Everyone is Thinking of Vacations Again...

WHEREVER YOU PLAN TO GO
THE WABASH CAN SERVE YOU

CHOOSE your vacation spot and then ask the nearest Wabash representative to give you all the information you need to plan your trip. He will help you choose the best route, figure the exact cost, and give you booklets describing the places reached by the Wabash and its many connections.

There will be low-fare round-trip rates to hundreds of places in all parts of the country . . . Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Maine, the East and the West. In addition to the low round-trip fares, there will be many escorted all-expense tours to the interesting places you have always wanted to visit. Call or write the Wabash today so that you can start planning for a happy, interesting summer.

ATTEND THE OLYMPIC GAMES
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
JULY 30 to AUGUST 14

Another good reason for going to California this year: the meeting of the Xth Olympiad. Visit the games either before or after a sightseeing trip up the coast.

VISIT THE NATIONAL PARKS

Everyone should visit the national parks that our government has set aside as sanctuaries for wild life. The Wabash and connecting lines can take you to all of them. Ask for particulars.

Ninetieth M. U. Commencement Attracts Record Audience

By ROBERT A. A. WILLIER, B. J. '31
*Assistant to Director of Publications
University of Missouri*

"BY VIRTUE of the authority vested in me by the Board of Curators, I hereby confer upon the candidates whose names appear on the Commencement program the degree of _____, with all the honors and privileges thereunto appertaining."

With these few simple words, uttered on the occasion of the ninetieth Commencement of the University of Missouri President Walter Williams automatically brought nearly eight hundred new alumni into the fold of some thirty thousand who, though scattered to the far-distant corners of the earth, still recognize this institution as their Alma Mater.

This Commencement was probably the most colorful in the history of the institution. From the start of the academic procession through the ivy-covered portals of Jesse Hall to the closing benediction of the program itself there was a constant source of inspiration, mixed to a certain extent with the happiness of accomplishment and the sadness of farewell.

Although the graduating class this year was slightly below the record number of last year, the audience that witnessed the Commencement program far exceeded the number anticipated, and extra seats had to be provided at the last minute to take care of the crowd of more than three thousand. Commencement was held in the Brewer Field House, where bleacher seats had been erected on either side of a reserved center section for the graduates. The speakers platform was filled with ferns and flowers, and on the rostrum was the single word "Missouri."

To recite the whole story of Commencement we should start with Baccalaureate Day, June 5, which was the first day of Commencement Week. On that day the graduates assembled at the field house, where Dr. Karl Morgan Block, rector of St. Michael and St. George Episcopal church of St. Louis, reminded them that "today we need youth—unsophisticated, unspoiled, undaunted, with a high degree of intellectual and moral independence, with lives unstained by passion, unchilled by cynicism." Dr. Block was introduced by President Williams. The invocation was given by the Rev. David R. Haupt of Calvary Episcopal Church, Columbia.

On Monday morning, Class Day, seniors assembled in Jesse Hall auditorium, electing the following permanent class officers: President, Marshall Craig, Kansas City; secretary-treasurer, Elizabeth Trimble, Springfield; vice-presidents—for Arts and Science, Clayton C. Carroll, Columbia; Agriculture, Ted Barbee, Butler; Engineering, Tom Randall, St. Louis; Law, Max Krug, Kansas City; Journalism, J. Albert McCollum, St. Louis; Medicine, C. W. Meinershagen, Higginsville; Business and Public Administration, Merle Chandler, Genda Springs, Kans.; Fine Arts, Harriet Schellenberger, Hutchison, Kans.; Education, Clara Louise Hanser, St. Louis.

In caps and gowns the seniors marched to the Columns to plant new ivy and to hear the Class Day program, which consisted of the Oration, by William Becker of Brookhaven, Miss.; the History, by Fern Spolander of St. Louis; Poem, by Cecile Ellis of Houston, Texas, and an address by President Walter Williams. The ceremony of ivy planting was performed by Dorothy Andris of St. Louis and Ted Barbee of Butler. After the ceremony the group re-assembled at the Memorial Tower for the placing of a wreath in honor of the University's World War dead.

In the afternoon of Class Day a golf tournament was held for alumni, visitors and seniors. Low score was made by Clifford LaRoge of St. Louis, a senior who was graduated on Commencement day with a Master's degree and with Sigma Xi honors. For the first time, the University this year inaugurated as a part of Class Day a "Sunset Organ Recital," given by Dean James T. Quarles of the University College of Fine Arts. The success of this feature has caused the University authorities to plan on the recital as an annual feature of Commencement Week.

As the main innovation of Commencement Week the University had as its guests on Alumni Day, Tuesday, June 7, members of the graduating class of fifty years ago. Every living member of the class "kept the faith" by writing or wiring their appreciation. Seven members attended in person the golden anniversary reunion in Columbia.

Robert M. Cook of Kansas City, who fifty years ago gave the Stephens Medal oration at Commencement, presided at the reunion meeting in the morning. From Kansas City also had come Walter Hickman, recently returned from an extended trip through Europe. The first to arrive for the reunion were Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Lougeay of Denver. Dr. Lougeay, the son of a prominent Columbia physician, had been graduated with the class of 1882. He practiced medicine in Columbia for a while and then moved to Denver. On their return to Columbia at Commencement time, Dr. and Mrs. Lougeay preferred the "great outdoors of Missouri" to the city life of Columbia, and lived for five days in a woodland camp near the city.

Others attending the reunion were: F. M. Young of St. Louis, J. M. Pennington of Columbia, Andrew A. Bailey of Brookfield, and Miss Kate Lonsdale of Columbia. They were all present at a dinner given in their honor at Harris' Cafe, and in addition the following were in attendance: Mrs. R. M. Cook, Nelle Kitchens, Mrs. John N. Taylor, Frances L. Denny, Ernestine O'Neal, Ola Mae Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. Thad B. Hickman, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Conaway, Penelope Conaway, Mrs. J. H. Guitar, W. A. Cochel, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hill, Dean Theo W. H. Irion, Dean W. J. Robbins, Dean James L. Quarles, Dean F. B. Mumford, Dean F. M. Tisdell, Dean James L. Parks, and Dean Albert K. Heckel.

The Class of 1882, after being feted at this dinner, at the annual Reception the same evening, and after being honored the next day by being introduced individually at the Commencement program, decided that they would hold a Centennial Celebration in 1982.

During Alumni Day the annual meeting and election of officers for the University's general alumni Association was held. The officers include W. A. Cochel, Kansas City, President; Louis V. Stigall, St. Joseph, first vice-president; Cleveland A. Newton, St. Louis, second vice-president; Hartley G. Banks, Columbia, treasurer, and R. L. Hill, Columbia, secretary. E. Sydney Stephens and Frank B. Rollins, both of Columbia, were named as local representatives on the University Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics.

Following Board of Directors was named: Guy Q. McDaniel, Bolivar, Agriculture; W. Wallace Fry, Mexico, Law; W. N. Westbrook, Marshall, Education; Judge Kimbrough Stone, Kansas City, Arts; J. Harrison Browne, Mexico, Journalism; John C. Faris, Jr., St. Louis, Business and Public Administration; Dr. Ralph Wilson, Kansas City, Medicine; Ralph Watkins, Columbia, Graduate; Dillon Greenlee, Hannibal, Fine Arts; L. W. Helmreich, Jefferson City, Engineering.

Among the important decisions reached by the Association was to incorporate the reunion of the University's graduating class of fifty years ago as an annual feature of Commencement each year, making it the one and only reunion of any class at that time. At Homecoming time, the Association decided, there will be held the reunion of each graduating class of twenty-five years ago.

The Association received from W. Wallace Fry, chairman, the draft of a new constitution for the association, prepared by a special committee for that purpose. This constitution will be presented in a final form to the Board of Directors at a meeting to be held at Homecoming. Also considered by the Association officers was a report of a newly appointed committee, headed by Sam B. Shirky, Columbia, which is investigating ways and means of building stronger alumni spirit among undergraduates of the University. Details of the report are to be announced later.

As is the custom at the University, the Board of Curators convened the day before Commencement to give final approval of the candidates for degrees, to sanction the honors and awards, and to elect officers for the ensuing year. The officers were named as follows: President, Frank M. McDavid of Springfield; Vice-President, H. J. Blanton of Paris; Members of the Executive Board, Mercer Arnold of Joplin; H. J. Blanton of Paris; Frank M. McDavid of Springfield; Members of Executive Committee, A. A. Speer of Jefferson City; Charles F. Ward of Plattsburg, and George C. Willson of St. Louis; Treasurer of the University, R. B. Price of Columbia; Treasurer of the School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla, Eugene J. Campbell of Rolla. President and Mrs. Walter Williams entertained members of the Board and their wives at a dinner at the President's house following the afternoon session of the Board.

