Electricity's eyes never close . . . its service is never asleep

A BABY'S cry in the night . . . a midnight prowler . . . sickness that strikes in the dark. How grateful we may well be in emergencies for the never-failing service of electric light! Yet how few of us realize what it takes to make that service possible — what it has cost over the past 50 years in the way of investment, invention, engineering, and human toil.

Trace the wires from your light switches, and you will find them connected to an intricate system of transformers, protective devices, transmission lines, substations and generating plants that cost millions to build. To keep such systems functioning day and night, through heat and cold, storm and flood, costs millions more. Vast additional sums go yearly into research, development, and improvement. Electric service can never be called "perfect," because it is always being made better and cheaper!

Westinghouse contributions to this progress have helped to blaze the trail of electricity from its source to its infinite uses. The generating systems — the transformers and networks — the lamps that burn longer and brighter at less cost — all owe something to Westinghouse co-operation with progressive power companies. This partnership in the public interest is of direct benefit to every industry, business office, farm and home in America.

THIS MONTH

Remember the Centennial Celebration of the University of Missouri to be observed in 1939.

Harry Himmelberger of Cape Girardeau paid us an office visit last month and left this story which we think is one for the records. In 1909 Mr. Himmelberger and four student companions decided to motor to Columbia from their homes. The other four were Allen Oliver, Russell Dearmont, Roy Drum, and Wade Kochtitzsky. The boys rounded up an old Winton "6" which in those days was a lot of automobile.

They left Cape Girardeau at 6 o'clock in the morning and made exceptionally good time considering the condition of the roads. Tired but elated they bumped into St. Louis at 9 o'clock that evening. Bumped is perhaps the proper word for it, because their four tires were completely shot from the day's trip. But in those days the tire manufacturers were lavish with their guarantees and equally determined to keep their customers satisfied. The boys got a complete set of new tires.

With the hardest leg of the trip behind them our four adventurers thought that 7 o'clock in the morning would be a good time to leave St. Louis. They later wished they had left at dawn because they didn't raise Columbia until midnight. A little more than 30 hours traveling time for the entire jaunt.

We shall never cease to marvel at progress. On this 1938 motor trip to Columbia, Mr. Himmelberger left the Cape after breakfast and was sitting in our office before noon.

An interesting sidelight to the 1909 party is that each of the men has a son, daughter, or niece entered or about to enter M.U. Mr. Himmelberger's son, Jack, is with us now, as is Mr. Oliver's son, Jack. Russell Dearmont's daughter will probably enter in September. Roy Drum's son, Frank, is here now. Wade Kochtitzsky's niece, Betty, is also a student at M.U.

RIDE THE MOST BEAUTIFUL TRAIN IN AMERICA

See a hundred miles of Pacific Ocean on your Southern Pacific California trip!

THE TAVERN on the Daylight is lined with soft leather booths. Here you'll spend happy hours while California's beautiful coastal scenery glides by your window.

63,060 passengers in three months, 143,851 in six months, 198,540 in nine months! That's the impressive record of Southern Pacific's new Daylight, the most beautiful train in America. Every day this brilliant streamlined train speeds between Los Angeles and San Francisco over the route of the California Missions, through rolling mountains and rich valleys, following the very edge of the Pacific Ocean for more than a hundred miles.

Whether your Pacific Coast destination is Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland or Seattle, you can include this Daylight trip in your ticket by going west on one of Southern Pacific's Four Scenic Routes and returning on another SP route (see explanation at right).

Costing more than $2,000,000, custom-built from stem to stern, the twin Daylights are the "flagships" of an impressive fleet of brand new trains recently placed in service by Southern Pacific. In the year just past, the thrifty Californian and San Francisco Challenger, the royal Forty-Niner, the new Cascade, the Sunbeam in Texas and the giant new streamliner City of San Francisco joined the Golden State Limited, the Overland Limited, the Sunset Limited and the other famous trains that serve the Southern Pacific West.

HOW TO SEE TWICE AS MUCH

The Daylight is just one bonus you enjoy on a Southern Pacific ticket to the Coast. We have Four Scenic Routes to California (see map). By going on one of these routes and returning on another one, you see a different part of the United States each way. You see twice as much of California and the West as you would by going and returning on the same route. You enjoy the Daylight ride between Los Angeles and San Francisco. And from most eastern and mid-western places, such a "go one way, return another" SP ticket costs you not one cent more rail fare than the usual back-and-forth round trip.

FREE TRAVEL SERVICE! For Southern Pacific's liberally illustrated travel guide, How to See the Whole Pacific Coast, write O. P. Bartlett, Dept. MA-6, 310 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago. He will also send you a post card for you to mail if you wish a detailed routing, with costs. No charge for this service.

Southern Pacific representatives in principal eastern cities are authorities on the West. They will be glad to personally assist you plan your trip. See your telephone directory.

An Ideal Graduation Gift:

TRAVEL

¶ This month may be the one in which scholastic gates are opened for you or someone you know—and the graduate finds the world a mighty interesting place to explore.

Here's an idea for a gift for the graduate—a perfect farewell to university life and hail to life's work—"a trip."

Students, faculty and alumni too will find a large assortment of vacation gifts in our travel shop, their variety bounded only by the circumference of our planet. Tours of Europe have been the theme of the last few months on this "American Express page." They are all still available, as is also a 54-day cruise-tour of South America, sailing from New York July 2nd on the SANTA LUCIA. Today the American continent is offered for your selection, from Alaska's glacial flowering meadows to Mexico's tropical shores!

ALASKA—Ketchikan, Wrangell, Skagway, The Great Glaciers, The Yukon, Fairbanks, The Klondike, Mt. McKinley.

20 to 36 days—$385 to $520—from Seattle
July 2, 16, 23, 26.

BANNER TOURS OF EASTERN U.S. and BERMUDA—Pittsburgh, Washington, New York City, Niagara Falls, and a 7-day cruise to BERMUDA!

14-Day Tours—$175 Minimum from Chicago; departures June 26, July 10, 24, Aug. 7, Sept. 11.

BANNER TOURS OF THE SCENIC WEST—Colorado Springs, Santa Fe, Grand Canyon, Los Angeles, Hollywood, Santa Barbara, Del Monte, Santa Cruz, Big Trees, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, Banff, Lake Louise.

14-Day Tours $177 up, from Chicago; departures every Sunday, June 12 to Aug. 28, inclusive.

MEXICO—A comprehensive itinerary of enchanting, foreign Mexico—first class hotels, sight-seeing by private automobile; experienced escort.

