 the Chicago Alumni held a most successful meeting. Reinhardt Egger was in charge, Mrs. Egger was at the piano and the peppy C. Franklin Parker led the congregational singing. Mary writes that the Chicago alumni make up a "staid and sober group." Knowing them as we do, we promptly reply, "sez she." There was a delightful illustrated talk about Illinois, followed by a trip to the Chicago Daily Tribune for an educational tour of what Mary terms is "The World's greatest newspaper." Everyone agreed that this meeting was a fine sample of good times together.

On December 18 the whole Chicago bunch made a visit to Chicago's chinatown. The best picture to give this fine party is to quote the itinerary:

- 6:30 P. M.—Leave for Chinatown by motor coach.
- 7:00 P. M.—Five course Chinese dinner at the Won Kow (pronounced "one cow" Restaurant).
- 8:00 P. M.—Visit Chinese City Hall, Court Room, Tong Headquarters, Shrine, etc.
- 9:00 P. M.—Visit Chinese newspaper plant—(this will be quite different from the Tribune plant!)
- 9:30 P. M.—Shopping tour—visit Chinese department store, where you can do your Christmas shopping late!
- 10:30 P. M.—Leave Chinatown on return trip. Motor coach will stop at your request at any point on route where you may wish to debark.

Now, wasn't that some fine party

Then there are the meetings which the Chicago alumni call their "series of sectional meetings," which are held in the odd months. The first one of these was held at the home of Mrs. Catherine Jones Kuhlman, 5819 Blackstone Ave., for alumni who live on the south side. On November 22 Mrs. Roberta K. Darr, Vice-President of the Chicago alumni, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Darr made every man bring a package of cookies or two cup cakes and each lady had to bring four sandwiches. It sounds mighty funny to hear of men in Chicago carrying cookies around. Mrs. Darr was amazed at the wonderful turn-out. President Egger and his wife came all the way from Niles Center. That Egger boy doesn't leave anything undone to help out in the alumni work. There were twenty-eight at the meeting, including Miss Drinkwater, Mrs. Roemer, Prof. Olmstead and wife, and James Scott, who, by the way is the proud father of a nine-weeks old boy. These sectional meetings will be held in January, March and May.

Leave it to the Chicago bunch to do things up brown. The January meeting will be held on the campus of the University of Chicago at the Theological Seminary. The men have spoken for the May meeting to be "hostesses"—that's what they get for carrying cookies around.

JOURNALISM SCHOOL OFFERS FIRST RURAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER TRAINING

Omar Gray, General Manager

By acquiring control through leases of the Columbia Herald-Statesman, the Sturgeon Leader and the Centralia Courier, all in Boone County, the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri becomes the first school to have its own rural weekly newspapers for providing professional training in that particular field of journalism. The leases were made in November through the University of Missouri Publishing Association, publishers of the Columbia Daily Missourian. Issuances of the three papers in the Missourian plant in Jay H. Neff Hall was begun early in December.

All the editorial, make-up and advertising work on these publications is done under the supervision of the School of Journalism by students enrolled in country newspaper production classes. Omar D. Gray, for many years editor and publisher of the Sturgeon Leader, has been employed as general manager to look after the business affairs of these publications.

The School of Journalism was the first school to have its own general daily newspaper to provide work in the daily field for journalism students. The added publications were necessary because of the continued increase in enrollment in the School of Journalism and because of the necessity to provide additional laboratory facilities for the growing number of students.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLICATIONS

John F. Williams, Journalism 12, formerly assistant secretary of the University, has been appointed Director of Publications by the Board of Curators. Associated with him will be Joseph N. Freudenberger and Robert A. Willier. Mr. Williams' new office is located in room 102 Jesse Hall.

AMONG THOSE PRESENTS

In a Man's Store

The time-honored privilege conferred by the mistletoe may have lost some of its novelty in this unceremonious age. But no matter which, in the last analysis, is considered more blessed, there'll always be a special kind of satisfaction in receiving—and in giving—fine thing to wear for Christmas. Things to be worn with pleasure rather than any overhanging sense of duty—things as useful as they are good looking.

It may be a luxurious cravat, a shirt, a dressing gown or a Dobbs Hat. If it's selected here, you have every reason to know that it will be given and received with equal pride. For what could be more expressive of the forethought which makes a gift appreciated? And in case you don't hit it quite right as to size or color, we join you in assuring him that it will be perfectly all right to exchange it.

