WABASH IS ONE OF OUR BEST CITIZENS

SAYS Joe Wilson

DAD, OUR TEACHER'S BEEN TALKING ABOUT CITIZENSHIP. WHAT'S YOUR DEFINITION OF A GOOD CITIZEN?

WELL, BILL, I'D SAY IT'S A PERSON, A BUSINESS OR ORGANIZATION THAT OBEYS THE LAWS, PAYS TAXES AND HELPS COMMUNITY PROGRESS. THE WABASH, FOR EXAMPLE, IS A GOOD CITIZEN!

WABASH IS ONE OF THIS COUNTY'S BIGGEST TAXPAYERS, THUS HELPING MEET THE COST OF SCHOOLS AND OTHER GOVERNMENT SERVICES.

AND THESE CROSSING-SIGNALS, FOR EXAMPLE, ARE A WABASH WAY OF HELPING MAKE THE HIGHWAYS SAFER!

THE WABASH INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BUREAU HELPED BRING THAT FACTORY HERE. AS A RESULT, HUNDREDS OF OUR NEIGHBORS GOT JOBS. THAT WAS A REAL CONTRIBUTION TO COMMUNITY PROGRESS!

GEE, DAD, I AGREE. WABASH IS ONE OF OUR BEST CITIZENS!

The Missouri Alumnus

FOUNDED IN 1912

R. L. (Bob) HILL
Editor and Director of Alumni Activities
THELMA O. WOODS
Business and Advertising

There are many and varied ways in which the alumni may contribute to the welfare and progress of the University, so many in fact that we sometimes lose sight of some of them, although in the long range view they are quite as important as the others.

Just the other day the point was raised concerning the building up of a manuscript collection for the Library on the campus. Among our alumni are those whose papers, perhaps now private and confidential, will some day be of vast public interest and will constitute a considerable contribution for the use of future scholars. If these are to be placed at the public's disposal at some later date, what better repository could there be than the Library of the author's own Alma Mater?

We pass this suggestion along to those of you who have such papers in your possession. A collection of letters and manuscripts, particularly from former Missouri students, might well form the nucleus of a future storehouse of knowledge which could be increased through the years.

Those of you who do not consider your own papers of sufficient interest to preserve for future generations can still do your part by urging some friends who do possess significant first-hand material to bequeath it to our Library. Perhaps you own valuable books which you might wish to contribute to the University's collection. In this way they could continue a long and useful life, under the greatest protection and care.

Mr. B. E. Powell, Librarian of the University, will always welcome valuable additions. If you have some that you would be willing to contribute now or at some future date, we urge you to write to him here in Columbia.

R. R. Tucker, St. Louis smoke regulation commissioner, told Columbians recently how simple it is for us to get rid of our local smoke nuisance. St. Louis did it up brown. Mr. Tucker was presented to the Columbia audience by Judge Thomas Dysart, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, a Missouri Alumnus who was born out of Higbee a piece and is a former po-leece judge of Macon.

Judge Dysart also introduced James L. ("Smokey") Ford, Jr., head of the St. Louis citizens committee on smoke control, who emphasized the ease with which Columbia could control smoke. Mr. Ford is an authority on hospitality as measured by spoons . . . teaspoon, tablespoon, and soup ladle.

At the conclusion of the talks by the St. Louis experts, President Clyde Shepard of the Columbia Chamber of Commerce appointed Frank St. Clair to provide a speedy and successful smoke-control program for Columbia.

You old timers may be wondering what all this talk about smoke adds up to. It's simply this. Since you were in school Columbia has "grewed up" in a big way.

Oak Hunter, our Public Relations Committee chairman, has an international reputation as a manufacturer of identification phraseology. He refers to men who do things, and do them well, as "shoulder and elbow" fellows.

We have just been unanimously elected president of the Society to Appeal to Hotels to Put Men's Pants Hangers on the Inside of Hotel Closet Doors.

One of our good young girl friends, Miss Emma Crawford of Columbia, is a thoughtful soul. With regularity she brings us fresh buttermilk and hot flaky corn bread. Umm, whatta dish!

Recognition at last! A Columbia hotel is serving Boone County country ham "as recommended by Bob Hill." You can have your medals and ribbons and whatnot. We figure we've attained the ultimate.

We really hesitate to pass this story on, but spring is here, and that should prompt you to make all manner of allowances.

It seems that two nimble-wits went duck-hunting one day last fall. As a flock went overhead one of the hunters threw his gun to shoulder and fired away in their general direction.

Suddenly a nice, plump mallard plopped into the bottom of the blind. The other hunter shook his head sadly.

"You wasted a shot there, chum," he gloomed.

"How come?"

"That fall would have killed the dern duck anyhow."

In this weather we're not responsible

Those of you who take a special interest in the paintings of George Caleb Bingham will be interested to know that one of his finest works, The County Election, is now hanging in the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis, of which Tom K. Smith, an M. U. alumnus and a member of the Board of Curators, is president.

The bank acquired the work not long ago. Behind it lies an interesting story, which is described in a leaflet issued by the bank. The County Election was painted in the great Missouri artist's studio in Columbia during the summer of 1851. After its completion he took it to Philadelphia to have an engraving made by John Sartain, who was one of the outstanding engravers of the country. Bingham then toured the Middle West, exhibiting the painting and receiving subscriptions for prints. There is no record of the number of prints made, but their distribution in homes of the Civil War era was so wide that the scene became one of the best-known in the country.

In 1854 the original was sold to Robert J. Ward of Louisville, Ky. In later years the painting changed hands several times until 1937 when it was purchased by the late C. B. Rollins of Columbia.

