

The Missouri Alumnus

To The Journalism Alumni

The Twenty-second Annual Journalism Week just closed was marked not only by the unusually large attendance of Missouri editors and publishers, but particularly by the exceptional number of journalism alumni returning to take part. These alumni, who in former years "sat at the feet" of widely known editors in similar weeks of the past, are now returning not merely to add to their store of journalistic knowledge, but by appearing upon the program to contribute their share in the Week's symposium of ideas and experiences. With the lapse of time since the foundation of this, the oldest School of Journalism, such contribution is natural. The presence and aid of the alumni are most gratifying, and the school and its faculty wish to take this method of expressing their sincere appreciation. May future Journalism Weeks bring you back in ever increasing numbers. There is always a welcome at Jay H. Neff Hall.

Mrs. Hazel Weber of Columbia, President of the Alumni Association of the College of Fine Arts, has announced that the Fine Arts alumni have approved the plans for a foundation similar to that which has been approved by the engineering and the law alumni for their respective divisions. Working with Mrs. Weber to perfect the foundation plans are the officers of the Fine Arts alumni as follows: Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Florence Kelly, Columbia, and Richard Hawkins, Kahoka, Secretary, Frances Arnold, Columbia, representative on the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association, Dillon Greenlee, Curryville.

The Fine Arts alumni plan to do the following: (a) establish prizes in honor of past members of the Fine Arts faculty who have endeared themselves to the alumni, in the expectation that such prizes will stimulate the student of the College of Fine Arts research and scholarship; (b) cooperate with and assist the University in publishing, and keeping to date, an adequate directory of the alumni of the College of Fine Arts; (c) assist in promoting fine arts research by members of the faculty; (d) provide for carrying the result of this research to the fine arts alumni; (e) establish scholarships to assist graduates of the College of Fine Arts in fitting themselves for fine art teaching; (f) assist in the publication or performance of worthy musical manuscripts composed by the members of the faculty of the College of Fine Arts or by alumni of the College of Fine Arts, this to include the copying of orchestral parts where other funds are not available for this purpose, the purpose being to stimulate creative activities on the part of the faculty and the alumni in every possible way; (g) assist in financing art exhibits of original paintings and other art products by the members of the faculty of the College of Fine Arts or alumni of the school. This would include the supplying of frames when necessary, transportation expenses, or any other expenses involved, the purpose being to stimulate creative activities on the part of the faculty and the alumni in every possible way; (h) provide means to enable the Dean of the College of Fine Arts to arrange for fine arts alumni gatherings at the state and national meeting of fine arts alumni and for his attendance at these meetings, or the attendance of a faculty representative; (i) provide for lectures in the College of Fine Arts to be given by distinguished alumni or others upon subjects in which they are specialists. These lectures should be of great practical as well as inspirational value to the students.

THE JOURNALISTS CONSIDER FOUNDATION

Hold Picnic, Elect Officers, and Schedule Homecoming Reunion

Appointment of a committee to consider forming a Journalism Alumni Foundation was authorized by the alumni of the School of Journalism at their annual Journalism Week meeting, held May 7. It was voted that Reinhardt Egger, newly elected president, appoint a committee for this purpose and that it make a report of the feasibility of the project to the Journalism Alumni Reunion in Columbia at Homecoming.

This action was taken following a brief speech by R. L. Hill, Director of Alumni Activities, outlining the plan, which has been adopted by alumni of the School of Law and other divisions. It would provide an endowment fund through which alumni as well as other friends of the school would contribute toward its financial needs.

The meeting was presided over by Charles E. Kane, president, following a picnic supper on the campus adjacent to Neff Hall. Forty-four persons were present. The report of the nominating committee was adopted and the following persons elected to offices in the School of Journalism Alumni Association: President, Reinhardt Egger, Chicago; Vice-President, Prof. Herschel Colbert, Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa; Secretary, Prof. Thomas C. Merdock, Columbia; representative on board of directors of general Alumni Association, J. Harrison Brown, Mexico.

Informal talks followed the transaction of business. Dean Frank L. Martin spoke of the fact that eleven members of the present School of Journalism faculty are alumni of the school. He also expressed a hope that the day of talks by alumni only, which was held Tuesday of this Journalism Week, might be a regular feature. The speakers on this day were as follows:

George C. Butts, editor Marceline News, Marceline, Mo., "The Newspaper and the Youth of the Community."

Rowna Pierce, advertising department Wood's, Kansas City, "Women in Advertising."

Owen Richarés, advertising department Purina Mills, St. Louis, "Wanted: Men and Women who can create ideas and express them on the advertising page."

Thomas W. Parry, St. Louis News Service, "Advertising a City."

Dean Martin, Mr. Kane, and others called attention to the fact that only twenty-five alumni are enrolled as members of the Missourian Association. J. Harrison Brown stated that member-

J. ALLEN SMITH: AN AMERICAN SCHOLAR

History and Life of Former Professor of Political Science

By Thomas S. Barclay, Missouri, '15

The publication during the past year of the final volume of the late James Allen Smith, Missouri, '86 former professor of Political Science in the University of Washington, has served again to direct attention to the work of one of the foremost intellectual figures of the Progressive movement. In this volume, The Growth and Decadence of Constitutional Government, Professor Smith completes his suggestive interpretation of American government and politics which was commenced some twenty years ago in his notable book, The Spirit of American Government. It is now possible more fully to interpret and to evaluate the work of this observant scholar and to accord to him some recognition for the distinctive contribution that he has made to American political science.

J. Allen Smith was born on May 5, 1860, at Pleasant Hill, Missouri. He was the son of Isaac James and Naomi Holloway Smith. His ancestors were Virginians and Kentuckians of English descent; his maternal grandfather, James Allen Holloway, came with his slaves to Missouri in 1835 and lived there the leisurely life of a large landowner. The Smith family had freed their slaves in 1862, but their sympathy was with the South. During his early boyhood, western Missouri was the theatre of military operations conducted by the regular armies while more disastrous and demoralizing had been the irregular warfare of bushwhackers and guerrilla bands. During the years of privation following the war, the boy was pressed into service on his father's farm, and, as times grew better, sent to grammar school and to high school in Kansas City. After teaching in the common schools he entered the University of Missouri, graduating with the degree of bachelor of arts in the class of 1885 and winning scholastic honors which resulted in his subsequent election to Phi Beta Kappa. While at the University, he became a member of the Zeta Phi Fraternity, then a local organization, which later became a chapter of Beta Theta Pi. He was associated with several men who later achieved distinction in various fields of endeavor; among these were Enoch H. Crowder, George R. Dodson, Thomas F. F. Miller, Thomas J. Rubeys, George N. Cheney, and Edward E. Wall.

During the eighties the University of Missouri was chiefly a small cultural college of the liberal arts and sciences, around which were built Schools of Law, of Medicine, and of Engineering, Columbia, the seat of the University, was then a charming Southern village; the University was small in numbers, without much money, but with a tradition of an atmosphere both distinctive and impressive. Intercollegiate athletics and the multifarious extra-curricular activities, which today so dominate the college scene, were unknown. Discussion clubs and debating societies, however, flourished and absorbed the time and attention of many students. Smith studied and read with interest and with enthusiasm in the fields of economics and political science. He was much impressed and influenced by the trenchant and critical writings of Henry George. His room mate at Missouri, Dr. George Rowland Dodson, now a leading figure in the University church, wrote that Smith's "capacity for labor was immense. I nearly killed myself trying to come within a long distance of what he accomplished. He not only knew more than I, but he had read more widely and he stimulated me to read authors which have profoundly influenced my life."

