Telephone wire coming up

Here's a bomber-gunner hurrying to load his 50-calibre gun. . . .

In peace, a lot of that copper would have gone into new telephone lines. Now it's needed for shooting and winning the war.

That's why we can't build new lines right now. That's why we're saying —"Please don't place Long Distance calls to war-busy centers unless it's absolutely necessary."

Thanks for all your help and we hope you will keep remembering.

The Missouri College of Agriculture in cooperation with the Farm Security Administration of Missouri, is doing a fine job in helping to eliminate the shortage of farm labor in Missouri. They have established a farm youth training and placement center at the College of Agriculture and are performing a vital service in connection with the war effort. Under-draft-age youth and, in some cases, married men are being trained to replace farm workers called to the armed forces or into industry.

Walter C. Bute, superintendent of the farm youth training school, said the school of the future is to become a replacement center instead of a training center. He believes that sixty boys and men can be handled a week.

Many of the youths come from the Ozark district and are placed on North Missouri farms.

Brigadier General Paul McDonald Robinett, U. S. Army, Commanding Combat Command B, 1st A. D. and 13th Armed Regt., APO 251, c/o Postmaster, New York, New York, who was graduated from the College of Agriculture in 1917, was recently cited by the French and awarded the Croix de Guerre. The November issue of LIFE contains a series of pictures at the landing beach where Brig. Gen. Robinett commanded. Indications are that they had something of a tussle there in Africa and still face the "Big Show-Down." It is said that the French really put up a stiff resistance, but have since joined the Allied forces and have assisted in a material way. We are mighty proud of Brig. Gen. Robinett and all the others of our University of Missouri men and women in the various branches of the service throughout the world.

One of the busiest men in the University is Secretary Leslie Cowan, who in addition to his regular duties, has assumed the responsibilities which the Navy's Diesel Engineering School, the Army Air Force Cadet Candidate School, and the various other wartime activities make necessary. He is executing these extra tasks with remarkable efficiency as well as keeping the regular peacetime pursuits of the University running smoothly.

We are mighty proud of Glenn Babb of the Associated Press, and we are happy over the recent announcement that he has been made Associated Press War Analyst. Boone Countians are particularly proud of him because he was born in Columbia. He was graduated from the University of Missouri with an A.B. degree in 1914 and a B.J. in 1915, following which he had a vast experience in the Far East including Tokyo. He returned home in 1917 to join the army. He saw duty in the St. Mihiel sector. After the war, he returned to the Orient. Later on he became a member of the A.P. staff in New York City. It was our pleasure to visit with him in Tokyo a few years ago. No one knows the Far East better than Glenn Babb. He is most ably qualified to serve as War Analyst for the Associated Press.

Miss Jane Froman, who was injured when the Yankee Clipper crashed near Lisbon, Portugal, is on the road to recovery. Her mother, Mrs. J. P. Hetzler of Columbia, has received word that she is entirely out of danger. We have received many inquiries regarding Miss Jane since the plane crash near Lisbon.

We'd like to give some well-deserved praise to our Missouri high school superintendents who were in Columbia this month for the thirtieth annual Department of Superintendence meeting. These men have always been staunch friends of the University, and they are doing excellent, constructive work with our youth in this present emergency.

Conley Avenue is a busy street at eight, twelve and five o'clock. Companies of Army Air Corps men and platoons of sailors pass while going to and from classes. It is an inspiring sight to see these boys, and it makes every citizen who sees them stop and think how much we owe the boys who give up personal liberty, individual pursuits and aims and perhaps even their lives in fighting for us. We can't give them too much support on the home front.

We're mighty proud of our old high school chum, Leo E. Clarahan, who was recently elected vice president of the Wabash Railroad by the St. Louis Board of Directors. Leo was reared in Columbia and started his railroad career as clerk and freight handler for the Wabash in Columbia in 1912. Since then he has been freight agent, assistant general freight agent, traffic manager, and general freight traffic manager in the St. Louis office. It is with great pride that we now address this alumnus as vice president.

In the January issue of the Alumnus we listed ten Missouri generals serving our country. These men now number twelve with the addition of Brigadier Generals Arthur Wilson and Rufus Stanley Ramey. Brigadier General Wilson was formerly an instructor with the R. O. T. C. unit at the University and wrote a book on field artillery while in Columbia. He has served in Australia and is now believed to be in North Africa. Another Missouri general, Ramey, A.B. '15, lists his home as Springfield, Mo. Many thanks to Brig. Gen. J. F. Brittingham for calling our attention to these omissions.

We're going to miss the daily visit of Roland Smith of the Columbia Daily Tribune. Smitty, my own personal publicity man, leaves soon for the army. Smitty was with me in St. Louis recently when I spoke at a banker's banquet. There I was, literally surrounded by billions of dollars, when I reached in my pocket for some change to buy a package of cigarettes. My hand came out empty, not even a penny, and Smitty supplied the money for my cigarettes. He's the kind of a man you just can't get along without.

Two New Appointments To Board of Curators

Gov. Forrest C. Donnell appointed David W. Hopkins of St. Joseph and Roscoe Anderson of Webster Groves to the University Board of Curators, March 17.

Hopkins succeeds H. J. Blanton of Paris, who has served on the Board since 1919. Hopkins was graduated from the University and received his M.A. degree in 1928. He is a former Republican Congressman elected from the fourth district to succeed Charles L. Faust, who resigned in 1929. He is now with the Anderson, Hopkins Insurance Company in St. Joseph.

