"The one field that offered exactly what we wanted"

Charles I. Lytle and family, Buffalo, N. Y.

DURING the years I was in the Army, I often thought of having a business of my own, and this was in the back of my mind when I returned to civilian life.

Before the war I had worked for a large paint company, and upon my discharge, I returned to them, serving as manager of one of their stores. But within a year I resigned, mainly because what I really wanted was a position where my income would be measured by my ability — not by what someone thought I was worth. And where I could exchange my energy and talents for good living conditions for my family, and for an unlimited opportunity for me to earn.

Some serious, long-range thinking brought me to the conclusion that the one field that offered exactly what I was after was life insurance. So I contacted a number of companies here in Buffalo, and spent several days studying their respective merits and histories. I was impressed with the caliber of New England Mutual men I met, and by the fact that this company had always led the field in providing liberal policyholder benefits.

That's why I joined New England Mutual. Now, after my Home Office training course, and with the valuable help of my General Agent and the many aids offered to New England representatives, I'm making steady progress. I've got that business of my own, and it's providing the opportunity for me and the good living conditions for my family that we've always wanted.

Charles I Lytle

These University of Missouri men are New England Mutual representatives:

Frank M. See, C.L.U., '11, Gen. Agt. St. Louis

John T. Ready, '14, Kansas City

R. L. Casebolt, '23, Kansas City

Gordon E. Crosby, Jr., '41, Oakland

Recent graduates of our Home Office training course, although new to the life insurance business, earn average first-year commissions of $3600—which, with renewal commissions added, brings the total yearly income average to $5700. From here, incomes rise in direct proportion to each individual's ability and industry.

If you'd like information about a career that gives you a business of your own, with no slow climb up a seniority ladder and no ceiling on earnings, write Mr. H. C. Chaney, Director of Agencies, 501 Boylston Street, Boston 17, Mass.

They can give you expert counsel on "Living Insurance"—a uniquely liberal and flexible life insurance program tailored to fit your family's needs.

THE MISSOURI ALUMNUS is published monthly except July and August by the University of Missouri Alumni Association, 110 Jesse Hall, Columbia, Mo. Entered as second class matter under the Acts of March 3, 1879. Regular subscription price $3.00 a year; life subscription, $50.

Members of the Publications Committee—Robert E. Lee (Bob) Hill, chairman; James A. Taylor, Kansas City; Ben F. Seward, Kansas City; Frank Birch, New York City; Harry D. Guy, Dallas, Tex.; Harry Frech, St. Louis.

Welcome home Alumni! It will be good to have all of you visit "Old Miz-zou" again and be sure to pay us a visit at the Alumni Office which is located in Room 110 in Jesse Hall.

Don Faurot and his Tigers got off to a flying start against Ohio State on September 24. They didn't win, but they certainly warmed the hearts of students and alumni as they lost a heartbreaker, 35-34. Newspapermen present at the game rated the Tigers as a 14-point underdog before the game, but afterwards they said Missouri had outplayed and outfought the Buckeyes—that the only indication of defeat was the narrow margin of the score.

"The Case of the Missing Ivy," has been solved. Our Sherlock Holmes has been assured that the ivy will sprout again next spring even though it was pruned-away by workmen repairing the bases of The Columns.

The freshmen students on the campus this fall are mostly those of the pre-war type. Freshmen "beanies" have returned and fastly disappearing are the field jackets and dungarees of the World War II veteran. The G. I. era is rapidly coming to a close and by 1951 they definitely will be a minority group.

Requests for the University's World War II Memorial Booklet have come in so slowly that we are again offering it free of charge to alumni. This booklet contains pictures of nearly all Missouri alumni who were killed in the last war. It is bound in an attractive white cover and tied with a golden cord. If you desire one of these booklets please mail your request to the Alumni Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix McNabb, Jr., became the parents of a son on August 17, 1949. Hendrix is a student in the School of Law at M. U. and Mrs. McNabb was formerly employed as a secretary to Dr. Herbert Bunker, Director of Alumni Activities.

See you at Homecoming, October 23-28!

Sincerely

HOME COMING

"Welcome Home"

In behalf of the Board of Curators and the University staff, I wish to extend a sincere welcome home to all of our alumni and former students. I trust that while in Columbia you may have time to inspect the new improvements being made in our student housing and other University facilities. We would like to have you meet the new staff members and greet again your former teachers.

I wish to extend a special word of welcome to the members of the Class of 1924 who are celebrating their twenty-fifth anniversary.

We hope you recall your years on the campus with pleasant memories and have treasured your association with the University as it has taken pride in your career. From your graduation day until this, I assure you that the old charm of tradition, loyalty, and the friendly welcome, still persists here in undiminished strength.

We are all proud of the record you have made and are making as a stabilizing influence in a society torn by two world wars. You are returning to our State and Nation rich returns on the investment the State of Missouri has made in your higher education. And along with other former students, you have done much to keep the University of Missouri the great institution of learning it is today.