Following his graduation from college, Smith entered the Missouri School of Law, received his degree, and was admitted to the bar of the state. He returned to Kansas City and commenced the practice of his profession. He was not particularly happy in his work. The precedents and what he designated as the "narrow limits of the legal life irked him." Following his marriage in 1890 to Doris J. Lehmann, of Kansas City, he determined to abandon the practice of the law and to devote himself to advanced study in the field of the social sciences. He selected the University of Michigan, then the leading institution in the west, where he could work under the inspiration and guidance of Henry Carter Adams, one of the foremost American economists, a man of great personal charm and sympathy, with broadly liberal ideals. Smith's experiences at Michigan were singularly happy and stimulating. He was awarded the doctorate in 1894. His dissertation was entitled The Multiple Money Standard. It was brilliant in character and was a refutation of many of the basic contentions of the gold standard advocates. This work was published in 1896, when the issue had become a bitter house of contention between the major parties. Smith's skillful analysis has been designated as "fundamentally an exposition of the ideas now more familiar to economics students in Fisher's 'Compensated Dollar'." The point of view he developed was not well received by certain Michigan faculty members, but Smith's cause was championed by Professor Adams and the work was accepted.

In 1895, Dr. Smith became professor of economics and sociology at Marietta College, where he remained two years. The great political battle of 1896 was soon in full progress, and Smith became a supporter of the Democratic party and of its new leader, Bryan. Following the election, the Trustees of the College, ostensibly for reasons of trenchment and economy, dismissed Smith and several of his like-minded colleagues. His striking ability as a teacher had been clearly manifested, and the Trustees feared that he was influencing the students to abandon their long-accepted creeds and become followers after the strange gods of populism. Hurt, although not embittered, by his treatment, against which, incidentally, the students vehemently protested, Smith directed his attention to securing another professorship. After considering offers from two mid-

DR. VICTOR A. MERCHANT AND POET

Judge N. T. Gentry Tells of Visit of Columbia's Poet to Athenaeum Society

For many years, Dr. Samuel B. Victor was a merchant in Columbia, and everyone knew him and was acquainted with his store. His stock consisted of hats, caps, drugs, medicines, tobacco, cutlery, canes, umbrellas, gun-powder, pistols, millinery, furniture, carpets, door mats, silk handkerchiefs, books, stationery, toilet articles, grass seed, musical instruments, silverware, glassware, cement, tar, candy, paints, coal oil, boots, shoes, hardware, oranges, jewelry, watches, flour, meal, farming implements, etc. It was said that he had his goods piled up in such a way that it was very difficult for him and his clerk to find any article. It was a standing joke among the students of the university that Dr. Victor had all kinds of merchandise scattered around his store. One day two students met at the Powers hotel, and one of them mentioned that he had just visited Dr. Victor's store, and that he had in there everything under the sun. The second student offered to bet a new hat that he could name one thing that the old man did not have. The first student accepted the bet, and the second student named a second-hand pulpit. Accordingly, the two men visited Dr. Victor's store and inquired if he had a second-hand pulpit; and to the surprise of both of them, he had one. The Columbia Christian Church had built a new house of worship and sold the old building, which stood just West of the court house, to Dr. Victor, who turned it into a residence. Having no need for a pulpit in a residence, he took it up to his store and kept it for two or three years and then sold it to a colored church. So he actually had for sale a "second-hand pulpit."

Dr. Victor called himself the "Students' friend" and he also styled himself "Columbia's Poet." Many many times had the boys heard him say:

CHICAGO ALUMNI STAGE ANOTHER GREAT PARTY

Read What Secretary Mary Leitch Reports

"You have no idea how our Missouri parties are progressing! We are getting so well acquainted that we hate to miss a single meeting. This time Reinhardt and his pretty little wife entertained in their home in Niles Center. You will realize that it was a party when it took me one and three-quarters hours to go and that I returned home as the clock struck three. No wonder the taxi-driver said, 'Lady, I'll wait till you signal, that everything's all right.' There may be gangsters and crime in this great city of ours but I can prove from experience that the average citizen can go to the far northwest, have a good time, and return unmolested.

What a time! Dr. Sam Fuqua and Paul Cook were among their doubles team. (Next page, please)

was A-No. 1 in Ping Pong after a thousand games, more or less. John Harris must spend all his leisure time in his basement or back yard pitching horse shoes. You should see him make the "ringers." Fredus Peters wasn't such a bad second either. If you have not played "catty-cornered" in a colorful suburban kitchen you have a treat.

The hospitality of those Eggerl Humph, the whole house was turned over to us. In the living room "us" women or should I say "ladies" played "Keno" bridge. Mrs. Peters had either a lucky board or was too quick for the rest of us, as her score was highest. Keno is like Lotto only card faces substitute for numbers.

We were so busy with our fun that Mrs. Egger's gentle hint to Reinhardt that the "candles were low" and refreshments were ready was a surprise. Out of the dining room we marched to the "grogging" board—ham, potato salad, home-made pickle fruit, nut bread, cottage cheese, cup cakes, coffee. If you sampled every variety you wouldn't need a Sunday breakfast. I truly believe that we could have stayed several hours longer if common decency had not made us ashamed to abuse such hospitality. Hurray for our President!

The guests were Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Fuqua, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Walker, Mr. and Mrs. John Harris, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Peters, Jr., Dr. Louise Haynes, Mary Louise Ramsey, Bernadine Bonen, Neil K. Barr, Paul Cook, W. M. Williams, and I."

JOSEPH C. ELLIFF ELECTED PRESIDENT CHICAGO ALUMNI

Sears Vice-President, Miss Bonen Secretary; Record Attendance Annual Meeting

Joseph C. Elliff, A.B. '14, B.S. Ed. '15, Manager, Saturday Evening Post, Chicago office, was elected President of the Chicago Alumni Association at the annual meeting held in the new headquarters of the Naval Reserve on April 7. Kenneth C. Sears, A.B. '13, University of Chicago Law Department, was named Vice-President and Miss Bernadine Bonen, B.S. H. E. '28, Dietitian, St. Francis Hospital, Evanston, Ill., Secretary. There was a record attendance at the meeting. The retiring President, E. R. Egger, presided. The speakers were Dr. O. D. Kellogg, former member of the University of Missouri faculty, and R. L. Hill, Director of Alumni Activities.

Dr. Samuel A. Fuqua, who is the physician for the Chicago Naval Reserve Station, was in charge of the arrangements for the meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond H. McPherson and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kuhlman announced at the meeting that the groups on the north and south sides of Chicago would meet at their homes during the month of May.

The last year has been an outstanding one in the history of the Chicago Alumni Association. They have certainly been doing things, and doing them well. The retiring officers Reinhardt Egger, President, Mrs. Roberta K. Darr, Vice-President, and Mary Leitch, Secretary, certainly deserve a world of praise.

M. U. ALUMNI IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The Alumni Association of the University of Missouri in Southern California held an interesting meeting March 30, in Los Angeles, according to James F. Hudson, A.B. '10, President of the Association, who lives in Hollywood.

Frank W. Stafford, who attended the Law School in '94-'98, and who left before receiving a degree to join Company I, 5th Missouri Volunteer Infantry, gave a highly instructive and appreciated address on the Crime Situation in Los Angeles County. Mr. Stafford is now, and has at several different times been, a deputy in the District Attorney's office for this County, which, according to compiled statistics ranks first in the United States among the counties containing the large cities in punishment of criminals. The speaker expressed his opinion that crime was due to failure to teach obedience to our children and the failure to quickly and certainly punish the criminals, due in part to archaic procedure, lack of sufficient police forces, and election of judges who later become corrupt due, in many cases, to the undermining of their sense of justice by reason of pity, corruption to assist political backers and friends in trivial matters.

The Association was honored by the presence of Walter L. Church, 3703 Colorado Street, Long Beach, California, who received the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1867, and the Master of Arts in 1870. He is eighty-four years young, and spoke of his aspiration to found a University for parents to teach them the proper training for their children during the first five or six years of their lives. In addition, he sang a song of days gone by, and received a prize therefor.