TO SALUTE AT TOWER

The United States Army officers on duty with the R. O. T. C. here and the R. O. T. C. cadets in uniform will salute while passing through the Memorial Tower hereafter. This is a fine thing to do and whoever is responsible for this action is to be commended.

Every student and faculty member, in fact, every person who passes through the Tower should, without having particular attention called to it, remove his hat or cap. The very atmosphere of the Memorial Tower prompts this natural action.

EVA JOHNSTON SCHOLARSHIP

The Eva Johnston Scholarship has been announced by the Columbia Branch of the Association of University Women. The scholarship is to be awarded to the girl graduate of a local high school who has made the highest record in her first two years in the University. The name was changed from the Junior Award of the A. A. U. W. "in view of the faithful and efficient service rendered to the A. A. U. W. by Miss Johnston and in view of her high type of womanhood and scholarly ability." Miss Johnston received an A. M. degree from the University in 1895 and a Ph. D. degree at Konigsberg, in 1905. She has been associated with the University for thirty-one years.

CLASS REUNIONS AT HOMECOMING

The Board of Directors of the Alumni Association voted at their last meeting to hold the 1931 class reunions during the week of Homecoming next fall instead of during Commencement Week next spring. This action came as a result of recommendations made by many alumni who were here for class reunions this year. These alumni recommended that the Homecoming class reunions be given a try last year and the results at attendance, enthusiasm and interest be compared with the class reunions held at Commencement time and that the Board again study class reunion attendance following the reunions in 1931, looking forward to some definite policy.

Classes scheduled to hold Reunions in 1931 at Homecoming time are 1925, 1921, 1916, 1911, 1906, 1901, 1896, 1891, 1886, 1881, 1876, 1871, 1866, 1861.

This will prove an interesting experiment.

President Williams recently addressed the employees of the University, seeking their cooperation and asking that they acquaint themselves with their work and with each other and asked them to always be courteous, enthusiastic, and economical, and asked for their loyalty and service to the State.

FLOODLIGHTING THE MEMORIAL TOWER

The members of the Memorial Committee have been asked time and time again to install permanent lights to floodlight the Memorial Tower.

Prompted by these suggestions and realizing the beauty of the Tower when lighted at night, the Committee purchased several flood lights which have been used at Homecoming, Commencement and other important occasions to floodlight the Tower, which lights have been removed immediately after the Exercise was finished.

It would cost approximately $2,000 to purchase and install an adequate system of floodlights for the Tower. The lights would have to be installed on the roofs of the Home Economics, Physics, Horticulture and perhaps the Library Buildings, or they would have to be installed on telegraph poles set up near the Tower, which would detract from its beauty. Either one of these systems would be more or less temporary in view of the fact that within the not too far distant future the wings of the Memorial Union will be completed, the roofs of which will provide ideal facilities for installing an adequate and proper system of floodlights.

Taking these matters into consideration, the Memorial Committee members feel that it would be unwise at this time to spend any more money on floodlights and that Memorial subscribers everywhere will agree with the Memorial Committee.

* ON THE CAMPUS JUST *
* TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO *
* By Rowland F. Smith *
* * * * *

A revival of football, or rather of winning football, was undertaken at the University of Missouri in December, 1905, following a disastrous season which saw K. U. winning again. Student indignation was aroused to the extent of a mass meeting to discuss "ways and means of winning." A new coach was sought. But grid improvements were temporarily in vain, as records reveal that the Tiger waited until the justly-famous 1909 season before trampling pell-mell over the Kansas rivals.

The 1905 Missouri team, however, was praised by all opponents for its spirit and aggressiveness, even if few victories were forthcoming. The newspapers recall a reception given by the university girls at which Harry Rutherford, quarterback, was voted the most popular player.

All athletics were not "down in the mouth" that school year. The track coach, issuing his call to practice during the Christmas holidays, forecast a good season in that sport.

Students were delighted at the long Christmas vacation given by the curators. School was dismissed on December 21 and reconvened on January 4. Few of the 1905 students remained in Columbia. The enrollment had jumped to this new high figure from 1881 of the preceding year.

The original Barnwarming dance was given by students in the College of Agriculture a quarter of a century ago. The celebration was observed at the completion of a new $10,000 barn on the university farm. Dean Waters made an address before the reception and dance took place.

Student dances contrasted strangely with those given by this generation. At the Sigma Chi December party in 1905, newspapers described the three-course luncheon served at intermission. The intermission now, usually fifteen minutes in length, is brief enough to permit only the drinking of a "coke" at the closest soft-drink parlor.