14-Day Tours—$188 Minimum from Chicago, departures from Chicago every Sunday.

CONCRETE

Saves Lives and Dollars

YOU need the smooth, non-skid surface of concrete at all times. But after dark safety simply demands the visibility of its light gray surface and sharply defined edges.

SAFETY — COMFORT ECONOMY

Day or night concrete is worth more than any other pavement . . . permits the modern motor car to deliver you swiftly but safely and in comfort from point to point . . . and saves you cash in gas, tires and car repairs.

LOW UP-KEEP

Of course maintenance is far less for concrete than for any other type of pavement. Present concrete roads save taxpayers millions of dollars every year.

LOW ORIGINAL COST

Yet the original cost of a concrete road or street is less than that of any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

LETTER TO HENRY FORD

This important matter of highway costs is discussed in "An Open Letter to Henry Ford" which will be sent free on request.

PLUS-VALUE MATERIAL

Whether in roads or silos, in bridges or houses, in churches or swimming pools—concrete gives you all that any other material can plus extra strength, longer life, safety from fire, distinctive beauty.

Scores of helpful publications have been prepared by the Portland Cement Association—an organization of research men, engineers and scientists. Write us or paste this coupon on a postal for help on your concrete problems.

The 96th Commencement

● Degrees to 779

SEVEN hundred and seventy-nine University of Missouri students received degrees at the ninety-sixth annual commencement exercises held in Brewer Field House Tuesday morning, June 7. The address was given by Dr. Frederick Lee Hisaw, professor of zoology in Harvard University, and a graduate of the University of Missouri. His subject was "The Productive Scholar."

The baccalaureate address was given Sunday morning, June 5, by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of the St. John's Church, St. Louis, who had as his subject "Life Patterns for Tomorrow."

Honorary degrees were conferred upon three graduates of the University: Dr. Hisaw; the Hon. Bennett Champ Clark, United States Senator from Missouri; and the Hon. William Gerig, Washington, D. C., head engineer of the marine division of the United States Army.

In conferring the honorary degree Doctor of Laws, President Frederick A. Middlebush said:

Frederick Lee Hisaw

"We are happy to welcome you back to your native state and to your Alma Mater. The beginning of your scholarly career in zoology was here with us. Since then, you have attained signal distinction in your chosen field at the Kansas State College, at the University of Wisconsin, and at Harvard University. The value of your contributions to science through your research is well known by your colleagues everywhere, as well as your outstanding ability as a teacher. Your fellow-scholars have already honored you by selecting you as President of the American Society of Zoologists. The University of Missouri today adds to your other honors its own recognition of your exceptional achievements."

Bennett Champ Clark

"The University of Missouri is proud to honor you today with the highest recognition it can bestow. You were born in this state. You are a graduate of this University, and have always been counted among its most loyal alumni. You have risen to an enviable position in public life, respected by your fellowmen regardless of party, distinguished by an aggressive leadership, not only in matters of domestic concern, but in the furtherance of international peace. You have received deserved fame as an author, whose biography of another great statesman, John Quincy Adams, has taken its place as a classic among American biographies, dignified, impartial, and authoritative."

William Gerig

"Today, the University of Missouri has the rare privilege of conferring honor upon one who is not only an alumnus, but a native of the city of Columbia. Both this University and the city of your birth have proudly followed your long and successful career as an engineer of national repute. The list of your many notable achievements is far too long to recite here. That these achievements should accumulate in your appointment as Head Engineer of the Marine Division of the United States Army is ample evidence of their conspicuous worth. Over half a century ago you received your first degree from this University; now, once more you return to receive another degree, symbol of her most eminent sons."

Dr. Hisaw received an A.B. in 1914, a B.S. in Education in 1915, and an A.M. in 1916, all from Missouri. Senator Clark received an A.B. in 1913, and Mr. Gerig received a B.S. in 1885, and a C.E. degree in 1886.

Dr. Hisaw enrolled in the University's preparatory school in 1909 and entered the University proper the following year. The University of Wisconsin awarded him a Ph.D. in 1924. He has taught at Harvard since 1935, but he began teaching in 1916 as an associate professor at the University of Mississippi. After one year there he served as assistant professor at Kansas State College until 1924.

Dr. Hisaw was a member of the Wisconsin faculty from 1924 to 1935. He was given the full title of professor at Wisconsin in 1929. He is a member of various honorary scientific organizations and was president of the American Society of Zoologists in 1937. He has done extensive research in endocrinology. He served as a first lieutenant in the World War.

Senator Clark has high rank in the United States Army. In August, 1917, he was commissioned captain in the U. S. Reserves. He was lieutenant-colonel of the 6th Missouri Infantry during August and September, 1917, and from September 1917 to September 1918, was lieutenant-colonel of the 140th U. S. Infantry. He was also a colonel on the general staff in 1919.

He is a past national commander of the American Legion, past commander of the 35th division Veterans Association, an ex-president of the National Guard Association.

Senator Clark's state activities began in 1913 when he was parliamentarian in the House of Representatives, which position he held until 1914. He was appointed U. S. Senator from Missouri to fill the unexpired term of Harry B. Hawes, and was elected to the Senate for the term ending Jan. 3, 1939. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta, Phi Delta Phi, Delta Sigma Rho, Missouri Athletic Club, and is an Odd Fellow and a Mason.

William Lee Gerig was born in Columbia March 25, 1866. Since his graduation in 1886 his career has taken him to the position of head engineer of the marine division of the Army. After he left the University Mr. Gerig worked as an assistant on the Mississippi River Commission, and was assistant engineer of the Chicago Drainage Canal in 1890-91.

Positions held since 1901: Chief engineer of the Southwest Arkansas & I. Ty. Railway, 1891-92; United States assistant engineer Mississippi River Commission, 1892-1904; division engineer of Panama Canal 1905-08; private practice, 1908-1909; vice-president, treasurer, chief engineer and general manager of the Pacific and Eastern Railway, consulting engineer of the Spokane, Portland, and Seattle Railway, and consulting highway engineer for the Jackson Company, Ore., 1909-1915.

He was consulting engineer for the New York Barge Canal, 1916; consulting engineer and engineer in charge Anchorage Division, Alaska Railroad, 1918; assistant chief engineer, Alaska Engineering Commission, 1919-23; United States assistant engineer, 1923, and later senior and head engineer. He has served in the office of Chief Engineers, United States Army, since 1930. He also served as consulting engineer for the Fort Peck Dam on the Missouri River, Muskingum River Dam, Taygert Dam, and others.