Blanton, who served as a member of the board for twenty-four years, inaugurated the policy of co-operative buying of newsprint now used by the Missouri Press Association. He was president of the association in 1917 and served as its secretary for four years. He was also a member of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles from March, 1913 to March, 1916. He is editor of the Monroe County Appeal at Paris.

Anderson, who attended the University from 1901 to 1906, is a former president of the Missouri Bar Association in 1940 and of the St. Louis Bar Association. He has also acted as attorney for the Board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis.

He succeeds Earl F. Nelson, St. Louis lawyer, who has served on the Board since May 28, 1937.

Harold J. Moore, banker at Brookfield, was reappointed for a second term on the Board of Curators by Gov. Donnell. Moore was appointed to his first term on March 22, 1938.

Mrs. Roosevelt Sends $50 To Campus Parley

Fifty dollars has been sent by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to the Missouri Campus Parley, the discussion group which sponsored her recent visit to Columbia, to aid them with further activities.

The money and an inclosed letter, typewritten on White House stationery, was received by the Parley committee Feb. 27. The first lady thanked the group for making her visit to the University so pleasant and extended her appreciation to the entire student body for its enthusiastic response.

In a handwritten postscript, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I hope you feel that I made some contribution and that your work was justified. I am enclosing a little check toward the expense of your committee."

Mrs. Roosevelt expressed hearty approval of the work that Campus Parley is doing to stimulate active student interest in current world affairs and post-war problems.

St. Patrick Pays His Fortieth Annual Visit to the College of Engineering

Irish Benefactor Rides to Knighthood Ceremonies In a Wooden Army Tank

Riding in a wooden tank, built by students in the College of Engineering, mystic St. Patrick, with his long white beard, arrived at the University at 3 o'clock in the afternoon Mar. 19 to conduct the annual St. Pat's week activities.

This year marked the fortieth anniversary of this oldest annual celebration at the University.

Each year at this time the traditional cry of "Erin Go Braugh" rings throughout the campus as engineering students give demonstrations of their abilities and choose a queen for their St. Pat's ball.

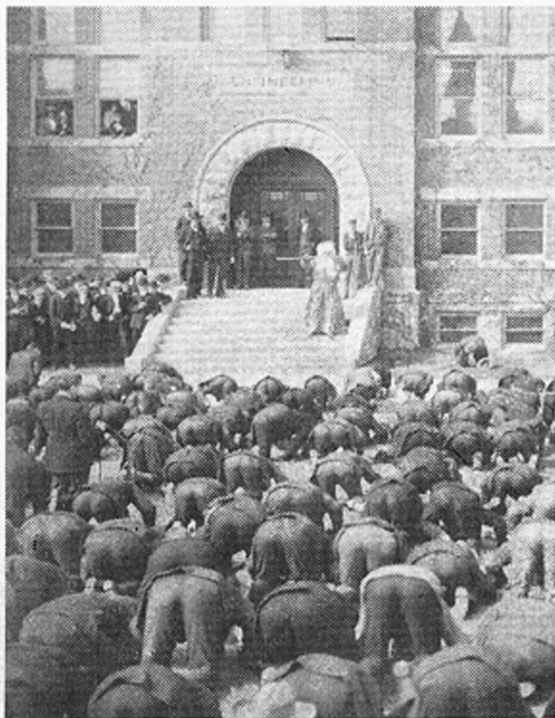

It was in 1902 that several engineering students lying on the grassy mound near the columns first conceived the idea for this holiday. It was a warm spring day in March and one of them casually suggested that it might be a good idea to cut classes and celebrate the end of winter.

"It's too nice a day to run a slide rule or work in a laboratory," one of the students remarked.

The suggestion was passed along to others and the upshot was that no classes were attended that day by engineers and the holiday in March became an annual custom.

A medical engineer, whose name is unknown, first associated St. Patrick with the celebration in 1903. Each branch of engineering has at one time claimed St. Patrick as a member of its field. But Dean Harry A. Curtis of the College of Engineering believes that St. Patrick might have been a chemical engineer. He points out that the revered saint did not rid Ireland of snakes, but, by removing fusel oil from Irish whiskey, he caused what were illusions of snakes to pass from Ireland.

The blarney stone first appeared in 1905, the year the above picture was taken. Workmen excavating the old engineering annex uncovered a stone bearing strange markings. The hieroglyphics were deciphered to read, "Erin Go Braugh," which was translated to "St. Patrick Was an Engineer." Nobody knew where the stone was taken after the excavation and nobody knows where it has been since. But it always appears each year in time for the knighting ceremony so that it may be kissed by all who are knighted by St. Patrick.

St. Patrick had them all kowtowing in 1905 when he visited the College of Engineering to conduct the annual knighting ceremonies.

As vital a part of the celebration as the blarney stone are the activities that have grown up with the observance of the custom. In 1938, there was a huge suspension bridge extending across Francis Quadrangle, while in 1940 the engineers built a steam engine entirely of wood.

The St. Patrick celebration which originated on the Missouri campus has spread to other universities. Since 1907 the School of Mines at Rolla, Mo., has commemorated St. Patrick's day. In 1909 the University of Iowa and Iowa State College first observed St. Pat's Week. Since then many other colleges and universities have observed the holiday.

Sharing the spotlight with the good saint during the celebration this month at the University were Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, A.B. '04, LL.B. '07, and Dr. F. G. Baender, head lecturer of the Naval Training School at the University.