Frank C. Tyrell, a native Californian, who, while in the Ministry in Missouri, was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1895, together with his wife, a native Missourian, attended the meeting. He is now practicing law in Los Angeles, and is considered the best after dinner speaker in Southern California. He spoke for a few minutes, and read some of his poems. The Association is so fortunate as to have him talk at its next meeting to be held the latter part of April.

There was also present Colonel F. R. Stone of the U. S. Army Dental Corps, who attended the University from 1893 to 1897, together with his wife. They are stationed at The Presidio, San Francisco, Calif.

Edy Engaged as Dallas City Manager

John N. Edy, B.S. C.E. '05, C.E. '09, who has been city manager for Flint, Mich., since June 1, 1930, has been employed as city manager of Dallas, Tex., at a salary of $16,500 per year, effective May 1. He becomes the first city manager under that form of Government which was adopted by a vote of the people in Dallas last fall.

During the first four months of Edy's administration in Flint, he saved the city $104,000.

Edy was born in DeSoto, Mo., and is 48 years old. His first position was in the city engineering department of St. Louis. Later he was state highway engineer of Montana. For seven years he was city manager of Berkeley. He had an opportunity to go to Oakland, Calif., as city manager when he received the Dallas offer. He played football and baseball at the University, is married and has one son.

Tom Maloney of the United Press, Dallas, writes that Dallas, with a population of 300,000 is the thirty-third Texas city to adopt the city manager form of Government, and the fifth largest city in the United States operating under this plan.

DR. WADDELL RECEIVES FIRST CLAUSON MEDAL

Dr. J. A. L. Waddell, LL.D. '04, eminent consulting bridge engineer of New York City, was awarded the first Clauson Gold Medal for his contributions to the engineering profession.

Dr. Waddell's son, Leonard, of Kansas City, received the degree of LL.B. from the University in '09.

ACCEPTS NEW POSITION

Dr. Clyde Brooks, A.B. '5, Phi Beta Pi, Sigma Xi, Gamma Alpha, Dean of the School of Medicine in the University of Alabama, has accepted the appointment as head of the Department of Physiology and Pharmacology, in the Louisiana State University School of Medicine. Dr. Brooks has been in the University of Alabama for eleven years. He will move to New Orleans during the summer. During the World War Dr. Brooks did experimental research work on poisonous gases for the Government. He received a Ph.D. in 1911 from the University of Chicago and an M.D. degree in 1913 from Rush Medical College, the honorary degree of LL.B. in 1928 from the University of Alabama, and is a fellow of the American College of Physicians. He was in the Department of Physiology and Pharmacology from 1906-07 in the University of Missouri. The following year he became a fellow in the Department of Physiology, University of Chicago. He was instructor in Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, 1910-12. From 1912-16 he was assistant professor in the University of Pittsburgh and the four years following he was at Ohio State University and then went to the University of Alabama.

DR. KUNKEL HEADS
NEW DIVISION

Appointed Member of Rockefeller Institute

Dr. Louis Otto Kunkel, Ed. '09, A.B. '10, A.M. '11, pathologist in the Boyce Thompson Institute, Yonkers, N. Y., has been appointed a member of the Rockefeller Institute for medical research, in charge of the division of plant pathology, to be established in connection with its Department of Animal Pathology, situated near Princeton, N. J.

The combined laboratories will hereafter be known as the Department of Animal and Plant Pathology of the Rockefeller Institute. The department is located on a tract of approximately eight hundred acres of land at Plainboro, N. J., three miles from Princeton University. With the addition of plant pathology to the subjects studied in its group of laboratories and hospital, the Rockefeller Institute will include in its scientific work all the main branches of the pathology of living matter. For the first time human pathology, the pathology of lower animals and that of plants will have been brought together into one closely knit investigative unit.

Dr. Kunkel was born in Audrain County, Mo., on May 7, 1884, and studied and received degrees at the University of Missouri, Washington University, St. Louis, and Columbia University. He was Cutting Traveling Fellow of Columbia University during 1915-16, when he studied in Stockholm, Sweden, and in Freiburg, Germany. He taught at the University of Missouri and at Columbia University, and later became pathologist to the Bureau of Plant Industry in the United States Department of Agriculture, then associate pathologist with the Hawaiian Sugar Planter's Association, and in 1923 pathologist at the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research.

Dr. Kunkel has been a contributor to the pathology of plant diseases, and his most recent investigations relate to the virus diseases of certain economic and ornamental plants. He has made contributions to the knowledge of the mosaic diseases of tobacco, sugar cane and corn, and of the virus diseases of asters known as "yellows."

The constantly increasing number of diseases of man and lower animals discovered to be induced by filter-passing viruses brings the pathology of animal and plant diseases into intimate association. That both animal and plant pathology will profit materially by being investigated in close relationship may be taken as assured.

Dr. Kunkel will spend a period abroad, visiting institutions in which the study of plant pathology is pursued, before designing the new laboratories and establishing the new division of the Rockefeller Institute at Princeton.

DR. VICTOR, MERCHANT AND

Perhaps you don't know it,

But you stand in the presence of Columbia's poet.

He also frequently greeted his customers in his store and on the street with the following:

If you will give me a dime,

I will make you a rhyme.

Dr. Victor, in advertising his store, frequently visited University classes, and on one occasion he visited the Athenaeum society. Knowing of his poetical tendencies, the boys asked him to make a speech and he did so, using some of his so-called poetry. The boys were ready for him and had it arranged that one boy after another would rise and respond to Dr. Victor's poetical effusions. The president of the society said that Dr. Victor had recently had a customer who made a few purchases and promised soon to return and pay for them. Instead he got drunk, became noisy and was locked up. On learning of the fate of his customer, Dr. Victor visited the city bastle, and addressing him, said:

My friend, your habits are very loose,

Therefore, I find you in the call-house.

The half-intoxicated customer replied: If you want to talk to me in rhyme, You've struck me at a darn poor time.

The secretary of the society then said: Yes, you have goods of every kind, Which people want, but you can't find.

Your store is said to contain new books,

But they must be old from each one's locks.

When found, they are covered o'er with dust,

And can't be used because of rust.

Other books on the floor and shelf may be,

But the moth and mould we only see.

The society's critic broke forth: Such a jingle of words, all in rhyme, Must look to you very fine!

But to smart folks as well as we, Look like a darn fool up a tree.

Dr. Victor hurriedly left the hall, only to hear the door keeper say:

Your rhymes all loose in joint,

And in your talk there is no point.

If you'd give us a rest now and then,

He'd surely be your very best friend.

As far as known, this was Dr. Victor's last visit to the Athenaeum society. However, he kept up his poetical efforts till the last; for on his death-bed, his last words were addressed to his physician, Dr. W. T. Lenoir, as follows:

Doctor, without further warning,

You will please call in the morning.

Long before the next morning, Dr. Victor had passed away.

CAMPUS NEWS and GOSSIP

Old man Politicus has invaded the campus and gone his way.

During the past month the campus has gone through the usual spring storm of campaign literature, mud slinging, and political ballyhoo. When the smoke cleared away it was found that the old tradition that a debater has never been defeated unless running against another debater held true for another year. The outlook for the remainder of the year now that Politicus has retreated, is for a quiet routine of three more weeks of school and a week of final examinations.

Seniors have ordered caps and gowns, paid the necessary fee for diplomas, and begun to reminisce. Intramural baseball, horseshoe pitching, golf, and tennis are the sports just now in vogue among the fraternity groups. A constant number of spring formals are keeping the socially inclined busy each week-end. Organizations are electing officers for next term and are generally winding up the year's work.

Wilson is President-Elect

In the big event of the political plague, James C. Wilson, of Bethany, defeated Jack Pollitt, of Kansas City, for president of the student body for this year. In the heavy vote cast Friday, April 17th, Wilson emerged the victor by 230 votes. Seven of the ten colleges gave Wilson a considerable majority while Pollitt, a journalist carried Journalism, Law, and Commerce schools.

