WILLIAM B. JADDEN—LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Another post-college career story

Two months before my release to inactive duty from the Navy, I began to think seriously about a peacetime career. I had a Master's degree in business administration, and almost four years of supervisory experience with a leading aircraft concern in Los Angeles. But I realized that going back to the aircraft company might mean the same kind of seniority drawbacks as in the Navy, and my earnings wouldn't necessarily be in direct proportion to the work I put in. Besides, the idea of working for myself appealed to me more strongly than ever.

My first thought was to start a business of my own. But that would take a much larger investment than I could possibly make.

About this time I recalled some New England Mutual advertisements I had read in the Princeton Alumni Weekly, which reached me regularly overseas. I began to ask myself whether life insurance wouldn't give me more than just another job. So I wrote the New England, and several other companies, for more information. The more I looked into it, the more I liked the idea of this business.

When I got back to Los Angeles as a civilian, I called on the agencies of the six companies I regarded as tops in the field. I began a very lengthy analysis of the pros and cons of going into the business. My investigation convinced me that life insurance offered just about everything I was looking for--something in which I'd be my own master without making a heavy investment, where hard work couldn't help but increase my earnings, and where I'd never have to ask for a raise. I became convinced, too, that the New England Mutual was the Tiffany of life insurance companies.

I took the aptitude test, then basic training here in our agency, followed by a comprehensive course* at the Home Office in Boston. Now, after qualifying for membership in the Company's Leaders Association in my first year, I can definitely say that I am happy I made this choice. The proof, I think, is that I have never once had the well-known feeling that "the grass is greener on the other side of the fence."

*Graduates of our Home Office training courses, many of them new to the business, are selling at a rate which produces average first-year incomes of $3600. The total yearly income on such sales, with renewal commissions added, will average $5700.

Facts such as these helped Bill Jadden solve his career problem. If you'd like to know more, write Mr. H. C. Chaney, Director of Agencies, New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, 501 Boylston Street, Boston 17, Massachusetts.

Here are some of the Missouri men now with New England Mutual: Frank M. See, C.L.U., '11, Gen. Agt., St. Louis; John T. Ready, '14, Kansas City; R. L. Casebolt, '23, Kansas City; George R. Replogle, '27, Red Oak, Ia.; Charles W. Digges, Jr., '40, Columbia; Gordon E. Crosby, Jr., '41, Oakland. We have opportunities for more Missouri men. Write Dept. AA.

BANTA

MILLNER

Kathi (Kathleen Ann), daughter of publisher Richard Elwell Banta, is a brown-haired, blue-eyed Hoosier who claims she is six feet tall. Graduated from Stephens, 1947, she is an English and Art major here. Somehow, she finds time for designing and knitting her own sweaters, dancing, drawing, writing, practicing up on photography, and listening to music. She expects to go into publicity work upon graduation.

Arnold, second semester junior in School of Journalism, comes from New York City where he graduated from George Washington high school, 1938. Enlisting in N. Y. National Guard (71st Infantry) April, 1940, he served in Aleutians, France, and Germany. Was wounded twice, discharged as first sergeant from Halloran General hospital Dec., 1945. He is class councilman on Student Gov't. Ass'n. Will marry native Columbian Janice Lyle, June 1. His hobbies are writing, witnessing sports events, collecting maps, eating and sleeping. Hopes to be a newspaper writer after graduation.

We often hear people say that extra-curricular college activities were more important to them, in choosing and following their life works, than actual classes. Others express completely opposite opinions.

So we thought it might be interesting, to you, to university activity planners, and to us, to take a little poll on the subject among Missouri alumni. How about you? We'd appreciate your opinion. Results will be published in the June issue.

Sincerely,
THE EDITORS

WEARIN' O' THE GREEN TIME COMES 'ROUND AGAIN FOR ENGINEERS

"Sure an' we wuz robbed!" exclaim M. U. engineers when told other schools claim the honor of first recognizing St. Patrick as their patron.

The truth is, the St. Pat engineer celebration started here, and here it will be observed, for the 46th time, this month.

