With the Editor

THE story of Richard Henry Jesse, President of the University of Missouri, 1891-1908, has been completed by Henry O. Severance, librarian for the University. We are happy to make this announcement not only because it is a worthy biography of a poor farmer boy who became Dean of the Tulane University of Louisiana and President of the University of Missouri and won a seat at the conference tables of distinguished educators, but also because it gives a graphic view of the university in its most constructive and progressive period. Dr. Walter Williams, now president of the University, laconically stated that thought in the Foreword when he wrote, "He found a high school and left a university. Those who came after him build upon the foundation which he so well and faithfully laid."

Yet, there is another reason we should be happy to see the publication on "This vivid portrait of President Jesse." It contains concerning our university and its leaders a wealth of historical data that will be doomed to the shelves of statistics and dry facts if they are not correlated, personified, and preserved with a literary appeal.

Dr. Severance, versed in the history of the university, recorded and legendary, has prepared a manuscript of 250 pages, interspersed with many illustrations. This biography should be a welcome addition to the libraries of all alumni and friends of the University of Missouri.

WE are sincerely thankful to the hundreds who sent us Christmas greetings . . . from this and other countries . . . all sending cheerful and encouraging words . . . all indicating happiness ahead. As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country.

Consider such a homely custom as the interchange of Christmas cards. We sometimes grumble over the burden it imposes. It is a real task, selecting the right cards, making out the list, getting the envelopes addressed and mailed. But when the cards begin coming in, what a wealth of memories they bring, how many old friendships glow afresh as we sit musing over the cards at the end of the day!

AS this issue of The Missouri Alumnus is being mailed we are embarking on a trip around the world, leaving for the orient, southern Europe and returning by way of New York City. This is the annual trip offered to the President of Rotary International, and naturally enough we welcome this opportunity of contacting and visiting alumni and friends of the University.

If there is any service the alumni office can render during our absence feel free to submit your requests and you may be assured they will receive prompt attention.

"A SERVICE INSTITUTION"

Offers a New Educational Administration Plan

Gov. Guy B. Park Recommends a Unification of the Governing Boards of Missouri's Five Teachers Colleges and the University

by Harvey Wertz

GOV. PARK'S recommendations to the state legislature that the Board of Curators of the University and the other governing boards at the five state teachers colleges be unified into one board of curators appears likely to have an important sequel.

No one familiar with the situation at the present time expects that the institutions will all be brought under one board at the present session of the assembly but the university and the state teachers colleges are much in the foreground these days of law making.

The increasing number of Missouri alumni in both house and senate, the increase in numbers of college men from all schools, and the gradual disappearance of politicians who opposed higher education in any form heralds a more generous use of state funds in rounding out the primary educational system.

The governor, himself an alumnus of the law school at the university, is as staunch a defender of the institution as ever swung a paddle. Before alumni gatherings throughout the state he has frequently expressed a desire to build up the institution and it is known that it is his desire to develop a strong vigorous faculty group as well as a good fast backfield with a scoring punch.

His message to the general assembly pointed out that there are seven distinct and separate higher institutions of learning in the state and the combined membership of their different boards is forty-five.

"It is apparent from this situation," he said, "that there is not and cannot be such a coordination of these institutions as to obtain the most economical or best results.

"We are, as a matter of fact, supporting six universities with six boards of men of different thought and experiences and probably with different ideals.

"It is my opinion that as a matter of practical economy and necessary coordination there should be a unification of these state supported institutions under the Board of Curators, and make all of the schools an integral part of the university with one board, one chief administrative officer and one budget.

"The Board of Curators of the university is recommended as a controlling board for the reason that it is a constitutional body and the legislature would have no power to name any other board of control for the university.

"All financial needs of the University of Missouri, so to be created, should be brought together in one budget, to be presented as one appropriation request, the actual appropriation to be redistributed through the central administrative office.

"The establishment of new state institutions of higher education and expansion or extension of existing state institutions should be under the control of the administrative organization of the University of Missouri as it may be constituted.

"It is not my purpose in making this recommendation, nor will its adoption by you have the effect, to impair or in any manner destroy any one of the several teachers colleges.

"The effect will be to make each one of them a part and parcel of the state university and their work will receive equal credits and their diplomas will be entitled to recognition as diplomas from the university, for such will they be.

"As above suggested my thought in urging this consolidation is to save the money of the taxpayer and by coordination and unification create for Missouri a larger and better university to which our citizens may look with pride."

The governor's message on the schools was received with varying emotions. Legislators from the areas containing the various teachers colleges failed to see that the coordination suggested by the governor would result in any actual saving of money.

Legislators from the cities or from areas where there are no teachers colleges thought the plan extremely well advised but doubted if it would pass in either house or senate.

The happiest reaction was that nearly all agreed there should be a coordination of management and of curricular advice between the university and the teachers college. Many friends of the teachers colleges honestly believed that their institutions would be better off under the guidance of the university authorities but were afraid that this step might be a move to strangle the colleges for the benefit of the university.

Could some guarantee that this would not be done be given to the friends of the teachers colleges there is little doubt that the college supporters would agree with the university supporters on one board of control.