In the vice-presidential race, Ralph Graves, of Maryville, a second year law student, won the most decisive victory of the election with a lead of 438 over Lynn Mahan, of Hopkins, a senior journalist.

Women's Offices Unopposed

The two chief women's offices of the campus were filed unopposed. Dorothy Andris, of St. Louis, was declared president of the Women's Student Government Association when no one else filed for the office. Elizabeth Trimble, of Springfield, was named secretary-treasurer of the student council when no opposition appeared.

For the co-council positions, five seats were unopposed and eight others were filled by contests most of which were close. In the presidential election in the school of Journalism, Fielding Norton, of Trenton, won by a good majority.

Workshop Closes Season

Workshop, the campus dramatic organization, scored the final hit of the year with its presentation of "The Ivory Door," a three-act fantasy by A.

Wm. Harrison

A. Milne, Don Rhynsburger directed the play, and Helen Duncan, of Norborne, played the lead.

This was the fourth major production this year of the little theater group which produces the plays entirely even to painting the scenery, making costumes, lighting and staging, and acting. Each of the four shows have been well done and have had considerable support from the students. Workshop is rated as the biggest student endeavor on the campus.

Another International Debate

The University of Porto Rico debaters, now on a tour of this country, visited the campus early in April. Speaking in English they protesting against the American policy of intervention in the Caribbean and provided some interesting minutes for the Missouri debaters. Jasper Smith, of Springfield, and Albert L. Reeves, Jr., of Kansas City.

The University of Mexico also sent a team to the campus two days later. The original plan for an International Student Forum in which Porto Rico, Mexico, and Missouri were to take part fell through when the Mexicans missed train connections. They stayed in Columbia two days when they arrived, and spoke before several classes and the Athenaeum Society.

R. O. T. C. Has Inspection

The cadet corps underwent the annual spring inspection April 23, when two regular army officers visited the campus and rated the military work being done at Missouri. The entire corps and band was dismissed Wednesday afternoon in order to display tactical maneuvers for the visiting officers.

The advanced sections of the R. O. T. C. leave for the six weeks summer training periods on June 14th. The Infantry will go to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and the Artillery will report at Fort Riley, Kansas.

May Queens This Month

A veritable deluge of queens during the last month has kept campus celebrities busy crowning fair heads. The Engineers started the line of monarchs when they crowned Dorothy Brown of Columbia, queen of the St. Pat's Ball. The Military Ball ten days later provided two more crowned heads. Kathryn Finch of Cape Girardeau, was Infantry queen and Lucille Newcomer of Kansas City was the Artillery representative.

The journalists and the medics each honored their queens April 11th. The annual "scoop dance" of the school of Journalism was held in Rothwell gym and the newboys and girls chose Jac-quetta Linck of St. Joseph to rule over them. The pre-doctors honored Clare Louise Ewing, a student in Christian College.

The wholesale creation of queens which is customary with the Savitar Staff about one week before the distribution of the annuals, took place April 25th. At that time nine girls were officially announced as the choices of Flo Ziegler from among the thirty-one entrants of the sororities. A tie somewhere along the line, evidently at sixth place, led to the editor stepping up the usual number of six queens to nine.

Those chosen are: Helen Duncan, Norborne; Genelle Roland, Kansas City; Mariam Carter, Kansas City; Elizabeth O'Keefe, Carthage; Catherine Schemp, Oakdale, La.; Ruth Karsch, St. Louis; Helen Vaughan, Columbia; Virginia Underwood, St. Louis, and Mary Acason, Denver, Colo.

Arts and Science Requirements Up

The recent action of the faculty of the College of Arts and Science has raised the requirements for graduation so that Missouri is among the leading universities of the country which emphasize high scholarship.

The new ruling requires all upper-classman grades in courses on the major and minor curricula must be "M" or better. The resolution to require the student a comprehensive examination in the field of his major, before a diploma will be granted, further complicates the situation and boosts the graduation requirements.

Freshmen Scholarship Is High

George W. Ittner, Jr., of St. Louis was high ranking freshman during the first semester according to Dean A. K. Heckel. Ittner headed the list of eighteen eligible for membership in Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic fraternity. Others recently initiated were: James Goodfriend, St. Joseph; John M. Jackson, Carthage; Richard Koenigsdoff, Kansas City; Robt. B. Balo, and Edward Kilpatrick, of Columbia; Couly L. Purcell, of Sikeston; Wm. E. Rownd, Kansas City; Wm. K. Waggener, Kahoka; John M. Steinmeyer and Charles Yaegger, St. Louis.

$500 to Drouth Sufferers

The $500 collected by the Men's Pan-Hellenic Council has been forwarded to the American Red Cross for administration in the stricken area in Southeast Missouri.

Nearly every fraternity on the campus contributed to the fund, some of the groups giving a dollar for every member and other giving smaller donations. It was originally planned to send a carload of flowers to the area but the plan was found impractical.

Harry Viner, A.B. '20, Quod Vadis, Mystical Seven, football '16, '17, '19, basketball '17-'18, will referee in the Texas-Harvard game at Cambridge this fall. The authorities at the University of Texas offered Mr. Viner the contract to referee in the Texas-Missouri game in Austin on October 3 but Mr. Viner did not accept because of his affiliation with Missouri. That is just like Harry, Mr. Viner has a niece, Miss Dorothy Viner, enrolled in the University.

DONNELL HEADS ST. LOUIS MEMORIAL PLEDGE COL- LECTION CAMPAIGN

Forrest C. Donnell, A.B. '04, LL.B. '07, Attorney, has accepted the chairmanship of the campaign to collect outstanding payments due on Memorial pledges in St. Louis. The appointment of Mr. Donnell was made by Marvin E. Boisseau, A.B. '09, LL.B. '12, Attorney, President of the St. Louis Alumni Association. A dinner meeting of the campaign workers under Mr. Donnell's leadership, was held in St. Louis on April 24. Mr. Donnell presided at the meeting. Those from Columbia who attended the meeting were Frank B. Rollins, Chairman of the Memorial Committee, John Pickard, Director of the Collection Campaign, Prof. L. M. (Daddy) Defoe, and R. L. Hill, Director of Alumni Activities.

dle western state institutions, he accepted in 1897 the chair of political science at the University of Washington; then a small university of much promise. From 1897 until his death in 1924 Professor Smith gave to this institution the best years of his life. In addition to his professional and departmental duties, he served as dean of the Graduate School from 1909 to 1920. In 1919-20 he was a visiting professor at Stanford University. J. Allen Smith was a great teacher. Scores of his former students have gladly testified to his lucidity and keenness. He taught men to think, not what to think. There was nothing visionary or fanatical about him. His broad sympathy and stimulating liberalism attracted to his classes during his long career at Washington many students of outstanding ability and power. Scattered throughout the country in the fields of political science, of history, and of economics are Washington graduates who owe to Smith the direction of their own intellectual life and their own convictions. The fine integrity of his mind, his clear and fearless thinking, and his sincerity profoundly influenced all who came within the bright circle of his acquaintance.

In 1907, after ten years of careful and laborious preparation, his well known work, The Spirit of American Government, was published. This book at once aroused considerable comment, and no little criticism was directed at its premises and conclusions. The book is a stimulating study of some underlying principles of American government, but is highly critical in tone and its main thesis, that the American constitutional system is thoroughly undemocratic, is somewhat over-emphasized. He subjected to a devastating analysis most of the features of our system, especially the check and balance arrangement, party government, the doctrine of judicial review, and the general confusion and irresponsibility of American politics. He interpreted the constitution as the result of a conservative reaction in the struggle between aristocracy and democracy. That the work was of considerable significance in the emerging of the liberal forces during the years 1907-1912 is unquestioned.