We shall look forward to your visit to the campus on Homecoming Day.

We are glad to see such a good response to the announcement of the 1924 of October 28 before the Homecoming Class Reunion to be held the evening game.

Those of you who have not sent in your reservations please do so at once. If by chance you have not received a notice just drop a card to Herb Bunker, care of the Alumni Office, saying you will be here to join us in a reunion you wont want to miss.

Let's make it a real get-together.

Chairman, Committee on Arrangements

Heavy Schedule

Although schoolwork began but a short time back, plans for the 1949 Homecoming festivities are already well on the way. The Homecoming date this year, October 29, doesn't give as much time as in the past, but the committee feels that they will have just enough time to make this one of the most successful and spectacular Homecomings in many a year.

The schedule for the Homecoming weekend has been drawn up and will generally follow the pattern of last year's festivities. There will be a basket dinner served on Rollins Field Friday evening at 5:30, followed at 6:30 by the pep rally, and at 8:30, the informal dance. Saturday morning, teas will be held in the respective schools for their graduates, starting at about 9:30. A general tea will be held in Read Hall, where the Homecoming queen will be present. The parade of the floats will begin at 10:30.

Alumni are requested to register at their respective houses as a prize will be given for the organized house having largest number of visiting alumni.

With such a grand weekend planned, many alums are expected. Come as early as you like; there's always something to do.

Law Alumni Plan Election of Officers

Lou Lozier, president of Missouri Law Alumni, has set Saturday, October 29, Homecoming Day, as the day for the election of new Law Alumni officers.

The meeting will be held at 10:00 a.m. at the School of Law on the Red Campus.

ON CAMPUS

Dr. Thomas Brady, A.B. '24

By BETTY CONRAD, '50

The title on his office door reads "Vice President in Charge of Extra Divisional Educational Activities." And that applies to Dr. Thomas Brady, graduate of the class of 1924. After receiving his Masters Degree in 1926 from Harvard, Dr. Brady returned here to teach history. It was in 1929 that he went back to Harvard and completed his Doctor of Philosophy degree. But 1930 found him here again in the history department at Columbia, Mo.

While reviewing changes in the University during the time he has spent here, Dr. Brady, originally from Richmond, Mo., pointed out that after World War I, the veterans who were in school then were disabled in some way. That was their requirement for entrance. Returning alumni notice the new buildings and possibly the increased enrollment, but as for spirit or attitude the change there has been almost too slight to elaborate on. College goes on.

Perhaps many may remember the military queen chosen by members of the R.O.T.C. in past years. As part of her duties, her highness reviewed the companies that marched around the Quadrangle and the Columns, wore her uniform, and found that being a queen involved many little specific jobs! She was more than just "a queen for a day." The feud between the lawyers and the engineers and the lively political elections on the campus are also reminiscent of yesterday, the Vice President chuckled over.

Father of seven children, Dr. Brady finds his home life quite full too. Dull moments in the Brady household are infrequent. Susan, Tommy, Sally, Margaret, Theresa, Robert, and John see to that!

To break down his title into more common terms, Dr. Brady is in charge of any educational activity that does not fall under the jurisdiction of any of the deans. Leslie Cowan is the other University vice-president in charge of business.

Specifically the admissions office, library, student affairs program, student health counseling, and other educational functions are included in his work. Two teaching departments that serve all divisions and that are attended to by Dr. Brady are the physical education department and the military department. With extension work and a watchful eye on committees that operate in smaller fields, it is understandable how the Vice President begins his day from 8 or 8:30 a.m. and keeps busy until 5 p.m. or after.

He has held this office since 1946 when Dean Elmer Ellis, the original creator of the position, vacated it.

So now, on the 25th homecoming anniversary of Dr. Thomas Brady, alumnus and graduate, faculty member and executive officer, we would like to say "thanks." Thanks for the many things you have worked with here at the University and for your interest in us all at all times.

Industrial Conference

Fred V. Gardner, B.S. in B.A. '28, of Milwaukee will return to the campus to address the Industrial Management Conference on Oct. 13-14-15.

This is the third year that the Conference has been held and is sponsored by the University School of Business and Public Administration through the Adult Education and Extension Service in cooperation with various industrial organizations in Missouri.

Gardner's topic will be "The Use of Breakeven Points in the M's of Business (Machinery, Material, Men, Methods, Money)."

He is president of Smith Steel Foundry Company and is director and treasurer of Appliance Corporation of America; director, vice-president and treasurer of Lakeside Laboratories, Inc.; and a director of Sherman Products, Inc., of Milwaukee, and Wisconsin Central Airlines of Madison, Wis.

Also appearing on the program will be L. R. Boulware, vice-president of General Electric Company in charge of employee relations; S. A. Peck, executive vice-president of the Trundle Engineering Company, Cleveland; and, Eldridge Haynes, president of Magazines of Industry, Inc., New York.