LOOSE ENDS: We're happy to report that the extensive digging up of Francis Quadrangle a few years ago has brought some wonderful results. The campus was never more beautiful than it is right now. Luxuriant is the word for the present crop of grass. . . . Columbia has grown to the point where you can't make a left-turn on Broadway. There's a law agin it. . . . High school week is coming, then Farmers' Fair, and then Commencement. Tempus has sure fugit-ed.

READY WHEN NEEDED

This country has the best telephone equipment in the world and there's plenty of it.

There's plenty of it for the every-day needs of millions of telephone users — with something to spare for emergencies.

For the Bell System has two things of special value these days. It has experienced, adequate manufacturing facilities and a nation-wide distributing organization.

Both are handled within the Bell System by Western Electric. This has been a good policy for a generation. Never have its benefits been so clear as right now.

COUNTRY'S PROGRAM OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

The 32nd Annual Journalism Week

[MAY 13-17]

Program features talks by foreign correspondents, cable editors, and diplomats, reflecting news of the world today.

THE PROGRAM for the 32nd annual Journalism Week, in tentative form, was released late this month by Dean Frank L. Martin of the School of Journalism. This year's series of addresses and round tables will open Tuesday, May 13 and will continue through Saturday, May 17.

While the program as announced does not carry one central theme, a general summation of the events indicates that democracy and national defense in the world today will receive emphasis. Talks by foreign correspondents, cable editors, leaders in the journalistic profession, and diplomatic representatives have been scheduled.

At this early date it is difficult to announce a complete program because of unsettled conditions which make it practically impossible for many speakers to make definite commitments.

A plaque honoring the memory of the late Frank Hedges of Springfield, for many years a correspondent in the Far East and a graduate of the School of Journalism, will be presented to the School May 14 by Kaname Wakasugi, minister to the Japanese embassy in Washington, D. C., and James R. Young, Far Eastern correspondent for the International News Service.

Presentation of awards for distinguished service to journalism will include the first award for war correspondence, while other citations will go to a national newspaper, an alumnus of the School of Journalism, an advertising leader, a Missouri publisher, and a foreign newspaper. Identities of the recipients, however, will be withheld until time for the presentation.

The program will open May 13 with the traditional spring convention of the Missouri Writers' Guild with the Guild's subscription banquet on the first evening program. As in past years a reception will be held later in the evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Winterton C. Curtis of the M. U. faculty. Dr. Curtis is dean of the College of Arts and Science.

Among the associations meeting during the week will be the Missouri Associated Dailies, the Missouri Advertising Managers Association, the Missouri Women's Press Club, the Missouri Press Association, Missouri members of both the Associated Press and the United Press news agencies, the Past Presidents' Association of the

District No. 40 Alumni Hear Dr. Elmer Ellis

One hundred and twenty-six persons attended the annual meeting of District No. 40 of the State Alumni Association which was held April 1 in Lutheran Hall at Farmington. Dr. Elmer Ellis, professor of history in the University, was the principal speaker.

District No. 40 is comprised of Jefferson, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, and Washington counties. Dean Irvin F. Coyle of the Flat River Junior College, retiring chairman of the district, was in charge of the meeting.

The Rotary Club of Farmington joined Missouri alumni in the territory to sponsor the affair.

The Rev. H. D. Prather of Flat River pronounced the invocation. Special music was furnished by the University String Quartet under the direction of Prof. Rogers Whitmore. An address of welcome was given by Dr. E. F. Hoctor of Farmington, and the response was made by G. R. Skinner of Bonne Terre. Group singing was led by Frances Hamacher of Leadwood, accompanied by Annie Louise Huggins of Flat River. A short business meeting was also held.

Mr. Skinner of Bonne Terre was elected chairman of District No. 40 to succeed Dean Coyle. Charles Rehm of Ste. Genevieve was named vice-chairman, and Mrs. Fred Burger, Flat River, secretary.

Alumni are indebted to Dean Coyle for his fine service and active leadership in the district.

Wilson Brown Appointed Head of St. Louis School

R. Wilson Brown, graduate of the School of Journalism in 1932, has been appointed superintendent of the Missouri School for the Blind in St. Louis. His term will begin June 1.

He has been an instructor in journalism at the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind since September, 1938. He also is editor of the institute's publication, "Pelham Progress," and a member of the staff of "Movie-Radio Guide."

Mr. Brown was born in Ethlyn, Mo. He received a degree from Missouri Valley College before entering M. U. Later he received a master's degree from Columbia University. His parents now make their home in Mexico, Mo.

Math Requirement Changed

Entrance requirements for the College of Arts and Science in the University will not include the two units of mathematics formerly required, according to an announcement by Dr. Frank F. Stephens recently.

Though the University will not require it, students who graduate from high school must have at least one year of mathematics which is required by state law.

Technical schools within the University will continue with their requirements as before.

Alpha Gamma Rho Has Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

Approximately 125 alumni and their wives attended the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the founding of Theta chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho agricultural fraternity which was held in Columbia April 19 and 20.

Charter members who attended the event were Harry C. Hensley, Washington, D. C.; Jesse H. Wright, Chillicothe; Alva C. Hill, Prescott, Ariz.; Fred L. Clinefelter, Laclede; George W. Catts, Kansas City; John B. Smith, Parker, Ind.; Lee Roy Johnson, Farmington; Alphonso Gorrell, Mexico; Roy Coplen, Higginsville; and Glenn Hensley, Stanberry.

Frank Stonner, Jefferson City, was toastmaster at the founders' day banquet at the Pennant Hotel. Maynard Coe, national vice-president of the fraternity, was a special guest, as was Miss Anna Baumgartner, Columbia, for many years the house mother.