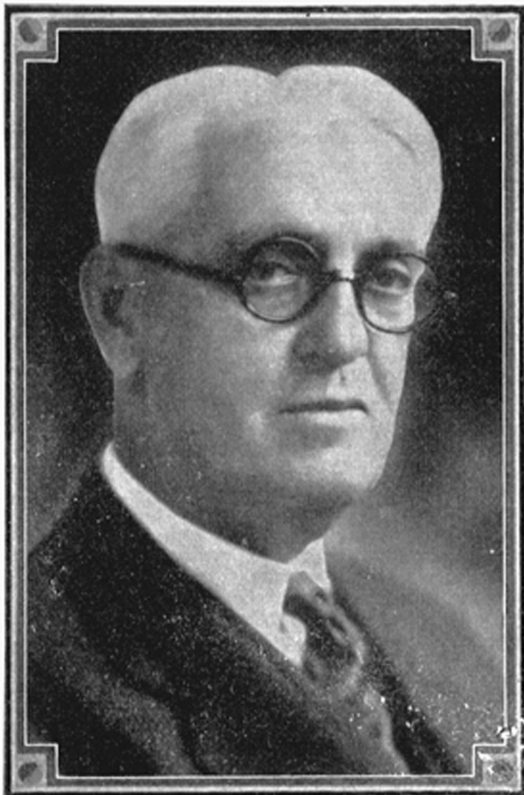

Many friends of the colleges predict that unless some means of employing the hundreds of teachers profitably as they are trained and graduated at the various institutions each year that there will be state wide reaction against the institutions which may definitely impair their usefulness.

They agree that changes should be made in the teaching facilities at the teachers institutions so that adequate instruction in other fields may be presented. They also agree that these courses should not be a duplication of courses presented at the university.

Suggestions for courses which meet both of these specifications are limited according to vocational subjects and while there is a great room for these vocational subjects in the educational system of the state, there are many people who fear that changing the entire curriculum of the five colleges to vocational subjects would be disastrous to all the institutions.

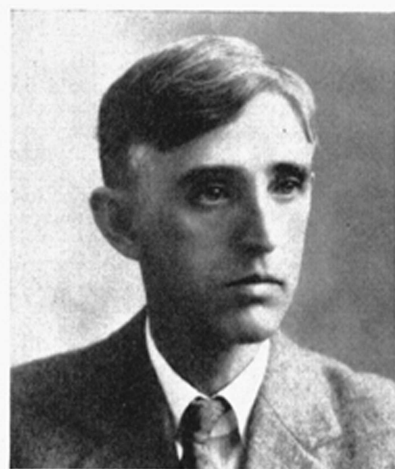

If these changes could be worked out gradually over a period of four years or more it appears that both the schools and the university could profit greatly and the result would be a greatly expanded educational system fitting students for modern industry and agriculture as well as for academic work.

The thought is still new. It has a few supporters. More people are coming to regard it as the hope of both classes of institutions and both teachers college patrons as well as friends of the university agree that something to rehabilitate both educational systems should be developed while they have Gov. Park as chief executive.

Gov. Guy B. Park

Appoints Two Lawyers and a Publisher to Board of Curators

James A. Potter

GOV. GUY B. PARK has announced the appointment of John Lathrop of Kansas City, James A. Potter of Jefferson City and John H. Wolpers of Poplar Bluff to membership on the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri. These three new members whose terms expire January 1, 1941, will replace Mrs. Helen C. Zwick of St. Joseph, A. A. Speer of Jefferson City, and Mercer Arnold of Joplin.

John Lathrop is an alumnus of Yale University and Harvard Law School, and has practiced law in Kansas City since 1909. His father Gardiner Lathrop, one of the two oldest living alumni of the University, was considered among the leading educators of the Midwest and also served on the Board of Curators. John Lathrop's grandfather was John H. Lathrop, the first and fifth president of the University of Missouri.

James A. Potter, A.B. '02, LL.B. '05, began the practice of law in Aurora and in 1925 was named assistant state attorney general. He is now in private law practice in Jefferson City. His daughter, Mrs. James Kunkler of Kansas City, formerly

John Lathrop

Miss Mary Louise Potter graduated from the University in 1927.

John H. Wolpers, a native Missourian, graduate of Southeast Missouri Teachers College, attended the graduate school of the University in 1909. He served as principal of the Boone Terre schools for six years. In 1911 he entered the newspaper business as owner of the Boone Terre Register. In 1928 he bought the Citizen-Democrat, and Interstate American newspapers and merged them with the Poplar Bluff (Mo.) Republican. He called the new paper of which he is now publisher, the Poplar Bluff American-Republic. Mr. Wolpers was president of the Southeast Press Association in 1930 and for twelve years a member of the city board of education of Poplar Bluff. At present he has four children attending the University. (See page 21).

The other members of the Board of Curators are Frank M. McDavid, Springfield, Charles F. Ward, Plattsburg, and George C. Willson, St. Louis, whose terms expire in 1939; and H. J. Blanton, Paris, H. W. Lenox, Rolla, and J. K. Walsh, Webster Groves, with terms expiring 1937.

Head Departments

The November issue of The Michigan Alumnus carried an article and a picture of Dr. F. A. Middlebush on their page "Who's Who in the Alumni University." Dr. Middlebush, who has served at dean of the University of Missouri's School of Business and Public Administration since 1925, received three degrees from Michigan. The account mentioned his being Acting President of the University of Missouri and his editorial eminence in his chosen field.

Lloyd W. King, A.M. '32, recently elected state superintendent of schools is succeed as superintendent of Monroe City Schools by L. A. Van Dyke, A.M. '34, Sioux City, Ia., who until January 1 was principal of the Monroe City High School.