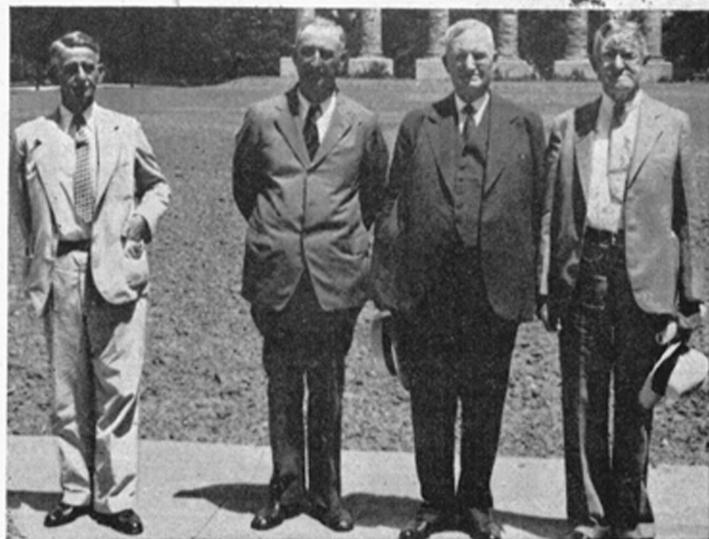

Mr. Gerig is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Society of American Military Engineers, Phi Beta Kappa, Tau Beta Pi, and is a Mason.

Following is a summation of the principal address delivered to the Class of 1938 by Professor Hisaw:

In discussing the relation between scholastic achievement and success, Prof. Hisaw said that although grades are frequently the only tangible thing upon which to form an opinion of a graduate's ability, high grades in classroom work do not mean that the student has the constructive imagination so essential to original thinking and permanent success in his chosen field.

"A student who has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that he possesses superior talent in a particular field should not be too greatly disturbed if he has failed after an honest

Mr. Gentry

In the picture above are the four members of the Class of 1888 who returned to the campus June 6 for the Golden Anniversary Reunion of their class. A meeting was held at 10 o'clock in the morning in Jesse Hall at which time the following permanent officers were elected: President, Judge N. T. Gentry, Columbia; vice-president, Patrick H. Cullen, St. Louis; secretary, Philip E. Gerber, Sullivan, and treasurer, Joseph L. Moore, Cape Girardeau.

In addition to the reunion meeting, members of the class attended an informal noon luncheon that day at the Harris' Cafe. Mr. Cullen has a nephew, William Van Matre, who was graduated from the School of Law the following day. Judge Gentry has two daughters, a nephew, and four nieces who attended the University.

effort to establish a high scholastic average," Prof. Hisaw said. "Many of our greatest scholars were only average students. Ralph Waldo Emerson who has been called 'The Wisest American,' stood thirtieth in a graduating class of fifty-nine.

"This means that the future productive scholar does not occupy a particular place in the list arranged on the basis of grades. We place too much emphasis on the thing that is easiest to standardize, namely a retentive memory, and not enough on the use of factual matter in constructive thought."

Prof. Hisaw said that each graduate must be his own judge in deciding his probable success in the work that he has chosen. But, such a judgment is hampered by the fact that there is no standardized measure of success. However, it is possible, he believes, for a person to receive considerable information and encouragement from the study of careers of men about whom there is general agreement as to their achievements.

"I have always found these people very interesting and stimulating,"

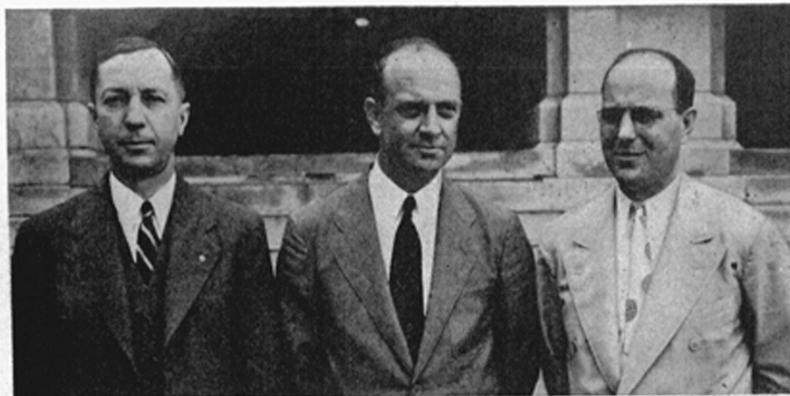

Hisaw said. "Each individual is unique, but they all have certain intellectual qualities in common, the most conspicuous being a glowing enthusiasm for the things they are doing. Their efforts are not measured in honors, but in terms of achievement."

"Another characteristic held in common by productive scholars is a highly developed, constructive and inquisitive imagination. Their chief stock in trade consists of original ideas which serve as guiding stars for expeditions beyond the frontiers of established knowledge."

Prof. Hisaw said that there are no infallible methods by which the future productive scholar may be picked out at the time of his graduation. Nevertheless, he believes that anyone with average mentality can evaluate his own intellectual qualities far better than it can be done for him by others. He suggested that everyone before entering a scholarly profession should subject himself to a very thorough and unbiased personal analysis.

Also, there are no set rules for the Allen, Springfield, chosen 3rd vice-president, was not in Columbia on election day.

Byron Spencer, '15, Named President of M. U. Alumni

Byron Spencer of Kansas City was elected president of the General Alumni Association of the University of Missouri at the regular biennial elections of the association in Columbia on June 6. His name, as well as those of the other officers elected, was presented to the meeting of the corporation by the district chairmen of the state alumni organization who acted as nominating committee in conformity with the by-laws of the association.

Other officers elected were: first vice-president, Allan Oliver, Cape Girardeau; second vice-president, Sam Utz, St. Joseph; third vice-president, Arthur W. Allen, of Springfield, Mo.

The retiring president of the general association, Mr. Richmond C. Coburn, of St. Louis, was given high commendation for the efficient work that his administration has accomplished during the last four years.

President Spencer received an A.B. degree from M.U. in 1915. He maintains his law practice in Kansas City.

Honorary Membership to Baird, Mumford

Honorary membership in the General Alumni Association was conferred upon Mr. Charles Baird of Kansas City and retiring Dean F. B. Mumford of the College of Agriculture at a meeting of the corporation in Columbia on June 6. The formal presentations will be made at a later date.

Mr. Baird, donor of the Westminster Chime in Memorial Tower, has been an active supporter of the University of Missouri although he is a graduate of Michigan. He served for many years as chairman of the Board of Visitors and is the donor of several prizes and scholarships to the University.