The annual combined banquet of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi was held on Alumni Day, with Dr. Louise Pound of the University of Nebraska as the main speaker. She is a sister of Roscoe Pound, Dean of the Harvard Law School, who received an honorary LL.D. degree from the University of Missouri in 1916. At this banquet the following new members of Phi Beta Kappa were initiated:

Mary Elizabeth Folse of Kansas City, Esther Tauber of Jerusalem, Alan Gold of Sedalia, Margaret Jane Thomas of Columbia, Opal Norris Melloway of Columbia, Dorothy Rose Andris of St. Louis; Virginia Robnett Estes of Columbia, Harold B. Kline of St. Louis, Margaret Liusita Dye of Buenos Aires, Albert Henry Krause of Red Bird, James E. Shepherd of La Plata, Clinton Howard Hill of Kansas City, Francis R. Crouch of Albany, N. Y., Harry Scott Moore, Jr., of Kansas City, Sheridan Morgan of Kansas City, Christine Viola Brannan of Columbia, and Herman Robert Butts, Jr., of Vandalia. Two Columbia men received honorary membership: Dr. James M. Wood, President of Stephens College, and Dr. Dan G. Stine, University surgeon.

New members of Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary organization of the School of Business and Public Administration, were announced at a breakfast meeting held on Alumni Day. They are: Helen Heitsman of Columbia, John C. Rose of Trenton, Richard W. Bland of Gower, Ben S. Freeman of St. Louis, George R. Waddell of Frankford, Merle Chandler of Genda Springs, Kans.; and the following alumni, Laura Mae Brown '31, Centralia; Mildred Chandler Scott '31, Columbia; Dorothy Deis '31, Gilliam; Minnie Kaufmann '31, St. Louis; Mary Kreeger '31, Columbia; Talitha Gisler '30, Columbia; Kathryn Hulen '29, Washington, D. C.; Ena Lee McMehan '29, Walnut Grove; Eunice W. Landis '28, Lorain, Ohio; Katherine Johnston '23, New York City; Mildred Haas McKee '25, New York City.

The conclusion of Alumni Day was the reception by the University Board of Curators, the President, and faculty, to the graduates, former students, alumni, and visitors. This was held in Read Hall, under the direction of Prof. Horace Major. In attendance were present the Class of 1882 and Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, President of the University of Illinois, who was to give the Commencement address the next day. After the reception the graduates had their annual "Senior Song."

Commencement Day dawned bright and clear, a beautiful June day for a beautiful ceremony. With Col. John W. Wright at the head, the academic procession passed in front of the six silent, stately Columns, passed by the re-dedicated Thomas Jefferson monument and the fountain-monument of David R. Francis. The University cadet band in bright Old Gold and Black uniforms took the lead in front of the General Library Building and marched by the Memorial Tower, Read Hall, and the Woman's Gymnasium to the Brewer Field House.

Many a mother's eye was dimmed with happy tears and many a father's heart beat more quickly as their son or daughter entered the House and stood until the Rev. Luther Wesley Smith, Columbia, gave the invocation. For most parents such an occasion comes but once in a life time, and all their years of toiling and striving, of hardship and labor to send "my boy thru school" were forgotten in the emotional tenseness of the moment. And the emotion of such a moment finds but one expression.

Following a number by the band, President Williams introduced Dr. Chase, the Commencement speaker. A few extracts of the address follow:

"There was a time when colleges and universities were pretty much isolated places and the attempt was deliberate to keep students away from the world. Today the same influences that play through American life in general are as apparent in universities as anywhere else. The university student lives in an atmosphere that is impregnated by the ideas, the codes of conduct, the points of view, the

West Texas Girls' School Exemplifies True University of Missouri Spirit

Radford School for Girls, El Paso, Has Made Itself Felt Educationally on the Western Frontier

TIGER teams have had no battles in West Texas but the M. U. spirit of conquest and the surmounting of obstacles has made itself felt educationally in the western frontier of the Union's largest state.

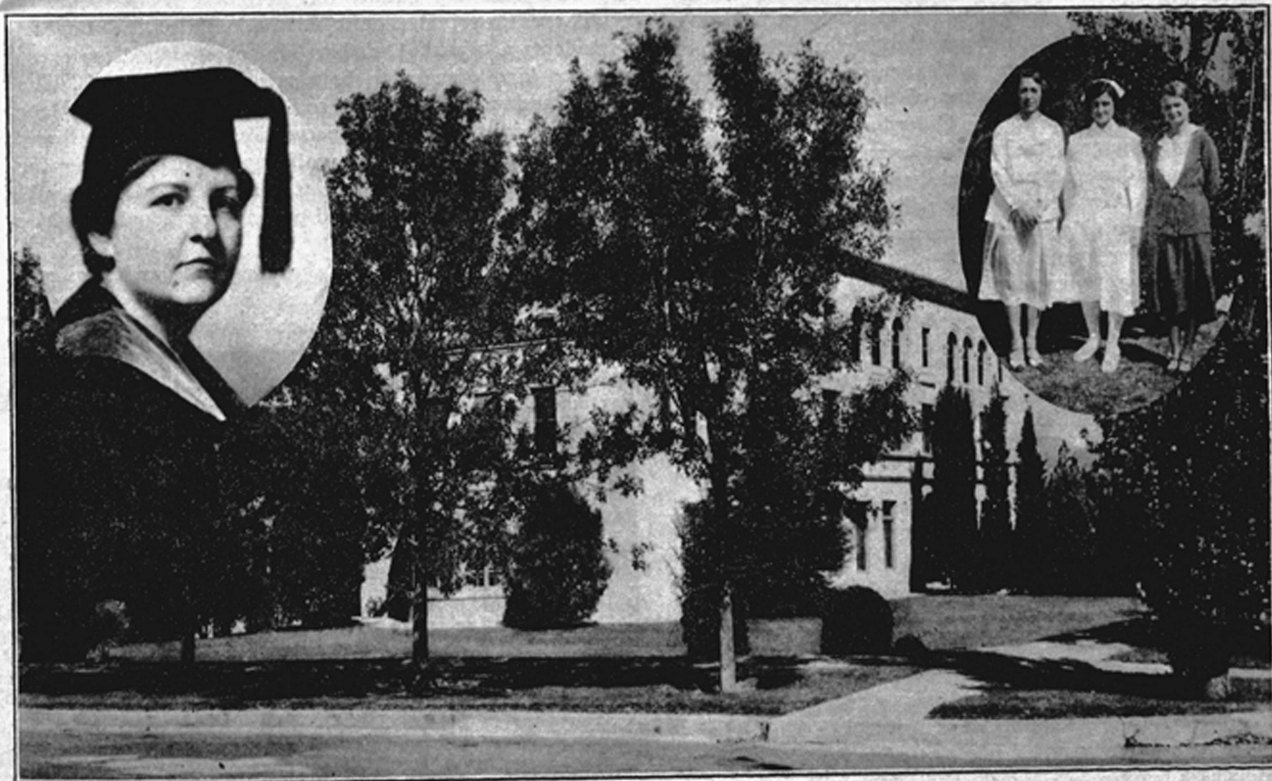

Today, Radford School for Girls in El Paso is almost a transplanted Missouri institution blooming on the desert. Owners and sponsors of the school are Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Radford of Webster Groves, Mo. Its director is Lucinda de Leftwich Templin, A.B., B.S., A.M. and Ph.D. of Missouri University. On the faculty are three Missouri graduates: Rosina Koetting, director of physical education; Isabella McMenamy, dietician (whose brother Ignatius is now at M. U.); and Dorothy Dorsey of Columbia, instructor in history. Louise Huber of Kansas City, a former Stephens College student, is secretary to Doctor Templin. Maynard Durham, (M. U.) of Cleveland is Ohio representative for the school. Among local patronesses of the school are Mrs. C. M. Harvey and Mrs. Herbert Wolcott, both Missouri graduates.

The history of Radford School has been one of accomplishment in spite of many difficulties. In 1910 it was founded by local citizens as the El Paso School for Girls, its purpose to supply a need for private school facilities in a fast growing cosmopolitan border community. Never a profitable venture it did, however, fulfill a definite mission, and became favorably known in the West. Students came from many states to combine study and the enjoyment of pleasant sunny winters.

In 1927 sponsors of the school called to be its Director, Doctor Lucinda Templin, who had just finished 8 successful years at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo. In spite of financial handicaps Doctor Templin maintained a high scholastic standing, achieved many improvements.

Each year after Doctor Templin's arrival in El Paso, Mr. and Mrs. Radford came to be her guests. They fell in love with the Southwest, visualized the possibilities of the school and finally made known their desire to be of service. So in 1931 the citizens of El Paso gave the school to Mr. and Mrs. Radford. An eleven-room addition (See page 308, please)

Columbia Churches Provide Extensive Activities for the Students at M. U.

Burrall Bible Class, Non-Denominational, Is Largest of Its Kind in the World—Meets Every Sunday

By L. E. SLATE, B. J. '24

Secretary, Columbia Chamber of Commerce

OPPORTUNITY for full observance of one's religious convictions, on a plane at par or above the same opportunity "back home," is provided every student who enrolls in any of the educational institutions of higher learning in Columbia.