Appointed Bureau Chief

Frederick D. Richey, B.S. in Ag. '09, has been appointed chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the U. S. Agriculture Department succeeding Knowles A. Ryerson. Richey has been in the department for twenty-three years. Before that he was food and drug commissioner for Missouri.

J. A. Zinn, A.B. '33, and H. N. Warsawer, A.B. '34, are enrolled in the Graduate School of Business Administration of Harvard University. This branch of the Graduate School has announced the completion of recent plans for the inauguration of a program designed to prepare its graduates for public service. This new plan emphasizes the training of men in both business and government.

Capt. Robinett Gives Engravings To School

Captain Paul M. Robinett, B.S. in Ag. '17, a native of Missouri, recently presented to the School of Journalism of the University three original Forbes' engravings, depicting war-time scenes involving newspaper correspondents at the front during the War Between States in America. The engravings have been framed and hung in Neff Hall.

Captain Robinett, a cavalry officer in the Regular Army, is now full time instructor at the Army's Basic Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas. He recently was graduated from the Staff and Command School at Fort Leavenworth as one of the youngest officers to ever win a detail to that school.

Captain Robinett went to the Second Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, from the University of Missouri at the opening of the World War. He won his commission among the first 10 per cent at this camp, a rank which carried with it a provisional commission in the Regular Army. He served in the First U. S. Cavalry during the War.

In 1921, Captain Robinett's record in the Cavalry School secured for him an appointment to the French Cavalry School at Saumur, France. After being graduated as an American visiting officer from the French school, he traveled in Germany. Later, Robinett, an accomplished horseman, represented the United States Army on a team in horsemanship at the Olympic Games in Sweden.

Captain Robinett served two tours of two years each as aide-de-camp to General Malin Craig, also a Missourian, when the latter was in command of the Canal Zone. He was also with General Craig as assistant chief of staff in the army maneuvers in the Pacific Ocean. Captain Robinett's service in Panama was coincidental with Mr. Roy Davis' diplomatic assignment there.

Anderson Tours With Chase "Top Executives"

Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., A.B. '06, was one of the "top executives" of Chase National Bank who boarded the special train for the month long inspection swing around the United States. In the account given by Time, Dec. 24th, is the following mention of the party; "One was Winthrop William Aldrich, chairman of the biggest bank in the United States. Another was the bank's president, Henry Donald Campbell. A third was the bank's brilliant economist, Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., and a fourth was the handsome young Nelson Rockefeller."

Will Rogers in his remarks about the Chase inspectors commented, "This fellow has an economist with him. Pretty near everybody's got one. Either that or a police dog. The more wealthy have got both."

Since returning to the east Mr. Anderson addressed the members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, which was broadcast over WLLC, Bridgeport, Conn.

ALUMNI MEETINGS

Alumni At Dinner In Ohio Plan Association

Alumni of the University of Missouri in Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio, were given an opportunity to greet Bob Hill through the courtesy of the Rotary Club of Cincinnati, at the four state dinner of the Rotarians at the Gibson Hotel, Tuesday night, January 8th, given in honor of Bob as president of Rotary International. This was the first meeting that has been held of Missourians in Southern Ohio.

Those who were present at the two Missouri tables were: E. D. "General" Smith, '02, and Lewis C. Cook, '17, Dayton; Frank L. Wright, '11, Procter Thomson, '10, Don D. Patterson, '17; Rober Q. Milstead, '17; Don D. McCubbin, '10; W. H. Robnett, '32; George Bond, Jr., '22; Hugh McMillan, '27; Paul B. Lansing, '29; Ralph W. Taylor, '24; and Hunter Hanly, '02.

As a result of the dinner, plans are under way for the organization of an alumni association with Cincinnati as the center for all Missourians who are residents in southern Ohio and northern Kentucky. Announcement will be made concerning the organization meeting, to which all alumni and former students of the university are not only invited but urged to attend.

St. Louis Alumni Applaud Faurot

An invitational group of over a 100 alumni and former students in St. Louis—the largest gathering of its kind in many a year—cheered and applauded as Don Faurot, the new Tiger coach, was introduced at a banquet given in his honor at the University Club, January 14th. Coach Faurot outlined his plans and hopes for the 1935 season and urged alumni to "stick with the team."

W. T. Simpson, president of the St. Louis Alumni Association also introduced the two other speakers of the evening: Richmond C. Coburn, president of the General Alumni Association, and John C. Hall, and active alumnus of the University, both of St. Louis.

Visits With Alumni At Stuttgart Duck Feed

Along about the middle of December we had the pleasure of attending a "duck feed" down at Stuttgart, Arkansas. That part of the country is renowned for good hunting, fine dinners, and consequently, genial fellowship. On this special occasion we were happy to visit with the following alumni: Hartsill Banks, Stuttgart; Dr. John Steel, manager of Davis Hospital, Pine Bluff; Sam Bridges of the Pine Bluff Coffin Company; J. E. Howard, superintendent of Schools at Stuttgart; H. K. Thatcher, Conway; Harold Jones of Caruthersville, Mo.; and J. C. Robbins, manager of J. I. Porter Lumber Company, Stuttgart.