New Phi Beta Kappa members announced included the names of Maud Williams, W. A. Hurwitz, Elsie Wadell, Mac Anderson and Carter Alexander. Prof. L. M. (Daddy) Defoe, who still roams the Missouri campus and is most popular with returning alumni and former students, was elected vice-president of the organization that year.

Steps towards improving debating at Tiger-Town were taken by the organization of a debate club. Dr. A. Ross Hill and Dr. Isidor Loeb were appointed as a faculty committee which was to work with a student organization to interest more Tigers in forensic activities.

At the annual Christmas tree, replaced three years ago by a dance and tree in Jesse Hall, campus leaders and faculty members received all sorts of presents. The tree was presented to students but a short time before vacation started at 4 o'clock on December 21. Other entertainments of the month consisted of the third St. Pat's entertainment for university girls and a concert by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, brought to Columbia by the Y. M. C. A.

During the latter part of the month, the university served as host to 1,000 Missouri teachers who gathered here for their forty-third annual meeting.

Dr. Guy L. Noyes, late dean of medicine here, was appointed to the control of university hospitals. He succeeded Dr. A. W. McAlester, for whom the medical building here is named, who resigned to devote more time to the teaching and administrative duties in the medical school. Dr. Noyes succeeded Dean McAlester as dean of the school several years later and held the position until his death last year.

E. M. Watson, an alumnus of the university, purchased the Columbia Tribune early in December of 1905 and the publication is still printed daily under his direction. The purchase was made from the E. L. Mitchell estate, following the death of that noted Columbian and friend of the university.

The principal social events of the month were the weddings of Miss Nancy George Fish to J. Kelly Wright which took place on December 24 and the marriage of Miss Julia Moss Cauthorn, daughter of Prof. W. A. Cauthorn, to Ross M. Bickley on December 27. The Wrights still live in Columbia and have two children, Esther Rebecca and James Kelly, enrolled in the university. Mr. and Mrs. Bickley live in Pittsburgh. Their sons, William B. and John Rush, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Maxine Allen Bickley, are students here this year.

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE STATE SURVEY PROGRAM

There has been so much discussion concerning the findings and recommendations of the State Survey Commission relating to taxation and revenue, the penal and eleemosynary institutions and the public schools, that it may be worth while to call attention to the interest of the University in this important matter. The study of the needs of the University was conducted under the direction of Mr. Allen McReynolds of the class of 1901. He called to his aid a distinguished staff of specialists who conducted a thorough-going examination of the needs of the institution for additional support and physical equipment.

It was discovered that in the group of twelve states including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Arkansas, in point of attendance and financial support Missouri stands eleventh. Arkansas only standing below Missouri in these two respects.

The recommendations of the Commission based upon the findings of the experts will tend to correct this situation and to place the institution in rank commensurate with the resources of the state.

The specific recommendations cover increased funds for current expenses $747,000.00 per biennium for the first three biennia and $897,000.00 for the last two biennia.

The recommendations of the Commission for additional physical facilities include the following items:

- Additional land for the College of Agriculture.
- Additional land for campus and building sites.
- Alteration of present buildings.
- Service shops and warehouses.
- A Geology Building.
- Two wings for the Library Building.
- Buildings for the School of Education.
- School of Medicine Buildings.
- College of Engineering Building.
- A Dairy Building.
- Greenhouses.
- Botany and Horticulture Buildings.
- Chemistry Building.
- Farm Buildings, Dairy and Animal Husbandry Barns.
- Journalism Building.
- Heating, Power and Water Plant and service lines.
- B. & P. A. Social Science Building.

Fine Arts Building.

Cafeteria.

Auditorium and Administrative Buildings.

Publishing and Binding Plant.

Poultry Building.

Animal Husbandry Building.

This program of increased support and additional equipment extends over a ten-year period and is an integral part of the general Survey program. The broad scope of this plan, including in addition to rehabilitation of the state's institutions and equalization of educational opportunity in the public schools, a comprehensive adjustment of the distribution of taxation, is worthy of the earnest study of the alumni, former students and friends of the University.

Thirty-Five Faculty Members
Have Served the University
Twenty-Five Years or More

By Rowland F. Smith

The old grad returning to the University of Missouri after an elapse of several years often complains: "It's all changed . . . new faces . . . new buildings . . . everything different." Naturally, the institution has grown, and a new generation of students appears every three or four years. But if this complaining "old grad" would poke his head into any one of several offices occupied by faculty members, his tune might be somewhat different. In most every department there would be a familiar face. True, aged a little more from cares and worries, but still recognizable through its maturity.