Mizzou Enrollment

Latest University enrollment figures show that again there are more than 10,000 students at "Ole Mizzou."

The total enrollment as of September 26 was 10,155 or only 969 less than last year's 11,124.

Although no enrollment figures on veterans are available now, it is believed that fewer vets are attending this year than in the past.

Enrollment by classes show: Graduate, 1025; Seniors, 2684; Juniors, 2594; Sophomores, 2032; Freshmen, 1694; special students, 49; and unclassified, 44.

As usual the men far outnumber the women, 8181 to 1974 or a four to one ratio.

Mission in Brazil—Up to Date

By Cora N. Barns, '06

The ALUMNUS of October, 1948, had an illustrated article on Mission in Brazil written by Myrtle Strosberg, Alpha Delta Pi, now Mrs. J. M. Sydenstricker, the wife of the missionary in charge of that Mission in the far frontiers of Brazil.

She told of their work in that home-steady province 75 miles from a railroad. They have the first church, hospital, and school in that area. The 25-bed hospital was a gift, and is modern in every respect except for lack of an X-ray machine. It has two doctors, eight nurses and a bacteriologist.

But how can a hospital get along without an X-ray? They found that their's could not. Here is an excerpt from a recent letter from Mrs. Sydenstricker: "So we have bought one (X-ray machine) on the installment plan and on faith, for we just could not wait any longer, as many deaths resulted for lack of this machine. An article that they asked me to write for a Brazilian paper is bringing some response, but we need, Oh! so much more and soon."

That X-ray machine cost $7000!

The Walter Miller Bible Class in Columbia, Mo., is already supporting a native worker in this mission field and can do no more. So they are trying to tell other Alumni of this great opportunity for real service. Any contribution, large or small, could be sent to Mrs. J. M. Sydenstricker Dourados, Mato Grosso, Via Campo Grande, Brazil; or else to the Class Treasurer, Miss Hertha Eitzen, '05, 706 Maryland, Columbia, Mo. She will send all contributions on to the Mission.

Music at Missouri

By ROGERS WHITMORE, Chairman, Department of Music

The Department of Music is organized in the College of Arts and Science. In its academic functions it offers courses in music as a humanity, professional courses in music, and through the College of Education, courses in music education for teachers. In its service functions it provides the cultural assets of music not only on the campus but increasingly throughout the state.