Attention New Yorkers

The New York Alumni Association is planning a meeting in honor of Bob Hill, alumni director and Mrs. Hill when they return from their around the world cruise in April, according to the announcement by Volney McFadden, president of the N. Y. Alumni. For particulars of this meeting all alumni, former students and friends of the University in New York may communicate with Judson S. Corbin, 393 7th Avenue or with the president of the Association.

Robert W. Brown, former student, has been appointed to a three year term as director of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis.

D. C. Alumni Enter Midwinter Program

Washington, D. C. Alumni resumed their weekly luncheon meetings the second Wednesday in this month. The policy of the association was stressed by President F. F. Eppenschied who announced that the meetings would continue to be informal and that all visiting alumni and faculty members are urged to visit with their friends and hear the guest speakers who will appear before the association at the luncheon meetings.

In sending in the report the association secretary, Roy E. Miller, wrote that many alumni attended the Missouri State Society ball, Dec. 15th, which was given in honor of the Assistant Secretary of War, the Honorable Harry Woodring and Mrs. Woodring. The address of welcome was given by Col. Carl L. Ristine, now Special Assistant to the Attorney General.

Many alumni of the University are interested in the Missouri Society and among those who have taken active parts are John B. Gordon, who was reelected president, O. E. Reed, and Craig L. Reddish.

New England Alumni Notes

Missourians in New England have kept under cover for the most part during the frigid Christmas season. Now that the snow has disappeared and with it the ice, perhaps one Missourian will meet another by chance on the wind-swept Common or elsewhere in Boston. But before this news is in the mail, here comes another snow storm (Sunday, Jan. 13), so here we shall be, snowbound again perhaps!

Arnold Leonard, who has been established in Watertown, Mass., for some years, and who served as representative in the State Legislature, moved back to his native state this fall. He had been elected vice-president of the New England alumni group at the spring meeting, but has now resigned. His new address is Joplin National Bank Bldg., Joplin, Mo.

Nelson C. Tisdell, A.B. '20, son of Dean and Mrs. F. M. Tisdell, is serving for the fourth consecutive year as comptroller of the Emergency Campaign Fund in Boston, being loaned for the purpose by his firm, Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery.

Hatton Named Secretary Of Columbia C. of C.

Fred R. Hatton, former student, was elected to succeed the late L. E. Slate as secretary of the Columbia Chamber of Commerce. After leaving the University he became assistant manager of the Daniel Boone Tavern and is at present senior assistant manager of the Muehlebach Hotel in Kansas City. In this capacity his duties included handling of conventions for the hotel, and working with the convention committee of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Hatton was formerly Sara Ann Wheeler, B.J. '27, of Columbia.

ALEXIOUS THOMPSON BELL, B.S. 1901, M.D. 1903, is head of the department of pathology at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

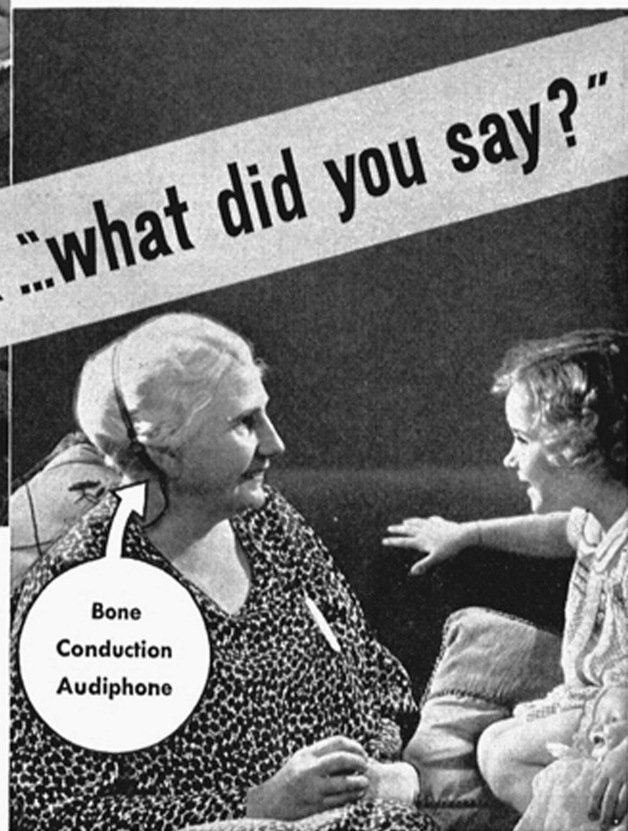

Dr. Bell was born in Ralls County, Missouri in 1880, graduated from Monroe City High School in 1897, and after attending the University of his native state he continued his studies at the University of Bonn in Germany. CAMPUS COMMENT

Workshop To Present Historical Play

Director Rhynsburger in the Title Role

Abraham Lincoln by John Drinkwater will be presented by The Missouri Workshop, February 12, 13 and 14 in Jesse Auditorium, 8:15 p. m. Alumni will be interested to know that reserved seats may be had for Thursday, Feb. 14, for fifty cents by sending a mail order to the Secretary's Office, Jesse Hall; marked attention, Mr. McMullen.

Special care is being given to the accuracy of period furniture and costumes. This production will require more costumes than any Workshop presentation to date and in order to be historically correct the wardrobes, which also include wigs and beards, are being supplied by the New York Costume Company.

The play will be under the direction of Donovan Rhynsburger who will play the title role. Mrs. Rhynsburger will play Mrs. Lincoln. Harold Kopel will be assistant director and stage manager.