So varied and so general are the church and other religious facilities that before entering the schools or colleges students may be assured they will be provided ample outlet for any religious inclinations.

Physical properties representing capital outlays of hundreds of thousands of dollars by local individuals and out-state interests are furnished so that this outlet may be open freely to the 5000 or more students in the schools and colleges.

Church plants combining worship, education and recreation are operated by each of the principal religious denominations, and regular attendance by students at church functions is the rule rather than the exception, sporadic press propaganda to the contrary. There are more than 2500 of them now holding membership in the five larger churches, and pastors report a constant increase as enrollments grow at the educational institutions.

Church plants of recent construction have been built with an eye to the future, and in every case they have been constructed with the view of taking care of future needs for some time to come. Older buildings which have become inadequate with increased enrollment of students at the schools have been remodeled and brought up-to-date, so that the present provisions for all types of religious instruction are considered adequate for the total enrollment at all the colleges and schools.

Student constituency at the First Baptist Church numbers 560 enrolled at the University of Missouri, sixty from Stephens College, fifteen from Christian College, and fifty from the Business Colleges and the Hall Coaching School. The total number affiliated with the Baptist Institute as student members is 225. In addition to the active participation of students, it is estimated by the Rev. Luther Wesley Smith, pastor, that 750 students are reached each Sunday at the Sunday School services and 600 are reached each Sunday through church services and those of the Baptist Young People's Union.

The Burrall Bible Class, while not affiliated with the Baptist Church School, is noted as being the world's largest student bible class, and it holds its services each Sunday in Stephens College Auditorium. The class is non-denominational in its emphasis, serving students of different faiths and beliefs. Miss Nellie Lee Holt, chairman of the department of religious education at Stephens College, is teacher of the class and directs all of its varied activities, including the publication of "The Grail," a bi-weekly student journal of religion, the University Men's Leadership Group, the University Women's Leadership Group, the Stephens College Leadership Group, all social events and social service programs.

The physical equipment of the First Baptist Church includes a church building with an auditorium for Sunday morning and Sunday evening services, a student center and educational building, student parlors, committee and library rooms, recreation parlors and facilities for dramatics and social activities. The Student Center building is a four-story structure recently completed at a cost of $185,000 and through the use of its various rooms and auditoriums will accommodate 1700 persons.

The general program of the Baptist Church includes beside the regular Sunday worship services, leadership groups and cabinet meetings, open house for students each Friday evening, parties, hikes, practice teaching in church school and leadership for rural churches as well as social service work in the State Penal and Eleemosynary Institutions.

The staff of the Baptist Church includes the pastor, the director of Religious Education and a student secretary who gives half time to this duty.

The Missouri Methodist Church puts at the disposal of students a beautiful modern church equipped for every type and kind of activity, both religious and social. The student parlors are furnished so as to afford a restful place for music, conversation and recreation. McAlester Chapel in the church gives an unusually appropriate setting for student gatherings and religious services. A large social hall makes possible games and other recreational activities for a large number of people.

The M. S. O. chapter of the Wesley Foundation carries on a full program of activities. Sunday School classes for those embracing the faith meet in the Chapel and other rooms in the church each Sunday. Music is supplied by the church's own orchestra. Devotional and entertaining programs are given each Sunday evening which are a part of the varied program of social events conducted throughout the school year. A fellowship supper is served each Sunday evening at the dining halls of the church.

Hundreds of students attend the public service of worship at the church each Sunday where a chorus of thirty-five voices and a quartet under the direction of Dean James T. Quarles of the Fine Arts School of the University, supply the music for morning services. Membership in the chorus is open freely to students.

Students expressing preference for the Methodist Church are provided with an opportunity for dramatics if they are so inclined. Mr. Herbert Hake, director of the Wesley Foundation, supervises the work in dramatics at the church.

More than 600 students enrolled in the schools and colleges in Columbia are affiliated with the Missouri Meth-

A Historical Sketch of the Master of Arts Degree

By WILLIAM J. ROBBINS
Dean of the Graduate School
University of Missouri

William J. Robbins

IN THE early history of American colleges and universities the Master of Arts degree was an honorary degree granted, in many instances, to any graduate of one year's standing who paid the required diploma fee. In the early history of the University of Missouri also the Master of Arts degree was an honorary degree—not one earned for work accomplished at the University after the completion of the undergraduate degree. Between 1847 and 1891 there were 201 honorary Master of Arts degrees conferred by the University of Missouri, 194 of them to men and 7 to women.

Since 1891 no honorary Master of Arts degrees have been granted by the University of Missouri. All were earned by work done at the University. The detailed regulations governing the amount and type of work required for this degree have changed somewhat with the years. It has always required, however, at least one year of work in the Graduate School of the University after the completion of the undergraduate degree.

From 1892 to 1910 there were 181 Master of Arts degrees conferred, an average of approximately 10 per year. During the next 10 years the average number per year was 42 and for the decade, 1921 to 1931 the number rose to 147 per year. In fact, there were 225 Master of Arts degrees granted in the year 1931 and this number will be exceeded for the year 1932.

The accompanying summary by departments of the Master of Arts degrees granted by the University from 1911 to 1931 inclusive may be of interest to the alumni. The total number of Master of Arts degrees conferred during this period is 1887. From 1911 to 1931 there were 420 granted and from 1921 to 1931 the number is 1467, showing the very great increase in interest in graduate work at the University of Missouri during these two decades.

The degrees granted represent a total of 50 major fields of work. Nearly one-third (617) of those who received this degree between 1911 and 1931 took their major work in the field of Education. English with 110, History 95, Chemistry 79, Dairy Husbandry 73, Sociology 70, follow in the order named. Between 30 and 50 individuals were granted master's degrees in Home Economics, Animal Husbandry, Mathematics, Journalism, Latin, Horticulture, Zoology, Botany, Agricultural Education or Physiology. Between 20 and 30 have taken their major work for the Master of Arts degree in each of the following: Economics and Commerce, Soils, Physics, Anatomy, Romance Languages, Field Crops and Agricultural Education.

When we observe the large number of students who have received a college degree and then have continued for at least another year in the University in order to complete the requirements for the advanced degree the question may well be asked why they do so. Why have almost 2000 students at the University of Missouri considered it worth a year of their lives to complete the work for the Master of Arts degree?

This desire for mastery of a field actuates most of the result of a mixture of motives. In the first place students become deeply interested in some particular field of work and wish to continue further with it under the direction of men and women of the Graduate Faculty, specialists in their particular field of professional or scholarly endeavor.

This desire for mastery of a field actuates most of the candidates for the master's degree and leads some of them to aspire to the more advanced degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Another attraction is the opportunity to attempt investigational or research work which is included as a part of the training involved in the work for the master's degree. It is always a challenge, gladly accepted by the competent, to attack the unknown and that the candidate for the master's degree can do under the guidance of his professor who in this regard, are his fellow students.

Another motive actuating candidates for the master's degree is the honor involved in the securing of this advanced degree.

Last, but not least, is the significance of the master's degree in various professional fields. Thus in many states it is not possible to secure a position in a junior college without the master's degree or its equivalent in the field which the individual teaches. A similar requirement is becoming increasingly general for teachers in first class high schools. Some large firms, such as the General Electric, place a newly employed man with the master's degree a year and a half up on their scale—a clear gain of six months—and in addition when times of depression require that some members of their staff be dropped it is the man without the advanced degree who goes first. As might be anticipated, the better prepared and more competent individuals are favored in competition for positions and the master's degree is prima facie evidence of greater competence and better preparation.

Actuated by the variety of motives indicated above, we may anticipate a continued influx to the Graduate School of the University of candidates for the master's degree. Such advanced students cannot be handled satis-

University Students Receive Awards and Scholarships at Commencement

Seventy-one scholarships and awards were announced at the ninetieth annual Commencement program of the University of Missouri.

While some of the awards were medals and small gifts of money, a majority were prizes and scholarships representing thousands of dollars. All of this money has been given to the University over a period of years, each gift being for one specific purpose but almost all with the general objective of rewarding scholarship and merit, and to help deserving but needy students to continue their education.

The list of scholarships and awards has been arranged so as to give a brief summary of the conditions under which each award is made, names of the persons or groups responsible for the award, and the names of recipients.

Frank P. Blair Scholarship. Established as a gift of $250 a year in 1911 by Mrs. B. B. Graham of St. Louis in memory of her father, the late Frank P. Blair. It was awarded last year to Chester Starr, Columbia, Missouri, a Freshman in the College of Arts and Science, and re-awarded this year on a four-year basis. The next award will be made in 1935.

Isaac Hinton Brown Scholarship. Offered by the Missouri Woman's Club of New York City in the form of $250 per year for four years. The selection is based upon scholarship in education courses, and is available only to a woman student. This scholarship is held by Rose Kentner of West Plains, sophomore in the College of Arts and Science, to whom it was granted last year, and re-awarded this year.