Each of the five divisions of the College of Engineering, electrical, mechanical, civil, chemical, and agricultural, constructed a float for the parade to illustrate the part each division can play in the war effort.

One of the floats showed the destruction of a bridge and the erection of a temporary one in its place.

The Hickman High School band of Columbia, 250 sailors from the Naval Training School, and the University R. O. T. C. participated in the parade.

After the parade through town, St. Patrick conducted the traditional knighthood ceremonies. Gov. Donnell and Dr. Baender were made honorary Knights of St. Patrick, summa cum laude. Donald Nelson, who was not present, was also honored.

Prof. M. P. Weinbach, head of the department of electrical engineering, officially welcomed the group from the steps of the Engineering Building.

"I am glad to greet Dr. Baender, who forty years ago was my teacher of mechanical arts and Forrest Donnell, who forty years ago was a student of law on this campus," he said.

The thirty-five knighthood candidates, dressed in cap and gown, and led by Gov. Donnell and Dr. Baender, then paraded to the platform where St. Patrick was holding court. As the candidates approached, St. Patrick rapped on the platform three times with his shillelagh and a cloud of steam arose and blanketed the platform. When the steam cleared, the blarney stone was in front of St. Patrick.

The candidates mounted the platform as their names were called and were knighted by St. Patrick.

Because of travel restrictions and war duties only a few members of the Engineering Alumni Association and the Engineering Alumni Foundation were able to attend the celebration this year. At a short business meeting Mar. 20, this year's officers were re-elected for another term.

Carl W. Brown of the state highway department at Jefferson City, Mo., is president of the Engineering Alumni Association. Sam Rudder, Duane Smith, Arnold Hecker, and J. Russell Ellis are vice presidents, and Ralph Duffy is secretary-treasurer.

E. E. Dittbrenner of Jefferson City will again serve as president of the Engineering Alumni Foundation with F. V. Ragsdale, Memphis, Tenn., vice president; J. Roy Wharton, professor mechanical engineering in the University, second vice president; L. A. Nickell of Columbia, secretary; and B. D. Simon, Columbia, treasurer.

"Jack" Crangle Takes Position in Kansas City

Walter F. "Jack" Crangle, former member of the Missouri and more recently of the St. Louis University coaching staffs, has accepted a position with the Aluminum Corporation of America in Kansas City.

Crangle has completed a training course for the job and began work last month.

He recently recovered from an attack of pneumonia, from which he suffered during the football season.

Pres. F. A. Middlebush Lauded by Navy Dept.

Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, president of the University, received an award of merit this month from the Navy Department for his aid in obtaining the enlistment of recruits in the Construction Battalion of the navy.

The award said:

"To Frederick Middlebush for patriotic contribution to the war effort in obtaining the enlistment of recruits for service in the Construction Battalion of the United States Navy."

It was signed by Rear Admiral Ben Moreell, chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks of the Navy Department.

Editorial by Alumnus Gains Wide Recognition

Pvt. William J. Menteer, former secretary of the Columbia Water and Light Department and a graduate of the School of Journalism, is earning a name in the army as an editorial writer. He has been a member of the staff of the "Hub," official newspaper of Jefferson Barracks since last fall.

Pvt. Menteer's editorial, "I Sustain the Wings" which was published in the "Hub" on Nov. 14, has since been reprinted as a poster and hung on every bulletin board in the ten states of the Second Army District Technical Training Command.

"Sustineo Alas," the Latin motto of the technical training command, means to Menteer the faithful service of the men of the ground crews, without which the exploits of pilots would be impossible.

"I Sustain the Wings."

"Those two Latin words beneath a golden urn in which reposes three plumes are the literal motto of The Air Forces Technical Training Command. Many an air force enlisted man cannot translate Latin, but his heart translates the meaning.

"I am the air force technician who makes it possible for flyers to be heroes and heroes to be flyers. I drill and work and fight. I work that others might fly and fight. I fight that I might work to keep them flying. I am the mechanic, the machinist, the radio man, the armorer, the weather observer, the gunner, the instrument man. I'm a technician but I fight like a commando.

I am one of those three plumes signifying an unbeatable trio. The plane, the air crew, the ground crew. Each indispensable to the other two. Without me the plane would be a motionless machine, the pilot a helpless gladiator.

When I trained I chafed at the constant stream of repetition of routine but now I realize I was learning to act on instinct. I griped at scrubbing and shining and cleaning, but now I realize neatness means a clean job of every task. An unbuttoned pocket seemed trivial but now I know a forgotten button might be a forgotten cotter key and that forgotten key might mean a plane destroyed and a crew killed. Because of strict training I am good. And I know I'm good.

The folks at home may never know how important I am. The public may never see my name in print. I am the plodding lineman of modern football. I make long runs possible for All-Americans. I am the blocker that never carries the ball.

But that pilot there knows me. He knows when he climbs aboard she sits ready. He knows those motors are perfect, the radio—his ears, the instruments—his eyes. That bombardier knows his hits are going to be perfect. And when they come back there is something in their handshake no newspaper could describe, no medal could equal. It is the grip of men whose lives depend on me." "Sustineo Alas"

Wei Ma, B.J. '34, Heads Chinese Press Bureau

A Chinese journalist, Wei Ma, B.J. '34, has been named head of the press department of the Chinese Information Ministry, the United Press at Chungking announced Mar. 13.

Wei established a department of journalism at the Central Political Institute at Nanking in 1935 and has been dean of the school since that time. He has been an editorial writer for Shun Jao of Shanghai and the China Daily News of Nanking. He is editor of Min Pao, daily, published by the Central Political department of journalism.