In this day of large university endowments, millions from one source or another induce prominent professors to teach in other schools; it is refreshing to find loyalty which keeps faculty members at less fortunate universities. And Missouri is, perhaps, the most fortunate of all state institutions.

Listed on the Roll of Honor, an institution composed of faculty members and administrative officers who have remained at the University of Missouri for a quarter of a century or longer, can be found thirty-five names. Two of the men now rank as deans, twenty-seven are full professors, two are associate professors, one an assistant professor, and three are connected with the administration department.

Seniority honors are divided. Dr. B. F. Hoffman, who retired this fall from the Germanic language department, began his career here in 1887 but his record of service was not continuous. This latter record is held by Dr. J. W. Connaway who was first appointed in 1888 and has held a position at the University continuously for forty-two years.

Three deans similarly divide seniority honors among themselves. Dr. Walter Miller, who retired as dean of the Graduate school this fall to become chairman of a new university department, made his appearance at the university four years before Dean F. B. Mumford, of the college of agriculture—in 1891. The Dean of deans, however is Dr. Walter Williams, now president of the university and dean of journalism. He became dean in 1908, one year before Dean Mumford. Dr. Miller assumed a deanship later, in 1914.

Among the associate professors, Dr. Eva Johnston, of the Latin department, is the oldest appointee. She received her initial appointment in 1899 while James R. Wharton, in the mechanical engineering division, accepted a teaching position in 1905.

Miss Caroline T. Stewart wins seniority ranks among assistant professors, having been appointed to the French department in 1902. Miss Estelle Hickok, secretary to the president, is the oldest in the point of service among administrative officers. She has been secretary to presidents since 1901, while Mrs. Ida Cunningham, matron of the fine arts college, was appointed two years later. Leslie Cowan, university secretary, is comparatively a newcomer, since his appointment was effective as late as 1910.

Nine Missouri professors on the Roll of Honor have been teachers here for thirty-five or more years; fifteen have called rolls for thirty or more years. The record of service of all members of the Roll of Honor totals 536 years.

Other "old-timers" who have been on the campus for a quarter of a century or more, all having ranks of professors now, include the following:

H. B. Almstedt, Germanic languages, 29 years; Henry M. Belden, English, 35; Sidney Calvert, organic chemistry, 36; Jesse H. Coursault, history and philosophy of education, 25; Luther M. Refoe, mechanics and engineering, 36; A. H. R. Fairchild, English, 26; Charles W. Greene, physiology and pharmacology, 30; Eli S. Haynes, astronomy, 25; A. Lincoln Hyde, bridge engineering, 27; Louis Ingold, mathematics, 25; Merritt F. Miller, soils, 26; John Pickard, (retired) classical archaeology and art, 38; George Reeder, meteorology and climatology, 26; Herbert M. Reese, physics, 26; Thomas J. Rodhouse, hydraulic engineering, 33; Herman Schlundt, physical chemistry, 28; John R. Scott, (retired), elocution, 33; Oscar M. Stewart, physics, 29; Jonas Viles, history, 28; W. D. A. Westfall, mathematics, 25; Walter S. Williams, topographical engineering, 29.

The Harry Tidd Sigma Chi scholarship of $100.00 offered to the freshman of that fraternity making the highest scholastic average in his first year of college work was awarded this year to Chas. W. Scott, Jr., of Kansas City. Scott also received the Duke N. Parry Scholarship cup. Mr. Tidd is a contractor of Hutchinson, Kan., and Mr. Parry is a newspaper man in New York City.

KANSAS STAYS IN BIG SIX

Jayhawks Agree to New Code and Are Placed on Schedules

For the present, at least, the battle between Kansas and the Big Six is over with the Jayhawkers restored to their former standing in the conference. Doubts exist as to whether Kansas was disciplined or not. Opinions as expressed by athletic followers after the semi-annual meeting in Kansas City stood the faculty representatives of their respective heads.

Geo. R. Edwards
His Sport Page

As usual the meetings were closed affairs with only a prepared statement giving any inkling as to what took place. Several definite steps were taken intended to be guides for future action and attempting to eliminate doubt as to what the Big Six considers as proper in regard to subsidizing and recruiting athletes.