Because of his views, Professor Smith was, on several occasions, a storm-center and a target for much bitter criticism. Efforts were made to remove him, but they uniformly failed. He gave and received hard blows, but he was not given to complaint and recrimination. He was frequently urged to become a candidate for public office, but always refused. In 1912 he could have been nominated for Governor of Washington by the Progressive Party while in 1922 friends urged him to enter the race for the nomination to the United States Senate. He consistently refused, however, even temporarily to abandon his teaching and writing. He realized full well that "each scholar must with his own hands laboriously carve his niche in the huge hall of human fame and that the work of carving is not the work of a day or a year, but of a life."

THE MISSOURI ALUMNUS—Published ten months each year by the sons and daughters of the University of Missouri. Began as second class mail, October 8, 1912, at the postoffice at Columbia, Mo., under Act of March 2, 1879.

LET US HELP

There are several hundred boys and girls enrolled in the University whose parents are alumni. Naturally, we are tremendously interested in these youngsters. It is most interesting to work with them, especially since we know their parents so well.

We want the parents to know that we shall be only too happy to help these boys and girls. Most of the youngsters have been in the alumni office to visit and in a number of cases we have had the pleasure of extending some courtesy or service to them.

We want the alumni parents to feel free to call on the alumni office whenever there is anything we can do for their sons and daughters. Nothing furnishes us more pleasure than to do something for our alumni, or for their children who are enrolled in the University.

Write and tell your son or daughter to come to the alumni office and visit with us. It is not necessary to make an appointment—just tell them to come right on in and say hello and feel right at home.

We also want the alumni parents to call at the alumni office.

We find it mighty easy to stay young by keeping up student acquaintance, and by appreciation of the student viewpoint. Parents tell us that they can do better work in training their children by assuming to grow up with them. These parents get the confidence of their children and that is something worthwhile to possess.

As I approve of a youth that has something of the old man in him, so I am no less pleased with an old man that has something of the youth. He that follows this rule may be old in body, but can never be so in mind.—Cicero.

THEIR IGNORANCE APPALLING

There are a number of fellows in this world who never get their noses out of the rut long enough to find out what is going on about them. Ever so often one of them rises to inquire about some matter which is being adequately taken care of, despite the hindrance they offer to that particular subject. It is almost inconceivable that any person in the educational field doesn't comprehend and appreciate the great amount of good that is being done by college alumni for education.

For instance, a Mr. Lotus D. Coffman is the author of the following:

Whoever Heard?

Whoever heard of a meeting of college alumni to improve the library facilities? Whoever heard of a conference of alumni on the research problems of a university? Whoever heard of a meeting of alumni that confined its discussions largely to the promotion of the moral and ethical and spiritual welfare of the student body? Whoever heard of a meeting of alumni whose primary purpose was that of improving scholarship within the institution? And yet these are the things that constitute the sole excuse for a college or a university.—LOTUS D. COFFMAN

Dare we reply to Mr. Coffman? Yes! If he is in educational work and hasn't yet learned what alumni are doing for education, we certainly admire his hardihood. Here at the University of Missouri our alumni are particularly interested in supporting those very things that Mr. Coffman refers to as constituting the sole excuse for a University. Briefly, here at the University of Missouri there is a long list of alumni gifts for the very purposes which are mentioned by Mr. Coffman. Then, too, there are the foundations recently organized for these purposes, such as the Law School, College of Engineering, School of Medicine, and College of Fine Arts foundations. We also know of the vast amount of support that is being given by alumni of other institutions. Just recently a statement was made that the University of Michigan has a value of sixty million dollars, half of which, thirty million, was given by alumni.

Apparently, Mr. Coffman is one of those persons who is an alumnus of some institution who would not permit of hearing any criticism of his alma mater but who would be the first to enter into a surly discussion of the activities of alumni of other colleges and Universities. We have had too many of this sort but the number is gradually being reduced. It isn't easy to create alumni good will and support by cynicism such as displayed in the Coffman insinuation. What a mess it would be to try to create alumni good will and support by using the Coffman formula!

Whoever Heard?

"How many students are there studying at this university?"

"Oh, about one in ten.

THE YOUTH OF TODAY

It seems that some of our watchdogs of character just simply cannot refrain from criticizing the boys and girls of today.

About this time of year someone or some group breaks out with a lot of criticism wherein they poke no end of unfavorable comment in the direction of these youngsters. Unfortunately, the critics are usually those persons who should know better than to criticize, for they are usually the ones who are working with boys and girls and should come to their defense.

The boys and girls of today differ in no essential characteristics from the young people of your day or mine. There are differences but not essential differences. The differences are all superficial—they lie on the surface and are due to changed environment. When it comes to truth, courage, public spirit and unselfishness, all those things that make for good citizens—the young men and women of today are just like the preceding generations. The differences are purely environmental. For the environment into which they were cast at birth and to which they are adapting themselves in a most splendid fashion, they are in no wise responsible. That environment was in some part inherited, but in general was created by the parents of this age. The vehement objections raised today by the older people are directly traced to the decline of parental discipline and home training.

When the parents abdicated. We believe that they are not a whole lot worse than they used to be, but are simply a little bolder about what they do, that's all. Anyway, who are we to criticize the youngsters of today? For we are those who produced them. Let us turn the searchlight on the parents and grandparents. Can we stand up under the scrutiny? Are we not responsible for the pendulum of liberty swinging to the side of license. We believe that youth will swing the pendulum back. We have that faith in them.

Under the Searchlight

"Now, daughter, what would your grandmother have said if she could have seen you smoking a cigarette?"

"I suppose she would have considered me effeminate, I understand she smoked a pipe."

UNIVERSITY'S APPROPRIATION INCREASED

University's Appropriation Increased
 Both houses of the Missouri General Assembly have agreed that the appropriation for the current two years for the University shall be $3,303,450, the institution.

President Williams has appeared before the Appropriation Committee several times during this session of the legislature urging additional funds for the University.

The appropriation includes $2,611,000 for salaries; for additions $175,550; for repairs $125,000, and for operations $250,000.

by recurring attacks of heart trouble, Professor Smith worked steadily to complete his second volume. Just before his death on January 30, 1924, he had practically finished it and the final work was edited by his daughter. It appeared in 1930.

Analysis of the work indicates that he remained to the last an unrepentant Jeffersonian. He examines in an independent, critical, and realistic fashion the actual working of American government, and develops further his thesis as to the undemocratic character of American political institutions. The definite trend toward centralization, both of economic and of governmental power, is criticized, and the recent problems which confront the modern national state in its imperialistic and international relations are analytically presented. The enormous increase in the range and power of organized group interests and their control of the organs of opinion, in the view of Professor Smith, are danger signs to the American democracy.

At his death, from colleagues, former students, publicists, and friends came scores of expressions attesting to his friendship, his sincerity, and his kindness.

His friend and colleague, the late Professor Vernon L. Farrington published in 1927 his distinguished volumes, Main Currents in American Thought. This work had the following dedication:

GRADUATE OF '67 RETURNING TO THE UNIVERSITY

Sixty-four years after his graduation, Walter L. Church of Long Beach, who is eighty-three years of age, has announced that he will return to his alma mater—the University of Missouri—and take postgraduate work.

He was a student at the University of Missouri during the closing years of the Civil War when federal troops were quartered in the university buildings and guarded the campus.

Although he holds four degrees from three universities, Mr. Church plans to enter the University of Missouri at the opening of the next school year and will specialize in sociological and educational subjects. He received a bachelor of arts degree from the university in 1867, and a master of arts degree in 1870.

In 1866 he left the University to spend a year in the University of Kentucky to receive a doctor of divinity degree, while in 1871 he received a bachelor of laws degree from Washington University.

"The height of my ambition is to live to see the founding of universities for parents to teach them how to train children up to the school age," he said. "If you give the children the proper training, then they will never lose the basic teachings and the crime problem will be gone. This is one of the reasons I intend to study educational and sociological subjects at the university.