Senator Frank Briggs Honored by Sigma Delta Chi

Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, initiated Frank Briggs, president pro-tem of the Missouri State Senate, on March 11 at Jay H. Neff Hall.

Mr. Briggs is editor of the Macon Chronicle-Herald and one of the first central Missouri publishers to be initiated into the Missouri chapter of Sigma Delta Chi. His son, Eugene Briggs, is a senior in the School of Journalism and a member of the fraternity.

Sen. Briggs, who is an alumnus, spoke at a Sigma Delta Chi banquet following the initiation.

Frank E. Atwood Dies in Carrollton

Frank Ely Atwood, widely known lawyer and former Republican judge of the State Supreme Court, died at a hospital in Carrollton, March 5.

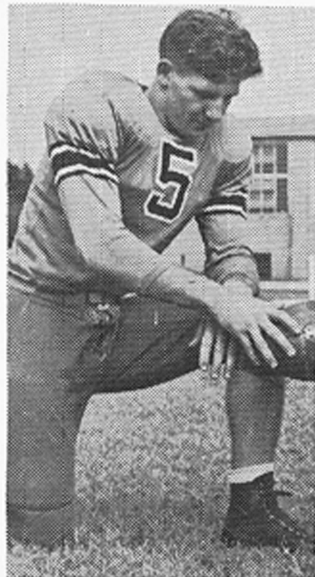

Mr. Atwood was one of the state's most widely known jurists and lawyers and his record on the bench once brought him to national attention as a possible candidate for the U. S. Supreme Court.

Gov. Forrest C. Donnell and the Missouri House of Representatives paid tribute to Judge Atwood in a formal statement. Donnell declared that Atwood "left a lasting record of high ability and notable accomplishment."

Judge Atwood attended the University in 1897 following graduation from high school. He entered private law practice in Jefferson City after completion of his term on the supreme court in 1935. Active in Republican politics for many years, he frequently was legal advisor to Gov. Donnell.

Capt. Robert Faurot, Former M. U. Football Star, Is Missing in Action

Capt. Robert Faurot, brother of Coach Don Faurot at the University, was one of two ace fighter pilots officially reported missing in the battle of the Bismarck Sea, the International News Service said Mar. 12.

CAPT. ROBERT FAUROT

Capt. Faurot and Lieut. Hoyt Eason of Montgomery, Ala., also missing, shot down eleven enemy planes and probably twenty more, between them accounting for one-tenth of all the Jap planes bagged by their squadron, Frank Robertson, I. N. S. correspondent, reported.

Mr. Scott Hayes Is Oldest Living Graduate

Upon the death of Mrs. Analiza Gentry Young on Feb. 6, Scott Hayes of Eugene, Ore., became the oldest living graduate of the University. He is one of the first three graduates of the College of Agriculture.

The late E. W. Stephens wrote of Mr. Hayes, "he was very earnest, faithful, able, red-headed, and a good singer. He was for many years superintendent of the Columbia Baptist Sunday School and Librarian of the University."

"He was a graduate of the agricultural department in 1873. There were but two other graduates of that department at that time."

In 1923, Mr. Hayes sent two trees to be planted on the fiftieth anniversary of his graduation from the University.

Five months ago, Capt. Faurot instructed a crop of "kid pilots" at a training school. He enjoyed maneuvering Jap planes into position for other members of the squadron to knock off. He said it gave young pilots confidence to get at least one victory. But Capt. Faurot was the first pilot in his squadron to bag a Jap Zero.

Capt. Faurot twice received the Silver Star for skillful leadership in air fighting in New Guinea. He was awarded an oak leaf cluster last month.

He enlisted in the army in February, 1940. In 1939 he was a star halfback on the Missouri Big Six championship team coached by his brother.

House Committee Pleased By University War Work

Ten members of the House Committee on University Affairs, of which Mrs. Lulu Burns of St. Clair County is chairman, visited the University campus this month to see some of the University's many wartime activities. They told Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, president of the University, that they were impressed by the scope of the work going on here now.

Their tour included the barracks used by the Naval Training School here, the fraternity houses occupied by the Army Air Corps cadet candidates, and hospital facilities of the University hospitals and those in Switzer Hall.

Dr. Middlebush explained to the visitors how the entire war program of the University was handled and administered. Representative William Barton, author of the bill to offer free correspondence courses in the University to those in the armed services, asked particularly about the operation of the extension department. R. L. Davidson, director of the service, explained how the courses were handled and financed.

Law and Medical Schools Hold Graduation in March

Brief informal commencement exercises for seniors in the School of Law and the School of Medicine in the University were held March 19, in the Library Auditorium. The exercises marked the close of the winter quarter of the two schools.

Seven candidates in the School of Law and thirty candidates in the School of Medicine were awarded degrees.

Air Force Training To Last 2 to 5 Months

Army Air Force cadet candidates will train at the University for two to five months depending on the results of screening tests given each candidate, Maj. Paul Johnson, commanding officer, has announced. Staff officers reviewed cadet candidates on March 13.

Judge Charles B. Davis Dies in St. Louis

A tall, quiet, dignified man, Federal Judge Charles B. Davis, who died on March 4, was known as a stern but humane judge.

A student of the law, he was known as a "law" Judge and could follow argument of counsel for hours without interruption. Although those who did not know him might think he was dozing at the bench. Should an attorney stray very far from the point, however, he would be brought back by a quiet question.