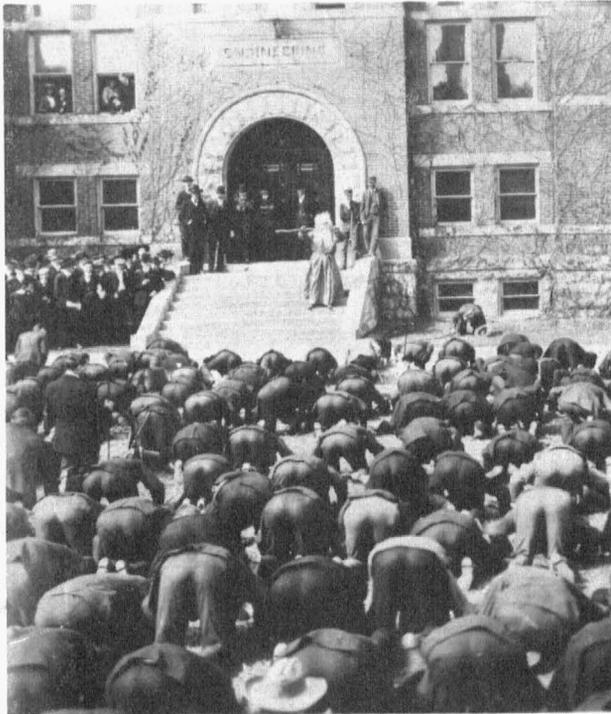

In 1903, a few students with a love for the Irish and a scorn for attending classes, discovered that St. Patrick was the first engineer. By driving the snakes out of Ireland, they reasoned, he had invented the first worm drive. [Ed. note — A worm drive, in engineer talk, is a gear with screw threads.] The students hastily printed posters (misspelling Erin Go Braugh, but using the greenest ink available) which declared St. Pat's day — March 17 — an engineer holiday.

Since then, a Blarney stone has been found, and several rites (including the Kow-Tow, see pic) have been added to the tradition. An unidentified St. Pat arrives every year in a mysterious way. The "rector set" boys honor his coming with stunts and celebrations strange enough to make the population of old County Mayo pink with envy.

Among previous stunts have been a tremendous slide rule and a campus train. This year the campus stunt is expected to be an electronic organ, with neon tubes hooked to each key, so that when a key is pushed the corresponding tube will light.

The electrical engineers are scheduled to exhibit a giant amateur radio with worldwide range. Visitors will be able to send messages anywhere (except behind the iron curtain), but will not be able to get answers because of the time element and conditions abroad.

The mechanical engineers—besides putting more pressure behind their concealed floor winds, because of the New Look—will place a rectangular tube of direct current in a fish bowl.

Engineer's First Kow-Tow, 1905. Is that you in the left hand corner?

The goldfish (No, they aren't being eaten any more.) will do a flip to avoid shock.

The chemical engineers will produce paper from wood pulp with a miniature paper factory. These are only a few of the stunts being planned.

Celebrations will follow the pattern set in previous years. Dance music will be provided by Sam Donahue and his band (McNamara couldn't make it.) and the usual queen will be crowned. St. Patrick will knight his chosen sons March 19. Those to be honored Summa Cum Laude for outstanding con-

ARTS AND SCIENCE LEADS

Enrollment for this semester finds the School of Arts and Science highest with 3,861, while the Ag. School is second, with 1,943.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION PLANS UNIVERSITY DAY

The University of Missouri Alumni Association is announcing plans to honor the University by observing April 14 as "University of Missouri Day."

The date is significant in M.U.'s history because on April 14, 1841, "formal instruction in the University began," Dr. Herbert Bunker, Alumni Association director, explained.

Plans are still in preliminary stages. Already, however, alumni groups in some twelve to fifteen Missouri cities have indicated intentions to participate, as have several out-of-state groups.

Prominent alumni, and speakers from the University, will address the meetings. Emphasis of the observance will be on scholarship, leadership, and research, and will recognize the place of the University in the life of the state and nation.

JAYCEES HONOR ALUMNUS

Robert Henry Knell, B.S. in B.A. '43, was chosen outstanding young man of the community for 1947 by Junior Chamber of Commerce, Carthage, Mo. He was honored at a J. C. dinner meeting there last month.

Mr. Knell has done outstanding work for athletics, organizing the Marble Bowl game, the football banquet for Carthage high school players, and other events. His work for the Community Chest drive was commended.

A partner in the Knell Mortuary firm, Carthage, he is a Lion, Mason, member of the Missouri Funeral Directors Association, and participant in Y. M. C. A. affairs.

GRAD GETS I.N.S. AWARD

For brilliant reporting of British Princess Elizabeth's wedding, Mrs. J. Addison Robb (Inez Callaway, B.J. '24) received George Holmes INS Award. First woman to receive the International News Service trophy, she was commended for distinguished work and overcoming of enormous difficulties in reporting and transmission. Mrs. Robb is the ninth INS reporter to be so honored since the establishment of the award in 1939.

GEN. ROBINETT FEATURED IN SAT. EVE. POST

Brig. Gen. Paul McDonald Robinett, B.S. in Agr. '17, was featured in an article in the Feb. 14 issue of Saturday Evening Post.

The article, "The Untold Story of Kasserine Pass," is by Martin Philipsborn, Jr., and Milton Lehman. It tells of General Robinett's part in the North African campaign.

AUTHOR ALUMNUS SPEAKS AT M.U.

Ralph G. Martin, B.J. '41, author of "Boy From Nebraska" and "The Best Is None Too Good," spoke last month at a book review class in M.U.'s School of Journalism.

Former writer for Yank and Stars and Stripes, he spoke on need for first-hand sources in reporting, and close cooperation between author and agent.

He is now under contract for a novel on American expatriates in Europe, and will leave his home (2085 Valentine, New York, N. Y.) for France in June.