Quality of Study Comes First—Dr. Middlebush

President Frederick A. Middlebush of the University told M. U. Alumni and friends at a district meeting in Boonville this month that the University was placing emphasis on the quality of its courses rather than on quantity.

He said the University had made no attempt to duplicate many of the courses offered by other state universities. Thousands of dollars would have been spent to do this and it would probably not be successful in the end, he said.

Dr. Middlebush used the School of Journalism to illustrate the high quality of the work offered.

He pointed out that the Rockefeller Foundation had provided a building for genetics research because of the excellent quality of work done by that department.

Pointing out that the University was not the head but merely an integral part of the state educational system, President Middlebush said relations between it and the teachers colleges and privately endowed institutions were of the best.

He said the University had no four-year medical course, no school of dentistry, pharmacy or aeronautics. This is no great disadvantage, he added, for there are excellent schools in all of these subjects nearby, and by avoiding this duplication more money could be spent on established courses.

Civic Clubs Join Alumni For District No. 21 Meet

Alumni of the University living in District No. 21, comprising Franklin and Gasconade counties, with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club of Washington, Mo., staged one of the most successful meetings they have had at their annual dinner April 17 at the First Methodist Church.

Eighty graduates, former students, and friends of the University gathered to hear Dr. John Rufi, professor of education, who was the principal speaker.

Musical selections were presented by students of the Washington High School. Leo E. Mize, principal of the high school and chairman of District No. 21, was in charge of arrangements. Dr. Rufi was introduced by C. J. Burger, superintendent of schools, who is chairman of the Franklin County Alumni Association.

Our thanks to Mr. Mize and to R. H. Schaper, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. R. F. Zoellner, president of the Lions Club, for their efforts in making this meeting the success it was.

Miss Charlotte Sutter, Class of 1939, and pupils of her home economics class provided attractive gold-and-black programs and appropriate decorations.

Will Represent M. U.

C. Herschel Schooley and Dudley E. McFadden, who were graduated from the School of Journalism in 1925, will represent their alma mater at the inauguration of new college presidents soon.

Schooley, who is now director of publicity and head of the journalism department at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Tex., will be the University's representative at the inauguration of Dr. William R. White at Hardin-Simmons April 29, and McFadden, of Wheaton, Ill., will act in the same capacity at the inauguration of Wheaton College's new president, Dr. Victor R. Edman, May 9.

Col. McIntyre Assigned

The appointment of Col. A. McIntyre, professor of military science and tactics at the University, as R.O.T.C. camp commander for the Seventh Corps Area summer encampment for 1941 at Ft. Leonard Wood, near Rolla, has been announced.

Nebel to Army

Prof. Arthur Nebel of the sociology department will go to Ft. Lewis, Wash., this summer to join the Third Division as a first lieutenant in the infantry.

"That's Your Man"

Taking student politics at M. U. for a theme, the 1941 Journalism Show scores an outstanding success.

P. ROLLO PEABODY, student presidential candidate of the Middle-Sized Caucus, and Herman Doakes, the "white knight of good statesmanship," put forth by the Just Under-Sized Caucus, fought it out in Jesse Hall Auditorium April 23 and 24. The story of their battle for supremacy made up the plot of "That's Your Man," the annual Journalism Show.

As produced under the direction of Don Campbell, student in the School, the show was a fast-moving, rowdy musical that kept well filled houses roaring as it lampooned campus personalities and politics.

Action of the story began in the S.G.A. office where Jim Riley (played by Irving Feld) and Grant Christopher (Jack Dick-Peddie) are facing a mob of Middle-Sized Caucus members who are dissatisfied with the old regime. President Christopher and Dance Chairman Riley tell each other that defeat in the coming election is inevitable since they have no money, the caucus is against them, and worst of all, they have no candidate.

Then good fortune appears in the person of Rollo Peabody (Dave McIntyre) and Slim Martin (John Lashaw). Rollo came originally as a bill collector, but the politicians, assisted by Gertie (Herbie Herblin), persuade him to run for student president under the banner of the Middle-Sized Caucus. Slim, whose father owns an oil well in Texas, arrives in time to save the financial situation.

Strengthened by fresh talent and an untapped supply of cash, the party launches itself on an intensive and extensive campaign to elect Peabody; and no holds are barred. Party tactics include buying votes with free beer, frequent mud-slinging, and a personal canvass of students by candidates of both parties with their managers.

A typical "sweat session" features the personal solicitation.

When Riley learns that a freshman is about to vote for Doakes because, as his R.O.T.C. battery commander, that aspirant always lets him out early, he calls Doakes a fifth columnist who is undermining national defense by cutting the soldiers' training to a minimum. Rollo got that vote.

After the ballots are counted it is discovered that Rollo is the new president with a majority of 8000 votes. "This is rather strange," says a radio announcer, "since there are only 6000 students in the school."

In their moment of victory Riley and Christopher are drafted into the army. Far from being downcast, they leave rejoicing in the fact that there are 70,000 men at Ft. Leonard Wood (near Rolla, Mo.) who will undoubtedly pay $2 per person to hear Benny Goodman when he travels west on the dance circuit. "Gee, now maybe I really can be president," says Rollo as they leave.

To explain the foregoing paragraph it might be added that the dance chairmanship of the student body is considered one of the better political plums on the campus.

Three of the musical numbers used were written by John Whaley whose tunes were included in the 1940 show. In this year's performance his selections were "Article I, Section 2," "B. M.O.C." (campus abbreviation for "big man on campus"), and "Three Under-Sized Caucus Spies Are We." Lyrics were written by Charles Kufferman.