Others in the cast are David Sker, William Bradey, Irwin Reif, Leonard Haseman, John Shelley, Louis Edmondson, Elbert Jones, Stewart Williams, Philip White, Leland Traywick, Edward Rogers, Spencer Allen, James Connor, Andrew Johnson, Carson Davis, Philip Carpenter, Armand Helm, Scott Branham, Edward Seidel, Jetta Carleton, Sarah Jane Jose, Dorothea Kupfer, Eleanor Easton, Elizabeth Ann Dickinson, Lucile Folse, Abraham Maslan, Jane Wyman, Joan Howe, Carolyn Collier, Dorothy Rotenhagen and Ronald Marriott.

Two original one-act plays were given their premier performance January 16, when Workshop presented Mary Paxton Keeley's "Evelyn Byrd" and "Odd Idea" by Bown Adams.

"Evelyn Byrd" is the story of love in Colonial Virginia, and its triumph over parental objection. "Odd Idea" is a modern, sophisticated comedy which puts a new wrinkle in the eternal triangle.

Needed: A Prize For Playwriting

Students at the University of Missouri hold a remarkable record in intercollegiate competition in the field of creative writing. Perhaps the most distinguished honor of all was recently conferred upon Peggy Carol Elsea for her poetical one-act play "Wings Over the Hill" which won the "Poetic Prize" for the best verse play in the Clifton Arts Club contest, Bristol, England.

This recent honor brings to mind the first of an M. U. list of successful student plays which was written in 1930 by Maxine Block. Her play "Eyes" was awarded the Samuel French Award following competition in a New York City tournament presentation. It was subsequently published by the Samuel French Publishing Co.

The local Dramatic Contest has for the past twelve years stimulated student interest in play writing and it is especially unfortunate that owing to financial exhaustion the annual prize of $50 is unprovided.

Some encouragement to student playwrights in a special field will, however, be given by the announcement of the prize of $25 offered by the Committee on the Mark Twain Centennial for the best one-act play on Mark Twain, to be taken either from his life or his works. These plays must be handed in not later than March 27.

Arthur Paul Schultz, exchange student at the University of Hawaii, is a delegate to the fourth annual conference on the Student Institute of Pacific Relations which is meeting at this time in Honolulu. This student conclave will hear international authorities and discuss the subject of "International Stability in the Pacific."

University Celebrates Mark Twain Centennial

The Mark Twain Centennial Celebration at the University opened January 18th with a lecture by Stephen Leacock on "Mark Twain's Missouri". Other lectures on the world famed Missouri writer who was awarded an L.L.D. in 1902, will be given at the University and throughout the state during the year.

Pageants will be presented throughout the state by students and school children under the direction of Prof. Jesse E. Wrench, Donovan Rhynsburger, and Miss M. M. Brashear. Moving stages will be constructed at the University Dramatic Laboratory for the main tour to be given in the fall.

Further interest on the part of the University is shown by the announcement of a one-act play contest based on the life and work of Mark Twain and the designation of Mark Twain Week, Nov. 30th to Dec. 6th, under the auspices of the College of Arts and Science.

M. U. Stayed Within Budget

The University of Missouri, despite adverse financial conditions, completed the biennium of 1933-34 without a deficit and with all outstanding bills paid, according to the report of the Business Manager, Leslie Cowan.

President Walter Williams, in commenting upon the report and the financial difficulties encountered by the University in the last two years expressed pride at the manner in which the University has been able to cooperate with the State Administration in an economy program but strongly emphasized the "depleted" condition that exists today as a result of this rigid economy, and the critical situation ahead.

Encouraged Basketeers Await Return Games

As the Tigers reach mid-season it is a simple matter for them to take inventory-five conference defeats and one victory. However none of the margins have been large, and although the win was only a one-point victory over Nebraska the Missourians look to the rest of the schedule.

The present ratings show Oklahoma and Kansas tying for first place followed by Iowa State, Nebraska, Kansas State and Missouri. Each team Missouri plays gives the Tigers a chance to advance and at the same time lower the rating of others.

New Center

Immediately following this semester a new center will be eligible and all indications are that he will strengthen the Tigers at their weakest post. This new comer to the Missouri court, Carmin Henderson, stands 6 feet, 4½ inches and weighs 200 pounds.

The splendid work of the two regular guards, Jorgensen and Powell, has been outstanding for the Tigers. To have a well developed team Coach Edwards will have to develop scoring forwards and centers. Ralph Beer, a sophomore, has made a good showing in the last two games and with the addition of Henderson in the lineup creates a brighter outlook, and slates the Tigers to win at least half of the remaining games.

Defeats Nebraska

Missouri defeated Nebraska 32 to 31 in a hard fought tenacious game. Capt. "Duke" Jorgensen, high pointer, contributed 12 points to the Tigers score. Another scoring guard, Evans Powell, whose injuries had kept him out of practice for the week, played three quarters. The visitors staged a scoring spree in the last few minutes which diminished the Tiger seven point lead to the minimum, but by matching long and spectacular shots Missouri held its own.

Unofficially the season opened for Missouri Dec. 21st and 22nd when they journeyed to St. Louis to meet St. Louis University and Washington U. In the opening game the Tigers established a lead but were unable to maintain it suffering a 33 to 18 defeat. The Bengals made a better showing against Washington to whom they lost 29 to 25.