Dean Mumford, an alumnus of Michigan State, is now bringing to a close 43 years of meritorious service to the University.

Clipping of the Month

From the Panhandle Herald of Guymon, Okla., May 17, we have this clipping which is noteworthy in many ways. But read it now:

"After all in the evening of life, the main thing we have to be proud of is our children. District Judge W. Hiner Dale is justly proud of all his six children, but in the midst of his pride he is now in a peculiar position. His daughter (Beth), an attorney at law, who practices in Oklahoma City has filed a civil suit in the District Court of Texas County, Oklahoma, and his son Vincent, prominent young local attorney, will defend the suit. Here we have the peculiar situation of a brother and sister arguing a case before their father as Judge of the Court. Many of our citizens will likely be in the courtroom when this case is heard just to see what Judge Dale will do about it."

To Judge Dale, LL.B. '06, we express our interest in discovering just how the case did come out. Did Beth or Vincent win? Did the Judge "bust" with pride. Watch for the August ALUMNUS. Maybe we can find out.

Judge Dale was recently re-elected to the office of district judge of the First Judicial District of Oklahoma. It is his fourth term without opposition on either ticket. He is also a member of the Court of Tax Review of the State of Oklahoma.

Los Angeles Alumni Elect Don A. Wren

Don A. Wren, manufacturer's representative with offices in Los Angeles, was unanimously elected president of the University of Missouri Alumni Association of Southern California at a regular meeting of the association on May 16. James F. Hudson was elected secretary-treasurer.

1938 Savitar Is Well Received

The 1938 Savitar, edited by Anne Fuqua and managed by Bob Glenn, was given a warm reception upon its issuance during the last week in May. The 400-page volume is a candid camera number. Candid snapshots taken on the campus during the past school year appear in panels at the bottom of almost all the pages.

A second theme of the maroon-and-gold bound book is that of contrast between the new and the old. Division pages are modernistic, and sub-division pages give the appearance of old-style wood cuts.

Students were generally pleased with this year's issue, rating it "the best in recent years." Miss Fuqua, the first co-ed editor in the yearbook's 43-year history, has proved that girls can edit a Savitar as well as boys.

Honor Societies Tap 27 Students

Annual "tapping" of twenty-seven students for membership in QEBH, Mystical Seven, and Mortar Board was held on the steps of Jesse Hall, May 10. Albert K. Heckel, dean of men, made the presentations.

QEBH, founded in 1897 at the University, elected ten men. These are: Robert Dale, William Macklin, John Vincent, Karl Blanchard, Roland Pundman, James Fulkerson, William Robbins, Howard Burnside, Richard Fleischaker, and Robert Pendergrass.

The Mystical Seven, an organization founded at the University in 1907 for juniors who "give willingly and freely of their time and effort for the betterment of the University of Missouri," elected Ray Moss, Ken Brown, Clarence Bridewill, Paul Sims, Fred Dickenson, Fred Hughes, and James Hill.

Ten women students of the senior class were "tapped" for Mortar Board, an honorary organization which first started as a local institution known as the Friars, and in 1913 joined the national organization. These new members are: Veta Bird, Alice Kunz, Joyce LaRue, Virginia Lippard, Laura Lou Maxwell, Ann Ora Pugh, Ruth Shear, Mary Trapp, Jane Ann Williams, and Frances Wilson.

Class of 1938 Elects Frazier

Charles Frazier, of Marceline, was elected all-Senior Class president of the Class of 1938 at the annual organization meeting held in the University Auditorium the morning of June 6. The election was a feature of the regular Class Day exercises. Paul Van Osdol, retiring student president and also a member of the class, presided at the morning session until the election of Frazier.

Miss Mary Kathryn Maurer of Excelsior Springs was chosen secretary-treasurer. Vice-presidents were named for each of the University divisions. They are: Agriculture, Allan Purdy, Macon; Arts and Science, Robert Fowks, Joplin; B. & P.A., Edward Gaebler, St. Louis; Journalism, Thomas Hughes, Parsons, Kan.; Law, Morton Liebowitz, St. Joseph; Medicine, Fred Biggs, Neelyville; Education Hugo David, St. Louis; and Graduate, Raymond A. Schroeder, Kansas City.

The class poem was read by Dorothy Gene Bailey, the class history by Robert Dungan, and class prophecy by Herman Boucher. Robert Fowks was the class orator. President Middlebush spoke briefly to the class.