ALUMNAE HEAD CONTEST

A national woman's advertising fraternity, Gamma Alpha Chi, sponsored a contest last month directed by Mrs. Irene Fogel (Irene Rosenberg, B.J. '44, A.M. '46), assisted by Harriet Rex, B.J. '43.

The fraternity asked contestants to present ideas on "That New York Look." Winners were offered a chance to enter fashion advertising via a paid trip to N. Y. city and interviews for job openings.

Mrs. Fogel is an account executive and special vice-president's assistant with Fashion Advertising, an agency. While here, she and her husband, Seymour Fogel, Ph.D. '46, were chosen college couple of the year by Mademoiselle magazine.

UNIVERSITY TO GET FOREIGN BOOKS

Recognition of M.U. as a scholarly institution was received this month from the Association of Research Libraries. The association designated the University as repository of foreign books on journalism, wildlife conservation, and certain aspects of genetics.

Because of lack of intellectual foreign books in the U.S., the association has adopted a plan to assign the books to institutions most fitted to receive them. The program, supported by a grant from the Carnegie Foundation, takes in Sweden, Switzerland and France—more countries to be added. The books are purchased abroad by agents and sent to the New York Public Library, which forwards them to the chosen universities. Catalogue cards on each book will be sent to the Library of Congress.

MILK FOUNDATION AWARDS SCHOLARSHIP

The College of Agriculture received a $1,500 award from Borden Company foundation to provide scholarships for students in senior year. The award provides $300 annually for five years, to be awarded to a different student each year. Student must have had two dairying courses and highest grades of those eligible.

HOW NOW, BROWN COW?

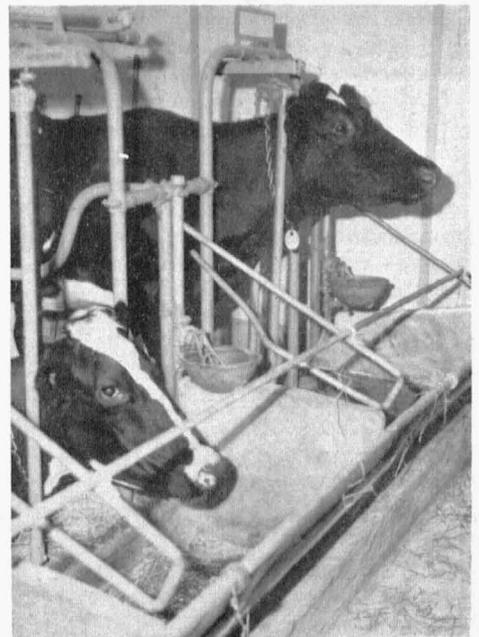

The rest of us may have to take our weather as it comes, but not Bossy. While we shiver and roast, the M. U. Ag. school, in co-operation with the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, is conducting a series of temperature tests here to discover weather conditions most likely to produce contented cows.

The tests, conducted in an insulated building, are expected to reveal facts of importance to farmers and dairymen.

A psychroenergetic laboratory has been completed. It consists of two insulated rooms within the insulated building, an alleyway, and an analysis room.

Each room is equipped with stanchions and feed bunks for six cows. Once in the lab, cows will be kept under regulated temperatures, ranging from 20°F. to as high as cows can stand, until completion of the test. Tests will continue five, perhaps ten, years, holding the rooms at each temperature four weeks.

Dr. Samuel Brody, M. U., is in charge of the experiments. H. J. Thompson represents the U.S.D.A.

BOSSY AND PAL

REVOLUTIONARY RADIO-NEWSPAPER TO BE TESTED BY J. SCHOOL

A brand new technological development in the field of journalism, the facsimile newspaper, will be incorporated into the Journalism School here next month, Dean Frank L. Mott announced.

The facsimile, amounting to an electronically-printed-at-home newspaper, will be studied experimentally here by graduate students doing research. Its use was made possible through the loan of special electronic equipment (a facsimile scanner and five recorders) by St. Louis Star-Times Publishing Co.

"It has been said that facsimile is one of the great challenges of journalism," said Elzey M. Roberts, Jr., vice-president of the company, in his letter to the Board of Curators offering the loan of the equipment.

He wrote, "The Star-Times Publishing Co. recognizes the need for academic study in order to guide the publishers of a radio newspaper into a channel which will permit the rendering of a public service. We are fully aware of the many great achievements of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri. We are convinced that should the school undertake the study as herein proposed, the art of journalism will be advanced. The school has contributed so much to journalism in the past, it is in our opinion best qualified to seek the truth in a revolutionary departure from the conventional."

The new development makes possible the reception of a printed newspaper page by a recorder similar to a radio receiver, in the home, office, or club, through electronic impulses transmitted either by radio or by direct wire from a central editorial studio. Equipment was accepted by the school for a period of two years, with the provision that the University may request an extension of the loan at the expiration of that time. Dean Mott emphasized the fact that it will be used for experimental study and demonstration purposes only.

One of the recorders and the scanning equipment will be installed in Room 222, Walter Williams Hall. Other recorders probably will be installed in strategic locations on campus or in the city.