On Jan. 4th the Tigers proved an equal match for the Cyclones at Ames for the first half. Shortly after the second half the Iowans broke the deadlock and forged ahead running their score up to 31 points against Missouri's 23.

K. U. Victories

The following Friday and Saturday the Missourians invaded Lawrence, Kansas, and matched forces with the K. U. basketeers, who were four times title winners and now defending champions. At the half period in the first game the Jayhawkers were only one point in the lead but before the last minute of play they established the final score of 39 to 29. Jorgensen again proved himself a star guard by holding K. U.'s scoring ace, Ray Ebling, to two field goals.

In the second game the veteran Kansas quintett won 36 to 27 by virtue of a six-minute rally late in the game en-

ATHLETICS

Don Faurot, Former M. U. Star, Returns as Head Football Coach

Lee-Carl Overstreet, Chairman of the Athletic Committee, Welcomes the New Tiger Mentor.

Friends and alumni of the University greeted the announcement of January 1st naming Don B. Faurot as head Tiger Football coach. He was chosen by the Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics and approved and appointed by the Board of Curators.

The new athletic policy at the University called for a revision of duties in which Chester L. Brewer, associated with Missouri's athletics with but few interruptions since 1910, will devote his time to the men's physical education department while the responsibilities of the directorship of athletics will be assumed by the Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics until a new director is named.

Coach Faurot who returns as a gridiron mentor to his alma mater is one of the few football coaches with an A.M. degree. He received his M.S. in Agriculture in 1925 and an A.M. degree in 1927. After leaving the University where he was a basketball and baseball star as well as a member of the famous pony backfield under Gwinn Henry and Harry Kipke he became coach at Kirksville Teachers College. Kirksville's spectacular string of 26 victories drew nation-wide attention to the youthful coach.

Since his appointment Coach Faurot has taken charge of his new position with characteristic energy and in regard to the Tiger outlook he says, "There is no reason why we should not be able to return football prosperity to Missouri."

As an initial step in rejuvenating the team Coach Faurot intends to instill a team spirit characterized by a will to win. He also is of the belief the bigger the squad the better the team, and with that in mind hopes to have three men for every position on the team.

To date the Board of Curators has not named Coach Faurot's assistant nor declared any further changes in the coaching personnel. His salary was set at $4500. Carideo's salary contract called for $6500, while Coach Gwinn Henry drew $8500.

abling them to chalk up 17 points.

On January 11 the Tigers played their first home game and lost to Oklahoma 38 to 28. Browning, known through the conference for his scoring ability, added fourteen points for the Sooners. Capt. Jorgensen led several late rallies for the Missourians, but they were unable to outshoot the tall Soopers whose height and weight at each position exceeded the Tigers.

At the half of the second game the Tigers were leading 15 to 10, but despite an early lead and a continued hard fight the visitors led by Browning who had been held scoreless the first half, broke through during the last six minutes and won 33 to 29.

What are the three oldest newspapers west of the Mississippi?

How many newspapers in the U. S. are over a hundred years old?

How old is the University of Missouri?

Who is known as "The Father of the University"?

What was the date of the University Fire?

The Enterprise (Alabama) Ledger carried a story on the oldest newspapers in the United States. It mentioned the fact that 192 newspapers in the United States are more than a century old. The three oldest newspapers west of the Mississippi are the Arkansas Gazette at Little Rock, dating from 1819; the Herald-Statesman, at Columbia, Mo., 1821, and the Hawkeye, at Burlington, Iowa, 1830.

February 11, 1935, will mark the ninety-sixth year since the incorporation of the University of Missouri. With that date a month away came the report that recommendations had been made to the Board of Curators that the centennial celebration of the University be held in 1939 and that among other things a committee be appointed to consider the publication of a memorial volume.

As one considers the years of the University certain personalities come to mind whose unflinching vision kept this institution true to its course. Eminent among those leaders was Major James S. Rollins, known as "The Father of the University." This outstanding educator and statesman was born in Kentucky, and educated at The University of Indiana. He came to Missouri at the age of eighteen destined to be the leader in the movement to establish the University.

The date of January 9th is twice marked on the University calendar of historic events. On that date, 1888, Major Rollins died, concluding the active days of the patriarch of education in Missouri whose influence in itself has been a monument to his service. Four years later, January 9th, 1892, the administration building burned to the ground and left standing the six Columns that are a symbol of the past and an inspiration to the present.

VACATION THOUGHTS

Vacation Season
Will Soon Be Here

A scene like the one on this page doesn't require many words to fire our imaginations and fill our minds with plans for a happy summer vacation. It's only a matter of a few months now. For most of us the 1935 vacation question is already pressing for an answer. If we have earned one we ought to make every minute of it count in the way of recreation and happy memories. Train travel is one way to accomplish this. We reach our destination quickly and in carefree comfort.

Where Shall We Go

The picture on this page will suggest a dude ranch vacation. The dude ranch is the cattle ranch of yesterday, made comfortable for paying guests who love horseback riding, hiking, mountain climbing, and other outdoor activities. There are many splendid ones adjacent to Union Pacific lines in most western states. In Jackson Hole, Wyoming, near Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks, are some of the finest and most noted.

Then there are the National Parks, one or more in nearly every western state. Colorado, where the West is nearest, has two, besides hundreds of fine mountain resorts to choose from. The Pacific Coast with several more National Parks, offers vacations in either California or the Pacific Northwest. En route a side-trip from Salt Lake City for a three-day tour through Yellowstone Park is suggested. Yellowstone is a good yardstick by which to judge the merits of all other scenery.