Define Amateurism

A week preceding the regular meeting a conference of the university presidents and faculty representatives adopted the following motion.

"Resolved that it is the sense, and will be the policy of the M. V. I. A. A. that students to be eligible to participate in intercollegiate events of this association shall not receive any subsidy, either directly or indirectly, or any advance payment or guarantee of salary from any source.

This policy shall not be interpreted to prevent any student from obtaining legitimate employment at reasonable and current rates for the services rendered.

That the membership in the M. V. I. A. A. be limited to the institutions subscribing and adhering to this policy."

This resolution simply was a statement of policy that has been recognized as a "gentleman's agreement" among Big Six schools for several years, but has never been placed in black and white before. That a formal drafting of the rule during this discussion was necessary indicates that Kansas had not lived up to the agreement. The athletic organizations of each school voted and passed this resolution in time to have their stand known before the main meeting. Kansas also voted to adopt the measure.

Declare Bausch Ineligible

Another incident had a direct bearing on the case. Jim Bausch, the protested player, was invited to play in the East-West charity game and accepted. It was announced from Lawrence that this acceptance without proper permission automatically made him ineligible for future competition.

With Bausch out of consideration and the K. U. adoption of the conference resolution the way was paved for the solution of the trouble. In order that there should be no more misunderstanding of the conference athletic policies the faculty representatives made a rough draft of a code intended to be a guide for future action. This code is to be studied for possible revision and will be made a matter of special business at the spring meeting.

Among other features this code demands that each member shall abide by the majority vote on any matter,—one of the criticisms of former Kansas actions. The most striking feature is the demand that all decisions of the Big Six eligibility committee be accepted by each member with a punishment of expulsion for any school which refuses.

Put Teeth In Rules

A close study of all of these moves shows that no future pleas of "inadequate charges" can be made; that a majority vote shall be a law; and that decisions of the eligibility committee must be accepted. Since these all were prominent in the Kansas case it can be seen that the conference perhaps is more permanent and powerful than it was before the trouble began.

The Bausch case still is a puzzle. Permission for him to play in a charity game was granted by the conference, and the only basis Kansas has recognized for his disbarment was removed. Whether he can participate in basketball and track must be settled by the eligibility committee. This group also has a disagreeable task in deciding the fate of several other Kansas boys who are said to be on the same payroll that has kept Bausch in funds.

Papers Like Settlement

Most editorial comment finds the writers pleased at the settlement of the threatened rupture. In part the Kansas City Star says:

"The meeting ended with the school representatives believing that the rift which appeared in the conference clouds at the meeting in Columbia several weeks ago, and which was cleared at the meeting here, would tend to strengthen the tie among the schools.

"The air is cleared now," one athletic director put it. "Kansas will feel free to make any charges it might have against other schools. It is confident it will be given a fair deal."

K. U. athletic authorities can find little comfort in the attitude of Gene

Kemper of the staff of an Emporia paper who writes:

"Kansas stepped in the middle of the prostrate form of Jim Bausch Saturday to climb back in the good graces of the Big Six conference. Bausch, as this column predicted last week when he accepted an invitation to play in the East-West game, was tossed as a burning sacrifice at the feet of the other conference members. Perhaps it was the easiest way out of a ticklish situation, but certainly an injustice was done to Bausch in the transaction. Bausch was brought to Kansas, given a clear bill of lading by the school, upheld in his insurance operations until the football campaign was over, and then declared definition of professionalism. Bausch had a season of basketball and track ahead of him and would have been a strong candidate for national decathlon honors. Kansas put up a big front at the start of the Big Six mess but every front has a back and that back was a streak of yellow."

One of the finest of the newspaper comments appeared in the Columbia Missourian. Under the head of "The Prodigal Returns" the attitude of most athletic followers at Missouri is aptly expressed.

"Kansas, the erring son of the Big six conference, has returned to the fold and all has been forgiven. James Bausch, backfield star on the pay roll of an insurance company for business to be delivered after completing his studies, has been declared ineligible and the University of Kansas has agreed to submit the names of all its athletes whose eligibility is questioned by the conference or its committees and abide by their decision. Thus the Big Six remains intact.

No question need be raised as to the victors in the dispute between Kansas and the conference. It is sufficient that the traditional rivalry between Kansas and Missouri extending over forty years will continue and that intercollegiate athletics have been benefited by the general acceptance of higher standards of eligibility by all the members of the conference."