Henry and Mary Cornelia Crumbaugh Medal. Provided for by the will of Mrs. Robert Lee C. Hearne in memory of her father and mother, former residents of Columbia. The medal, valued at $50, is awarded annually for scholarship and excellence in household chemistry or chemistry nutrition. Awarded to Esther Thomas of St. Louis, senior in the College of Agriculture.

Missouri Engineers of Chicago Scholarship. Established by the Missouri Engineers of Chicago Alumni Association and maintained by a trust fund subscribed by the members of the association. The amount ranges from $150 to $300 annually, and is awarded to engineering students of high scholastic standing and creditable participation in student activities. Norman Ritner Beers of Seymour, a junior in the College of Engineering, is the winner this year.

AS IT LOOKS FROM THE DOME

BREVITY ENTERS COMMENCEMENT President Williams is certainly to be commended for the manner in which he conducted the exercises on Commencement Day. The exercises were concluded at 11:30, which, in so far as we know, is the earliest hour at which any graduating exercises at the University were ever concluded. And why not an early adjournment? There is no reason for making the conferring of degrees a long-drawn-out, tiresome event which wears everyone to the point of exhaustion.

SHALL WE TAKE THE HORSE TO WATER? What in the world should we do to stimulate interest and enthusiasm among the members of the senior class for their Commencement Week activities? Apparently, they do not seem to have a nickel's worth of interest. We all agree that class spirit is on the wane, and that the greater part of the enthusiasm, if any, is confined to a divisional spirit, but surely the seniors should have enough interest to get together on a combined program, at least, during the days of commencement.

It may be that we should outline something for the seniors to work on from the beginning of the school year which will keep them all pepped up to the point of being enthusiastic during Commencement Week. The class day exercises, in so far as participation by the seniors is concerned, are absolutely pitiful. Considerably fewer than one-fourth of the seniors attended the Class Day exercises. Approximately, only 250 of them attended the baccalaureate address. All the seniors should be out in full strength for every commencement week activity, having a big time from start to finish, and make commencement week the fitting climax. Of course, all the planning in the world is not going to bring about this desired result unless the seniors themselves change their attitude and enter into the spirit of the thing. The question now is how are we going to get them to change that attitude. Perhaps, the committee on alumni relations can propose something for trial.

CURATORS APPROVE OF ADVISORY COUNCIL The Curators have approved the recommendation by President Walter Williams that the University have an advisory council. The functions of this council, composed of business and professional men who may or may not be alumni, will be to aid the university in realizing some of its legitimate purposes through a sympathetic and understanding presentation of its problems to the public, assisting the university to obtain its proper objectives by encouraging individuals of means to aid the university by providing gifts, to emphasize the need of particular projects which have been approved by the board of curators, and to endeavor through directed efforts to secure the financial assistance necessary to carry the projects to completion, to give advice and counsel on questions of broad general policy connected with the development of the University and so requested by the curators.

The council will meet at least once a year at the University and be given the opportunity to become acquainted with its present condition and with the plan for its development.

Members of the council will be named later by the board of curators.

The University has needed this phase of support for many, many years. Much aid to the University has been lost because of the absence of an adjunct. The advisory council can be of tremendous benefit. Certainly President Williams deserves the commendation of everyone interested in the University's welfare for his thoughtfulness and foresight in recommending this council.

'07 REUNION TO FEATURE HOMECOMING The members of the class of 1907 will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation with a reunion meeting here during Homecoming. It will be the feature alumni event of Homecoming activities. Committees are already at work making plans. It is hoped that every member of the class will be present.

The members of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association have apparently found a class reunion plan which is going to be satisfactory. Formerly, fifteen or twenty class reunions were held at Commencement and Homecoming time, not one of which was an outstanding success. The new plan calls for just one reunion during commencement—the reunion of the class celebrating its fiftieth anniversary. Just one class reunion is planned for during Homecoming—that class celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary. The plan specifies that all the efforts shall be devoted to making these reunions successful to the highest degree. The first of these reunions to be held under the new plan was the fiftieth anniversary of the class of 1882 during Commencement and it was certainly an unusually successful event. The second reunion under the new plan will be that of the class of 1907, scheduled for Homecoming this fall. We know it will be a big success.

STUDENTS, FACULTY, ALUMNI TO IMPROVE RELATIONS President Cochel recently appointed a committee of alumni in Columbia, who are members of the University faculty, to study carefully and thoroughly the question of improving alumni relations among the undergraduates. This committee is composed of Sam B. Shirky, chairman; Chas. W. Keller; Lee-Carl Overstreet; Dr. Dan G. Stine; Karl R. Bopp; Mrs. Hazel L. Weber; L. M. Defoe; Ralph K. Watkins; Sam T. Bratton; George R. Edwards; Miss Ruby J. Cline; Arthur S. Emig; and Earl R. Gordon.

The committee met recently to consider the many phases of alumni relations, especially those which have their origin on the campus. Much surprising and astounding information was given to the committee by the two student members, James Freedman, president-elect of the student body, and Miss Marion D. Keller, president-elect of the Woman's Self-Government Association. Valuable ideas and suggestions were brought out at the meeting. Members of the committee presented their report at the annual meeting of the alumni association during commencement, and were asked to continue their deliberations, to hold one or two meetings with summer session students, and two or more meetings during the early part of the first semester this fall. It is felt by all concerned that the work of this committee is one of the greatest importance and it is hoped that a well defined plan and policy will be the outcome of their study.

WHAT IS HAPPENING OVER-SEAS . . . ?

Special Events in Europe This Summer of 1932

The magnetic continent of Europe is this year seething with intense activity.

Conferences, parleys and diplomatic events of high significance will draw alert-minded students of international affairs across the Atlantic.

There are other lures too. This year, as in the past, Europe will offer her visitors a delightful array of events—festivals, art exhibits, conventions, carnivals, fairs, sport tournaments, races, opera and processions. Indexes of the charm, variety and interest of life abroad.

The summary of foreign events this summer is interesting as information of what is going on across the sea, and, if you are planning to go to Europe, may aid you in making out your itinerary to include the events of especial personal interest to you.

The Educational Tours offered this summer by the Intercollegiate Travel Extension Service have been arranged so that you can attend these conferences: International Conference on Social Welfare at Frankfurt, Germany; and the International Psychological Congress at Copenhagen, Denmark.

For more detailed information about these foreign events, we suggest you write or call at any office of the American Express Company, or the alumni secretary of this magazine. The Intercollegiate Alumni Extension Service appointed the American Express Company as their Official Travel Bureau in order to aid alumni when they travel, and you may feel free to approach them on any travel problems or bookings, and to use their United States and foreign offices as your headquarters.

Carideo Inaugurates "Irish" System as 63 Turn Out for Spring Practice

Baseball, Track, and Tennis Letters Awarded—Athletic Committee Makes Drastic Reductions in Football Ticket Prices

By FRANK ESCHEN, '32

WITH the appointment of Frank Carideo, former All-American quarterback at Notre Dame in 1929-'30, as head football coach at the University of Missouri, spring practice, which had been delayed for a period of nearly six weeks following the resignation of Coach Gwinn Henry, once more got well under way on May 23, when sixty-three candidates for the 1932 Tiger squad turned out in response to a call issued by the new grid mentor.

The practice session was curtailed to five days by the approaching final examinations, but during those few days much intensive work was done, and great headway was made toward inaugurating the famed Rambler system of play at the Tiger institution. Carideo buckled right down to the task of instilling the totally different 'Irish' style into his men, and was ably assisted throughout the brief practice week by Elmer "Red" Sleight, himself a former All-American. Sleight was selected for the mythical honors in 1930, in recognition of his stellar and smashing tackle play on the Big Ten Championship Boilermaker eleven at Purdue University.

Although he has not been officially chosen by the Board of Curators as an assistant coach at the University, it seems likely that his appointment will be made at the next meeting of the Board. Last year he played tackle for the Green Bay Packers, one of the most powerful teams in the professional loop, and this spring returned to the Indiana school to assist in coaching the linemen during spring practice there. He learned his football at Purdue under the tutelage of Noble Kizer, another former Notre Dame man, and consequently is thoroughly versed in the "Irish" football methods. He should make a valuable assistant to Head Coach Carideo in the event that he is appointed.

With the inauguration of the Notre Dame system here, rumors have been rampant as to a possible shake-up in the coaching staff. It would seem advisable that all members be familiar with the new system, but to date no other changes of varsity coaches have been made. It was thought that the matter would be disposed of at the last meeting of the committee on Intercollegiate Athletics, but except for the re-appointment of Anton Stankowski as freshman athletic coach and intramural director, nothing was done. Stankowski learned the Notre Dame system here at Missouri under Pat Phelan, and taught it at St. Joseph High School before coming here to take the post of freshman coach.