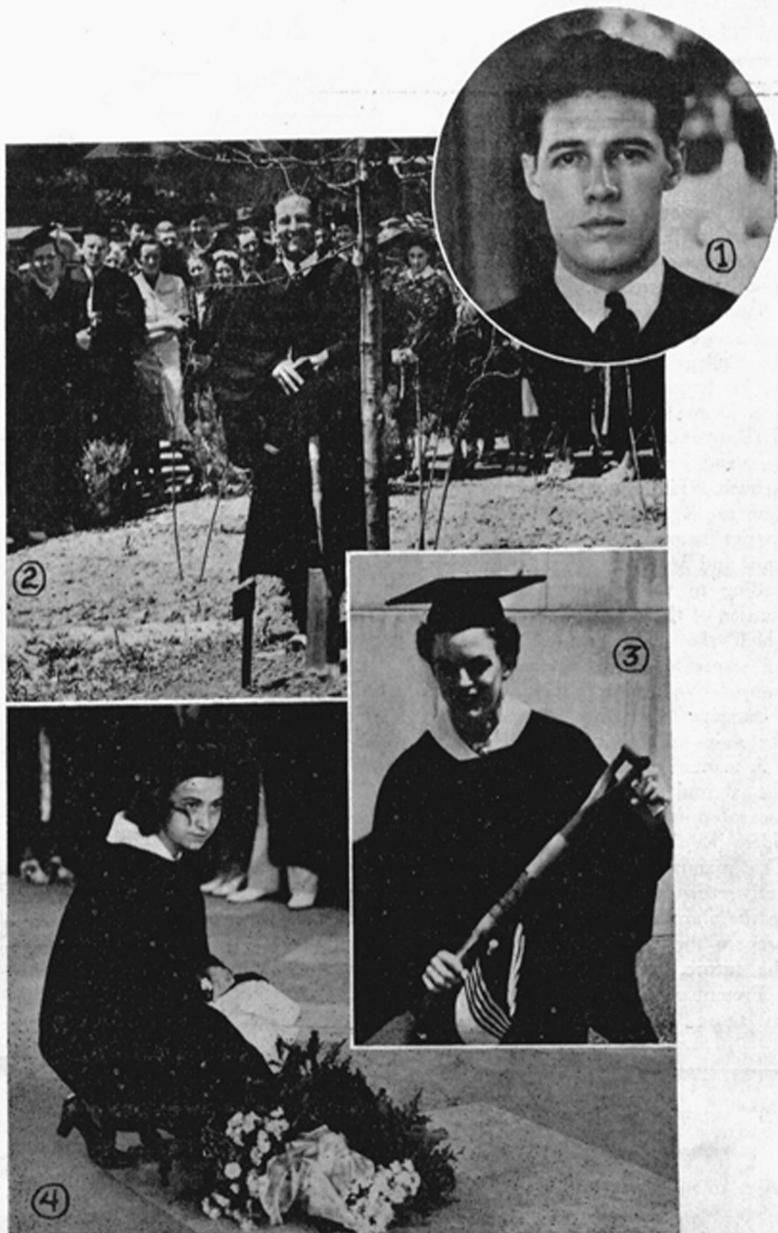

After the election of officers, the meeting adjourned to the southwest corner of the Library addition where the traditional tree and ivy planting ceremonies were held. Roswell Messing, Jr., was in charge of the tree planting, and Ferol Eierman was in charge of the ivy planting.

At 11 o'clock the activities came to a close with the placing of a wreath in Memorial Tower. Miss Mildred Winters was in charge of the short service.

Re: Class of 1887

The following is a quote from a recent letter from William R. Gentry in St. Louis:

The only graduate in the department of agriculture in 1887 was H. J. Waters; I remember this quite distinctly for I remember what old Dr. Laws, then president of the University, said when he handed the diploma to Waters and when there was a little laugh in the audience because Waters was the whole class in this department. Dr. Laws told the fable about the lioness which was twitted by some smaller animal that was in the habit of bearing litters of young, because the lioness had borne only one cub. The lioness answered: "Yes, but he is a lion!" Dr. Laws then said to Waters: "May you be a lion." And so Waters turned out, for he became head of that department in later years and a man of national reputation.

Class Day Exercises

On June 6 members of the Class of 1938 held their traditional group exercises on the campus. They started off that morning by electing Charles Frazier (shown in inset No. 1) of Marceline, Mo., as permanent class president. Frazier is a graduate of the College of Agriculture. Picture No. 2 shows Roswell Messing, Jr., just after he had put the last spadeful of earth around the class tree, a pin oak, located at the southwest corner of the new Library addition. In No. 3 is Miss Ferol Eierman who was in charge of planting the class ivy. The class exercises closed with the placing of the wreath in Memorial Tower by Miss Mildred Winters (No. 4).

Class trees are designated by brass markers furnished by the University. Most famous of the class trees are the twenty-nine American elms placed around the inside of the main quadrangle, representing the Class of 1929.

District Chairmen Meet in Columbia

Suggestions for the improvement of the series of district meetings throughout Missouri featured the annual meeting of the district chairmen in Columbia on June 6. The meeting was preceded by a luncheon in the Daniel Boone Tavern at noon. Allen Oliver, Cape Girardeau, chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the Alumni Association, presided.

Among the featured speakers at the session were Dean F. B. Mumford of the College of Agriculture, Dean T. W. H. Irion of the School of Education, Dean R. E. Curtis of the School of Business and Public Administration, and President Frederick A. Middlebush. The president and the deans were principal speakers at the various district meetings held during March, April and May, and offered suggestions leading to the improvement and expansion of the public relations program which the association is sponsoring. All expressed their pleasure at the co-operative spirit which alumni throughout the state showed during the series of meetings.

A manual of procedure, prepared by the alumni office in Columbia, was presented in tentative form for consideration by the various chairmen. This manual will be studied by them and returned with their suggestions to the alumni office which in turn will prepare the final draft to be used in the future.

Present at the meeting, in addition to those already mentioned, were:

Former Missouri Stars Accept Professional Bids

When Missouri football fans scan the rosters of the professional grid teams next fall they will run across several familiar names—names that have been prominent in accounts of Tigers games during the past three years.

Four footballers who finished their college careers last year on the 1937 edition of the Missouri Tiger pigskin, squad have signed to play with teams in the National Professional Football league, and another Tiger, who rounded out an illustrious career in 1936, transfers his activities from a minor football league to the "major league."

Clyde Nelson, slashing 200-pound Tiger end of the last three years, will turn his attentions from stopping Big Six backs to nailing pro ball toters when he reports to the Cleveland Rams next fall. And when Nelson looks around him he will find two familiar faces on the same team. Stan Mondala, stocky, hard-driving fullback, will also be cavorting in the moleskins of the Rams, as will Jack Beger, who ended his Tiger career in 1936 and who last year played with the professional St. Louis Gunners.

Frank Heidel, mammoth tackle, will be wearing the uniform of the Chicago Cardinals when the call for the first practice is made. Heidel, like Nelson, last fall finished three years of competition on the Missouri eleven.

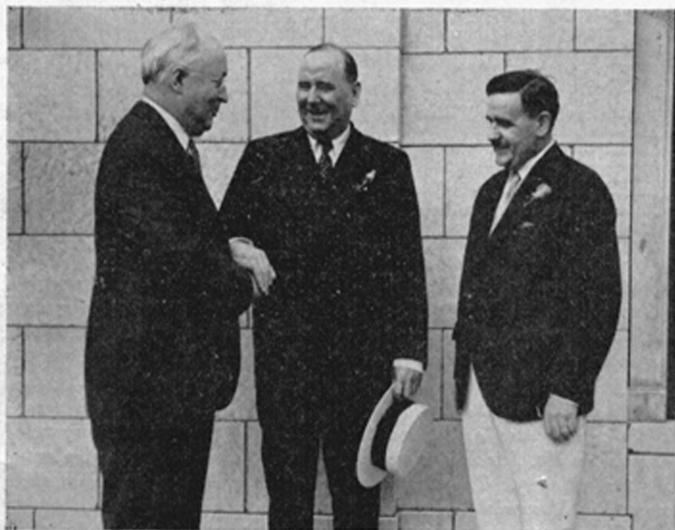

The other Tiger answering the call of professional football is Jack Duncan, blocking back, who will join the Brooklyn Dodgers when the season rolls around.