Miss Herbie Herblin contributed "I Like You Fairly Well," "Get Quiet," "What's the Difference in You," and "Texas Blues." The other composition, "I Don't Wanna Be President," was written by James R. McVay, Jr.

This year's show had a much more professional flavor than is usual in a Journalism Show. Director Campbell, himself experienced in stage production, set a swift pace and used specialties to fill the time between scenes, resulting in an almost continuous performance. Sets were changed on time, no cues were missed, and no one forgot a line.

Biggest laugh of the show went not to the principals but to the men's chorus. To the music of a lilting flute the chorus floated on stage, coy in baby pink and baby blue ballet costumes, then broke into a low-down boogie-woogie routine.

Another laugh-getter was Bud Wintroub, who played Herman Doakes, a presidential candidate waiting impatiently to speak on the radio while his campaign manager, played by Harry Griffin, bellows a campaign speech.

Well played minor parts were those of Art McQuiddy, who gravely rode a bicycle into polling booths as the professor in charge of the election in the show, and of Ernie Heuter as a student frustrated in his attempts to study by a stream of politicians, plumbers, friends, and landladies into his room.

Music was furnished by Count Solomon and his campus band.

Pierre Huss Gets Award For War Correspondence

Pierre J. Huss, a student in the school of Journalism from 1927 to 1929, has been awarded the 1940 George R. Holmes memorial trophy for his "accurate coverage of the German invasion of the Low Countries and France and his revealing insight into Nazi military strategy."

Huss, chief of the International News Service bureau in Berlin, was given the award at the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in New York April 24.

Huss was in Columbia about two years ago and addressed classes in the School of Journalism.

Los Angeles Alumni Hear Henry Misselwitz

Henry Misselwitz, graduate of the School of Journalism and author of a new book, "The Dragon Stirs," was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of Los Angeles alumni April 15 at the Hollywood Athletic Club. He was introduced by Lona Gilbert. Fifty members of the association were present.

Mr. Misselwitz, speaking on the Far Eastern situation, expressed a belief that Japan does not constitute the threat to the United States that many observers indicate, and that Japan is faced with a serious internal problem. On the other hand, China is more firmly united than at any other time in her history, according to Mr. Misselwitz.

Miss Alma Kinkade, president of the association, presided. She announced that an effort would be made to increase attendance at future meetings. Announcements were made by various committee chairmen. The evening closed with the singing of Missouri songs led by Ann Warren and Mrs. M. M. Gordon. Thanks to Helen LaBarriere for the report of the meeting.

Savitar Editor Jim Isham Introduces the 1941 Yearbook Queens

Savitar Queens

Virginia Mering of Blue Springs, Mo., a member of Delta Gamma sorority, was crowned first Savitar queen by James Isham, editor of the 1941 yearbook, at the annual Savitar Ball in Rothwell Gymnasium April 4. Miss Mering and the six other queens, who will have full page pictures in the Savitar, were picked by George Hurrell, Hollywood photographer.

The other queens were Mary Lou Goodrum, Gamma Phi Beta; Helen Barnes, Pi Beta Phi; Gwen Milder, Alpha Epsilon Phi; Betty Boucher, Pi Beta Phi; Barbara Berger, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Sue Vaughn, Delta Gamma.

About 1500 persons, who danced to the music of Bob Crosby and his orchestra, heard the announcement of the queens. Miss Mering, as first queen, will have her picture in Look magazine, according to Isham.

Thetas Win Again

Kappa Alpha Theta won permanent possession of the sorority sing cup, donated by Nelson Eddy, by winning the annual sorority sing April 2 for the third consecutive year. Pi Beta Phi won second place, with Delta Delta Delta third. Each of the nine sororities on the campus presented two selections.

Wood Taylor Elected President of S. G. A.

Wood Taylor of Bernie, Mo., was named president of the Student Government Association in the annual campus election April 18, but the opposing party elected a majority of the 1941-42 student senate. Approximately 3600 votes were cast.

Taylor, head of the Progressive-Independent ticket which included a coalition of independents and the small fraternities and sororities, had a plurality of 312 votes as he polled 1724 votes to 1416 of William Shockley of Springfield, head of the Independent-Alliance ticket, and 575 for Martin Nash, Tiger basketball captain of Columbia, running as an independent without a party ticket.

Elected with Taylor were running mates James V. Dunlap of Fulton for vice-president, with 1919 votes to 1750 for Herb Gregg of Kansas City, and Mildred Flynn of Slater for secretary-treasurer, with 2031 votes to 1418 for Harriet Robnett of Quincy, Ill.

Shockley's party, representing most of the larger fraternities and sororities, seated nine of seventeen candidates for the student senate. It is possible that the eighteenth member, to be appointed from the School of Law on the basis of scholarship records, may evenly divide votes in the senate, and another possibility exists in that some of the winners may be ineligible, or may fail to return to school next fall, and thus upset the balance.

On the preferential type of ballot now in use, if one of the winners does not serve, the next highest candidate automatically takes office.

Elected to the student senate on Taylor's ticket were the following: Medicine, Tom Ashley, West Plains; Graduate, Melvin Brown, Denver, Colo., and Gayton Germane, Columbia; Agriculture, Eldon Williams, Armstrong, Harlan Arp, Palmyra, and Frances Langenbacher, St. Charles; Engineering, Harold Slusher, Fulton, and John New, Sullivan.

Senators elected on the Shockley ticket were: Arts and Science, Virginia Simon, Columbia, Mary Helmstetter, Springfield, Ill., Robert Temme, St. Louis, Richard Bentley, Glasgow, Gene Herbst, University City, and Robert Hills, Sioux Falls, S. D.; Education, Bill Spencer, St. Louis; Journalism, Wes Kaseman, New York City; and Business and Public Administration, Robert Chick of Columbia.