INTRODUCES NOTRE DAME SYSTEM TO TIGERS

Before large crowds of interested onlookers, Frank Carideo, All-American quarterback at Notre Dame in 1929, 1930, and recently appointed head football coach at the University shows Tiger gridiron candidates how the game is played a la Notre Dame. Sixty-three men turned out for spring football practice following Carideo's selection as mentor.

Meanwhile, with the appointments tabled indefinitely, Coach Carideo indicated that he would spend the summer interviewing possible candidates for the posts, and then would make his recommendations to the Curators late in the summer, just before school opens for the fall term.

Large crowds of interested spectators followed the practices every afternoon, enthusiastically watching the "1-2-3-Shift, -1--2" of the Rambler system, as Carideo put his men through their paces.

While Missouri fans everywhere are eagerly awaiting the opening whistle of the 1932 campaign, and looking forward to a favorable turn in the gridiron destinies of the Tigers, results of too miraculous a nature are not to be expected. The new system is intricate, and this year's schedule is heavier than usual, especially at the outset, when Northwestern's noted Wildcats are followed by the Texas Longhorns in the first two games of the season. Nevertheless, the Tiger squad showed a great aptitude for the fast and shifty style during the brief practice, and it is anticipated that this year will mark the beginning of a return to the football glory which was Missouri's not so many years ago.

PRICES OF FOOTBALL TICKETS AND STUDENT ACTIVITY BOOKS CUT

Substantial Reduction of Admission Charges Is Made in Hope of Attracting Larger Crowds.

Drastic cuts in the prices of football tickets for next year were ordered by the University committee on inter-collegiate athletics at the last meeting of that body on May 30.

Tickets to Tiger football games next year will, in some cases, under the new rate schedule, be the lowest in the history of football here, and will also be the lowest figure of any major institution in the country. In many other places student activity books range from $8.00 to $24.00. Athletic activity books here at Missouri next year, good for all University athletic games and exhibitions, are to be reduced from $8.50 to $6.00, while the price of reserved seats for the four home football games has been ordered dropped from $7.50 to $5.00. In addition to this substantial price cut, the committee decided to inaugurate an unreserved seat price schedule of $3.50 for the four games—Texas, Iowa State, Washington, Kansas. This will be the first time that unreserved seats will be available.

Reserved seats for the Missouri-Kansas game have been dropped from $3, a price prevailing since the first Tiger-Jayhawk tilt here in 1911, to $2.50, with unreserved seats to sell for $2.00. Prices for the other three home games will be $1.50 and $1.00.

"It was the opinion of the athletic committee members," said C. L. Brewer, University director of athletics, in announcing the new schedule of prices, "that it would be much better to have Memorial Stadium filled next fall at lower prices, and thus bring back the large crowds which used to fill the bowl several years ago."

Frank Carideo should not only be able to put the Tigers back on the gridiron map by virtue of his splendid coaching ability, but should prove an excellent drawing-card for fans and prospective football aspirants. With football tickets set at this more reasonable price, larger crowds are to be expected, and Missouri should be entering upon a football regime of new popularity and success.

CRANGLE AND LANSING NOT TO BE INCLUDED ON THE ATHLETIC STAFF

Huff, Edwards, Stankowski, and Fisher All Receive Re-appointments at Curator's Meeting.

The names of Jack Crangle and Harry Lansing were not included in the list of appointments to the staff in physical education for men, made by the Board of Curators of the University at the meeting of that group on June 9. Crangle, up to this time has been head baseball coach and assistant football coach, while Lansing, one of the best football scouts in the country, was also assistant football coach.

Harry J. Huff, head track coach, and George R. Edwards, basketball coach, were re-appointed as associate professors. Anton Stankowski, freshman athletic coach and intramural director, Herbert Johnson, trainer, and Charles E. Fisher, wrestling coach, were all re-appointed.

Virgil Spurling again received his appointment as assistant to the director of athletics. Natalie Wilson and Ruby Cline were re-appointed assistant professors in physical education for women, and Mae Kelley, Ruth Davis, Gladys Anderson, Asenath Ives, and Sibley Merton were re-appointed as instructors.

No announcement was made from the President's office as to the matter of assistant football coaches to serve under Head Coach Carideo, but it is understood that Carideo will interview possible candidates during the summer, and that appointments will probably be made just before school opens for the fall semester.

WAGNER AND FARMER CHOSEN TO LEAD 1933 BASEBALL NINE

Norman Wagner, of St. Louis, and Elliott Farmer, of Cedar City, were elected co-captains of the 1933 baseball team. Wagner is the star moundsman of the Tiger nine, and in two years of varsity competition has been defeated but once by a conference foe. Farmer has played a sterling game at shortstop for the past two years.

SPORTS AWARDS ARE MADE IN BASEBALL, TRACK AND TENNIS

Thirty-three Varsity M's and Fifty-five Freshman Numerals Given to Tiger Athletics

Official University recognition of athletic service to Missouri by athletes in the two major sports of baseball and track and in the minor sport of tennis was made at the last meeting of the University committee on inter-collegiate athletics on May 30, when it was decided to make awards of 33 Varsity M's, 33 freshman numeral jerseys, and 22 freshman numerals.

The following twelve members of the Varsity baseball team received Varsity M's:

Roy Fruit, Norman Wagner, Wilbert Asbury, Denver Miller, Chester Barner, Elliott Farmer, Harold Klein, Barney Passer, Herbert Mueller, Webb Embry, C. N. Vandaveer, and Ray Oth.

The following ten members of the freshman baseball squad received numeral jerseys:

Joel Carr, Chester Didlo, John Guhman, Lloyd Hoewing, Joseph Roetzel, Sam Smith, Ben Shaberg, Sam Teter, Harold Thompson, and Howard Young.

The following eleven freshman received baseball numerals: George Blase, Robert Finley, Morris Fogel, Raymond Gregory, Kenneth Houston, Ewald Hartman, Arthur McKean, Earl Michalek, Delmar Meinershagen, Charles Schroeder, and William Topping.

Varsity M's were awarded the following sixteen members of the track team:

Los Angeles Alumni Announce Big Get-Together During Olympic Games

Dean Kirk, A.B. '16, 4221 Gage Ave., Bell, Calif., president of the Los Angeles Alumni Association, announces a big get-together of all Missouri alumni on Friday, August 12, at the Hotel Alexandria honoring all alumni who will be attending the Olympic Games.

All University of Missouri athletes, all alumni and faculty members are cordially invited to attend the meeting. It will be a honey.

COLORADO ALUMNI GREET PRESIDENT AND MRS. WILLIAMS

By M. E. Bernet

By far the most enthusiastic and successful meeting that our University of Missouri Alumni in Colorado have had was held recently at the University Club of Denver, with President Walter Williams as our guest of honor and only speaker.

About fifty were present, the "old Missouri spirit" was overflowing and everyone had the time of their lives.

It is apparent that Missouri has never had a more popular president or one more widely venerated than President Williams.

His purpose in coming to Colorado was to address Journalism Week of the University of Colorado of Boulder, at the annual banquet. President Williams' address at Boulder was described by Ralph Crosman, Dean of the School of Journalism of the University of Colorado, as the most eloquent and able address on the subject of "The Press" that he had ever heard.

Certainly, it is hard to believe that it was more effective and powerful than the informal friendly talk he gave at our Alumni Meeting.

President Williams checked off in masterly fashion the essentials of life and hence the essentials of education as follows:

- Adventure
- Romance
- Reality
- Permanency
- Aspiration
- Democracy

It is difficult to give an idea of his message in so brief a summary but it was full of inspiration. Then President Williams gave us a word picture of the condition of the University today, and told us the present whereabouts of many of the faculty whose leadership had meant so much in our school days.

G. S. Dring, President of our Colorado Alumni Association, presided and did a fine job. He presented a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Williams on behalf of the Association.

Those who attended the meeting besides President and Mrs. Williams, were:

Lieut. and Mrs. J. H. Force, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ficklin, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Dring, Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Lannon, Mr. and Mrs. George LeCrone, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Jaeger, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bernet, Mrs. Gladys Brand Johnson, Misses Lulu Crum, Dorothy Dunn and Adeline Jesse, H. B.

Babb, V. L. Board, Seth Bradley, A. C. Dade, E. E. Hatfield, Dr. James Jaeger, Thomas Lloyd, F. E. Mathews, B. A. Nevels, Stuart Parsons, A. L. Threlkeld, A. H. White and John W. Read, Jr.

There were a number of guests present, including two well-known newspaper representatives, Mrs. Frances Wayne, of the Denver Post, and Lee Taylor Casey, of the Rocky Mountain News.

HAPKE AND McFADDEN TO HEAD NEW YORK ALUMNI

Rudie Hapke, A.B. '30, was elected president of the Alumni Association of New York City at an informal dinner and bridge party held at Alice McCollister's Restaurant in Greenwich Village Friday evening, May 13. Volney McFadden, A.B. '13, LL.B. '14, was elected to the combined office of secretary and treasurer. These officers were elected in acceptance of the report of the nominating committee headed by W. L. (Bill) Shumate. Officers for the past year were Glenn Degner, president, Marquis Lockwood treasurer, and Burke Gilliam, secretary.