Following his graduation in 1871, Mr. Church lectured on educational subjects throughout the east for many years and then went to Alaska for the gold rush. He located many claims and was a partner in many others. He said he held the record for the total number of claims in which any prospector was directly interested.

He lost what money he made in prospecting, but recouped his fortunes by practicing law until 1900, when he retired and went to Long Beach, where he has lived since.

DR. BRODY AGAIN RECEIVES GUGGENHEIM FELLOWSHIP

Guggenheim foundation fellowship. His research has led to his winning the award for the second time. He has published the results of his experiments in a series of growth and development bulletins.

The Department of Agricultural Education is offering for the fifth consecutive year a special month's Graduate Session for teachers of Vocational Agriculture.

These sessions provide a means whereby such teachers, who can absent themselves from their positions for not more than a month each year, may secure graduate credit and continued advancement in their work.

The course begins July 6 and closes August 1. Twelve graduate courses are offered including work in news writing, stock farm sanitation, agricultural prices, poultry farm management, advanced methods, teaching of farm mechanics, supervised practice, evening schools and research in agricultural education.

Seven instructors will handle these courses. Dr. Ray Fife, state supervisor of Ohio, has been secured as visiting professor and will be on the campus during the four weeks. Professor Sherman Dickinson, chairman of the Department of Agricultural Education, is in charge of arrangements for this special session.

John M. Dalton, LL. B. '23, Attorney of Kennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dalton of Columbia, has been appointed marshal of the Supreme Court of Missouri. He has moved to Jefferson City and has his office in the Supreme Court Building.

Buford O. Brown, A. B. '08, B. J. '12, of the School of Social Science, Division of Journalism, Stanford University, will be head of the Department of Journalism in the University of Florida, Gainesville, for a year, beginning September 1, 1931, while on sabbatical leave from Stanford. He expects to return to Stanford in 1932.

The Kappa Sigma are building a new $75,000 house just across the road from their old home on Stewart Road. The new house will be ready for occupancy by September 1. The Triangle fraternity has bought the old house. The Berry McAlester Chapter House Corporation is building the new house. Austin Welch, B. S. M. E. '07, is the architect. The Building Committee is composed of the following alumni: Robert S. Caldwell, W. S. Mann, Leo Collins and Clifford Langsdale, of Kansas City, Chas. H. Nicholson of St. Louis, and Sam B. Shirk of Columbia.

The March issue of JOPLIN'S BUSINESS carried a most interesting article entitled, "Disinfecting The World," written by Chas. M. Van Dyme of Missouri football fame, Vice-President of the American Disinfecting Co., Sedalia. Mr. Van Dyme's Company has representatives in 49 countries.

DR. MANLY O. HUDSON COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. Manly O. Hudson, Professor of International Law at Harvard, will deliver the Commencement address on June 3, according to President Walter Williams. Dr. Hudson was formerly Professor of Law here.

University Equipment Used Extensively in the Promotion of the State's Athletics

Many tournaments and meets are conducted for Senior and Junior Colleges and High Schools

Brewer Field House, University athletic equipment and the coaching staff are unusually busy this year serving other athletic conferences and groups of Missouri. The Y. M. C. A.'s brought their state volleyball and basketball championship to the Field House; an indoor meet was held for all senior colleges of the state; the five state teachers' colleges are holding their official indoor meet in the Field House; the Junior College Association brings its indoor and outdoor meets both to Columbia; the Missouri College Union is bringing their official track, tennis and golf championships to Rollins Field; and the State High School Athletic Association is holding all four of their official enterprises—basketball, indoor track, wrestling, and the track—at the University.

This bringing of all of the athletic enterprises of the state to the University has built up a splendid spirit of friendliness and cooperation among institutions and the athletic interests of the state.

Cooperation between the athletic department and the Missouri State High School Athletic Association furnished three high school championship athletic events at Brewer Field House in the last few weeks.

H. S. Basketball Tournament

The finals of the interscholastic basketball tournament brought together sixteen fine teams in three days of the sport. The championship was won by St. Joseph Benton in a thrilling game from New Point. It was the first title ever won in basketball by a team from St. Joseph although representatives from that city have reached the finals in several previous tournaments.

New Point, a town of sixty inhabitants in northwest Missouri, furnished the surprising feature of the series when its well-balanced squad playing smart basketball eliminated Kansas City Westport and St. Louis Soldan on the same day.

Kirkville won third place; Westport took fourth; Warrenton was fifth; and Soldan rated sixth. The consolation was won by St. Louis McBride with Jackson the runner-up.

This tournament is the climax of a series of eliminations in sub-districts and districts in which more than 500 teams in all sections of the state participate. These preliminary tournaments select the sixteen to enter the finals at Columbia. Other than those

Editors Note:

Coach Geo. R. Edwards has a fine record in the annual basketball series with Kansas. Two championship games are played each year with each member of the Conference. The series with Kansas for the past four years in these conference championship games shows seven victories for Missouri and one for Kansas. The first game this year at Lawrence, while Kansas won, was their first since 1927 and their only victory in eight championship games in four years. After that defeat Missouri came back with a brilliant victory in the final game of the year in our Field House.

The present generation of students now on the campus have never seen Kansas defeat Missouri in basketball in Columbia, or the last Kansas victory in Tigerland was in 1927.

mentioned, the following schools were represented: Cape Girardeau, Training, Kansas City Northeast, Trenton, Elkland, Independence, Marshfield, Cuba, and Clinton.

The schedule in Columbia was arranged to permit a team to remain in competition for some prize until it had lost at least two games.

First Wrestling Tournament

Largely through the promotion of Charles Fisher, Varsity wrestling coach, Missouri High Schools inaugurated their first championship wrestling tournament. The sport is still in its infancy in this state although very popular among the high schools in adjoining states.

Seven schools entered teams. They were University City, Columbia, University High School, St. Louis Normandy, Warrenton, Hallsville, and Missouri Military Academy.

David H. Hickman High school of Columbia won the tournament with 43 points; University City was second with 34; and University High School of Columbia was third with 15 points.

High School Indoor Meet

The annual indoor track championships for Missouri high schools rapidly is becoming one of the big athletic events of the calendar. More than 350 competitors were entered by forty-five schools in the 1931 carnival. Considering that this is only the second time the meet has been held the number of entries and the interest shown is surprising.

Most high schools have little opportunity for indoor track work, and the meet comes so closely to the finish of the basketball season that many athletes are not in their form. Consequently the events are restricted to the short dashes and hurdles, field events, and relay races.

The high school coaches express an appreciation of the meet as an incentive for their groups to begin training seriously, and believe that it will result in a wider interest in outdoor track competition. Those who decry the American tendency to be satisfied with seats in the stands and let others obtain the benefits of exercise would have been pleased with this meet when a considerably larger number were actively engaged in competition and officiating than watched the races as spectators.

The Class A section composed of the larger high schools was won by University City with 28 points. St. Louis Roosevelt was tied with Webster Groves for second place with seventeen points. Henry Schemmer, a member of the Missouri track team in '23 and '24 was coach of University City team, and Charles A. Roberts, coach at Webster Groves, also formerly attended the University. The Kansas City schools did not enter teams.

Class B scores were uniformly lower and closer due to the large number of entries. Fulton won with 11 points; Cameron and Shelbina tied for second and third with 10 points each; New Cambria and West Plains tied for fourth and fifth with eight points.

A new class for junior colleges was introduced in this meet and attracted eight schools. Wentworth won the junior college section with 32 1-3 points; Kemper was second with 29; and St. Joseph was third with 11.

TIGER NINE OFF TO GOOD START

Timely Hits Bring Four Victories in Five Games

Unlike Missouri teams in other sports this year the baseball Tigers started their season with a series of victories. Ninth inning tallies were responsible for the first two when Kirksville State Teachers College was beaten 3 to 2 and Central College 7 to 6. In a return game Central was swamped 11 to 1.