Basketball Prospects Unfavorable

With the close of the football season athletic followers at the University turn toward basketball for entertainment. Speculations as to the probable success of the Tiger quintet have already appeared in the press. Local stories express a hope for a winning team that hardly seem to be sustained by facts.

Missouri won the basketball championship last year in a sensational late season drive. Of the splendid crew that carried the Old Gold and Black a year ago only one regular will be on the team during the early part of the present campaign. Captain Craig, Morgan, Welsh, Baker, and Waldorf have been graduated. Collings and Edmiston will be ineligible until the second semester due to the local scholastic rules. This leaves Charley Huhn as the only returning regular and Herbert Campbell, a reserve guard, as the only other veteran available of the championship outfit. Campbell will be handicapped until January games with a broken bone in his hand suffered in football. The rest of the team must be built from players inexperienced in college competition.

All of the other conference schools are more fortunate. Kansas has five regulars returning who will remember that only a Tiger victory in the last game kept them from the '29 title. Nebraska has four lettermen from their third place team, and two of them among the best scorers last year.

Iowa State lost only one of her six lettermen, and starts with splendid prospects. The Kansas Aggies have seven lettermen from the squad that upset Missouri and almost cost the Tigers first place. Oklahoma never won a game last year, but Coach Hugh McDermott spent the last half of the season developing a promising group of sophomores, and should be back in the running. He has five lettermen.

To expect Missouri's green players to retain the championship in the face of such experienced competition is hardly reasonable.

The prospects, however, are not without some bright aspects. Long Charlie Huhn, 6 feet 6 inches tall, is one of the best players in the conference and will give Missouri the tip practically all of the time. He also is always dangerous around the basket.

Six weeks of practice indicate that the new players have much promise. Jimmy Zinn and Orval Boekmeier at forwards with Norman Wagner, Victor Davis, and Campbell at guards are the most likely prospects. Several others are pushing them for starting places. Among them are Joe Palfreyman, brother of George 'Speed' Palfreyman of the 1913-1914 teams, Herbert Muller Philip Pollock, Roy Smith, and Brooke Daly.

The schedule calls for early season games with Central College, Kansas, Wisconsin, and Washington. Then come four conference games before the close of the first semester.

With Max Collings, Percy Gill, John Van Dyne, and George Edmiston eligible to play during the second semester Missouri should present a dangerous team after the first of February, and may be strong enough to down some of the leaders, as did the football team.

Bittner Elected Captain

Frank Bittner, halfback of Greenfield, Ia., was chosen by the football lettermen as captain of the 1931 grid-iron team. Bittner has completed his second year in the backfield. A provisional letter was awarded him in 1929. This season he took rank with the best of the Tiger backs and saw more service than any other ball carrier.

At the annual dinner for the lettermen held in the Tiger Hotel on Deember 8 the announcement was made that twenty-five players had been awarded the Varsity M in football for the current season, and that six provisional letters had also been earned.

The M winners are: Robert Armstrong, Wilbert Asbury, Hal Austin, James Baker, Frank Bittner, Paul Brayton, Orval Boekmeier, Hubert Campbell, Max Collings, Stanley Cox, George Edmiston, Donald Eaves, Fred Faurot, Clyde Garvin, Luther Kilgroe, Kenneth Kirby, Hadley Kimes, Ira Kimes Lawrence McCauley, Leonard McGill, Grant Morgan, Otha Rawlings, Christy Turner, John Van Dyne, Phil Yeckle.

The provisional lettermen are those whose playing time was too short for the award of the Varsity M, but who will receive the usual M. The six are: Edgar Asbury, Fred Crane, James Doarn, Eldon Ellis, Kelley Heitz, and Elmo Niblo.

KING FOOTBALL RETIRES

The closing games of the football season took Missouri followers to glorious heights of anticipation, dropped them to the depths of despair, then

Refining A Super Service Institution

or What Constitutes A Good Railroad

STANDING STILL now-a-days is equivalent to going backward for almost everything is moving forward more and more rapidly and the person or the institution that stands still soon is left far in the rear of the procession. It is fortunate for America that great changes have occurred, especially in transportation and communication and particularly in railroading.

These changes involve not only the courageous work of railroad managements in developing the railroad transportation plant and the marked increased efficiency with which our railroads are operated but also are noteworthy insofar as is concerned the attitude of the public toward the railroads and the attitude of the railroads and railroad employes toward the public.