The retiring officers made certain recommendations for the coming year which included the formation of two or more luncheon groups to meet monthly in various sections of the city. Considerable interest was shown in this suggestion and plans are now underway for the formation of such a club to meet in the Wall Street section.

Following the dinner the guests played bridge and two games furnished by Oscar Riley—a checker game for four people and a unique game of indoor golf (not African). Mr. Riley is at present engaged in promoting the sale of these games. Helen Jo Scott Mann and Patricia Cunningham were in charge of arrangements for the party.

Those present were: Helen Jo Scott Mann and Robert S. Mann, M. H. Lockwood, Oscar E. Riley, Florence Dillard Gorgens, Burke Gilliam, Ada Childers, Edward E. Sinclair, O. E. Saylor, Hyman Geller, Herbert W. Reuszer of New Brunswick, N. J., Mary L. Boren, Adrienne Adams, Sherlock Hibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Hapke, W. L. Bloomer, Patricia Cunningham, Wm. L. Shumate, Sue Francis Adams, and Glenn Degner.

MISSOURI ALUMNI OF NEW YORK HOST TO COACH CARIDEO AT DINNER

Frank Carideo, the new Tiger gridiron mentor, was the guest of honor at a dinner meeting of the University of Missouri Alumni Association of New York, Thursday

UNIVERSITY DAY AT STATE FAIR

The University of Missouri Alumni luncheon will be held, as usual, this year at the Missouri State Fair, Sedalia, on University Day, Thursday, August 25. The luncheon will be at Mrs. Kaler's dining hall on the fair grounds at 12 noon. A splendid fifty-cent luncheon will be served. The dining room has been reserved exclusively for University students, former students, alumni and their friends.

Short talks will be given by Dean F. B. Mumford, Coach Frank Carideo, and W. A. Coshel, president of the alumni association. An orchestra, solos and songs by the group will be other features of the luncheon. It will be a gala event on University Day. Your friends will be there.

evening, June 16, at the Hotel Wolcott. The meeting of the Association was the first one under the new officers, Rudie Hapke, president and Volney McFadden, Secretary-treasurer.

Victor R. Carpenter, '18, who is a resident of Mt. Vernon, N. Y. and has known Coach Carideo since the days of high school football fame, introduced the new coach and related several interesting anecdotes of the famous quarterback's early career. Missouri's head football coach rallied the New York group to a renewed support of Tiger athletics in a stirring talk and outlined his policies for the ensuing season. He stated that he was greatly pleased with the response that he had received while in Columbia from the squad, the students and faculty. With such support plus the backing of the alumni, Coach Carideo declared that he was most optimistic in his opinion of the future. "Easy" Anderson, '07, former M. U. football player and Captain in 1905 responded to the Coach's speech.

The following persons attended: John R. Grigg, Glenn J. Degner, Victor R. Carpenter, Morris E. Dry, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Shumate, Fred P. Huston, Misses Sue Frances and Adrienne Adams, Miss Nina E. Babcock, George E. Quisenberry, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Sleeper, Robert E. Landman, H. Baker Manley, Mrs. Mary Meyer, D. Blythe Johnson, John M. Neustaedter, Charles E. Chase, W. L. Bloomer, Mr. and Mrs. Volney McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hapke, T. O. Wright, Donald S. Dawson, Dr. Reisman, Mr. and Mrs. Adams, Mr. Slater, Coach Carideo's brother, and others. Fifty people attended.

NEW YORK CITY NOTES

Glenn Degner, formerly with Rudolph Guenther-Russell Law, Inc., is now associated with Standard Statistics, Inc., in the sales promotion department.

Wm. W. Merryman, '12, is now associate professor of physics and aeronautics at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. He writes that he is learning to fly and that when he gets his Pilot's certificate, he will fly to New York City for our Alumni meetings. He was formerly in the Research Laboratory of Westinghouse Lamp Co., in Bloomfield, N. J.

J. F. Rooker, B.S. in E.E., 1911, is now living at 747 Fairacres Ave., Westfield, N. J. His business address is Western Electric Co., Inc., 100 Central Avenue, Kearney, N. J.

W. C. Hacklemen's new business address is Room 418, 641 Washington Street, New York City.

GULF STATES ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the gulf states Missouri Alumni Association was held at the residence of Mrs. J. Louis Smith, formerly Anna Morrell, Secretary of the Association, and Mr. Smith in Covington, Louisiana, on June 5.

Frank A. Muth, of New Orleans, president of the gulf states alumni association, writes that "the picnic was a great success, thanks to the efforts of the ladies, who provided good lunches and a good time,—everyone arrived early and joined in the swimming party in the large pool on the Smith's estate. The picnic luncheon was certainly a dandy, soup to nuts does not describe the meal at all,—it was a typical picnic party of unlimited qualifications of all kinds of good southern food. After lunch the party proceeded to Charropin Park about a mile distant where the finest bathing was enjoyed on the white sand beach of the Boguefalia River. Following which, the party returned to the Smith home hungry as bears and everybody waded in on a big supper meal. The whole day was an enjoyable affair with reminiscences of Missouri days and discussions of "the hopes of tomorrow," for all the children were present. No important economic questions were definitely settled by the men although all pending problems were considerably discussed. Gossip was prevalent that a man was known to have a solution for all the economic questions and the prohibition question but it was later learned that he is dead. The Smith's gave us a great party."

The annual picnic was an outstanding success. It was a typical Missouri picnic. The following were present:

Mr. and Mrs. H. Giles Martin with daughter, Miss Barbara and son, Giles II, also their friend, Alvan Zar.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Louis Smith and son, Louis.
Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Wills.
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F Schuman.
Miss Annie Smith.
Mr. Don Wren and Miss Gladys Landry.
Mr. Earle Newman and Miss Georgia Walsh.
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Miller and daughter, Virginia.
Mr. and Mrs. Sidney G. Smith.
Mr. C. A. Nolde and Miss Eoline Salassi.
Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. Symon and son, Bobbie.
Mr. and Mrs. John W. Anthony and sons, Warner and Jack, also friend, Walter Inman.
Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Muth, with daughter, Susan Beth and sons, John and Frank, Jr.
Dr. J. Reddock of Tulane University.
Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Schoppe (University of Vermont) with daughters, Jean and Ruth.
Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Pierrett, also son, Marvin.
Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Sanders.

"THE COLLEGE GREEKS" is a volume of short stories by Frank F. Catron, A.B. & B.J. '15, of Lexington, Mo. The stories deal with Columbia and University of Missouri happenings. Mr. Catron is a member of Sigma Chi and was on the track team.

Prentice Reeves, A.B. '12, a member of the Ohio Board of Parole, Columbus, visited the University recently. Mr. Reeves comes from Joplin. He was a member of Quo Vadis while in the University and later became a member of Kappa Sigma. He received the degree of M.A. from Princeton in 1914, was an instructor in Psychology there from 1912 to 1916, was research psychologist for the Eastman Kodak Co. from 1916 to 1923, and was assistant professor of Psychology at Ohio Wesleyan from 1923-1925 and with the Ohio Institute from 1925 to 1931. He married Ann Hope of Brooklyn, N. Y. in 1915. They have a son, Prentis Warren, 16, and a daughter, Hope Evelyn, 14.

Burke Gilliam, B.J. '26, represented the University of Missouri on the occasion of the inauguration of Dr. William A. Boylan as President of Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y., on June 21.

Dr. C. W. Digges, Columbia dentist, who is the Dental Surgeon in Clinic for Crippled Children at the University Hospitals, was reelected secretary of the Missouri State Dental Association at its annual meeting in Joplin recently.

Professor and Mrs. W. Scott Goldthwaite of Columbia, sailed on June 9 on the S. S. New York for France. Professor Goldthwaite, who is associate professor of history and theory of music in the University, will study the composition of music with Mlle. Nadia Boulanger, prominent French musician, until the first of August. They will also travel in Germany, Austria and Switzerland.

1. Doctor of Philosophy at 19. Frances Guthrie Emberson, 19-year-old Columbia girl, received her Ph.D. this June. She was the highest ranking Phi Beta Kappa at 16, although she entered the University when only 13. Two years ago she received the A.B. degree, and last year the A.M.

2. Academic Procession. Passing by the Columns the procession went through the southeastern corner of the Quadrangle, by the new location of the Jefferson Monument, and on by the Library and Memorial Tower to the Field House.

3. Masters Degree to Chinese. President Williams awarded a Master's Degree to David C. H. Lu, first Chinese student to come to the School of Journalism under an exchange agreement with Yenching University of Peiping, China. Lu is returning to teach at Yenching.

strauch, engineer, and Guy Thompson, lawyer, recipients of honorary LL.D. degrees; President Walter Williams.