But for the supreme western vacation we urge a trip to the trio of National Parks in Southern Utah and Northern Arizona, Zion the beautiful Bryce Canyon the exquisite, and Grand Canyon the masterpiece. They are included on a six-day motor tour from Cedar City, Utah, an overnight train trip from Salt Lake City. Read about it in Union Pacific's Zion "Red Book" which gives all details of this most colorful region.

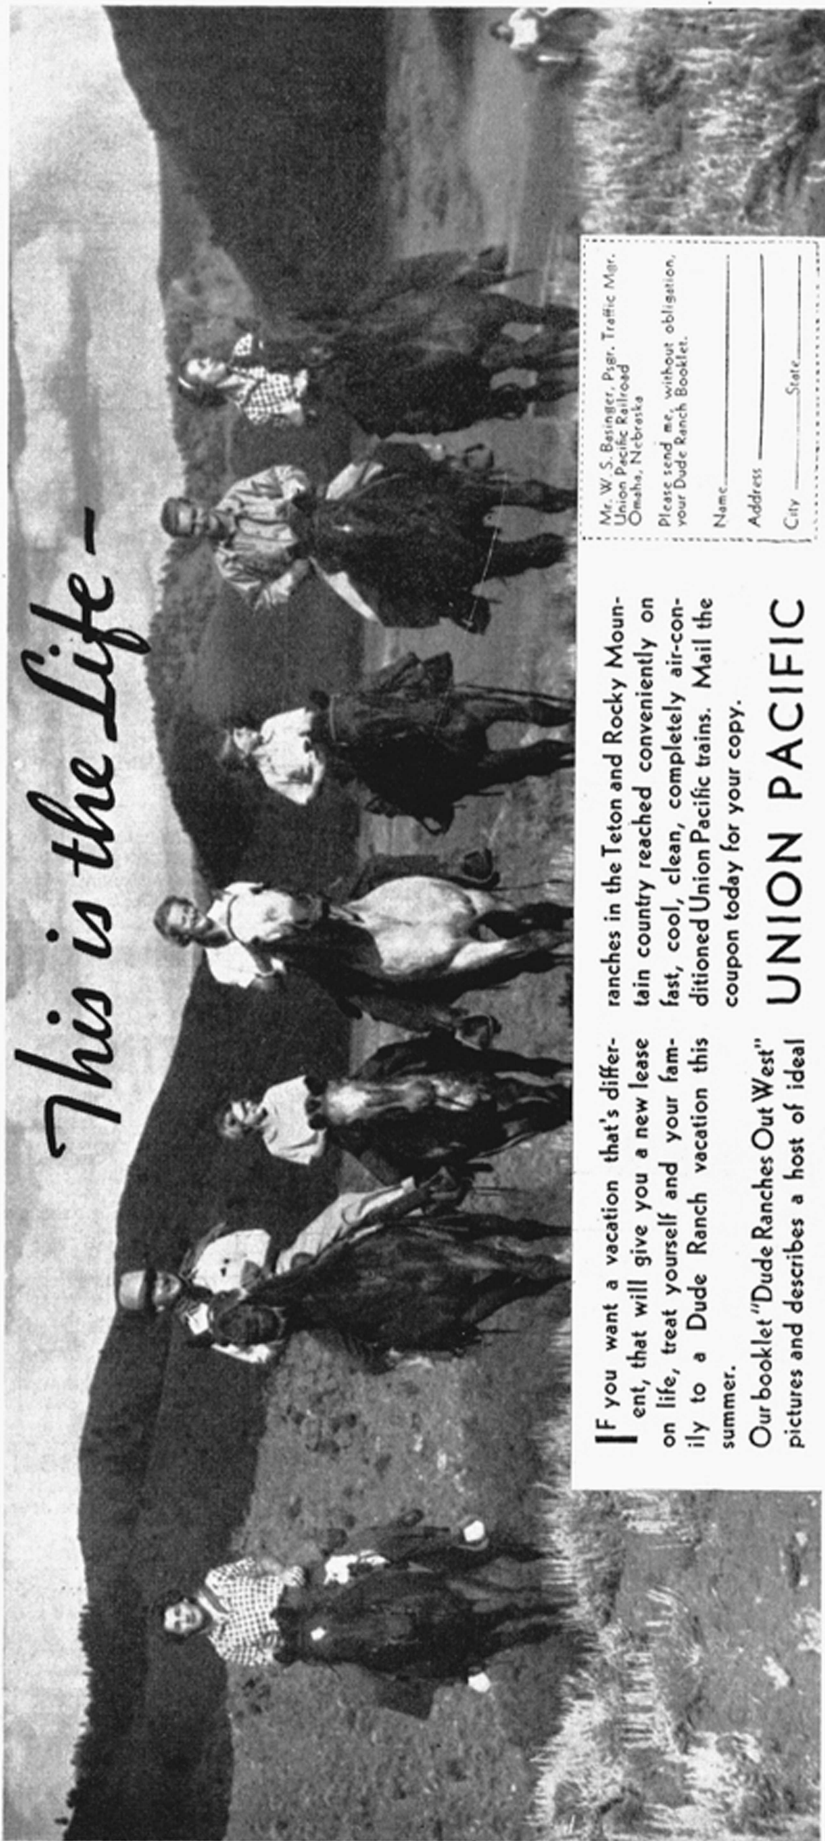

Trains Air-conditioned

Last year the Union Pacific Railroad started an innovation in the West by providing air-conditioned dining cars, observation cars and all-room sleeping cars on most of its trains. In 1935 these trains will be fully air-conditioned, and that means all passenger cars, including chair cars and day coaches. Air-conditioning is one of the most desired of modern travel comforts. It eliminates dust and drafts, and provides clean, freshly washed air in continuous circulation at even, pleasant temperatures, regardless of weather conditions outside.