During his school days he found time to take an active part in student life and always maintained a keen interest in the University, never missing a football game when the "Tigers" played in St. Louis.

He was a Phi Beta Kappa and belonged to the Athenian Literary Society.

He was keenly interested in the history of Missouri and St. Louis, particularly as it pertained to the federal bench and his research resulted in discovery of a portrait of the first St. Louis Federal Judge to hang among those of other jurists who had graced the bench in St. Louis.

Alumnus' Company Wins Army-Navy "E"

The Army-Navy "E" production award was presented in February to the Fidelity Machine Co., Philadelphia, Pa., designers and builders of intricate, automatic precision machines. G. Ellsworth Huggins, B.L. '98, chairman of the board of directors of the company, presided at the celebration.

This salute from the army and navy in recognition of exceptional performance on the production front comes to the Fidelity Company at the end of thirty-two years of progressive experience.

It has been Mr. Huggins' responsibility through the years to maintain and develop this machine shop in Philadelphia. Formerly they produced precision machines and parts used mostly in the knitting trade, but since 1939, writes Mr. Huggins, "we have been providing precision machines used in the arsenals of democracy, Britain, Canada, United States, and Russia."

A new textbook, by Dr. Harry Pelle Hartkemeier, professor of business statistics in the School of Business and Public Administration at the University, has been published by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company of New York City. The title is "An Introduction to Managerial Business Statistics."

Hartkemeier has taught at the University since 1930.

Curators Accept Grant

A three-year grant of $500 a year was accepted by the Board of Curators of the University at its meeting Feb. 27 in St. Louis from the International Cancer Research Foundation to provide for the work of Dr. Luther Smith, research associate in field crops in the College of Agriculture. The money will be used for Dr. Smith's study of genetics.

Chinese Press Gives Check to J. B. Powell

J. B. Powell, B.J. '10, former editor in Shanghai who lost his feet as a result of mistreatment in a Japanese prison, received a check Mar. 16 from the Chinese National Press association for $11,000 in United States money.

Presentation of the check, which represents a quarter of a million dollars in Chinese money, was made to Powell at his bedside by David Lu, M.A. '32, Washington correspondent of the Central News agency of China.

Col. H. H. Crittenden Dies in Kansas City

Funeral services were held Mar. 6 for Col. H. H. Crittenden, '81, who died Mar. 4 at the St. Joseph Hospital in Kansas City.

Colonel Crittenden belonged to a distinguished family, of which the Missouri Crittendens were a notable branch. His father, T. T. Crittenden, was at one time governor of Missouri.

After graduation from the University, Colonel Crittenden spent three years in St. Louis as solicitor for the Wabash railroad. He came to Kansas City in the middle '80s and for a short time was clerk of the court of appeals.

In 1887, while the unforgettable boom still was booming, Mr. Crittenden went into the real estate business and later became vice president of his company.

He was on the staff of Gov. Frederick D. Gardner and it was in this capacity that he acquired the title of colonel, which he definitely could grace on appropriate occasion.

For the past few years, he had made his home in the Lucerne Hotel in Kansas City.

Missing or Dead

"He who loathes war, and will do everything in his power to avert it, but who will, in the last extremity, encounter its perils, from love of country and of home . . . who is willing to sacrifice himself and all that is dear to him in life, to promote the well-being of his fellowmen, will ever receive a worthy homage."

CAPT. MARSHALL SNEED, the University's second "M" man to die in the war, was killed in action on Feb. 22 with the Army Air Force in North Africa. Capt. Sneed played baseball and football at the University in 1938 and was captain of the baseball team. He enlisted in the air corps in 1940 and won his wings eight months later. He was a member of the American Fighting Cocks Squadron. Lieut. Jerry Notowitz is the other Missouri letterman killed in action.

LIEUT. STANLEY F. KIRSCHMAN, B.S. in B.A. '39, died March 5 in Avon Park, Fla., from injuries received when the plane in which he was riding crashed. Lieut. Kirschman was an instructor at MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla. His brother, Berkley, is a student in the College of Arts and Science at the University.

Any omissions in this list are accidental and such names should be sent immediately to the MISSOURI ALUMNUS, 114 Jesse Hall, Columbia. Please include all information available regarding branch of service, service record, date of death or capture, etc.—The Editors.

Navy Graduation Held

Two-hundred and forty-three graduates of the Naval Training School received their certificates from their commanding officer, on March 3 at the eleventh graduation program of the school. Thomas A. Brady, associate professor of history in the University, spoke on "Mediterranean Wars."

Comdr. Whitehead presented the graduation certificate to the honor man of the graduating company, John J. Haupt.

Virginia Moody to Lisbon

"Assignment in Lisbon" is literally true for Virginia Moody, assistant instructor in the French department of the University and an alumna. She has been granted a clerkship in the state department's foreign service at the American Legation in Lisbon, Portugal.

Miss Moody does not know when she will cross the Atlantic but she left Columbia, for a short visit in Scottsbluff, Neb., and a stay in Washington, D. C., for visas, immunizations, and job instructions.

Lieut. Comdr. Whitehead Commands Navy School

Lieut. Comdr. Edmund W. Whitehead, U. S. N. (ret.) reported aboard at the Naval Training School Mar. 4 to assume duties as commanding officer of the school, replacing Lieut. John G. Grotenrath.

Lieut. Comdr. Whitehead was detached from his duties as executive officer of the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Northwestern University. He was associate professor of naval tactics there.

He was graduated from the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., in 1924 and wears the American service ribbon with star.