5. Golden Anniversary Class Reunion. Left to right: F. M. Young of St. Louis, J. M. Pennington of Columbia; Walter Hickman of Kansas City; Miss Kate Lonsdale of Columbia; Robert M. Cook of Kansas City; Dr. W. H. Lougeay of Denver, and Andrew A. Bailey of Brookfield. They plan another reunion—the centenary—in 1982.

6. President Williams, former President A. Ross Hill, and former Acting President Isidor Loeb were all at the Commencement exercises and a luncheon afterwards at the President's House on Francis Quadrangle.

7. Three Generations of Graduates in the same family. Left to right: Mrs. W. H. Goodson of Liberty, graduated from the University in June 1904; Miss Eleanor Goodson, daughter of Mrs. Goodson, graduated this June; Mrs. Louis Hoffman, mother of Mrs. Goodson, who was graduated from the University on July 4, 1876.

90 NINETIETH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

1. Pledge of Allegiance, delivered by President W. A. Cochel of the Alumni Association.

2. Professor and Wife, the J. Edward Gerald, both received degrees of Master's of Arts. Mrs. Gerald received her degree in history, and Mr. Gerald in Journalism. Mr. Gerald is a member of the faculty of Journalism here.

3. Baccalaureate Day. Left to right: George Farmer of St. Louis, vice-president of graduating class; Dr. Karl Morgan Block of St. Louis, baccalaureate speaker; President Walter Williams; Sheridan Morgan, Kansas City, president of graduates; and the Rev. David R. Haupt of Columbia, who delivered the invocation.

5. Class Day Speakers. Left to right: Sheridan Morgan, Kansas City, speaker at Memorial Tower; Cecile Ellis of Houston, Texas, class poetess; William Becker, Brookhaven, Miss., orator; Fern Spolander, St. Louis, historian; George Farmer, St. Louis, speaker at memorial service.

6. Commencement Audience of some 3000 people, the largest group in the history of the institution to attend a commencement program.

interests, that are characteristic of people of his day and time in general. This is inevitable.

"Our responsibility to you in these days is not to protect you from the world, but to try to help to bring for you some order and principle into the confusing and chaotic welter of modern life, and to assist you so far as we can in finding how to live full and happy and good lives in the midst of it.

"In this world in which you are living it is your responsibility to behave as educated people; not merely as competent people in some one field. I assume that you will be that. But education involves more than that. It involves the ability to distinguish between what is temporary and accidental and superficial and what is permanent and abiding. And, after, new as are many of your problems and confusing as is the life of today, the world has been in existence a long time, and it has developed certain ways of getting at things, and of acting toward them, that you, as educated people, ought not to forget.

"Neither world wars, nor jazz nor radios nor movies, nor things present nor things to come may do away with the importance of the open-minded, objective, truth-seeking attitude toward life that ought to distinguish educated men and women. Because you are educated, you ought to have fewer prejudices, a higher regard for truth, more open minds, and more inquiring spirits."

Dr. Williams announced the honors and awards for academic year just completed and the scholarships for next year. This was followed by the awarding of degrees, each Dean presenting the candidates for his school or college and Dr. Williams giving the ritualistic confirmation quoted at the beginning of this article.

Honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws this year were awarded to three outstanding alumni of the University, Guy A. Thompson '98, St. Louis, President of the American Bar Association; Walter W. Stewart '09, New York, American member of the international committee on reparations and formerly adviser to the Bank of England, and Walter Rautenstrauch '02, New York, President of the Splitdorf-Bethlehem Electric company and four other companies.

It was at the fifth commencement of the University, Aug. 5, 1847, that the first honorary LL.D. degree was awarded by the University of Missouri. The recipient was Thomas Hart Benton. However, the first honorary degree of any kind granted by this institution was an honorary Doctor of Medicine degree, given five months earlier than the first honorary LL.D. degree to Dr. George B. Crane of Tennessee, and Dr. William H. Duncan of Columbia.

With the awarding of the three honorary LL.D. degrees this commencement, the total of such degrees granted by the University is now approximately 160, the only continuous degree during the years of awarding being the LL.D.

As a finale for the Commencement program, W. A. Cochel, president of the Alumni Association, gave the oath of allegiance to the University to the graduating students. With the singing of "Old Missouri" and the benediction address by Rev. Smith, the Ninetieth Commencement program was concluded.

At noon of Commencement day, President and Mrs. Williams entertained with a luncheon at the President's House on Francis Quadrangle. The guests included: Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase and his son, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ross Hill, Dr. and Mrs. Isidor Loeb, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson Bain,

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Burton, Dr. Walter W. Stewart and sister, Miss Mabel Stewart, Mr. Guy A. Thompson, Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, and Rev. Luther W. Smith.

Commencement this year brought to light some interesting features. Probably the outstanding was the graduation of a 19-year-old girl with the Doctor of Philosophy degree. She was Frances Guthrie Emberson of Columbia, the only woman to receive the Ph.D. degree. Entering the University at 13, she was the highest ranking member of Phi Beta Kappa at 16. Two years ago she received the A.B. degree, a year ago the A.M. degree and this year the Ph.D.

Three generations of graduates of the University were represented by Miss Eleanor Goodson, who received her degree at this commencement; Mrs. W. H. Goodson, her mother, who received her degree from the University in 1904; and her grandmother, Mrs. Louis Hoffman, who was graduated in July of 1876. Mrs. Goodson lives at Liberty, Mo., while Mrs. Hoffman, wife of the late Judge Louis Hoffman, resides at Sedalia.

This Commencement brought to an end a chain of 23 years in which there has been at least one member of the Roach family of Kansas City enrolled each year in the University. Graduated this year were Anna and Catherine Roach, twins, while the first of their brothers and sisters to enter the University was Romaine, now Mrs. Diller C. Wood of Columbia, who entered in 1909. Their mother, Mrs. Cornelius Roach, was the first woman graduate of the University's School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla.

Among the recipients of the Master's degrees was David C. H. Lu, exchange fellow from Yenching University, Peiping, China. Mr. Lu received his Bachelor of Journalism degree a year ago from the School of Journalism of the University. He returns this summer to Yenching where he will take up duties as a member of the faculty of the department of journalism in that institution.

Master's degrees also were awarded to Prof. and Mrs. J. Edward Gerald. Prof. Gerald is a member of the faculty of the University School of Journalism.

RADFORD SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

of single rooms with bath was made to the dormitory. Other important repairs and improvements followed. Then to perpetuate their dream the Radfords arranged an ample endowment fund for the school and stipulated that it should be continued as a non-profit institution.

So today Radford School for Girls stands at the door of a new era of service and progress. The boarding department of the school will always be kept small in line with the policy that Radford school is a HOME for girls. The present capacity is 25 boarding students. In addition to these, over 100 day students are enrolled from El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Radford felt that a distinctive type of educational work was being accomplished at this school and have heartily endorsed the plans of Doctor Templin.

Radford school is of course a high grade preparatory school but it is also much more. The primary effort is to train girls for the actualities of life. The development of poise, personality, ability as homemakers, prime health, and the proper outlook on life are considered just as important at Radford school as are the arts and sciences or the preparation for a career. With a small group of students, never more than 10 to a class, individual attention is possible. Every student is studied and instructed as

John Rippey Morris, B.J. '22, is Manager of the Mexico City Bureau of the United Press. He was previously in Washington and Japan. Mr. Morris is a member of A. T. O., Kappa Tau Alpha and Sigma Delta Chi.

J. D. White, B.J. '32, of Appleton City, is the second Missouri-Yenching Fellow succeeding Samuel D. Groff, B.J. '29, who received his M.A. degree from Yenching University.

Dr. W. L. Allee, '02, Phi Delta Theta, of Eldon, Mo., president-elect of the Missouri State Medical Association. He will take office in 1933.

Thomas J. Hall, Eng. '14 of the Hall-Poorbaugh Press, Roswell, New Mexico, Mrs. Hall, formerly Maudie Dillenbeck, an alumnus of the University of Nebraska, and their son Thomy, Jr., visited the University May 23. It was Mr. Hall's first visit to the University since graduation.

L. M. (Daddy) Defoe, professor emeritus of Mechanics in Engineering, Walter Rautenstrauch, '02, who received the degree of LL.D. at Commencement, president of the Splittorf-Bethlehem Electric Co., New York, and Thomas J. Rodhouse, B.S. in C.E. '97, professor of Hydraulic Engineering at the University.

Fred Glidden, B.J. '30, Galesburg, Ill., and Edwin A. Hough, A.B. and B.J. '30, New York, at a cabin on beautiful Swan Lake, isolated in the heart of northern Alberta's wilderness, 75 miles east of Ft. McMurray, and of the railroad. Hough visited the Alumni Office recently enroute to New Orleans by motor. He will either resume work with Rudolph Guenther-Russell Law, Inc., in July, or return to Canada for another year. Glidden is still in the north country.