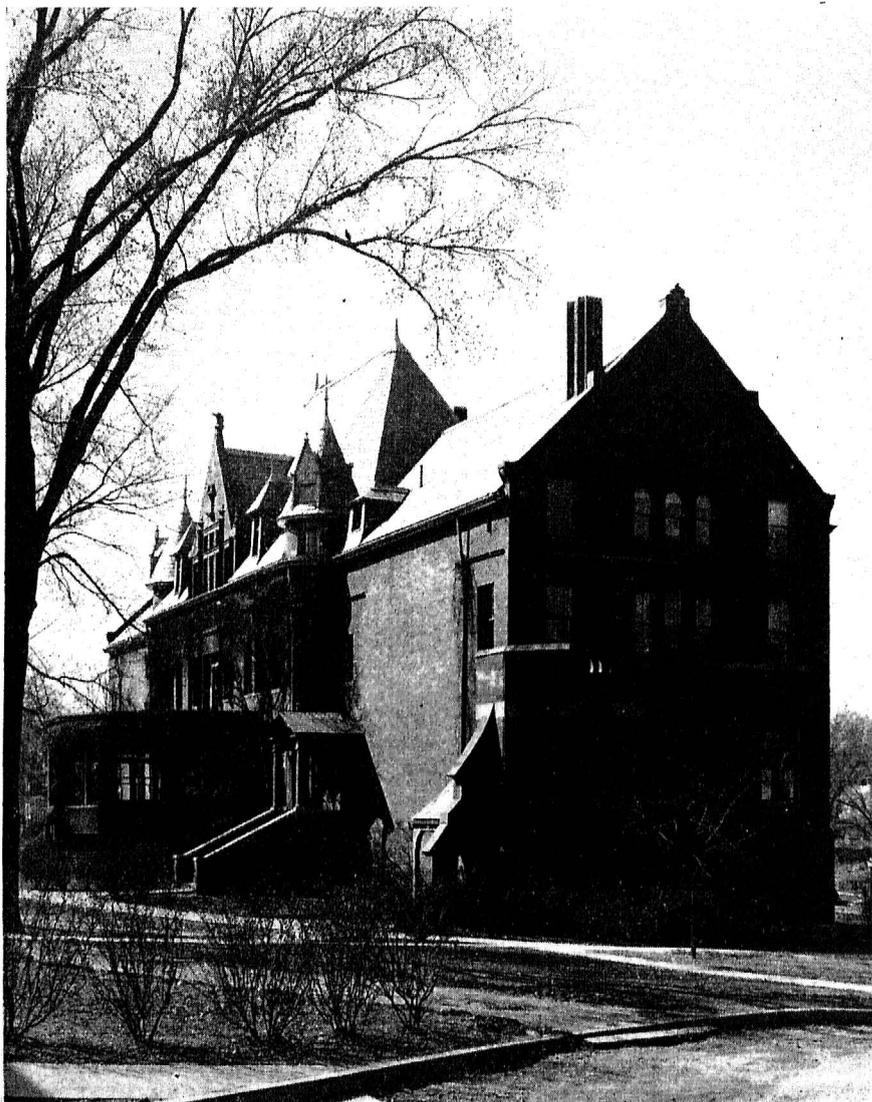

The student in music may elect courses leading to a major area of concentration on the A.B. degree; the professional B.M. degree with appropriate major in an applied music subject or music history, theory and composition; or for teachers, the B.S. in Education degree with a major in the field of music education.

The department of the National Association of Schools of Music and all course including graduate work are listed by the association.

The staff of the department includes men of national reputation in their respective fields and all teachers of applied music as well as several in the area of music history and theory are performing artists of long experience and wide reputation. These teachers thus enhance their value to the University and the state through frequent service in public performance. No work in music is solely a classroom matter and the work of the department includes both faculty and student performance through concerts and recitals scheduled by the department, the student Union, numerous University and University-sponsored occasions, and programs throughout the state for music clubs, civic groups, etc.

The instrumental organizations of the department include the University Bands which include a marching band of over a hundred men, a concert band of 90, a girls' band, and military and naval units; the University Orchestra which maintains full symphonic instrumentation; and numerous smaller ensembles. Both the band and the orchestra go on tour in the state in addition to their campus concerts. Special mention should be made of the University String Quartet, a faculty organization which, in addition to a regular schedule of chamber music concerts on the campus has travelled widely throughout the state.

In the field of choral music the department activities include a large general University chorus in which the membership runs up to 250; a selective group of 60 voices called the University Singers, a Mens Glee Club of 90, and, Lathrop Hall, home of the University's music department, is one of the oldest buildings on the campus. It has become inadequate as the department continues to enlarge. The lack of soundproof practice rooms brings out many contrasts in music as students tune instruments or practice different songs at the same time.

As the University in general continues to grow it is expected that this will be one of the buildings that will be replaced in the not-too-distant future.

as in the case of instrumental music, smaller ensembles such as the madrigal singers, quartets, etc. These organizations extend their activities to state-wide scope and in December of this year the Choral Union made up from the above groups and including 125 selected voices has been invited to perform jointly with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in two of its regularly scheduled subscription concerts with the internationally famous Metropolitan Opera star, Jennie Tourel as soloist.

To the end that the department may carry on at the University level the excellent work now being done in the secondary schools through private teachers in music the University administration throughout the years has furnished equipment and music libraries which now total an investment that is inadequately housed in the present Lathrop Hall. It is the hope not only of present and past students and the staff, but of all musical organizations of the state that housing adequate to the progress of the department may become available soon. From early morning until nine at night all available space in Lathrop Hall vibrates with the cacophonous mixture of individual and group rehearsal, recorded music and music being recorded, instrument tuning and vocalises. No department is quite so audible and none reaches a greater audience.

Classical Music Is Gift to M. U. Students

By JOHN DANILSON

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra conducted by Vladimir Golschmann.

The University Concert Series will be back this fall with more musical treats free to students.

Two young Metropolitan Opera stars, two famous symphony orchestras, and a sensationally successful chorale have been engaged for the 1949-50 season.

"Concerts will not have filler musicians, and students are not charged even indirectly," Prof. Rogers Whitmore, concert series chairman, said. "The music of these top-rank artists is an outright gift of the Board of Curators."

The 1949-50 program will be: Oct. 19-20, Robert Shaw Chorale; Dec. 5-6, St. Louis Symphony Orchestra with opera star Jennie Tourel; Mar. 30-31, Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra; April 25-26, Risé Stevens, opera star.

Whitmore, a University Alumni Association member, sometimes hears at alumni meetings the remark, "The first time I attended a symphonic concert was at M. U."

This is true of many people and is one example of the concerts' value to the University.

A great accomplishment of the first faculty-student organization, which sponsored the concerts at least as far back as 1907, was in obtaining such artists as the Flonzaly Quartet, Fritz Kreisler, and the New York Symphony Orchestra. In those days, students had to pay to attend.

At present, an extra-curricular music committee picks the artists and decides general policy. The seating capacity of Brewer Field House, where the concerts are held, was increased last spring.

The Concert Series has also featured such names as Vladimir Horowitz, Lily Pons, John Charles Thomas, Jascha Heifetz, Nelson Eddy, Lauritz Melchior, John McCormack, Albert Spalding, Kirsten Flagstad, Robert Casadesu, and Lawrence Tibbett. Other orchestras have included the Philadelphia Symphony, Minneapolis Symphony, and Kansas City Philharmonic.