"Clarence Cannon Wars On New Deal Waste"

"Meet Congressman Cannon, who wars on New Deal waste, the Missourian who keeps a stern eye on Washington's big spenders," writes Richard N. Cowell of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat Washington bureau and a former student of the University in 1922.

The "canny Missouri farmer-lawyer" of whom he speaks is none other than Rep. Clarence Cannon of Elsberry, LL.B. '08.

"Brought up on a Missouri farm and tutored, politically, by Missouri's celebrated Champ Clark (A.B. '13, LL.D. '38), Representative Cannon combines the homespun sagacity of the once noted Speaker of the House with a lot of political 'know-how' of his own, gained in two decades of congressional service.

"As chairman of the House Appropriations Committee (some call it the most coveted job in Congress) Representative Cannon heads the group which annually drafts the bills that provide the money to operate the vast federal government machine."

One of the hardest-working men in the House, he still finds time to read Shakespeare and to follow the activities of his alma mater with keen enthusiasm. Mrs. Cannon and their two daughters and a son-in-law all are graduates of the University.

TIGERLAND REPORTING

by ED MENNINGER

The flame of Missouri intercollegiate athletic competition burns lower as the days pass swiftly by, but as long as there's any way left it's certain that that flame will not be snuffed.

Either one by one or in groups the pride of the Tiger forces is departing for the much greater fight, and Columbia assumes an increasingly militaristic aspect by the hour. Nevertheless Head Coach Don Faurot and his shortened list of assistants are striving to keep the balls rolling, and their depleted program moves inevitably onward.

A band of Tiger cagers, who improved so much during the course of the season that a person who saw only their opener wouldn't recognize them at the finish, concluded their conference schedule during the first week of this month, and Coach George R. Edwards announced that ten of them have qualified for their varsity letters. This group includes Edward Matheny, Thornton Jenkins, Robert Garwitz, Leon Bentley, Walter Robinson, Orrel Hahn, James Austin, Pleasant Smith, Lee Roy Storm and Captain Earl Stark.

The last home game of the year took its place in history the night of March 2 when the undefeated league leaders from the University of Kansas took an overtime heartbreaker from the Bengals 47-44.

The game started unusually fast and never slowed as the two teams raced at a breakneck pace to the intermission to find Kansas a point to the fore. Austin sank a goal in the first minute of the second half, and the Tigers had a lead that remained undisputed for the next seventeen minutes of playing time. At the twelve-minute mark it had mounted to seven points, but at that stage of the scrap the home crew lapsed into unrelenting scorelessness. Gradually the foe crept upward and surged ahead, and only three sparkling swishers by Jenkins and Stark enabled the Missourians to knot the count at 43 points apiece at the conclusion of forty minutes of breathtaking basketball.

The Jayhawkers swiftly struck twice from the field after two minutes of the extra stanza, and Jenkins' lone free throw summed up the amount registered on the Missouri half of the ledger.

The Kansans hit an unusually high percentage of their long shots, especially in the first half. "Phog" Allen, Kansas mentor, said afterwards that they won it with those distance flings, although final statistics revealed that the margin resulted entirely from charities, Kansas cashing in eleven to the Tigers' eight.

Four days later, the Tigers tramped to Norman, Okla., for a seasonal wind-up against Oklahoma's Sooners with a victory necessary in order to finish tied for second position in the final conference standings.

Basketball Promoter

GEORGE R. EDWARDS

In the April issue of Esquire magazine appears an article by Mark Cox, B.J. '37, on "The World Series of Basketball."

"Olsen of Ohio and Edwards of Missouri are the guiding hands behind the rise of popular national college cage championships," Cox writes.

George R. Edwards, B.J. '24, head basketball coach at the University, was one of the early promoters of the N. C. A. A. competition.

"Olsen has acted as general chairman of the N. C. A. A. basketball committee from the start and Edwards took over as tournament chairman of the Western and National affairs two years ago," Cox reports.

However, center Gerald Tucker, the southerners' ace who won the league's individual scoring title and broke numerous records in doing so, posted 21 points to set a relentless pace that crushed the Bengals 52-37. As a result Missouri drew a final third place tie with Nebraska as both quintets split even in their ten games. For Oklahoma the result meant an undisputed second slot and was sweet revenge for the 50-45 upset administered there nearly three weeks before in Columbia. However, closely guarded Jenkins managed to loop in nine points to assume his usual role of heading the Tiger scorers, followed by Hahn with seven.

Between these two games, a second meeting of the varsity and the freshmen teams had been originally scheduled, but the yearling ranks had become so exhausted by calls to the armed services that Herb Gregg, their coach, and Coach Edwards decided to cancel it. Nevertheless Gregg said several of his charges had displayed varsity ability, and eleven were approved for numerals for their season's work. This list includes Ned Borman, Charles Murry, Kenneth Bounds, Robert Neel, Robert Hardt, Harry Simpson, James Kelly, Marvin Roberts, Leo Abel, Kenneth Clinkingbeard and Oliver Hook.

Edwards said of the varsity, "If we could have the same bunch back for next year's schedule, they would definitely be title contenders if not the winners."

Jenkins, the sophomore forward who finished second in the conference's individual scoring scramble with a 13-point average per game, was easily the team's standout and led in most of the statistical departments. His 571 minutes of action out of a possible 685 was far ahead of his nearest teammate's mark, as were his 79 field goals, 37 free flips and complete seasonal average of 11.47 points per game.