The call to professional sports has reached graduates from the Tiger baseball team as well as the ex-footballers. Charles "Smoke" Mason, Tiger hurling ace, will join the Joplin Miners, a Western Association farm of the New York Yankees, and Jim Waechter and Joel Carr are considering offers from professional baseball clubs. Waechter, classy fielding first-baseman and heavy-hitting southpaw sticker, is considering an offer from the St. Louis Cardinals to join the Springfield Western Association team. Carr, shortstop and captain of this year's Tiger diamond squad, has been approached by both the St. Louis Cardinals and St. Louis Browns, but as yet hasn't decided whether or not to play professional baseball. —The Missourian

Stan's Intramurals Show Increase

Statistics compiled by Anton J. Stankowski, director of intramural sports at the University, indicated that 1646 men took part in fourteen sports in the 1937-38 intramural program. Of this number, 636 were in the fraternity division and 710 were in the independent group. The total last year was 1513.

Sigma Nu fraternity took first place among fraternities this year with a total of 1368.1 points. Alpha Sigma Phi had a good chance to take top honors but fell down in the intramural track meet, final event on the year's program, and finished with 1300 points.

A Good Tiger Year

● Two Major Championships Won

(By James H. Padgett)

When the M. U. Tigers won their second consecutive baseball title last month, the curtain fell on one of the most successful years Missouri has enjoyed in conference competition. The Nebraska Cornhuskers again dominated the Big Six but on a recapitulation of final standings, local statisticians have discovered that the Tigers came within one-half point of tying their rivals from the north.

Significant in the sports year of 1937-38 just closed was the emergence of a few men from each sport marked by superior competitive ability who stood head and shoulders above a group of athletes representing the University on teams in each sport. Equally significant, however, was the general high quality of the majority of Tiger performers. This was particularly noticeable in the annual Big Six outdoor track meet at Lincoln last month. Missouri men by consistently taking second, third, and fourth positions in many events piled up a margin of points sufficient to bring the championship to Columbia. In all major sports the teams were outstanding both from a viewpoint of personnel and performance.

By a new point system devised to choose the mythical winner in major sports in the conference, the Cornhuskers compiled a total of 23½ points out of a possible 30 points. Missouri was close at the Huskers' heels with a total of 23 points. The rating system was originated locally by Ernest P. Helm, assistant sports editor of The Columbia Missourian.

Oklahoma took third place with 21 points, Kansas was fourth with 17, Kansas State fifth with 12, and Iowa State trailed in the cellar position with 8½ points. The rating system was based on the final standings of the teams in each major sport during the year. Six points were given for the winner in each, five for second, and so on down to one point for last place. (See box on this page.)

The coaching staff is justifiably elated over the achievements of Missouri athletes during the past year. It has seen two Big Six championships brought home. Missouri retained the baseball crown for the second consecutive year and obtained the elusive outdoor track title for the first time in many years.

Missouri tied with Nebraska in getting the greatest number of championships in the league with two crowns each. Nebraska won the football title last fall and the indoor track laurels

	Indoor Outdoor					Totals

Missouri .....	3	3½	4½	6	6	23
Oklahoma .....	5	5	2	4	5	21
Kansas .....	4	6	3	2	1	17
Kansas State .....	1½	2	4½	3	2	12
Iowa State .....	1½	1	1	1	4	8½

last March at Brewer Field House. Kansas University captured the other first by taking the basketball title, something that is getting to be a habit with Phog Allen's boys. Oklahoma did not win a title, but was runner-up in three out of five of the sports, and third in another.

Iowa State landed in the cellar position the most times. The luckless Cyclones were last in three of the five major sports and tied for last with Kansas State in another. Their highest climb was a third place in baseball.

Minor sports were not taken into consideration because some of the Big Six schools did not enter all of them. Missouri did not have a team in either swimming or wrestling. If a minor sports crown were given it would go to the University of Oklahoma. The Sooners won three out of five minor sports crowns, capturing swimming, tennis, and golf. Kansas State and Iowa State won the other two titles with championships in the two-mile and wrestling events, respectively.

It was a great year for the entire conference all the way around. In each sport the outstanding teams were rated among the best in the country. Nebraska was considered one of the best elevens in the United States; Kansas had a basketball team that met little opposition and would compare favorably with any.

In baseball the University of Missouri had one of the finest college teams in the country, on no less an authority than Bill Essick who is a major league ivory scout. In track the Tigers presented one of the country's outstanding milers in John Munski and had two distance relay teams that compared with the best.

The 1937-38 sports season saw a new interest in Missouri athletics. The largest crowds in many years packed the stadium and Brewer Field House to see the Tigers in action. The Tigers only fell down in football, due mainly to injuries. M. U. placed fourth in this sport.

Although they finished low in football they had a team that was studied with bright stars. Maurice Kirk, the captain, was chosen on the all-Big Six honor team. Kirk, a guard, also played in the annual East-West charity game in San Francisco on New Year's Day. Henry Mahley, half-back, was considered one of the best ball carriers in the midwest. Injury kept him out of the line-up much of the time, but in spite of this he was chosen on the all-conference second team.

In basketball the Bengals had one of the fastest teams in the conference and ended the season in a third-place tie with the Cornhuskers. The Kansas Jayhawks, of course, took first place. Outstanding performers on Coach George Edwards' team were Capt. Kenny Brown who made the all-conference team, and was one of the leading scorers. Little Bill Harvey, named on the second team, was another high scorer. He and speedy Harlan Kiersey kept Tiger opponents busy in every game with their exceptionally fast break.

Chauncey Simpson's tracksters walked away with the Big Six meet in outdoor track last month. Standing at the top of a host of Bengal track stars was John Munski, the sensational sophomore distance runner and one of the most promising men to wear the Black-and-Gold. Munski has already shattered two of the peerless Glenn Cunningham's records. With two more years of competition ahead of him, Munski's possibilities are such to make the Tiger athletic department glow with bright hope.

The cinder performances of Munski have directed more publicity to the University of Missouri than those of any other Tiger star in recent years. He stands undefeated in indoor and outdoor track mile runs. Besides being league champion, Munski is supposed to have run the fastest sophomore mile in the country when he turned in a 4:10.1 performance at the Drake Relays. A technicality bars his mark from official standing.

Another record-breaker is Bob Waldram, the husky javelin tosser from Washington, Mo.

Charles ("Smoke") Mason, with a perfect season of seven victories against no defeats, led the Tiger aggregation with his peerless pitching for the Bengal's second baseball championship in as many years. In conference competition Mason allowed only three runs and limited his opponents to an average of six hits. Mason's pitching has been the talk of the conference and has netted him a nice contract with the New York Yankees' farm in Joplin.