It is only a few years since the railroads announced a policy of unusual service. Their sincerity soon was demonstrated and quickly was accepted as a matter of course. That era was quickly followed by the present one. Efforts of railroad men now are directed toward further refinement of super-service institutions.

"What constitutes a GOOD railroad?", is a question easily answered now. A GOOD railroad of course is one that has built up and is maintaining a splendid physical condition. But a GOOD railroad is much more than that! A GOOD railroad is one that collectively as an institution and individually through its officers and men and women lives up to what we are pleased to term the highest ideals of good citizenship. And that means more than merely supporting the government and obeying the laws. At least, so far as railroads are concerned, it does. It means recognition of the duty of all to participate in any worthy civic enterprise and aid wherever possible in the further development of our country—agricultural, industrial, economic, social and spiritual.

The Missouri Pacific Lines as an institution and the entire army of nearly 65,000 employes of the System have a complete realization of the obligation and a clear vision with which to face the future. The Missouri Pacific Lines are the answer to the question, "What Constitutes a GOOD Railroad?" And with the understanding and help of the public we will make it an even better and greater one.

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

I should be sorry to miss an issue. It is at present almost my only contact with the campus activities. This is my third year in Southwest Virginia, a very delightful place. During the past summer I spent three months in Europe, with Miss Gertrude Heller (now teaching in the Bethany, Mo., High School) as one of my traveling companions. Miss Heller is an M.A. from Missouri. We crossed on the same boat with the Albrechts, whom we saw again in Switzerland. We likewise had delightful meetings with Dean Walter Miller in Paris, with Lillian Goucher in Rome, and with Frances and Katherine Jeffers and Hettie McCaul in Oberammergau. It seems easier to meet other alumni in Europe than about here. Dr. Virginia O'Rear Hudson Ph.D., Chicago; A.M. Missouri, is a member of the English faculty here, and also traveled in Europe this summer. My sister, Tessie A. Taylor, now Mrs. H. W. Hendrickson, is living in Merville, Ia., at present. I should like very much to see the new unit of the Memorial Building completed rapidly. I am glad that a beginning is being made."

E. E. Kite, L.L.B. '07, President of the famous U. B. Tiger students, faculty members, alumni, here is luxury at the price often paid for mediocrity.

Aloof from the city's noise, near the University of Missouri, new, modern, fireproof, this is the ideal stopping place for relatives visiting students, for alumni, for the discriminating public generally.

Replete with comfort, modernness and good taste are the forty bedrooms each an outside one, each containing two double beds. A private bathroom, tiled and having tub, shower and electric fan, running ice water and other conveniences, adjoins each bedroom. The basement is a garage, free to guests.

Wire, telephone, write or call for reservations.

This hotel is part of the Sinclair Tavern located one mile west of Columbia on U. S. Highway 40. Close to the hotel is the terminal building containing a 154-person-capacity restaurant serving meals epicures relish and popular for banquets, dinner-dances and other events. Here again the prices are moderate. The French renaissance rest room for women is royal in comfort and beauty.

The other Sinclair Taverns are on U. S. Highway 66 near Rolla, Mo., and Miami and Tulsa, Okla. The hotel at the Rolla terminal is identical in style with the one near Columbia. Both are official A.A.A. hotels.

CAMPUS TALENT PRESENTED IN
"WAITING WITHOUT"

Students of the School of Journalism in presenting their 15th Journalism Show this year at the Hall Theatre on December 10 and 11 brought forth a wealth of excellent talent from every nook and corner of the Missouri campus. The show titled "Waiting Without," a three-act musical comedy and revue consisted of 39 scenes in which 75 students made their appearance, most of them for the first time on a Columbia stage.

Leads in the show were carried by Miss Ruth McAllister, Columbia; George Clay, Kansas City; Dwight Johnson, Kansas City; Miss Vera Pulliam, Columbia; Clark Miller, Little Rock, Ark.; Miss Dixie Brown, Texas; Stanley Bonham, Enid, Okla.; Elliott Redies, Kansas City; and Clarence Coburn, Pembina, N. D. Roy Mason, of Kansas City, was master of ceremonies.

A men's and ladies' chorus, each composed of 16 students, featured several of the scenes. The show this year was written by Maxine Allen Bickley, Columbia; and Frank Gearhart, Kansas City. The former is a sister of Miss Franceswayne Allen, B.J. '28, who assisted in writing and producing "Quack-Quack Quack," the Journalism Show of 1927.