Hahn developed as the best charity converter with 59.1 per cent of his 22 attempts completed, and Robinson won the doubtful honor of committing the most personal fouls with 48 followed by Jenkins with 40.

Both the Associated Press and United Press official All Big Six Teams listed Jenkins at one of the forward

DR. GEORGE W. LAWYORN, B.S. in Med. '83, died Dec. 24 at his home in Columbia. He was 80 years old and had been retired from active practice since 1911. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Ludie Colvin Lawhorn, and two sons, William Colvin and George Ellis.

Funeral services were held Jan. 20 for JUDGE HOLMES HALL, former Missouri state senator and judge of superior court in Sedalia. Judge Hall died at his home near Culpeper, Va. He attended the University from 1895 to 1897.

Many thanks to FRANK KEYSER, honorary alumnus, for his subscription to the Alumnus. He is secretary of the Missouri Bankers Association.

Funeral services for ANTOINE E. RUSSEL, '98, prominent Spokane, Wash. attorney, were held in Spokane Jan. 19. He was a member of the board of directors of the Fidelity Savings and Loan, a member of the Shrine, the Spokane City and University Clubs and of the Kiwanis Club. He is survived by one son, Warren. "Tony" as his friends called him loved to reminisce about his days at Missouri and was always interested in "his school."

DR. J. M. LANGSDALE, Kansas City physician for sixty years, died Dec. 22. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. William B. Lathrop, and three sons, Cliff, Gibson, and John M., Jr. Dr. Langsdale attended the University from 1903 to 1905.

The Early 1900's

SAMUEL POTTER HARLAN, '18, has been appointed attorney examiner in charge of the Sedalia office of the Kansas City defense-rental area. He is a former president of the Sedalia Bar Association.

"A man of many interests—a man of unlimited energy and vitality—there you have a thumbnail sketch of busy, friendly J. A. WHIPFLOW," says the Tulsa World. And may we add our congratulations! He is beginning his twelfth year with the Tulsa light and power electric company. While at the University in 1909 he was a good friend of Donald Nelson, J. B. Powell, and H. W. Prentiss, Jr.

J. O. YALZ, B.S. '18, has been appointed assistant manager of the Westinghouse Small Motor Division at Lima, Ohio. From 1940 until his latest assignment, he has held the post of manager of engineering.

Our thanks to FRANK YODER, A.B. '17, who has sent his subscription to the Alumnus. He is an internal revenue agent in St. Louis.

Miss Jane Finley of St. Louis and Serg. Robert H. Smith, U. S. Army Air Corps, were married Mar. 1. Mrs. Smith is the daughter of ARNOT M. FINLEY, E.E. '16.

Wabash IRON HORSE Gets More Power for VICTORY

WABASH and other railroads are carrying a tremendous volume of freight and passenger traffic. This splendid, patriotic job is being done with fewer locomotives. How? Wabash, for example, remodeled many of its "iron horses" during the lean 30's, giving them more power and stamina to do more work today. That was foresight... a real Service for Victory!

positions, while Stark was selected by both on the second team or given honorable mention.

Long before the cessation of court activity, track was in the wind, and the Tigers proved their ability with a convincing victory in the annual conference indoor meet in Kansas City Feb. 27. Said Coach Chauncey Simpson in the midst of the subsequent reverberations by coaches, participants and fans alike, "We earned it the hard way. The breaks . . . just were not forthcoming."

Maurice Alexander, the triple-threat member of the squad, came home with high scoring honors as he aggregated eleven points with a first and two seconds.

Two weeks later, Alexander, Captain Joe Shy and Owen Joggerst, at their own expense, made the trip to the annual Illinois Tech Relays in Chicago and scored an amazing series of triumphs. Alexander alternated with Pinney of Michigan in the hurdle events, as he clipped off the higher obstacles over a 70-yard stretch in 8.7 seconds to win a first, but was a step behind the representative of the Big Ten champions in the low hurdles and bagged a second.

Shy finished third in the lows, but registered the fast time of 7.3 seconds in the 70-yard dash to win by an eyelash over Joggerst. The finish of the race caused a five minute deliberation on the part of officialdom before Shy was declared the victor.

These performances enabled Missouri to land fourth place in the final standings of teams entered, although they held third until the last event in which Michigan captured the mile relay and pulled ahead. Simpson, who did not make the trip with the boys, said that Joggerst was handicapped by an illness and fever at the time of the meet, and consequently his creditable effort took on an additional luster.

Now as this goes to press, Alexander has accepted a final indoor invitation to compete with a national field of outstanding hurdlers in the Chicago Relays in Chicago Stadium. He was accompanied by Coach Simpson who pointed out, "For him to be selected from the hurdlers over the nation at large is indeed an honor since only four can be asked."

Regarding the approaching outdoor season next month, Simpson said the athletic office has tried in vain to schedule any meets and that only the Drake Relays and the Big Six meet in Kansas City are listed as surties.

The squad, after surviving the indoor season intact, has suddenly sufferred several losses, notably to draft boards. Bob Wren, a distance man, Eddie Neer, ace two-miler and high-jumper Bob Chase have all been called, and L. D. Howe, the leading high-jumper, has withdrawn from school to enter the naval air corps on April 1. However, Simpson expects the rest of the team to remain in the University, although certainly no absolute predictions can be made. Bob Bosworth and Clarence Bockhorst are susceptible to the draft summonings, but the others are either deferred or in the reserve corps.