The newly elected president will take office next fall, succeeding Chet Hill who has served during the present school year.

Baseball Claws Are Sharp

Tiger nine goes through first six games in impressive fashion, showing good pitching and timely hitting in the clutches.

COACH JOHN SIMMONS must be aware of an unmistakable warm glow about him these days. The world's all right—or at least Simmons' is. You don't have to look far to discover why the coach greets each day with a smile. It's really very simple. Spring is here; the buds are bursting; the birds are twittering, and most of all—his baseball team is clicking.

Of course, the chips aren't down just yet. The Tigers haven't gotten their teeth into the 1941 conference season at this writing, but their performance in the six games already played has been impressive to say the least. In those six contests Coach Simmons' charges have dented home plate exactly 67 times to their opponents' 20. That should be an indication of a good offense.

The big question at the beginning of the season centered on the young, untried players who had to fill the gaps created by graduation and ineligibility. Harry Ice, the flashy runner of the 1940 football team, now has third base in his pocket. Ed Friedewald, a senior who has made the Varsity for the first time, takes care of short admirably and contributes terrific stickwork that accounts for a good portion of Missouri's fine batting average. Veterans Crane at second and Paul Christman at first complete a well balanced infield.

In the outfield Gregg, Hoffman, Starmer, and Steuber provide plenty of punch, both offensively and defensively. Ken Quevreaux has perhaps made one of the greatest individual contributions by his ability to solve the catching problem.

And then Missouri is blessed with two dependable starting pitchers in Bill ("Bobo") Spencer and Frank Graham.

The first game of the season, scheduled for April 9 with Drake on Rollins Field, was rained out, but the skies cleared sufficiently the following day for the boys to get together.

Pitchers Spencer and Graham proved virtually unsolvable against the Bulldogs. From the second inning on the Tigers ran riot on the bases with hits, scored when Gregg bunted down the first-base line.

Both Bear runs, coming in the third and fifth innings against Bill Spencer, were unearned, with defensive blunders and walks constantly keeping the Tiger hurler in trouble. Five errors were committed by his infielders.

The Tiger pitchers continued their strike-out march, Spencer whiffing nine and Graham adding three.

Batteries: Missouri—Huge and Quevreaux; St. Louis—Prendergast and Rafalko.

The Tigers gained their third victory at the expense of St. Louis University on April 21 in St. Louis, when Tom Huge, bespectacled sophomore hurler, struck out thirteen Billikens and managed to keep their batters in check.

Huge got off to a wobbly start in the first inning when he hit two men with pitched balls and walked two to force in the first run of the ball game and give the Billikens an early lead. The Bills scored again in the third, but the Tigers finally got the range in the fourth and tallied three markers as the result of two walks, a single, and an error. It was then they took the lead and were never headed after that.

Huge was in trouble in the first, third, fifth, and sixth innings, before he settled down to strike out five batters in a row in the seventh and eighth stanzas.

The following day the Tigers ended their brief visit to St. Louis by handing the Washington Bears a terrific 20-to-10 lacing. Pitcher Bill Spencer received credit for the victory, his third of the season, although he had to be relieved in the eighth inning when Washington unleashed a six-run onslaught. Loose fielding on the part of both teams played a big part in the undoing of the pitchers. The Tigers were handed nine unearned runs while the Bears crossed the plate four times on errors.

One of the highlights of the game came in the fifth inning when Paul Christman, Bengal first sacker, singled errors by erratic Drake infielders, bases on balls, and stolen bases combining for 12 runs. They reached their highest scoring peak in the seventh when five men scored on but one hit.

Spencer started the game and hurled five innings brilliantly, setting the Bulldogs down without a hit and fanning nine batters. In the second, third, and fourth innings he struck out seven of the nine men to face him.

Graham took up where Spencer left off and added eight more strike-outs for a total of seventeen for the game.

Batteries: Washington—Schulenberg and Schoenbeck; Missouri—Spencer, Graham and Quevreaux.

Quevreaux's single to left field scoring two runs in the sixth inning was the margin of victory April 18 as the Tigers defeated Washington, 4-2, on Rollins Field. Harry Ice walked to open the inning and advanced to second on Crane's sacrifice bunt. Carr's double advanced him to third and both men scored a moment later on the catcher's timely single. He later

Paul took a lot of ribbing from the St. Louis crowd throughout the game and when he pilfered home plate, he bowed to the stands with considerable mock dignity.

Jim Starmer was the leading hitter for Missouri with three singles out of six trips to the plate. Spencer struck out ten of the opposing team to add to his impressive list of strike-out victims.

The Tigers' opening bid for conference honors was encouraging when they blasted the Nebraska Cornhuskers on Rollins Field, 17-1, on April 26. Bill Spencer was in great form, setting the visitors down with only four hits, while the Missouri batsmen, led by Ed Friedewald, went on a hitting rampage. In addition to a long home run, the Tiger shortstop collected a double, two singles and a walk for a perfect day at the plate.

Friedewald's hitting was the feature of Missouri's seventeen-hit attack against three Nebraska pitchers. Spencer, besides turning in his best hurling to date, also smashed a home run in the fifth inning. Russell Hoffman, sophomore outfielder, hit two long three-base hits and added a single later in the game. Paul Christman with a double and a single, Herb Gregg and Ken Quevreaux with two singles each, were the other Tigers who made more than one hit.

Swanson of Nebraska held the Tigers to five hits in the second game, but the Missourians tied two of them to a pair of passes in the fifth and gathered in three runs that were the high spot of their 5-to-1 victory. The win gave Coach Simmons' boys a slightly firmer grasp on first place in the Big Six.