Besides being responsible for all the victories from the mound, Mason was tops among Missouri hitters with a .392 average for the season. Jim Waechter, first baseman, played errorless ball for the season and batted an average of .367, tying with John Daleo for the most runs scored during the season with 12 apiece, and tied with Marshall Sneed, captain-elect, for the most hits, with 18 each.

The baseball team coached by John ("Hi") Simmons was one of the best in the country. The Tigers defeated Iowa University by a wide margin, and the Iowa team tied for first in the Big Ten conference. Oklahoma was defeated twice by the Tigers and the Sooners defeated Texas U. twice, and Texas was the champion of the Southwest conference.

proper procedure to follow in the pursuit of a scholarly profession, Prof. Hisaw said. But, it is customary and advisable to become associated with someone who is a recognized authority in the person's particular field of interest. In making contact with such a person, Prof. Hisaw said that the student should not approach the authority empty-handed. Have a problem based on original ideas and plan for its solution and this will open the door of any scholar's study, he believes.

"If the student is worth his keep, he will contribute about as much as he receives, in the general exchange of ideas. Each is an inspiration to the other and their association is mutually advantageous," Prof. Hisaw said.

"He who succeeds must not find contentment in being a manipulator of old techniques, or being a human robot in the social machine. He must be a contributor of new facts to the advancement of knowledge in his chosen profession; an outstanding authority; a productive scholar."

Masterson Resigns As Law School Dean

Dean William E. Masterson of the School of Law tendered his resignation to the M.U. Board of Curators at its meeting in St. Louis on May 27. The resignation, to take effect June 15, 1938, was accepted.

He was also awarded a year's leave of absence from the University and his resignation as professor of law was accepted to take effect Sept. 1, 1939. Dean Masterson was named head of the Law School in September, 1934.

The Board of Curators named J. Coy Bour, professor of law at the University, acting dean of the School of Law, at their meeting June 7 in Columbia. Mr. Bour's appointment becomes effective June 16, 1938. He succeeds Dean William E. Masterson.

Mr. Bour received his A.B. degree in 1917 and his LL.B. in 1920. Both degrees were received from M.U. In 1935, he received an S.J.D. degree at Harvard. He was appointed to the faculty of the University of Missouri in 1926 and was raised to the rank of professor of law in 1929. He has served in that capacity since then.

Rex Tucker Heads Chicago Alumni

Rex L. Tucker, A.B. '36, was elected president of the Missouri Alumni Association in Chicago at a meeting of the group on May 2. President Middlebush and Secretary Leslie Cowan from the M.U. campus were special guests. Attendance at the meeting reached 80.

In addition to Mr. Tucker, the new officers are: 1st vice-president, Homer Neisz; 2nd vice-president, Leo Arms; 3rd vice-president, W. C. Wheeler; secretary, Miss Mary Leitch, and treasurer, Oscar Lee. The association is now making plans for its annual summer picnic.

MEMORY'S LANE

Forty Years Ago

(June, 1898)

The Columbia Herald reported that "fifty-two young men graduated in law from the University of Missouri, fourteen in medicine, and two in agriculture. May God save the Commonwealth of Missouri."

Judge O. D. Jones, a member of the Board of Curators from Edina, was indignant over the appearance of a British flag among the decorations at the University Chapel. Said he: "I'll never go into the University Chapel again as long as that bloody flag hangs there." The flag was hauled down from a group of American and Cuban flags.

At Commencement exercises President Jesse called attention to the fact that no other university had sent so large a quota as Missouri to defend the country's flag in the Spanish-American War. One-eighth of M.U.'s enrollment had enlisted.

Phi Delta Phi gave its annual banquet at the Cottage Hotel. The program included Curtis R. Haydon as toastmaster; E. M. Watson, reminiscing; O. W. Joslyn, "The Future;" and O. W. Killam, "The Future of Phi Delta Phi."

The University tennis tournament came to a close with Bassett winning the gentlemen's singles and Weatherly and Shipley tying for second. Gentlemen's doubles were won by Harshe and Bassett with second prize going to Weatherly and Robertson. Miss Worthington took first place in the ladies' singles with Miss Lockwood second.

Attendance at summer school set a new record with a 50 per cent increase over 1897. Three subjects were offered for $10 for the six-weeks term.

The Herald: "Last Monday week two former students of the University, and graduates of the same class, met each other in Moberly after a year's absence. They were L. H. Burkhart and T. J. Rodhouse. They shook hands and offered each other a friendly greeting, but did not ask where the other was going. It has turned out since that each was on the road to marry a fair Missouri girl. Burkhart going to Carroll County for his bride and Rodhouse going to Mexico. After they were married Wednesday both couples returned to Columbia for a visit, and happened to be seated on the same seat at church Sunday night when they discovered the mission of each other of the previous week."

Thirty Years Ago

(June, 1908)

As Stephens and Christian college girls prepared to leave Columbia for home, The Columbia Herald's reporter was so impressed with the farewell leave-taking at the depot that he wrote: "After witnessing a Christian College, a Stephens College, and a Normal Academy crowd leave, it is very evident that all the talk about death and disease being spread by kissing is a fabrication of the brain of some disgruntled individual who never got close enough to a kiss to determine its exact status."

Kappa Alpha drubbed the Sig Alphas 3-to-2, to win the fraternity baseball league title. Estes and Fields were the KA battery with Stone and Holmes for the Sig Alphas.

Missouri scalped the Haskell Indians, 5-to-4, in an exciting game of baseball to bring the home season to a close. A feature of the game was the superb pitching of Gunby.

At the 66th Commencement the largest class in the history of the University (up to that time) graduated. Degrees totaled 272. The Stephens Oratorical Contest was won by Floyd E. Jacobs who spoke on "The Lesson of the South." Others who spoke were: Gratton Gregory McVay, Melvin Joseph Duvall, and David J. Howell. All the speakers were Law School students.

Valedictorians from the various departments were: Medicine, Morgan Leland; Clint; law, Grover Cleveland Hosford; agriculture and mechanic arts, Claude Burton Hutchison; engineering, Walter James McMinn; normal school, Miss Laura Mabel Kingsbury; and arts and science, Miss Eula Adeline Weeks.

A set of law books worth nearly $300 was given to H. E. Kilmer for winning an essay contest for law students. J. A. Kurtz, football and track star, placed second.

ICE CUBES IN 5 MINUTES

"I got tired of borrowing ice cubes from the neighbors. Now I never have to wait more than five minutes for a fresh supply. And such cubes! — Crystal-clear, taste-free, hard frozen—I didn't know there was such a difference in ice."

Yes, Coolerator gives you ice cubes in five minutes or less. The clever cuber is a handy accessory that most Coolerator owners insist on having.