The concerts unify the student body by getting it together, as do major athletic events. Both department and division walls are penetrated.

"The audience makes the concerts a success almost as much as the people on the stage," Whitmore said. "Together, they form a unit and the music is the binding link."

"Attending concerts gives students the chance to establish a standard of taste in musical appreciation," he said. "Later, when they hear another artist or major symphony orchestra, they will have a basis of comparison." Whitmore believes state universities as cultural centers should make the finest in the arts available to students.

Many artists like to identify themselves with the student body. During the past season, Melchior did this a great deal, talking, having luncheons, and autographing hundreds of phonograph records.

Nelson Eddy presented a cup which was rotated among a group of organized houses. He displayed much interest in getting initiated into Phi Mu Alpha.

Individual students or groups are sometimes given auditions. For example, Spalding, the famous violinist, listened to students play in private while he was at the University.

Whitmore says culture enables a man to enjoy and evaluate the better things. It makes no difference whether it is food or music. "Most people go to college to learn how to make a living, but they should not be so intent on one goal that they forget to live," he said.

"When we can make someone else's great experience our own, we should take the opportunity," he declared. "Music as art is an end in itself."

To sum up the experience the concert series offer, Whitmore recalled the oft-quoted line from Keats, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

RISE STEVENS

Rogers Whitmore—A Talented Musician

By ESTHER C. HAGER

Rogers Whitmore, chairman of the department of music at the University of Missouri, came to Columbia for a year and has stayed for twenty-four.

If he had gone to a movie one night instead of an organ recital, his career might have been on the concert stage rather than in music education. Two days later he was offered a contract by a concert agency. But he had already told Mr. Quarles, guest artist at Cornell University, that he would teach violin at Missouri the next year. That was in 1925.

Whitmore was born in Iliion, New York, where most of the men in his family have been engaged in the Remington typewriter business. His mother, who was a musician, started his study with a graduate of the New England Conservatory when he was seven. At twenty he had graduated from two American conservatories, Utica and Ithica (now Ithica College.)

During summer vacations, he played with small groups in the Adirondack Mountains. One day a stranger showed interest in his playing and asked him to come to New York. The young violinist had found a sponsor in the retired Chairman of the New York Symphony.

In New York City he played for many notable persons. On the recommendation of Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony, and of Mengelberg, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, he was awarded a scholarship for study in France. Whitmore became successively a pupil of the three greatest masters of modern times, studying three years each with Secvik of Prague and Cesar Thomson of the Brussels Conservatoire. In 1922 he was awarded a Fellowship from the Julliard Foundation for a year's study with Leopold Auer.

Probably Whitmore holds something of a record in having studied with two masters at one time, Cesar Thomson at Ithaca and Leopold Auer in New York City. Neither teacher knew of his work with the other. If they assigned the same composition, he bought two copies and learned the fingering in two ways. Such rigorous training is in part responsible for the brilliant technique for which he is famous among Missouri audiences.

In 1936 Whitmore became chairman of the department of music. The record of accomplishments under his administration is impressive. The department has become a fully accredited member of the National Association of Schools of Music and was one of the first of 150 to be accredited for graduate work. Majors in the area of concentration toward an A.B. degree, in music education toward a B.S. degree, and the B.M. degree for complete work in music are offered. Expanded course offerings include several in appreciation for the non-music major.

The band program has been built up from one to a concert band of 90 members, a marching band of over 100, a girls', and an ROTC band. Chorus ensembles include a General Chorus of 200 voices, the Men's Glee Club of 90, the University Singers of 60, and small madrigal groups. Various instrumental ensembles supplement the orchestra. Scores of programs are presented each semester by the department of music.

Whitmore is active in carrying music to the people of the state by sending out programs and by sponsoring the Inter-scholastic meet. He introduced a quota system when attendance at the state meet reached 14,892 participating pupils.

One of the more popular traveling groups is the University String Quartet in which Whitmore plays first violin. Music lovers of the state have come to look forward to a flawless, musicianly performance by members of this talented group and its gifted leader.

Today, weighing the advantages of teaching in a university community, with its opportunities to create lasting impressions of good music, against those of a concert career, with its constant travel and public appearances, he is still glad he went to the recital instead of the movie.

In 1928, he married Catherine Gray, member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Their two children, John Rogers and Carolyn, attend the University Laboratory High School.

Alumnus Retires

Vivid tribute for 23 years of service, much of it over and beyond the duties of his position, was accorded July 13 to Lester R. Geyer, LL.B. '12, retiring chief legal deputy clerk of Contra Costa County, Calif., at a testimonial dinner given by the Richmond, Calif., Bar Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Geyer have retired to a ranch in the mountains.

George Wilson—Mizzou's Band Director

By EDGAR J. FOSS

When George Venable, former director of the University Band, retired, an extensive search was launched for a man to replace him. A young, progressive, as well as capable man was wanted. A man who would be able to fill the shoes of the former director, and at the same time, have energy enough left over to expand the band program far beyond its former scope.