A daily facsimile laboratory newspaper will be published as an experiment in technique.

Dean Mott pointed out that the introduction of the new medium presents peculiar problems in layout, reporting, writing, editing, and advertising. Conciseness is even more important than in tabloids, he said, since the facsimile page is only 8½ x 11 inches in size.

Prof. Earl English, member of the journalism faculty who has been studying facsimile since its introduction, pointed out that facsimile also presents particular problems in typography. The type used must lend itself to electronic transmission and the finished page must be attractive and readable, he explained.

The Star-Times offered supervisory and engineering assistance from its radio station, KXOK, in installing the equipment.

WHO IS THIS GUY QUADRANGLE?

A young faculty wife, newcomer to the campus, received an invitation the other day. It puzzled her. So she asked her husband the name of M. U.'s president. He told her, Dr. Middlebush.

"That's what I thought," she said, "but I've just received an invitation to tea at the home of the president, Francis Quadrangle!"

This is your magazine. Help make it good.

GOV'T. SAYS THANKS

The University recently received an award and words of appreciation for wartime contributions from the Navy and Agriculture Dept., respectively.

The award, in the form of a Certificate of Achievement, came from the Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, for training of Navy medical students. This is the third Navy award for the medical school. It will be placed in Med School library, McAlester Hall.

The letter of appreciation was from Agriculture Secretary Clinton P. Anderson to the Agricultural Extension Service here. It commended the service for cooperation with the U. S. Employment Service and with agricultural services of other college in aiding distribution of farm labor supply.

ARNALL SPEAKS HERE

Georgia's former governor, Ellis Arnall, speaking before a capacity audience in the University auditorium Feb. 20, stressed necessity of everyone's working together if there is to be peace.

Described by University Business and Public Administration Dean, William L. Bradshaw, who introduced him, as an "ardent, enlightened liberal," the ex-governor said the U. S. must get its own house in order as well as help the world.

Later, answering questions on Palestine and the U. S. race question, he recommended continued U. S. support of the Palestine partition, and said race questions would be solved best through education.

DONATED LOAN FUNDS HELP STUDENTS MAKE ENDS MEET

"I am sincerely grateful to the University for the financial help it gave me during my four years at college. I shall always be humble in the knowledge that, without that help, I could not have finished my education; nor could I have 'made the grade' into the fine job I now hold."

So runs one of many similar letters received every month by Leslie Cowan, vice-president of M.U. in charge of business operations.

The letters are the result of "investments in human character" by Student Loan Office, which, last semester alone, provided $21,930.48 in loans to 351 students.

Cf. cost of living.—Ed.]

Since 1913, when the University began supervising the loan fund, 8,600 students have borrowed $1,130,429.48. During the years, gifts—from alumni and other friends of the University—and interest have grown to a value of $1,500,000. Former recipients of loans often make substantial gifts to the fund. Last year $100,000 was contributed by an alumnus who had borrowed from the fund as a student and was now in a position to help others.

Loans are conducted on a strictly business basis—money is invested in promising futures as a merchant invests in a long-range business program. Record of repayment is almost phenomenal, Mr. Cowan said. Only one-half of 1% of all loans have not been repaid, and only $18,000 in notes remains outstanding.

When loans are made, primary consideration is given the students character and conduct, Mr. Cowan said. Students are encouraged to make smaller loans and early repayments, borrowing again as the need arises. This procedure makes it possible for more students to receive loans at any one time, and helps prevent the student's having a large debt to pay upon graduation.

The Student Loan office has found the most common practice to be borrowing only as much money as is needed for the semester, and repaying with money earned in summer employment. The University Student Employment Office works in close cooperation with the loan office by helping borrowing students find part-time jobs, thus enabling them to repay loans.

SOCIAL WORK DEPT. CLICKS

The Department of Social Work, recently established here, has been accredited by the American Association of Schools of Social Work.

L.A. ALUMS MEET— CONSIDER GIFT

Fifty members of the Los Angeles Alumni Association attended a dinner meeting in L. A. in January. They elected officers, agreed to consider a gift to the new student Memorial Union Building, and discussed (without arriving at a conclusion) the proper pronunciation of Missouri.

New officers are: President, Christy Turner, B.J. '34; vice president, Maurice Keller, A.B. '43; secretary, Leola White, B.S. in Ed. '32, and treasurer, Grady Humphrey, A.M. '34.

Messrs. Hobart, Chrisman, McCrary, Jarrott and Longnecker were appointed to a committee to consider the memorial building gift.

TERWILLEGER COMMANDS INAUGURAL FLIGHT

Capt. Albert L. Terwilleger, '27-'31, was assigned to command the Clipper Southern Cross, on the first lap of Pan American World Airways flight inaugurating direct service from New York to Johannesburg, South Africa.

The clipper was scheduled to take off from La Guardia Field Feb. 25 with a passenger list including 20 American newspaper and magazine editors.

Captain Terwilleger, assistant chief pilot, personnel, of Atlantic Division, PAA, flew four years for Navy before joining Pan American in 1940.