Frank Graham gave the Huskers six hits but never more than one an inning, until the ninth when Sauer and Herndon hit safely. A pass filled the bags but Graham cut the rally short.

Varsity Trims Alumni, 61-0, In Annual Spring Game

The Missouri spring football squad wound up its six-week practice with a brilliant 61-to-0 victory over an "Alumni" team Monday, April 21, on Rollins Field. The game was originally scheduled for Saturday the 19th but rain caused a postponement.

Because of the postponement there were very few alumni on the team bearing that name. Squad members of the 1940 team and numerous present grid players made up the opposition for the new Varsity.

After battling stubbornly to hold the Varsity scoreless in the first quarter, the Alumni, without the help of Paul Christman who had been billed as a feature attraction of the game, finally gave way before the conditioned Varsity players.

The "youngsters" combined both running and passing to score their nine touchdowns. Clarence ("Dutch") Wyatt of Charleston and Joe Flavin of Maplewood, freshman quarterbacks, each threw two touchdown passes.

Wyatt's scoring tosses were received by Harold Adams and Ervin Pitts, blocking backs. Flavin's receivers were Roger Rawlings, halfback, and Jack Lister, letter man end.

Maurice ("Red") Wade and James Darr, freshman tailbacks, accounted for two touchdowns by way of line smashes, and Rawlings scored the final six points with a 40-yard dash through a broken field.

The Varsity was successful in seven of nine attempts at conversion. Wyatt booted three extra points, Norville Wallach, two, and Rawlings, one. Leo Milla, freshman fullback, added the last point on a drive through center.

Ed Gerker, Mike Popovich, Fred Bouldin, and Dick Keller also were outstanding in the Varsity backfield. Keller's vicious blocking was a highlight of the game.

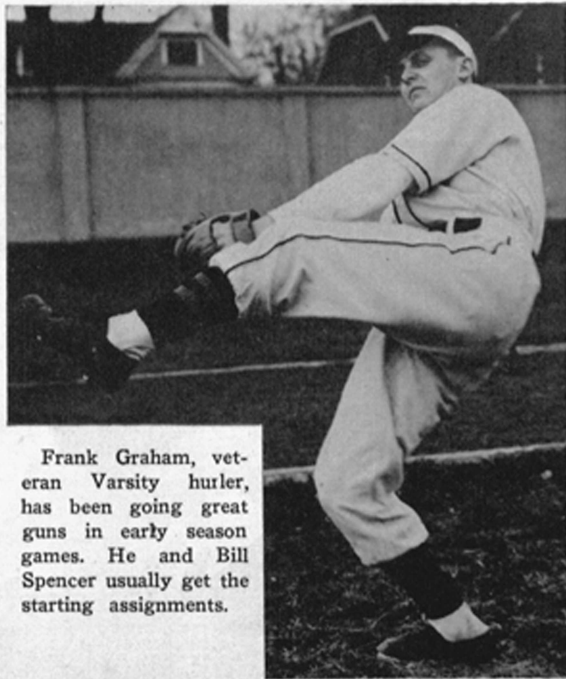

Dick Gale and Clay Cooper formed an ace passing combination for the Alumni team and Jerry Notowitz backed up the line with his usual hard-hitting tackles. Charles Beattie was a passing threat and also prevented a touchdown in the first half when he took a Wade pass out of Don Greenwood's hands on the Alumni 7-yard line.

Defensive strength was well scattered through both teams. However, Notowitz and Ray Schultz, guard, were in on many tackles for the "old timers" and the two Varsity letter man centers, Capt. Darold Jenkins and Jeff Davis were outstanding.

The starting lineups were: Varsity—Ends, Lister and Shurnas; tackles, Hodges and Wallach; guards, Keith and Tarpoff; center, Jenkins; backs, Wyatt, Gerker, Adams, and Popovich.

Little Herbie Gregg, outfielder, packs a mighty wallop in his big bat.

Frank Graham, veteran Varsity hurler, has been going great guns in early season games. He and Bill Spencer usually get the starting assignments.

For the Alumni—Ends, Saey and Beattie; tackles, Wetzell and Metzinger; guards, Sischa and Schultz; center, Hirsch; backs, Gale, Council, Cooper, and Notowitz.

On the whole, Head Coach Don Fauror was pleased with prospects for the 1941 season. The youngsters showed plenty of punch.

"We'll be strong on offense next fall," were Don's words. That usually makes for an interesting season, so we'll be seeing all you alumni and fans next September.

Track Team Defeats A. & M.

A doubly victory by Bob Steuber in the sprints paced Missouri to a 71-to-59 victory, in their only home track meet, over Oklahoma A. & M., champions of the Missouri Valley Conference, April 22 on Rollins Field.

Steuber played with the baseball team in St. Louis the day before, and returned to Columbia in time to win the 100-yard dash, the 220, and take third in the shot-put, thus winning 11 points.

Elmer Aussieker won both weight events, the shot-put and discus throw for 10 points, tying with Munn of the Aggies for runner-up honors.

The 440 was a thriller, with Gordon Crosby and Bob Tracy, Tiger sophomores battling down the back stretch to finish inches apart. The time, 48.9 seconds, was only three-tenths of a second slower than the all-time Missouri record set by Dills in 1930. Both later teamed up with St. Denis and Baker to form the winning mile relay combination.