The Kansas Aggies opened the conference schedule by winning a ten inning struggle from Missouri at Columbia, 6 to 4. With the score tied in the eighth Wagner, Tiger pitching ace, was relieved for a pinch hitter. The move resulted in a run, but Love could not hold the Aggies who tied the score in the ninth and won in the extra inning when Nigro clouted a homerun.

Missouri broke even with the K-Aggies by taking the second game of the series 14 to 11 in a free hitting contest. Missouri rapidly built up a 10 to 3 margin only to have the Aggies stage a seven run rally in the seventh inning. Wagner then was inserted.

The South Wing of the M

THE GREAT
UNIVERSITY

The creaking of the steam shovel is abroad in the land. The excavations for the south wing of the Union are rapidly going forward, and the present indications are that the Simon Construction Company will make good on their statement that they will have the slab for the floor of the first story in position so that the present Senior Class may walk upon it before they leave Columbia in June. Mr. Simon even suggests the possibility of completing the construction on the South wing in September.

This wing will be about 140 ft. long, 50 ft. wide, and three stories in height, and every foot of the space contained therein will be useful and adapted to the University needs. The ground floor, which is now under construction, will contain offices for the student organizations such as the Savitar, Missouri Student, and the Student Council.

The first floor will have as its main feature the Great Hall. This room, which throughout the school year will be used as a general lounge for all the students of the University, will be 105 ft. long, 50 ft. wide, and 21 ft. high. The cut shown above was prepared by the architects to give some conception of the spacious dignity of this Great Hall. The view is taken from the southeast corner of the room, looking toward the vestibule which leads to the Memorial Tower. The great windows on the left, 17 ft. high and 8 ft. wide, look out upon Hitt Street. A similar fine row of windows on the opposite side of the room will open on the east campus. These two rows of windows on the east and west sides of the hall insure beautiful light and ventilation.

Furnished as a lounge for every day use, the furniture can easily be removed or placed against the wall in such a way that this spacious room, which contains more than 5,000 square feet of floor space, can be utilized for all sorts of social functions. This room will be the meeting place at Home Coming Day and Commencement time, and on other occasions when students, alumni, and friends of the University gather in Columbia, as a meeting place and center of all the activities of the day. To this hall everyone, on his arrival in Columbia, will go, because he knows that there he will find the friend and associates whom he has returned to Columbia to meet. The noble proportions of this room will make it one of the most attractive features of the University, and it is not too much to say that there is no other room on the University grounds which will be so universally utilized and so attractive.

The architects have striven to make the building artistically attractive, in keeping with the beautiful Memorial Tower, and the Union Building will easily be the most beautiful building on the campus.

The third floor of this wing will be devoted to the activities of the women of the University. It will contain a lounge, study hall, and attractive rooms for the meetings of the women's organizations, such as the Women's Self Government Association.

Simon Construction Company have shown their faith in the loyalty of the students, alumni, and friends of the University. They have agreed to do this work, depending for their pay on the subscriptions which have, from time to time, been made by students, alumni, and friends, for the purpose of erecting the Union. With the renewal of building activities on the Union, subscriptions are beginning to flow in more rapidly. It is in the highest degree essential that the subscriptions which are now due should be paid at the earliest possible moment, in order that the expenses incident to the construction work may be met.

The first five games found the Tigers riding the crest of the greatest hitting streak a Missouri baseball team has enjoyed during the last five seasons. Captain Sam Carter is setting the pace with an average of .450. Embury is batting a little more than .400 and M. E. Fruit, midleft fielder, is above .350. Most of Carter's hits have been for extra bases and include four two baggers, two triples, and a homerun.

Norman Wagner, sophomore basketball player, is proving to be the best pitching prospect Missouri has possessed since the days of "Lefty" Pruitt. Brumm and Love are the other twirlers who have done effective work. Roy Fruit, the catcher throws well to the bases and is a dangerous batter. Carter at shortstop and Farmer at second form the backbone of the defense.

Reserve strength is greater than usual. Coach Crangle has been using seven outfielders, and four other infielders. All are of about equal ability, and leave a choice that affords much delight for a coach.

BEGIN OUTDOOR TRACK WITH VICTORYTigers Win Triangular Meet With Two Missouri Colleges

Outdoor track competition started with a bang in early April when Missouri won a triangular meet with Don Faurott's Kirksville State Teachers College team and Abe Stuber's Westminster College squad. The scores were: Missouri 67 2-3; Kirksville 46 1-3; Westminster 21.

Missouri swept all three places in the 100 yard dash with Jackson the winner. Jackson also easily took the 220 yard dash. Talbot of Westminster with marks of 15 seconds in the high hurdles and 24.6 seconds in the low hurdles was the only other athlete to win two first places. Welch, Missouri's Big Six Champion in the low hurdles, was leading Talbot in that race for 150 yards when he caught his foot in a barrier and fell.

Fourth in Relay at Kansas

Six men represented the University at the Kansas Relays. The One-Mile Relay team composed of Clark, Wilson, Boekmeier, and Barber won fourth place outranking all Big Six teams except Nebraska. Ullers and Welch, the two remaining members of the championship relay team of last year, were left in Columbia because of muscle injuries received in earlier meets. Barber and Clark are converted long distance runners who have been doing creditably at the quarter mile. Eaves and Swartz were entered in the pole vault and 3000 meter run respectively but failed to place.

NEBRASKA FUTURE TURKEY DAY OPPONENTCornhuskers and Tigers Begin Annual Thanksgiving Series in 1932

The Missouri-Nebraska football game at Lincoln on Thanksgiving

Day, 1932, will inaugurate the Turkey Day affair as an annual, permanent feature on the Tiger and Husker schedules. Chester L. Brewer, University athletic director has announced.

Missouri's 1931 schedule has already been completed and will not be affected by the new arrangement. The Tigers will be idle this Thanksgiving, having played Kansas on the preceding Saturday.

The arrangement with Nebraska serves a three-fold purpose, Brewer said. It emphasizes the growing importance of the Tiger-Husker clash, it satisfies the demands of football fans of both states for an important game to close the schedule of both universities, and it gives Missouri a tilt of definite quality on Thanksgiving.

Until 1924 Missouri always played Kansas on Thanksgiving Day, but the Jayhawks demanded that the annual rivalry be shifted to the preceding Saturday. Since then the Tigers have played Oklahoma, but the games have not been satisfactory. They have not drawn well, either here or in Norman.

The Missouri-Nebraska gridiron relations began in the early '90s and continued intermittently until 1923. Since then a game has been played every year. Of the last eight contests, Missouri has won three, Nebraska two, and three have ended in a tie.

Freshmen Beat Varsity In Track

That Varsity track will be back on its former high plane in another year was indicated when the freshman squad defeated the best Varsity could offer in a dual meet by the score of 69 1-2 to 61 1-2. Performances of some of the yearlings brought a broad smile to the face of Coach H. J. Huff.

Some of the better marks made by the first year men included a 220-yard dash in 21.6 seconds by E. Dunkin; 51.3 seconds in the quarter mile by his brother D. Dunkin; the high hurdles in 15.6 seconds by Johnson; six feet in the high jump by Foxtow. Close, Freshman weight star won the shot-put, discus, and javelin throws without much competition by Varsity. Dewey, Youngblood, former Texas runner who is taking his masters work at Missouri, is coaching the freshman track team this year and is largely responsible for the fine development of these boys.

For the Varsity the work of Jackson who ran the 100 yard dash in 9.9 seconds was outstanding. Many of the regulars could have improved their marks had competition been keener in their events.

Missouri Wins Senior College Indoor Meet

Missouri's Tigers, by winning five firsts, tying for another first place, taking six seconds, one third, and tying for two other third positions, annexed a majority of the honors in the second annual Missouri college track championships in Brewer Field House.