Records and references were checked all over the country. Prospects were interviewed and screened. George Wilson was the man who showed the greatest promise.

GEORGE WILSON

Wilson took his Bachelor's Degree at the University of Illinois. He played in the university band there under the direction of the famous bandmaster, Harding.

From Illinois, Wilson went to Kansas where he earned his Master's. Then he went to the University of Arizona where he directed the band. While there he was selected by Missouri and accepted the job.

Wilson has certainly lived up to the expectations in every way. He has built his department up to a really efficient group which includes a 90-piece concert band, a 100-piece marching and football band, an ROTC band, a girls band which is directed by Rodney Polson, and a 55-piece concert orchestra.

The concert band plays three formal concerts during the school year. It also plays for three lawn concerts during the summer. This past season the concert band also made two trips out of town. Commencements, and clinics, and other special events are also a part of the concert band's season.

The marching band appears at all home football games and any other major athletic events. It also participates in numerous parades and special events throughout the year.

Besides the obvious amount of work these projects entail, Wilson finds time for a few more. He judges music festivals and contests, and this year he helped organize the All State Band and Orchestra Workshop. The Workshop met for two weeks this summer. It is designed to aid high school musicians. They rehearsed, studied theory and appreciation, and, in general, spent a musical and profitable two weeks in Columbia.

Pictured here are three outstanding student musical groups of the University's music department—The University Singers, The Marching Band, and The Concert Band.

Prof. R. Oscar Clymer and the Men's Glee Club

The University Men's Glee Club has proved to be one of the most popular groups on campus. The remarkable enthusiasm and spirit of these 90 voices under the brilliant direction of assistant professor of music, R. Oscar Clymer has been greatly responsible for the revival of the club.

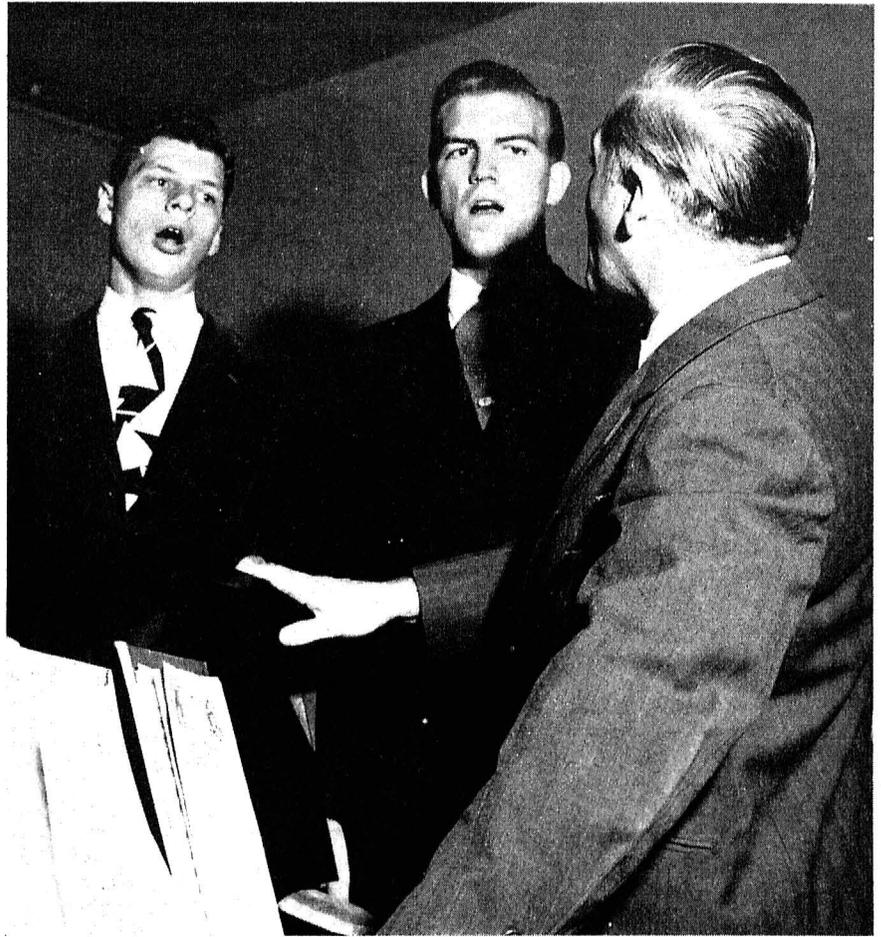

Membership is open to any students with sufficient ability, although music and music education majors predominate. Welcoming the opportunity to reach outside their academic spheres and vocational training are men from all departments who have happily become members of the Glee Club.