The first call for baseball candidates was sounded the second week of this month, although no formal practices have been scheduled pending the arrangement of a season's listings. Coach John C. "Hi" Simmons has promised a season's play, and sent out a number of "feelers" although they generally brought discouraging answers.

However, two games were arranged to be played here on May 14 and 15 with Iowa State, and tentative contests have been secured with Lambert Field Naval Station, Fort Leonard Wood, Jefferson Barracks and Washington University of St. Louis. The conference officials agreed last month that, since only Missouri, Oklahoma and Iowa State have planned to organize teams this year, no conference title will be awarded. According to past schedules, this would be the year for Oklahoma to play host to the Tigers, but transportation and financial difficulties have caused Simmons to consider such a trip as an impossibility. The baseball budget has been sliced, and such an excursion would alone use up all the funds.

An invitation from the Kansas City Blues of the American Association for two games this spring with the Tigers was taken under advice at the officials' meeting in Kansas City, but dismissed because a conference ruling prohibits games by its members with any organizations besides other school teams or service teams.

The Tiger mentor has a large nucleus from last year's nine around which to build, as he expects five lettermen, including John Golson, Ken Quevreaux, Hugh Finlayson, Chris Fehr and Preston "Buck" Nevins, to report for the first practice when it is officially announced about April 1. Herb Gregg, originally counted on to hold down the center field position, decided to volunteer under the revised naval V-7 plan, and will withdraw from school at the end of this month.

Missing when the workouts finally do get under way will be such familiar stalwarts as Bill Spencer, who hurled the Tigers to the league title last year and blonde Blaine Carr, the dependable second baseman.

Football Coach Faurot, faced with a complete schedule on the docket for next fall, is making a determined effort to continue the game as planned, and his first step was the institution of the annual spring football practices reaching over a period of five weeks.

Despite inclement weather conditions which have forced a number of the sessions to be conducted in the Brewer Field House, the practices have been daily excepting Saturday, and an average of thirty-five men have turned out. Although only a few of last year's championship crew have appeared, except as student coaches upon request, the large majority have been new boys from the freshman and sophomore classes. Faurot fully expects his team next fall to be composed of yearlings with a sprinkling of 4-F army men and reservists tossed in.

Approximately thirty men reported for participation in the initial intrasquad game March 12 on Rollins Field. Divided into two camps, the Blue and the Gold teams, the free-scoring contest was brilliant in spots but ragged and slow in others. None the less, it served to illustrate the numerous weaknesses in the teams' play, and Faurot was highly pleased with the results.

A plucky Gold team, led by Paul Collins and Ben Morris, rallied three times in the second half to outcharge and defeat the Blues 19-14. Keith Parker and Fred Broeg, one of the day's brightest stars, punched over the Blues' first half touchdowns, while Morris, Ewing and Sheehan hauled the pigskin over the double stripes for the Gold. Morris broke away for the longest dash of the game, running 55 yards down the north sidelines in the third quarter, and Collins passed to Sheehan with five minutes remaining in the game for the final marker.

The influx of the Army Air Corps cadet candidates into Columbia and the necessity of their being taught physical education has drawn heavily on the athletic staff of the University. The ten members of the group began supervision of the candidates March 8 and, in addition to their original classes which have necessarily been cut down and combined, conduct classes for them at 8, 9, 11, 1 and 5 o'clock daily including Saturday. Each class at each hour of the day contains either thirty-seven or thirty-eight men.

And so another month of Missouri headlines in sports passes leaving few hopes and more doubts. Athletics are as yet not classified as non-essential to the war program, so where there's life there's hope. Undoubtedly the teams' caliber will fall into a nosedive, but, as Don Faurot said, the yearlings will for once be "in the driver's seat" rather than watching the veterans do all the playing, and they may perform far above the average prison's estimate. If they are to be the symbol for the continuation of athletics, I for one will back them to the limit!

BIG TRAVEL
PROBLEMS

PLAN EARLY...
Make reservations and buy tickets early to avoid last minute delays and confusion. Cancel unwanted reservations promptly.

AVOID WEEK-END TRIPS...

Peak travel usually occurs over week-ends. Plan your trip mid-week when possible.

Remember — TRAVEL LIGHT
Carry least possible luggage, checking extra pieces to avoid crowding you and fellow passengers. Free baggage checking allowance with each ticket.

TAG YOUR LUGGAGE...

A tag on your luggage with your name and address makes quick identification possible and enables prompt return if it should go astray.

★ Santa Fe makes these suggestions for civilians to follow when they travel. Surprisingly, every suggestion relates to a little thing that in normal times would hardly receive serious consideration. But now that we must use all equipment and services available to the best advantage, please follow these suggestions to help us avoid unnecessary travel problems.

ELECTRICAL FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

Complete electric service in the average Kansas City home costs the average family little more than a dime-a-day. Only 11.1c.

Our customers get twice as much electricity for their electric dollar TODAY as they did in the period following World War I.

In spite of steadily rising costs of materials, supplies and labor.

ELECTRICITY COSTS LESS TODAY
THAN EVER BEFORE IN OUR HISTORY

THIS is the season when, in ordinary Times, we'd be reminding you about summer vacation playgrounds in the West and Southwest—but not this year. Missouri Pacific Lines are doing war duty now. Space aboard Missouri Pacific trains is needed for service men, for war workers and other essential civilian travelers.

Our first concern now is the maintenance of adequate transportation service for the people, military or civilian, who must travel. All our efforts are devoted to making that service the best possible under war-time conditions, and in this we need and are counting on the continued understanding and fine cooperation of all Missouri Pacific patrons.