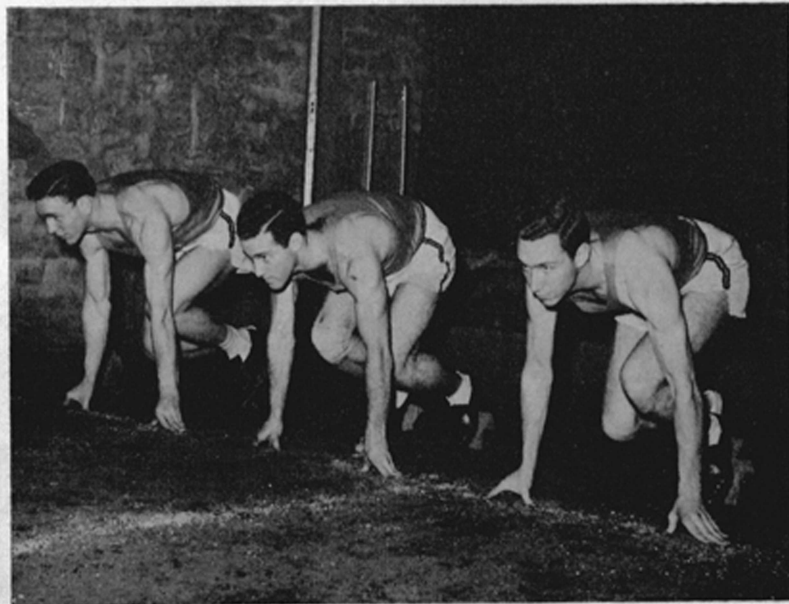

Other Tiger victories were won by W. E. Lane who took the two-mile in 9:45.6, and Ben Lloyd who won the javelin throwing contest with a heave of 185 feet 6 inches. Missouri was weak in the hurdle events, getting only one point in the 220 and 120.

Brief Notes From the Gym

Fred Bouldin, freshman fullback, and Jack Keith, freshman guard, won honor awards offered by Coach Fauror to the players that showed the most improvement through the spring football season. Bouldin, first place winner, received a wrist watch, and Keith was awarded a pen and pencil set. Both boys are from Westport High School in Kansas City.

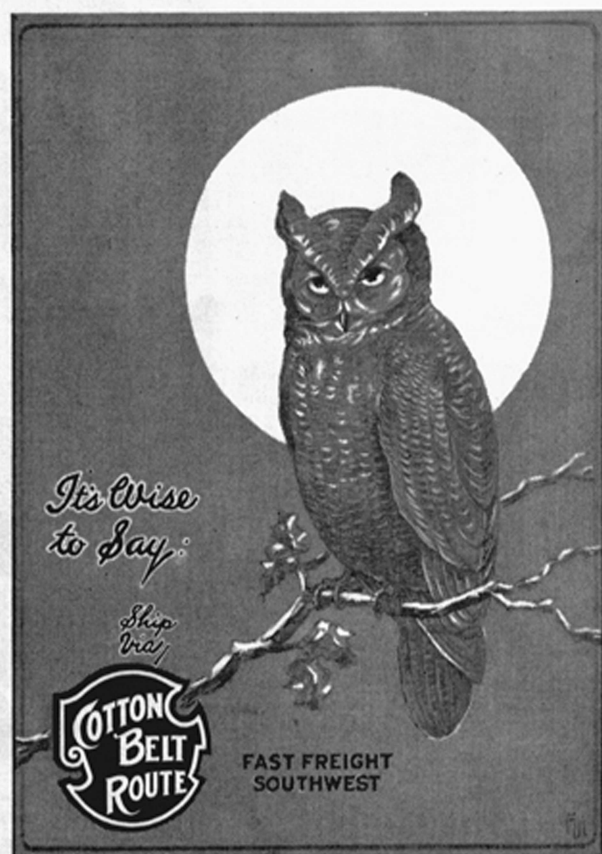

Gordon Crosby, star Tiger quarter-miler, has received an appointment to Annapolis and will be missing from the 1942 squad.

Ineligible Catcher Duke Sullivan will play pro ball with the Oklahoma City Indians in the Texas League.

Three reasons for Missouri's good showing on the cinder track this spring are (l. to r.) Bob Steuber, Ralph Blumberg, and Don Walters, sprinters extraordinary. Of the three, Walters has turned in the best times thus far.

Journalism Alumni Honor Dean Martin

Graduates and former students of the School of Journalism living in Texas honored Dean Frank L. Martin at a luncheon April 12 in Abilene where the dean appeared on the program of the Southwestern Journalism Conference.

Dean Martin was the principal speaker at the conference's main banquet the evening before. He was presented a ten-gallon hat by his Texas friends.

Those who attended the alumni luncheon were C. E. Bounds, El Paso; Lola Anderson, San Antonio; Willard Ridings, Ft. Worth; F. L. McDonald, Denton; Dorothea Lohoff Schlegel, Belton; DeWitt Reddick and Paul J. Thompson, Austin; Houston Harte, Dean Chenoweth, and Herbert O. Taylor, San Angelo; Herschel Schooley,

Dr. McKenzie to Peru

The Institute of Andean Biology of Lima, Peru, has requested the services of Dr. Fred F. McKenzie of the Animal Husbandry department for special study with them and the National Committee for Sheep and Wool Industry of Peru on the problem of sheep reproduction as affected by altitude. Dr. McKenzie will sail from New York on May 10 and go directly to Lima. After a month's stay there he will go to Chile where he will be the guest of the National Agricultural Society of Chile. He will return to the United States in September. Dr. McKenzie's investigations in South America are a part of President Roosevelt's "Good Neighbor Policy."

"The Columns" Featured On State Travel Stamps

The first issue of pictorial tourist travel stamps ever published for the state of Missouri has been compiled, edited and printed by the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce. There are twenty-four stamps on the sheet, each stamp a picture of some historical or recreational spot in Missouri. One of these is devoted to the historic Columns on Francis Quadrangle.