Mrs. William Boucus, formerly Frances L. Dobyms, '16, wife of William Boucus, '12; Mrs. Loyd Neff, formerly Ethelyn Strodman, A.B. '17, wife of Loyd Neff, Secretary, Drovers Telegram; Mrs. Douglas Sloan '19, Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Alpha Theta, wife of Douglas Sloan, Barnes Motor Co., Kansas City.

an individual and not just as one of a class. The separate needs and ambitions of the student can thus be fitted into the educational plan.

The girls live in a natural environment. All athletic and recreational activities and many of the classes are held outdoors on the beautiful grounds of the school. Trips in the mountains and on the desert are frequent. Health conditions are ideal in this land with its 81% of sunshine.

Students are prepared to take the Eastern college board examinations and to enter any University, and many former students have been honor graduates from the best Eastern Schools. In addition to work in music, art, and dramatic art, all students receive two lessons a week in sight singing and ear training.

The twenty-fifth annual commencement week of the school was May 21 to 24. On Sunday, May 22, the Baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of St. Louis, Mo. Dr. Holt is a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Radford.

Mrs. Radford, a daughter of the late Paul Brown of St. Louis, and a cousin of former M. U. professor in Law, Dr. Manley O. Hudson was present for commencement week and assisted Dr. Templin as hostess for the many events of the season.

Recent visitors at Radford School were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hill and daughter of Columbia, Mo. On this occasion Doctor Templin extended through "Smiling Bob" an invitation to all Missouri alumni to visit Radford School for Girls in El Paso whenever their trips bring them to that part of the Scenic Sunny Southwest.

odist Church this year, according to the roster of the Rev. Frank C. Tucker, pastor of the Missouri Methodist Church. Every facility and every member of the church staff are placed at the disposal of students by Rev. Tucker. Through the work of committees of M. S. O. unusual talent is used as it comes to light.

There are some 700 to 1000 students in Columbia who at time of matriculation at the colleges expressed preference for the Christian Church. According to the Rev. C. E. Lemmon, pastor of the Christian Church, there are more college students affiliated with the Christian Church in Columbia than at any other place in the world. This is due, Rev. Lemmon believes, to the fact that the Christian Church is particularly strong in Missouri. The nearest competitors in student population of the Christian Church are Champaign, Illinois and Lexington, Kentucky.

Of the number of students giving the Christian Church as their preference, 450 have signed cards of affiliation with the local church this year. All Christian Church groups are organized under the name of the Christian Student Congregation which has a cabinet of students that directs all programs. The pastor's assistant, Mrs. Alice G. Sorrell, is director of the Student Congregation and is employed jointly by the local church and the Missouri Christian Missionary Society. She is a graduate of Cotner College in Nebraska, the College of Missions at Indianapolis and has taken graduate work at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Sorrell also served four years as a missionary in China prior to taking up her present work in 1931. The Student Congregation centers its program at the local church plant but also maintains an office in Lowry Hall on the University Campus in order to be near student activities.

The present church sanctuary was remodeled and an educational plant was added in 1929 at a cost of $125,000. The church auditorium will seat 1000 persons. The educational building is of three stories and is thoroughly departmentalized for church, school and social activities. The auditorium of the educational building is set apart for student activities on Sundays and the parlors of the church are available for social life throughout the week.

The Christian Church at Columbia is the largest church of this denomination in Missouri outside of the big cities and at the present time has a membership of 1400.

In addition to its church building located in the midst of the business district, the First Presbyterian Church also maintains a Student Center, social rooms, assembly rooms, kitchens and dining rooms, a home for the student counselor and all necessary facilities for the convenience of students and others interested in the denomination. The Student Center is available for Sunday School classes, fellowship discussions and social activities. The home of the student counsellor is designed as a place where students can go for home-life atmosphere, and it is located near the University Campus and convenient to the students.

The church plant is open to students not only for attendance at the worship services of the church but for those activities of a more formal nature when a larger auditorium is needed, according to the Rev. John M. Alexander, pastor. The enrollment of students in the First Presbyterian Church this year is 661.

In addition to Rev. Alexander the following staff who work among the students is maintained: Rev. Frank A. Hoerner, professor of Religious Education in the Bible College at the University of Missouri and Presbyterian Student Counsellor; Rev. Joseph M. Garrison, University Pastor, and Mrs. R. E. Wallin, secretary of the Presbyterian Church.

The Cavalry Episcopal Church (Protestant) offers to the 200 affiliated University students, the forty from Stephens College and the ten from Christian College, a house of worship located between the main business district of Columbia and the University Campus. The church conducts regular Sunday services during the academic year, both in the morning and in the evening. Episcopal students meet at the Student Center each Sunday evening for the supper hour which is followed by an informal devotional hour with religious talks and discussions led by prominent faculty members or other towns people or by the clergy and by leaders of national prominence in the Episcopal Church. These services are adjourned promptly at eight-thirty o'clock each Sunday evening. The first Sunday of each month this service usually takes the form of a public service where all who are interested may attend.

The Episcopal Student Center is a relatively small but substantial residence which is presided over by the hostess, Mrs. R. H. Malmo, who is whole-heartedly interested in students and their friends. The building always is available for student activities whether they are in the nature of religious discussions and conferences or in the form of social activities such as dances and other forms of play. The Student Center is the headquarters for the Episcopal Student Association which group participates fully in the work of the Students Religious Council, another group coordinating activities of all student religious denominations.

According to the Rev. David R. Haupt, pastor of the Episcopal Church, the enrollment of students expressing preference for the Episcopal Church is increasing each year, and the church officials and authorities must be on the job constantly to provide adequate facilities for this growing enrollment.

The Catholic Church, in addition to the well equipped church building, provides extra facilities for students and other members of the faith in a student home where the conveniences of the home are at the disposal of all who use the building. In it are dormitories, auditoriums for meeting purposes, lounge rooms, library and other equipment maintained for the use of any students who room in the building whether or not they are of the Catholic faith.

At the present time there are a few more than 230 students in the Columbia educational institutions who are affiliated with the Catholic Church, according to Father F. H. Dieckmann. In addition to these there are 225 other members of the church in Columbia. The enrollment both of students and other members is growing rapidly and it is only a question of time until more adequate facilities will be necessary.

In addition to the religious institutions mentioned in the foregoing, provision also is made by Congregational, Lutheran, a Christian Science Church and many others for the observance of religious faiths held by students in these denominations. It may be said that all of the denominations of prominence in the country have facilities for the use of students in Columbia. It may be said further that Columbia churches and Columbia religious organizations provide all of the known means for advancement of the religious life of students.

factorily en masse. They need individual attention by the best teachers it is possible to secure. They require laboratory and library facilities beyond those adequate for the undergraduate students. To care for them properly is an expensive business but it is an expense that the State of Missouri, through its State University, should willingly assume because it means the better preparation of the young men and women who will be among the leaders of tomorrow in the various fields represented by the 50 departments included in the summary given with this note. The alumni also can assist by personal gifts to the Graduate School of the University or by encouraging others to make such gifts. Contributions to the Graduate School of the University offer to wealthy individuals possibilities of real service: and the opportunity of establishing a memorial to themselves and their families, which will be of lasting influence.

The IDEAL GIRL Who Works

(By Her Would-Be Employer)

She is well dressed. She is punctual; I know that if the janitor should fail to open the office some morning she would break the door in so as to greet the first customer.

She dresses neatly and enough; there is that about her which draws a little higher price from a male purchaser, and which is definitely attractive to women shoppers.

She dresses attractively. She is by no means a dry and inhuman machine, but she knows the price of everything in the store, from vacuum cleaners to my company cigars and liquor.

She dresses comfortably. She is charmingly big-minded; the pertest society bud can order her about shamefully without eliciting a curt rejoinder . . . she has perspective and poise.

She dresses within her means. She is delightfully agreeable to the other employees; no one can bring complaints against her, and she wouldn't complain against anyone, annoying me with petty squabbles.

In fact, she dresses at

WHERE Would You Room If You Were a Student?

Just put yourself in the place of the student who comes to Columbia for the Summer Session or for the Winter Term.

Suppose you were looking for a place to room. Are you going to room in a house this summer where there is no cool summer furniture either in the house or yard?

Are you going to room in a house this summer or fall where there isn't a comfortable, home-like chair in your room? Where there isn't a respectable study table, study chair, and study lamp? Where there isn't a clean respectable rug on the floor and a comfortable bed and mattress?

Think these things over.

If you have a lot of old uncomfortable, unattractive furniture, it will pay you to throw or give it away. Such furniture drives roomers away. There never was and never will be another time like this to get real bargains in summer and winter furniture for the rooming houses at . . .

STUDENTS OF THE SUMMER SESSION

Would you look your best this summer?

Surely you would.

Why?

Because it's good business for students to look their best. Who knows but some employer, a school principal or superintendent, is giving you the once over this summer, preliminary to offering you a job.

Then look your best.

Have fresh, clean, well laundered clothes each day. It doesn't cost much. That's the smallest thing to be considered.

It's the smart thing to do—look fresh and clean in well laundered clothes . . . your appearance goes a long way in securing recognition . . . a job.