Free Travel Books

Union Pacific serves more of the West than any other railroad. It has representatives in most of the large cities of the country. These men are travel experts who, without obligation, are always eager to help people with their vacation plans. You may ask for a free copy of a Union Pacific booklet on any of the places we have mentioned, or for the booklet on dude ranches. They are handsome publications worthy of a place in your travel library. Address nearest Union Pacific office, or W. S. Basinger, PTM, Union Pacific, Omaha, Nebr.

Monterrey, Mexico City (where 7 days will be spent in the capital and its environs). Cuernavaca, Taxco, Puebla, San Juan Teotihuacan, Guadalajara, El Paso and Juarez.

AN EXPERIENCED DIRECTOR, familiar with the territory, language, history and background of Mexico, will accompany the tour groups. The long experience of the American Express Company in the field of Mexican travel has gone into the planning of every detail of these Escorted Tours as well as the INDEPENDENT, PRE-ARRANGED "CIRCLE TOURS" OF MEXICO, of 11 days' duration, which can be arranged for departure any day this winter. There are four tours and eleven different combinations of routes to choose from.

MEXICO FOR YOUR WINTER HOLIDAY is a wise choice this year. In addition to all its attractions, the monetary exchange rates are at present very favorable to travelers from the United States. The prices of the escorted and the independent, all-expense tours are consequently moderate.

Send for literature giving complete details, signifying your interest in the ESCORTED or INDEPENDENT Tours.

His family, including his son, W. L. Nelson, Jr., a student in the School of Law, is remaining in Columbia.

In the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of Dec. 27 there appeared in Wray's Column an interesting discussion of the question: Is the Race Improving? The writer based his comments on an interview with JOHN PATRICK NICHOLSON, former student and Olympic athlete, who has been Notre Dame track and field coach for the past eight years. One reason Nicholson gives as the reason for the constant establishment of new records is the increasing number of athletes in competition.

Pre-view of a train trip down the West Coast of MEXICO

OF all the ways to get to Mexico, none is half so interesting as by the train. In America, when a train stops, nothing much happens. But in Mexico, on our West Coast Route, every stop is an adventure. Every sleepy little town springs to life when the far-off whistle sounds. Tables are set along the tracks. Even remote mountain towns, high in the Sierra Madre, send their people down to meet the train. You barter for sarapes, and pottery, and pineapples, and bananas. Everyone is friendly. And why not, señor? When the train comes, it is a fiesta!

Our West Coast Route is, in many ways, the most colorful and dramatic rail line to Mexico City. Branching off the route of the Golden State Limited and the Sunset Limited at Tucson, it passes Mazatlan, dozing on its peninsula beside the Gulf of Lower California, and Guadalajara, the city of eternal spring. Beginning this summer, all Pullman and dining cars will be air-conditioned on El Costeño, our leading West Coast train. Roundtrip fares to Mexico City are very low, and are good one way by our West Coast Route and the other on the National Railways of Mexico.

Going West?

If you are going to California from Chicago, St. Louis or Kansas City on our Golden State Limited, or through New Orleans by way of the Sunset Limited, you can make a side-trip to Mexico City for only $50 extra rail fare! You go in on the National Railways of Mexico via El Paso, and come out on our West Coast Route via Tucson, continuing West from there.

Air-Conditioned "Hotel Car Cruises"

Every Monday, Southern Pacific and National Railways of Mexico are operating an air-conditioned "Hotel Car" from El Paso and Tucson, cruising through Mexico to Mazatlan, Guadalajara, Guanajuato, Mexico City, Patzcuaro, Uruapan, Morelia, and many other thrilling places. The trip through Mexico takes about three weeks, including eight days in Mexico City. (You may stay longer if you wish. The car operates weekly.)

The "Hotel Car" is completely air-conditioned, which means no dust or heat, and a constant supply of fresh, clean, filtered air. It contains Pullman berths, spacious lounge, kitchen, and is accompanied by a Pullman conductor speaking both Spanish and English. This car is your hotel everywhere but in Mexico City. Fares are surprisingly low.

For details on any of these trips, see your travel agent or write O. P. Bartlett, Dept. MA-1, 310 So. Michigan Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Bob:

I am glad to inform you that I joined Reuters News Agency in October and am now head of the Chinese News Department. The work is interesting and I am getting more experience in another branch of Journalism.

News items about M. U. alumni: Thomas Breece, A.B., B.S. in Ed. '10, Yenching University faculty, is now on furlough with his wife and son at Pasadena, Calif.; Hin Wing, B.J. '12, head of Shanghai Office of the Central News Agency (resigned from Yenching last summer); Robert Horiguchi, B.J. '31, M.A. '32, head of Rengo News Agency, English Service, Shanghai, and Karin Broemmelsick, former M. U. student, St. Louis, Mo., were married last month.