The stamps are designed to be attached to personal letterheads with the view to whet the appetite of the recipient for a visit to the spots pictured. Each picture is reproduced in natural colors.

The stamps will sell for 25c per sheet and orders may be placed with the state chamber's office in Slater. Each sheet carries twenty-five different views of historic Missouri spots.

Carl Bolte of Slater, who has long been active in alumni association affairs, is president of the State Chamber of Commerce.

An "Invincible" Dies

Thomas Lawson Price, a member of the famous Tiger football team of 1895, died March 24 at St. Luke's Hospital in St. Louis. He was 68 years old. Mr. Price had been in ill health several months, and had spent the winter in the South. Funeral services were held in Jefferson City where he had made his home for many years.

The 1895 football team was one of Missouri's greatest. It was the first Tiger team to play a full schedule against some of the fine teams of the country, and it went through the season with only one defeat. The team was known popularly as the "Invincibles of '95." Mr. Price played several positions in the lineup, and at the end of the season was elected captain of the 1896 squad. However, he did not return to school the next year.

He is survived by his widow and daughter, Mrs. John Guy Gibson, of Jefferson City.

M.U. in Africa

A letter from Columbia University recently asked the M. U. extension division if it could fill the request of the woman whose letter was enclosed. The letter was from a Mrs. Kemp in Portuguese West Africa. She wanted a correspondence course in high school work for her 13-year-old daughter who had been prevented by the war from coming to this country for her education. Columbia University could not offer the course desired, so they forwarded the letter. M. U. can, and the desired material has been sent.

Many college men have satisfied their inner urge to independence by representing the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company. They stand on their own feet, make their own decisions, enjoy the full returns from their own energy and enterprise.

But if ever help is needed, help is close at hand. This is independence, plus! Plus the sympathetic counsel of successful General Agents. Plus the complete co-operation of a great organization — the first mutual life insurance company chartered in America. Plus an important intangible — self-respect — born of selling investments that no buyer ever regrets.

If you're in a groove and you'd like to get out — if you're big enough to boss yourself — if you have initiative that you'd like to turn into income — write to Wm. ## MAKE SURE YOU KEEP THEM

The bolt on your door, the lock on your automobile, the safety catch on your pin, are all expressions of the human instinct to protect what you have. But there are other threats to your ownership of your possessions that locks and bolts and safety catches cannot nullify... fire, wind-storm, explosion, accident, theft, etc.

Another Way to Get Into the Doghouse

Garland Wilson (A.B. '37), St. Joseph packing company executive, lives in a suburban home with his wife, the former Jane Alford, and their young son, "Butch." On the place was an aged race horse—sort of a "white elephant"—that Mr. Wilson gave to a farmer with the understanding "Old John" would be kept in comfort the rest of his days.

Recently Mr. Wilson showed up at home, leading the horse. To Mrs. Wilson's questions he explained that, in passing a community sale, he had seen "Old John" put up for auction and, to protect the horse from the possibility of a cruel master, had bid him in.

"How much did you pay for him?" Mrs. Wilson demanded.

"Twenty-five dollars," was her husband's sheepish answer.

"Old John" is back in the Wilson barn, and Mr. Wilson is in the doghouse.

DAVE SHANKS is a reporter; HERBERT TAYLOR, JR., is an advertising solicitor; BETTY BAUGH is society editor; BILL BANCROFT is telegraph editor for the afternoon paper; and even the managing editor, DEAN CHENOWETH, went to Missouri. a check for my renewal for The Missouri Alumnus. I enjoy reading it—so please keep me on your subscription list. I am leaving by Pan-American Airways in a few weeks for a trip around South America but will be back in New York in June."

'28, attorney of Kansas City, who says: "In passing, I cannot help but comment on the splendid issues of The Alumnus that have been coming to me, as I thoroughly enjoy every word that is printed." You've never read a book like this before!

NO ONE else would have dared write it . . .
and no one else could have written it.
It's the anatomy of a college class . . . a panoramontage of alumni in undress . . . a wide-eyed, barefaced tale of heroes and heroics, of villains and fools and humans.

And let's not forget the women, those lush and amiable ladies (some were neither) who helped or dragged the men along. You'll enjoy their antics or puzzle over their ethics as much as their men did.

This is a total book about college grads . . .
nothing is left unsaid, nothing could be more outspoken. It's a unique story . . . jam-packed with laughs and thrills and tragic moments. There's nothing sober or conventional about it.

If you want to know what makes a college man tick, this yarn will tell you. It's a revealing story, told tenderly, without strain and without restraint.

You'll recognize every one of these men—you've met them, worked with them, envied them, admired them, hated them, learned to avoid them, or have always wanted to know them better. Here they are —all sixty of them—in all their grime and glory . . .
a college class, twenty-five years after graduation, as pinned to the board by an uninhibited class secretary in revolt. It's a "just listen to this" kind of book. Everybody who reads it wants to quote it!
Don't let your friends spoil it for you . . . get a copy of your own, now. 343 PAGES, $2.50

Three Opinions

JOHN KIERAN (who knows a thing or two and never hesitates to tell it): "I enjoyed it no end."

TIFFANY THAYER (who has written many best-sellers herself): "There's enough swell material here for a dozen novels. Smith sure packs a lot of story into 343 pages!"

VIRGINIA KIRKUS (who is paid by booksellers to tell them what good books to buy): "Here is the book on 'men we have known'. Should go by word of mouth . . .
everyone who reads it has an overwhelming yen to share bits of it with any receptive listener, and immediately!"