THREE J. GRADS WRITE FOR WEEKEND MAGAZINE

Three journalism school graduates have contributed feature articles to Weekend Magazine, weekly illustrated magazine of the American occupation forces in Europe. They are Rayburn Pollock (Rayburn Webb, B.J. '42, former editor of the Alumnus), Barbara Busse, B.J. '36, and Norbert Ehrenfreund, B.J. '43.

Mrs. Pollock, on Stars and Stripes staff, covered first international bridge tournament in U.S. zone of occupation. Her report, "Bridge Addicts," was in the Nov. 29, 1947, issue.

Barbara Busse, pen names—Barbara Banks and B. G. Herbert, has written ten short stories since first contribution, "The Memory," April 6.

Mr. Ehrenfreund, feature editor of Stars and Stripes, evaluated the operation of German Youth Activity in "GYA Survives Its Growing Pains," Oct. 11. He has been working as correspondent in Europe since June, 1946, when he was discharged from the Army as captain.

"And I don't mean electric light bill, either. I mean a light electric bill. Because lights are only a small part of it. It's a cooking bill, a cleaning bill, a heating bill, a cooling bill, and a hot-water bill, as well. It covers food preservation and entertainment, washing and ironing, time-telling and sewing, and a lot of other things besides. It's the biggest bargain in my family budget. "I found my career
third try!"

"It wasn't that I failed in my first two jobs," writes Edward L. Sittler, Jr. of Uniontown, Pa. "But I was dissatisfied with my progress. So one day I took stock of myself.

"What did I want out of life? Well, my wife and I liked to travel, and do community work . . . and I felt capable of earning a larger income. Above all, I wanted to know that I was doing work my neighbors recognized as important.

"So I tried a third career. I became a Mutual Life Field Underwriter. For 10 years now, with time out for the Army, I've devoted myself to building security for the families of my community. Do I have what I wanted? Decidedly yes! My income has increased substantially and it is steadily rising. I enjoy a professional standing and I have plenty of leisure for hobbies and outside activities."

MUSIC LEADER'S LIFE WRITTEN BY DAUGHTER

The late William H. Pommer, head of M.U.'s Department of Music 1907-1922, is the subject of a privately-printed biography by his daughter, Sibyl Pommer.

Miss Pommer's book, "Weaver of Song," describes the beginning of musical culture in Missouri, and the prominent part her father took in its development—especially in St. Louis and at the University. Mr. Pommer, music teacher, conductor and composer, died Oct. 13, 1937.

On Campus

By KATHI BANTA

A new organization has come into its own on campus. It happened this-away: In Sept. '46, when a potential army of college students descended upon Columbia, the owners of the Ben Bolt hotel converted three large rooms on the main floor into dormitories and threw in a few transient rooms upstairs for good measure. At the height of the rush, between 60 and 70 students lived there. Since then, the number has leveled off to about 50.

By now, Joe College has staked his claim at the Ben Bolt. He parks his books in the lobby and lounges comfortably with feet parked precariously near potted palms, while oldtimers continue undisturbed their perusal of newspapers, having accepted the boys as permanent fixtures. What probably keeps the gang together (besides the hotel walls) is the fact that, between government checks, everyone is in debt to everyone else. Yes, a new campus fraternity has gained major status in Columbia in the past year. They call it Alpha Ben Bolta.

The University Concert Band presented a program of music by Massenet, Bach, Moussorgsky, Sousa, Gould, Kern, Rimsky-Korsakov, Williams, Chaminade, and Shostakovitch (nothing like pleasing everybody) in Jesse auditorium, Wed., Feb. 18. George C. Wilson, band director and associate prof. of music, conducted.

Mack Hency, Kansas City, Kans., and Robert Varner, Fayette, Mo., of the Missouri University Debate Squad, have been selected to represent the University in a series of intercollegiate debates to be held at the University of Hawaii. Debates will be held during the Easter holidays when the University is not in session, the first taking place on March 26th. The University team will debate the affirmative side of the topic: "Resolved, that a federal world government should be established," and the negative side of the topic: "Resolved, that Hawaii contributes more to the Union than Missouri."

Enroute to Hawaii, team members will hold a series of debates on the same topics with representatives of University of California, Berkeley.

Students chosen to participate in the second annual Conference on Public Affairs at Ohio University, March 4th, 5th, and 6th were William Boast, Joplin, Mo.; Wanda Land, Norwich, Kansas.; Gordon Parks, Jennings, Mo.; James E. Conway, Booneville, Mo.; and Robert Smith, Columbia. Delegates at this conference discussed the topic: "What should be our policy toward Russia?"

The University Concert Band, under the direction of Prof. George C. Wilson, presented a tour of five concerts in St. Louis County High schools and one in St. Charles during a two-day tour March 1st and 2nd. The 80-member concert band played before an estimated total of 12,000 students and teachers in high schools at Webster Groves, Normandy, Clayton, Maplewood-Richmond Heights, and St. Charles.