Clymer in a letter to last year's members, said, "The spirit of the group and the feeling of unity achieved was most outstanding. And it was caused by every man's individual willingness to do his best, regardless of his own shortcomings and disabilities, as well as those of his fellow-members. Without such spirit, nothing really fundamental is capable of achievement—with it, heaven itself is our only limitation."

Here is gratifying proof of the general student interest in the humanities. Students have come to the Club not in pursuit of vocational interests but for relaxation and appreciation, as Clymer aptly put it, "with the knowledge and realization that the ability to do and to perform is the finest basis for real appreciation."

The Club is the oldest organized vocal group on the campus. With the disruption of normal University men's activities caused by the war and the depletion of men students on campus the organization became inactive in 1941. The impact of the countless veteran students brought forth renewed vigor and the reactivation of the Glee Club in September 1948.

Clymer came to the University in 1948. Up to this time he had been head of the music department at Ohio Northern University at Ada. At Stephens College, he was employed for three years as coordinator of choral activities. He was in charge of 35 different girl's choruses representing student houses and student groups throughout the campus.

Now acting as director of the Men's Glee Club and choral ensembles, he looks forward to the '49-'50 season with enthusiasm. With the Singers and the Chorus under his direction he will be in complete charge of all choral activities.

The University String Quartet under the direction of Professor Rogers Whitmore will soon begin its fifteenth year. Prof. Whitmore, the man responsible for the organizing of the string quartet, is the only member of the original group still playing with the Quartet.

The Quartet was formed to bring chamber music to the campus. Chamber music is an intimate type of music that can be played in the smaller halls. In recent years another purpose has been realized, the taking of music to all parts of the state, to the people of Missouri from their University.

Besides their regular campus program the Quartet plays for alumni groups, civic groups, music clubs, and others. The Quartet has covered the state several times.

The present members of the Quartet are all faculty members. They are, Prof. Whitmore, first violin; Ruth Mecher Quant, second violin; George Wilson, viola; and Elizabeth Mulchy, cello. Prof. Whitmore said that this group is probably the best since the founding of the Quartet. The reason is that they have played together for quite some time and have a larger repertoire than the previous ones.

The average program is about an hour of music. The program usually includes something by Haydn, generally conceded to be the father of the string quartet, or Mozart, some modern or contemporary works, and selections that are familiar to the audience. There are some special programs that use only one of the types, such as a complete program of Haydn.

The Quartet has the well known spirit of entertainers—the engagement once made must be fulfilled, or “the show must go on.” This spirit has brought adventure to the members—travel on icy roads at times when people should be home—two engagements, one afternoon and one evening at widely separated points—looking for obscure places—and once even giving a performance in a barn loft.

The Quartet is a very mobile unit. One car will transport the entire group. A piano is not used so the group can play almost anywhere. As Prof. Whitmore put it, “All we need is four chairs and a place to put them.”

Last spring the Quartet in St. Louis played a program of the music of Kessler, a St. Louis composer. Included in the program were two pieces that were played for the first time. This gives an indication of the ability of the Quartet, all composers want the premiere of their work done well.

Prof. Whitmore pointed out that the Quartet is more popular than many people realize. The audiences are larger now than a few years ago and the requests for performances still come in. Other universities now have added string quartets. The popularity of the string quartet comes from the appreciation of good music and from the element of the familiar present in most programs. Appreciation of good music as played by the Quartet was directly responsible for the establishment of a civic music program in a Missouri community two years ago.

The Quartet is more of a hobby to the members than a job. It is strictly a non-profit organization. Sometimes its travels are financed by the University Extension Program. More often the group that wants the services of the Quartet pays just for the expenses involved in getting the Quartet to their community.

In the future the Quartet intends to go along in much the same manner as it has done in the past. It will have its regular program for the school year and then try to fill the requests that come in. The Quartet will continue in its purposes of giving chamber music to the campus and in taking music to the people of Missouri from their University. The repertoire and versatility of the Quartet will increase as it has in the past fifteen years.

Several concerts of the Men's Glee Club were given on the campus, an appearance was made on “Mid-America Sings” over KCMO, Kansas City radio station, an album of recordings made with the University concert band, and programs were presented in April during last year's season.

In all its accomplishment toward efficient organization and faithful attendance the Club has not been without its amusing, and sometimes distracting, incidents. Evidence of the lengths to which members will go in order to make good their appointments is well demonstrated by Clymer.

“The group was scheduled to leave for Kansas City that morning at 8:30 but Craig Christy of Jefferson City was late. The bus was about to depart when a car pulled up, door swinging open as it stopped,” related Clymer.

“Craig stumbled out, in trousers and pajama tops, with his remaining clothing bundled in his arms. Hair disheveled and hardly awake, he simply said ‘The alarm didn't go off’ and boarded the bus.”

The old excuse still works, alums!