Direction of the show was in charge of E. K. Johnston, professor of advertising in the School of Journalism, who has been connected with five Journalism Shows. He is faculty adviser to the Journalism Students Association. Mrs. Branche Jameson McHarg, Columbia, directed and trained the choruses, and Warren Peterson, Hollywood, Calif., supervised the voices. Johnnie McGuire's orchestra furnished the music from the pit.

The Journalism Show Commission in charge of various phases of the production was composed of Marvin Goforth, Kansas City, general chairman; James S. McAtee, St. Louis, tickets; Evan Moe Rutherford, Rockford, Ill., publicity; Miss Jane Lindsay, Winona, Minn., costumes; Miss Jessie Cosgrove, Muskogee, Okla., supplement to the Missouriian; Ralph Jennings, Columbia, staging; and Miss Patricia Herbert, Kansas City, specialty numbers. Miss Herbert is the author of "Glory Hallelujah," 1929 Journalism Show.

The show was presented to three audiences.

finished with hopes revived for next year.

On a slippery field drenched by continuous rain the Tigers upset all predictions and played the vaunted Nebraska Cornhuskers to a scoreless tie in Lincoln on November 15. The Nebraskans had swamped Kansas a week previous, and Missourians began to plan for a taste of Jayhawk meat.

Homecoming preparations were elaborate and complete. Everything was fine except the game with Kansas,—and that was very pleasant for the Jayhawkers. Missouri made a determined stand in the first quarter; began to yield in the second; and was put too route in the last half.

Without doubt they faced the finest eleven K. U. has ever placed on the field. The invaders were the heaviest university team in America with a starting lineup that averaged 200 pounds to the player. With this tremendous weight they also mived speed and deception. The final score was 32 to 0. It was the largest margin by which a Missouri team has ever been beaten by Kansas.

While Missourians were in the slough of despond Kansans also were a little downhearted when they considered that such a wonderful had been beaten by Pennsylvania and Nebraska by decisive scores. Instead of proudly leading the pack their favorites closed the season with only a tie against the Oklahoma team.

Bruised and battered by the Kansas steam roller little was expected of Missouri when Oklahoma was met at Norman on Thanksgiving Day. The 0 to 0 result of the Sooner-Tiger fray was gratifying from a Missouri viewpoint, and presented much hopes for the squad for next season. The only displeasing feature was the fact that this tie game presented the Kansas team with the championship. The final standings of the Big Six in their round-robin schedule were:

| | Won | Lost | Tied |
|--------------------|-----|------|------|
| Kansas | 4 | 1 | 0 |
| Oklahoma | 3 | 1 | 1 |
| Kansas State | 3 | 2 | 1 |
| Nebraska | 2 | 2 | 1 |
| Missouri | 1 | 2 | 2 |
| Iowa State | 0 | 5 | 0 |

MISSOURI ALUMNI

IN JOURNALISM

This is the title of a booklet edited by T. C. Morelock, B.J. '22, A.M. '27, associate professor of Journalism, and compiled by Miss Lola Anderson, B.S. Ed. '21, B.J. '27, assistant professor of Journalism, which in the main is a directory of the graduates and former students of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri which is just off the press. We of the Barth Clothing Company want to take this opportunity to give our words of praise and commendation to the constructive work that has been done by the Missouri School of Journalism under the leadership of Dr. Walter Williams, the founder of the school, who is now President of the University, and also Dean of the School of Journalism. The book contains "the journalists creed" of which President Williams is the author. Frank L. Martin, associate Dean and Professor of the Theory and Practice of Journalism, also deserves great praise for the work that he has done and since this is an ad-editorial-news story commending the School of Journalism, may I not take this opportunity to give honorable mention to the other members of the faculty, Roscoe B. Ellard, B.J., A.B., A.M., Professor of Journalism; Emery K. Johnston, B.J., A.M.; Eugene W. Sharp, B.J., A.M., assistant professors, and Miss Frances D. Grinstead, B.J., A.M., J. Edward Gerald, B.J., A.B., Floyd K. Bell, B.J., and Wm. H. Lathrop, B.J., instructors in Journalism.

Since the founding of the school in 1908 there has been graduated 460 women and 727 men, a total of 1187. There was one graduate in the class of 1909 and 122 in 1930.

The members of the faculty and the former students and alumni of the School of Journalism should take great pride in what they have done. We are taking this occasion to show our appreciation of their work.

We are also taking this occasion to extend the greetings of the Christmas and New Year season to our host of friends among the faculty, alumni and students.