The Association of Women Students at the University has taken a drastic step which vitally affects the "queen tradition" at Missouri. Organizations have been in the habit of choosing their queens from the fairer sex of the Missouri, Stephens and Christian campuses. The AWS recently threw a monkey wrench into the works with its decision that no University woman, Greek or Independent, would be a queen candidate in a contest which included Stephens and Christian women.

The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Thor Johnson, will present the third in the 1947-48 University Concert Series at Brewer

Field House March 8th and 9th. Now in its 53rd season, the musical organization ranked as the fifth oldest major symphony orchestra in the nation. Its 86 members will perform in Columbia for the first time since 1938. Thor Johnson, who founded the first G.I. symphony orchestra, is serving his first season as conductor of the Cincinnati group.

On February 25, 28, and March 3, the Missouri Workshop-sponsored Intramural one-act play contest was presented in Jesse Auditorium. The presentations included both original and royalty plays. Campus organizations, church groups, and co-ops participated to give a three-night program of comedy and straight drama. Missouri Workshop is also sponsoring an Original One-Act Play Contest which solicits plays authored by students of the University, Stephens and Christian. Prizes will be awarded to the four or five best plays, but the real award will be the presentation of those best plays in final competition. Production is planned for May 12th. The contest closes Monday, March 29th. Contest Manager Allen Schwartz, Louisville, Ky., is in charge of all arrangements.

A grant of $2100, given by the United States Public Health Service to support the research of John W. Barnard, University associate professor of anatomy, has been accepted by the Board of Curators. Dr. Barnard's research concerns the recovery of injured nerve tissue in the central nervous system.

A long-standing culprit at the university library was discovered last month. Present and former students, responding to requests from the library for books lost or unreturned have long been puzzled as to the whereabouts of the books charged to their accounts.

A ventilator, open from the top floor to the basement, was the receptacle of about 35 books accidentally pushed from the stacks down the shaft. Some of the books recently recovered had not been checked out since 1938. It's an open question as to how long the "Missing" books were reposing in their haven at the bottom of the shaft.

Elections of officers and representatives of the Student Government Association will be held on Tuesday, April 13th. Saturday, March 13th has been selected as the tentative date for all candidates to be announced, because of a clause in the SGA constitution requiring a month's publicity for all candidates. An extension to March 31st may be granted to parties to be formed.

The method of representation was determined by a student vote on proposed amendments to the SGA constitution Feb. 24th and 25th. The present constitution has been revised making the working laws of the council by-laws. This eliminates need for ratification of a new constitution to change each law.

Bill Case, of the University United Nations Association was elected to succeed Walter Reed as State Director of the Intercollegiate United Nations Association at an all-day meeting of that organization Saturday, February 14th. A new charter was adopted by the association and tentative arrangements were made for a UN Conference to be held in Jefferson City in March, 1949.

Missouri's three-legged mascot, Tripod, has embarked upon a campaign for the protection of Columbia children. While walking home from school, an eight-year old boy was confronted by a large and formidable white collie, a stranger to the campus. At each step, the dog growled and moved closer. The boy froze in his tracks, but the dog continued to advance. Then, before any student onlooker could make a move, a flash of brown and black rushed past them all and placed himself between boy and collie. By a series of menacing growls and threatening movements, Tripod convinced the collie that he meant business and steadily drove him back into the bushes surrounding the library.

Morran D. Harris, of Warsaw, GI Law and Graduate student at the University, is considering making the race for Congress on the Democratic ticket. He was graduated from Warrensburg Teachers College before enlisting in the army and enrolled here July, 1947. Mr. Harris has been active before and after the war in politics in Benton County, but has never before sought office. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Harris, of Bentonville.

Whatever happened. . .

. . . to Ted. Wyatt, B.S. in Ch.E. '41, asks his former roommate, R. P. Kraus, A.B. '41.

BENGAL OF THE MONTH

PIPPIN IN ACTION

One veteran of the armed forces to whom reconversion to civilian life holds no terrors is Missouri's "Rippin" Dan Pippin. During the 1945-1946 basketball season the blond haired forward led the entire nation in individual scoring while playing on the famous Ft. Sheridan team. Many a Big Seven coach and player wishes Dan had decided to be a thirty year man and make the army a career, for since his return to Mizzou, Pippin has been very forward as the forward most feared in the league.

So respectful are the opposition of Pippin's prowess that two men have been given the job of guarding him throughout most of the season. The helter-skelter position of the teams fighting for the top berth during the past month has resulted in the tightening of the screws on the flashy Mizzou forward. Even with two men guarding him "Rippin" Pippin has been sounding a staccato off the backboards and at present is fourth in the league standings for individual scoring. That he dropped from the number one slot can be attributed mainly to two reasons: 1) The opposition's placing two men on him; and 2) Dan being the true sportsman that he is, sacrifices his personal ambitions in the interest of team play. Many an MU tally was set up by the flashing forward who passed to a teammate rather than attempt to better his own record.