Washington University of St. Louis and Westminster College of Fulton finished behind the Tigers. Twelve senior colleges of Missouri and 141 athletes took part in the meet. The colleges entered were: University of Missouri, Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, Washington University, Southeast Missouri State Teachers College, Central College, Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, Missouri Valley College, Culver Stockton, Southwest Missouri State Teachers College, Westminster College, Missouri School of Mines, and Central Missouri State Teachers College.

In spite of rain, about 400 persons witnessed the meet. A large number of these were state high school basketball players who were admitted as guests of the University.

Timberlake of Washington turned in the outstanding performance of the afternoon by broad jumping 24 feet. The leap set a new record for Brewer Field House and broke the Big Six Conference record.

Talbot of Westminster was the only individual to win two first places. He won both the low and high hurdles sprints. His time of 7.7 seconds in topping the high stocks equaled the Big Six mark and came within .2 second of tying the world's record.

Missouri sprinters made a clean sweep of the three relay races on the program.

Varsity Tennis Schedule

April 24—Oklahoma at Norman
May 1—Kansas at Columbia
May 6—Nebraska at Columbia
May 16—Kansas State at Columbia
May 23—Kansas at Lawrence
May 30—Iowa State at Columbia

As the time for intercollegiate tennis matches approaches it appears as if an entirely new team will take the courts for Missouri. George Phelps and Elmore Lingie, the two lettermen now in school, will not compete in the early matches. Lingie is having a difficult time winning his trial matches, and Phelps' varied activities do not permit him time to play.

Eleven men have almost completed a round-robin series for places on the team. Richard Hanwell and Charles Rovin are leading with clean records after having met most of the recognized contenders except each other. Robert Williams and Philip Hannum are next. So many others are near fifth place that only the final matches will decide the ranking.

Doubles teams have not been selected, but probably will be chosen from among the first six in the singles tournament. The two Rovin brothers, Adolph and Charles, easily won the fall doubles championship and are favored to repeat. Hanwell and Williams, however, appear strong.

Missouri should be stronger on the courts this year than for many seasons despite the lack of veterans. The doubles teams consisting of the two Rovins, and Williams and Hanwell, present greater strength for dual meets than any available since the conference championship duo of Landis and Coerver two years ago. The standard of singles play is also improved.

Little is known of the strength of other conference teams since most of them have few veterans returning, and no matches have been played. Kansas is considered the greatest championship threat due to the presence of Wilbur Coen, former member of the Davis Cup Team, and ranked seventeenth among all of the players of the country.

Here are Helen Jaquelin, eight, and Harriet Anne, six, the dandy daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus M. Martin of Columbia. Aren't they fine girls? Mrs. Martin was Mildred Strubach, Fine Arts '17, Pi Phi. Mr. Martin received the degree of B.J. in '24 (as of '17) and is a member of S. A. E.

Dr. Justus Ohago, M.D. '80, of St. Paul, is the subject of a feature story in Life magazine of the Journal-Register, published in Minneapolis. The story is entitled, "The Adventurer-Surgeon," and is the life of Dr. Ohago. He was indebted to Dr. C. M. Jackson, B.S. '98, M.S. '00, M.D. '06, Y.M.C. '22, of the Intercity Hospital for a copy of this interesting material. Here are the first two paragraphs of the story:

"The youngest soldier in the Army of the Potomac lay wounded in the hospital at City Point, Virginia. It was April of the year 1863, and Lee had just surrendered. Abraham Lincoln was in the vicinity and he came to visit the hospital where the young soldier lay. When he heard from the chief nurse of the name of the lad's great bravery and extreme youth, Lincoln came directly to his cot, shook the boy's hand and said to him, 'My boy, I thank you for the help you gave us. I hope you will be well soon and be with your father and mother. God bless you!"

Lincoln's hope was fulfilled, for by fall of the year '65, the erstwhile youngest soldier of the Army of the Potomac was back in Hannover, Germany, his parents' home, and gradually again with real the studies that his romantic impulses had driven him to abandon for the sake of adventure and glory. He was a student of classical studies, Greek and Latin, which he learned with great thoroughness. The boy found time to pick up some of the rudiments of medicine and surgical knowledge at his father's clinic. For his father was a doctor, as his father had been before, and for several generations back. The boy was Justus Ohago and his father was Dr. George Ohago, of Hannover. SPRING AND SUMMER CLOTHES FOR MEN

The Barth Clothing Co., has the most attractive lot of men's wearing apparel that it has had for years. There is good taste and good quality expressed in every piece of material. Then, too, the price is RIGHT.

Alumni and former students, University students, faculty members and Columbians generally should waste no time to get to the store and make selections for spring and summer apparel. If you men are too busy to call send your wives, because eventually they will be the final judge of your selection.

Scores of University boys whose parents are alumni and whose parents traded with us in their school days are calling at the store from time to time. We appreciate their business and we want the alumni to know that we are happy to cater to their sons.

PALATIAL SINCLAIR TAVERN

Tiger students, faculty members, alumni, here is luxury at the price often paid for mediocrity.

Aloof from the city's noise, near the University of Missouri, new, modern, fireproof, this is the ideal stopping place for relatives visiting students, for alumni, for the discriminating public generally.

Replete with comfort, modernness and good taste are the forty bedrooms each an outside one, each containing two double beds. A private bathroom, tiled and having tub, shower and electric fan, running ice water and other conveniences, adjoins each bedroom. The basement is a garage, free to guests.

Wire, telephone, write or call for reservations.

This hotel is part of the Sinclair Tavern located one mile west of Columbia on U. S. Highway 40. Close to the hotel is the terminal building containing a 154-person-capacity restaurant serving meals epicures relish and popular for banquets, dinner-dances and other events. Here again the prices are moderate. The French renaissance rest room for women is royal in comfort and beauty.

The other Sinclair Taverns are on U. S. Highway 66 near Rolla, Mo., and Miami and Tulsa, Okla. The hotel at the Rolla terminal is identical in style with the one near Columbia. Both are official A.A.A. hotels.

The courteous service at Sinclair Taverns is far-famed.

Don McVay, Jr., of the Trenton, Mo., High School, class alumni office recently. One of the pleasant experiences of those of us in the alumni office is the visits we have with sons and daughters of our alumni. For instance, young Don was here to look over the University and we tried to tell him what a fine thing it would be for him to enroll here and follow in the footsteps of his illustrious Daddy. Don talked with us about the weather, the Columns, French, Athletics, Henry VIII, and what not. This is an invitation to our other alumni to send their youngsters to visit us.

"Missouri Born" is the title of Miss Dorothy Kamelba was play, which was recently broadcasted over the National Broadcasting Network. She wrote it with some characterization based upon an old Missouri River salarman-philosopher, (Tomkins of Rockport) suspicions of which first came to her through some feature writing she was doing for the Columbia Missourian—and three hours credit—in the School of Journalism. It was really a news story first. She went down to Rockport to find something startling, having failed to do so on her Boone County Hospital "run". She found herself in the middle of the Katy tracks over the Monticau, chronic to the Rockport hermit for the great scoop of the day, when she suddenly lost her nerve, and it had not been for the cookbook, and what she had memorized in there for copy reading, she would never have gotten across that trestle. But she did get across and that the nation was saved, and "Born's" evoked out of something or other the old man said. There is no original for the character of Born but that trestle did get her started. So, when she heard the old fellow speaking, along with the rest, across the trestle (yes, California this last month, she became so positive that she could see every willow along the Rockport cliffs and even hear the phantom whistle of "The Belle of Tennessee" as she nosed on up the river, "way back before" the war. She didn't hear that whistle in the original! Miss Kaueber, former Miss Degree of A. B. and B.S. in 1914, A.M. in 1920, and S.J. in 1924.