Coolerator uses pure manufactured ice in a TOTALLY NEW WAY to give you air conditioned refrigeration. If you want a truly modern refrigerator, a plentiful supply of pure ice cubes, investigate Coolerator today.

First announcement was made of the School of Journalism which was to open in September. The daily newspaper to be used as a laboratory for students was named the University Missourian.

Bob Branham, captain of the track team, was assured a berth on the American Olympic team.

Friction with Dr. Wetherington, director of athletics, was given as the reason for the resignation of Coach A. Mills Ebricht as head of Tiger baseball and basketball teams.

Harry A. LaRue of Marshall and Miss Mabel Moore of Moberly were married. Both were well known University students. LaRue was a football and track star who had graduated in 1907. His wife was a member of the senior girls' honorary society L.S.V.

Twenty-five Years Ago

(June, 1913)

A local chapter of Phi Mu sorority was installed on the M.U. campus. The thirteen charter members were: Alice Furtney, Margaret Carney, Irma Dumas, Ruth Boswell, Mabel Schleaf, Elizabeth McClure, Harriette Simpson, Grace M. Reeves, Eliza Ann Dale, Ruth Sedgwick, Edith Lewis, Claire Wright, and Fay Barcon.

Commencement degrees were awarded to 428 seniors. Exercises were held in a large circus tent that seated 2500 on the southeast corner of the campus. Dr. William Oxley Thompson, president of Ohio State University, delivered the address. The largest increase in the number of graduates was made in the School of Journalism with twenty-two. George Clark Wilson won the Stephens Oratorical Medal.

Three captains of athletic teams were initiated into Mystical Seven, senior honorary society. The new initiates were: R. C. Wilson, football; T. J. Hall, baseball; and H. K. Thatcher, track. Others initiated were Guy Kirksey, Kearney Wornall, Russell Dearmont, and George Gmeiner.

Among the Missouri students who took the state bar examinations in Jefferson City were: F. R. Anselment, H. C. Castor, C. B. Harger, L. E. Scott, John Reddy, H. B. Pankey, H. H. Freer, E. O. Jones, C. S. Hoffman, B. O. Reeves, S. E. Swiggett, Joseph Stewart, Don Stewart, W. H. Woodward, E. E. Schowengerdt, and Miss Ethel Violet Kynaston.

Ten Years Ago

(June, 1928)

Earl Schooley was named president and Calla Frances Flanagan secretary-treasurer of the class of 1928. Nine vice-presidents, one from each division of the University, were also elected: Walter Taben, Business and Public Administration School; E. S. Rehagen, School of Engineering; A. D. Otto, Jr., Fine Arts; Carl Schowengerdt, College of Agriculture; Raymond Militzer, School of Medicine; Harry Howze, College of Arts and Science; Weldon Ford, School of Journalism; Henley Blair, School of Law, and Elizabeth Burlingame, School of Medicine.

Sixteen members of Phi Beta Kappa from the graduating class were announced. Those elected were Jane-

MISSOURIANS ON MANHATTAN

by C. G. Coburn, B.J. 32

NEW YORK CITY, June, 1938—As we suspected last time, Merle Seelman has been elected president of the local Alumni Association. All complaints may be addressed to him at 1111 222nd Street, Steer

"Coby" Coburn

Center, Patagonia. For other information and words of commendation, he will be found at 22 East 40th Street, New York City, care of American Bankers' Association. In an exclusive interview just before going to press, the new president outlined ambitious plans for N. Y. alumni during the coming year but indicated that nothing definite could be said about them at this time.

A number of dollars have been received from loyal grads in payment of annual dues as requested in a recent communication, the Association's treasurer's office reports, but a lot of people haven't kicked in yet or else the mailing list is about 75 per cent cock-eyed. The treasurer's message for the month is: "Get the fish-hooks out of your pockets, boys."

We had lunch a while back with Thelma Woods, long-time assistant of Bob Hill's, and caught up on a lot of campus gossip. Also some news. She was winding up a more-or-less transcontinental tour in behalf of the Alumni Fund, the Alumnus, etc.

An orchid to Winchell for his orchid to Runyan for his column, the middle of May, on the School of Journalism. W. W. termed it best pillar of the week. So did we. Maybe Runyan thought so too, making three famous columnists who agreed for once. . . . Missourians got a lift from the full page in the New Yorker for June 4 in which the N. Y. Sun bragged about its award from the J school "for distinguished newspaper service in the U. S."

. . . The layout pictured both sides of the medal and quoted Acting Dean Ellard's statement. . . . Shy John Boyle, who used to work for U. P., more recently for Radio Guide, is now night wirephoto editor for A. P. here. . . . Bill Mapel has returned from a business trip to Missouri.

June: Elmer Lower, now with Acme Newspictures, was married the ninth. . . . William Gibson, who left school about Christmas to take a job on the Memphis Commercial Appeal, dropped by your correspondent's office the other day, picked up Miss Constance Tice who worked there, took her off to Salem, Ohio, home of both, and will marry her June 25. We understand he is slated for a job on the Youngstown Vindicator after the honeymoon.

Surburban: Jim and Maxine Shepherd (she's the former Maxine Elliott) have a new co-ed for the Class of 1938 named Shirley Anne. . . . she arrived May 11 on the Harvard campus, where papa is Ph.D.-ing.

We don't know whether it is cause for celebration or not, but this is your column's first birthday. So just in case it is sufficient reason we're going to wish ourselves Happy Birthday and go out and have a mint julep.

In all the myriad fields of business, one characteristic you will always find in leaders—a combination of steadiness and alertness: at once sensitive to the changing needs and tastes of the public, and faithful to a strongly held standard.

We have such a concept of our business. In matters of that art which is one of our two principal services—the style and arrangement of illustrations and all that goes with them—we try (quite successfully we think!) not only to keep up with the times but to lead in freshness of design and originality of handling. In making of printing plates, we hold fast to the standard of doing every job, little or big, the best we know how, regardless of what others may do.

For example, the copper halftones which reproduce photographs for fine advertising and books. These can be made in various ways. We hold to smooth brilliance—middle—or halftones which retain their subtle gradation and distinction one from the other, yet blend suavely as in the photograph itself. This is the difficult, and therefore the expensive, way to make halftones; but it is the best. In fact, isn't such a result the essential object of making a halftone?

In any piece of printing in which illustrations are used, the difference in the cost of ordinary engravings and of Burger-Baird engravings is trivial, and is often more than made up in other ways. We'd be glad to have an opportunity to talk it over with you.