For the season as a whole, counting both conference and non-conference encounters, Dan has rung up the enviable score of 85 field goals and 55 free throws for a total score of 225 points. Speaking of non-conference games, Pippin was red hot on December 27th at Madison Square Garden in New York where Mizzou put on a great show against the vaunted NYU five. The sports scribes dashed superlatives from their keyboards praising Dan and the cheers of some 18,000 spectators attested to the fact that New Yorkers appreciate such a star as our Pippin. In conference competition Dan's account shows a total score of 136 points derived from 52 field goals out of 160 attempts, and 32 free throws out of 56 tries, giving him a .325 average in the field goal line and one of .576 for the free tickets. Incidentally his one-handed overarm style from the foul line is something to behold.

The 21 year old star hails from Waynesville, Missouri and is the son of Drew Pippin, Class of '23. Watching and cheering from the stands in Brewer Field House at every home game is Dan's charming missus, whose moral support no doubt contributes measurably to Pippin's drive and fire. Dan's "savvy" on the hardwood carries over into the scholastic field where he is a marketing major in the B&PA school, no deficiency slips or scholastic probation for Mr. Pippin!

After graduation Dan hopes to play pro basketball for a spell before he enters the business world. Already he has been approached by a number of the "play-for-money" boys and whichever five does secure his services can be assured that it will be receiving the utmost in value for the shackles dispensed. If an MU crowd is any criterion, the sports arena of Dan's future employer will be displaying an S.R.O. sign on many occasions. Whenever Dan is relieved during an encounter by Coach "Sparky" Stalcup for a rest, very little time elapses before the Brewer Field House rafters reverbrate to the roar of some 5000 assorted voices chanting, "We want Pippin, we want Pippin!"

Hunting and fishing are Dan's relaxations, but one hunt he won't have to make is for an apartment. The lucky stiff has a quonset hut in "Varsity Village" which is situated in the court right behind the baseball stands. What with the cold weather that has been plaguing Columbia lately, Dan has taken to wearing a hat, and the nice thing about this is that despite all the plaudits heaped upon him by the members of the fourth estate and the fans, the hatband size remains the same. If ever an unconceited, likeable and all-around "good Joe" ever strode Mizzou's hallowed campus it is Dan.

Good things must come to an end some time and Dan will be graduating, but lacrimal glands will be over-worked mainly in such places as Norman, Manhattan, Lawrence, Ames, Lincoln, and Boulder, for Dan will be around for another full basketball season, as his sheepskin won't be handed to him until June, 1949. Like a certain high-ranking army officer, Dan can say, "I shall return!"

TIGER RUNNERS RIP BIG SEVEN, CONFERENCE RECORDS FALL

They doo it again!! Before a thrilled and vociferous audience of 8500 at Kansas City on February 28, the Missouri Track Team ran away with the Big Seven Indoor Meet amassing $67\frac{1}{4}$ points, more than the combined scores of the next two schools (Kansas 32, Nebraska $29\frac{3}{4}$).

Six meet records took a tumble, three of them by Missouri, and another meet record tied, also by Missouri, however individual attention was drawn to the flashing limbs of Madill "Bud" Gartiser as he soared over the 60 Yard Low Hurdles in the lightning speed of :06.8 thus tying the national indoor record as recognized by the AAU. There were numerous reports that "Bud" had set a new world indoor record, however, the United States being the only nation participating in indoor meets, the International Track Federation does not recognize any records set under a roof. The mark of :06.8 was set last year by the Negro speedster Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace College running at Lafayette, Indiana. His time has been recognized by the AAU, and should this body recognize the time set by our "Bud" in the preliminary heat, Gartiser will be a co-holder of the national record.

The sterling coaching displayed by Coach Tom Botts is in no small degree responsible for the record busting performances given by the MU thin clads. Of course it is the runners who actually go out there and break the records, but it has been the guidance given by Tom that has developed the form and abilities of the individual tracksters. Coach Botts, in common with other mentors of all sports, displays a conservatism and fear of overconfidence before each meet to a degree that should entitle him to membership in the Union League. However, after the Kansas City meet, our wonderful coach, visibly elated at Mizzou's performance stated, "I was more than pleased with the performance of the team." Tom was particularly appreciative of the grit and pluck shown by such performers as Bob Teel, Bob Blakely, and Bob Shuster. Teel came from 4th place in the broad jump to win in his last leap with a mark of $23' 2\frac{3}{8}"$. Bob did all of this in spite of an extremely sore heel. A painful back injury didn't deter Bob Blakely from winning his heat in the 60 Yard High Hurdles in the fast time of :07.6. Even though he failed to place in the finals, Blakely's courageous action earns him an Oscar in any league. For courage and grit beyond the call of duty, Bob Schuster is the hero to be commended. Coach Botts stated, "Bob Schuster, after taking one of the worst spills I ever saw on a track, and suffering severe floor burns on his hips, arms, and shoulders, and with a sore muscle in his leg, had the courage to place close 3rd in the 60 Yard Dash and equal the meet record in the preliminary race." Another plucky Tiger is Dick Schmidt. While running the quarter mile Dick became involved in a spill with teammate Bob Schuster and sustained a bad sprain of his wrist. Nevertheless, Dick ran a good leg for the mile relay team composed of himself, Elmer Klein, Gilbert Phillips and Dick Ault, which incidentally created a new Conference record, covering the distance in the remarkable time of 3:23.4 and did it largely running against the watch, as the other teams were nowhere in the competition. It may be possible that Coach Botts will try to develop this mile relay team, running outdoors, to break the World Record of 3:09.4 set by the University of California team at Los Angeles in 1941.

Most observers think that the present track team, under the superb coaching of Tom Botts, is the best that ever donned a Missouri track uniform. Too much praise cannot be given to the gallant performers, with their admirable display of teamwork, fine sportsmanship, and all around ability and to that great gentleman, Coach Botts.

What's new with you? We'd like to know.

TIGER ALLEY

The major leagues are starting their spring camps, and aspirants for the Missouri Nine are busily engaged within the confines of Brewer Field House. Coach "Hi" Simmons is chaffing to get his boys out into the open but Monsieur Pluvius is in a very non-co-operative mood.

Defensively the team looks fine. Out of 11 lettermen left from last season, 9 have come out, the other two being unable to do so because of heavy scholastic schedules. At present Coach Simmons could place a letterman on each infield and outfield position. What "Hi" is looking for right now is offensive power with plenty of good solid hitters. He said, "Although we are fielding a veteran team, it has never showed too much potency on the offensive." The coach has informed those who are weak on the willow that they had better sharpen their eyes or else—.

Six men at present giving their all for Coach "Sparky" Stalcup and the basketball team are expected to change their shorts and gym shoes for billed caps and spikes as soon as the basketball season is over. Such gentlemen as Karl Pierpoint, Ben Bidewell, Wachter, and Charlie Turner are expected to join the nine.

The pitching situation looks decent. Although Ingert is the only server possessing a letter, a bunch of newcomers look promising. Some of them have played in Ban Johnson competition and have looked good. Of course that is a different league from the Big Seven but any experience under the belt is a definite asset to a pitcher.

Coach Simmons looks for a lively league competition this year. Almost all of the other clubs have a great percentage of their lettermen back and the play should be lively and spirited.

Coach Simmons thinks Kansas State will be the club to beat.

About 100 nice clean football uniforms were handed out to eager candidates for gridiron fame on March 1st. Many of the men have been getting in condition by lapping the oval in Brewer Field House. The boys are engaged now in calisthenics and bodily contact out on the sea of mud comprising Rollins Field. Coach Faurot plans to start Saturday afternoon intra-squad scrimages shortly, and the Spring training season will wind up on April 17 with the annual Varsity-Alumni game. All of you Alumni who can possibly make it to Columbia on that date should do so. One incentive for the visit is a preview of the 1948 squad which will encounter such gridiron giants as Navy, Ohio State, etc. Another one is that the Wabash has really placed wheels on the "Cannonball" that comes from Centralia, so come along, see the team, and meet your old friends again.

BASKETBALL

The new champion of the Big Seven is Kansas State which clinched its title on March 1st by knocking off Kansas University 61-60 at Lawrence. M.U. was an outright contender for the championship until the Wildcats topped Mizzou in a slam bang, seesaw battle at Manhattan on February 21st, 55-53.

TRACK

On February 21 in their last indoor home appearance of the season, the M.U. thinclads swamped Kansas State to the tune of 83-21. The Wildcats managed to snare only one first place, with the K-State pole vaulting team of McClay and Sherman tying for first place honors. Three Kansas State-Missouri Indoor Meet records were broken by the Tigers: Jim Howard eclipsing the High Jump mark of 6' 2 1/4" set by Kelly of Missouri in 1937 with his leap of 6' 2 3/4"; Dick Ault running the 440 Yard Dash in :51.3 broke his own record of :51.9 made in 1947; and Charles Lancaster breezing the 88 Yard Run in the good time of 1:58 erased the record set by Bosworth

Brewer Field House records also took a tumble: Madill "Bud" Gartiser soared over the 60 Yard High Hurdles in :07.4 thereby eclipsing the time of :07.5 set by Knappenberger of K-State in 1935, Alexander of Missouri in 1942, and "Bud" himself in 1947.

The crack Mile Relay Team of the Black and Gold bettered their own mark set this year of 3:26.6 by tearing around the oval in the sterling time of 3:23.7.

A LOT OF GROWING TO DO

This is a big country and to furnish nation-wide telephone service, the Bell System has had to be big for a long time. But in the last few years it hasn't been nearly big enough.

Even though we've broken all records and added more than 6,000,000 new telephones in the past two years, there are still about a million orders for service that we haven't been able to fill because of lack of equipment, switchboards, cable and buildings. Many more Long Distance circuits also are needed.

It will take time and a lot of money to make the Bell System big enough for the nation's needs but we're on our way—in a big way—to giving you more and better service than ever before.