It was indeed a great day when Vladimir Golschmann sat in on a rehearsal of the University Singers while he was here with the St. Louis Symphony orchestra last year. Immediately after the rehearsal, he said, “Here is the group I want.” By his special invitation, a choral group of 125 voices including the 90 Singers, the best voices of the Glee Club, and those of the other groups will sing the “Alexander Nevsky” Cantata by Prokofieff with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Golschmann, this December.

Don Faurot's Tigers unleashed a furious attack in the air and on the ground in the season opener against Ohio State at Columbus on September 24, but fell just one point short as the Buckeyes won a hectic 35-34 battle.

Missouri went into the game a 14-point underdog, but by the time the final gun had sounded they had won the praise and admiration of 66,510 spectators.

Phil Klein, a former Kansas City Southwest High athlete, made his debut as successor to "Bus" Entsminger at quarterback and piloted the Tigers in a manner that warmed the hearts of M. U. supporters.

Little Phil, who weighs about 157 pounds, at one time completed seven passes in a row for 174 yards. He scored three of the touchdowns on quarterback sneak plays, set up another score, and passed to end Gene Ackerman for the fifth.

Klein wasn't the only bright star. Ackerman was on the receiving end of seven passes and Kenny Bounds pulled down four others.

John Glorioso, another Kansas City athlete, and Dick Braznell also came through with flying colors. Glorioso kicked four extra points and barely missed a field goal that would have brought victory. Braznell carried the ball 18 times for a yardage gain of 79.

Faurot's two-platoon system of shifting players proved highly successful and the injection of a passing attack kept the game in doubt until the final play when Glorioso attempted a field goal from the 30 yard line.

In The Tigers' Lair

By MARSHALL LOEB

"WELCOME" is the key word of the campus these last October days.

More Missouri alumni than ever before are expected to make the annual pilgrimage to Columbia for the Missouri-Nebraska homecoming football classic, Oct. 29. The fraternities and sororities and clubs and organizations have been beating their drums to prepare for the traditional, colorful weekend.

At this point the Tigers are favored to claw the ambitious Husker outfit. A Nebraska eleven hasn't topped MU since the War. But the Lincoln crew, onetime football kingpins of the old Big Six Conference, is on the upsurge again and anxious for a prize upset to excite the fans at home.

Actually, two battles will be featured on Memorial Field, Oct. 29. The second stars Missouri captain Bob Fuchs and Nebraska's Tom Novak, both pre-season favorites for All-American acclaim at center. This will be the fourth meeting of the two great linebackers, both of whom lettered as freshmen back in 1946. The other three meetings have been reasonably inconclusive. Fuchs and Novak performed so well that each left the field with little edge but a great respect for the other.

* * *

Alums will find there have been some changes made in Columbia.

Tripod's still around; Jesse Wrench is going strong. Gaebler's is the same "jellying" center it's been for some years, and Stephens College, malts at Central, cramming for exams, hectic student government elections, and shady humor magazines are as popular as ever.

But a post-war upsurge has skyrocketed the University enrollment to the 10,000 mark, where it probably will remain for a few years. The golf course now houses faculty and married and single students in barracks style buildings. New dorms and temporary classrooms have sprouted in place of empty, rolling spaces on and near both campuses.

Even the traditional columns have changed. The fellow who worries that he's "not-as-young-as-he-used-to-be" had better not examine the famous Red Campus landmarks too closely. They're supposed to stand for hundreds of years to come, but this summer the six had to be set on new stone bases—because even they were getting too old!

But, pack 30,000 eager Tiger fans into the newly-enlarged Memorial Stadium on an October afternoon, line up two teams at midfield, add the usual chilly breeze—and Columbia is the same as ever. It's the same as it was when Chester Brewer first introduced his modern brand of coaching back in 1911 . . . Or when 145-pound scabbard Anton Stankowski sprinted through, around, and over the traditional Kansas rivals in the years just after World War I . . . Or when Frank Carideo led the disappointing Missouri teams of the '30's. . . Or when Don Faurot started a streamlined era of Tiger football . . . An era of the Split-T

While the annual pigskin parade was predominating Missouri's sport scene early this fall, Coach Tom Botts opened the year-round track campaign with a call for all potential two-mile men.

The Tiger cross-country squad will open with the first of three dual meets at Iowa State, Sat., Oct. 29.

Bill McGuire, New York, and Jean Madden, St. Louis, both veteran lettermen, are expected to be Botts' big guns in the distances this season.

Ronald Hartel and Duane Wolfe are other returning monogram winners but it is doubtful if this pair will compete.

Rounding out the squad are Martin Meyer, St. Louis, who was a squad man last term, and promising sophomores Chester Franz, Brentwood; Robert Fox, Maplewood; Jim Long, St. Louis; and Gale Holzman, Ozark.

The three top football dope sheets, Pic Quarterly, Football Annual, and Dell Football, joined forlorn Don Faurot in bemoaning the surprising Tigers' grid fate this year.

All agreed that while Faurot had a few good prospects in the Mizzou stable, the Tigers were destined to be clawed by Ohio State, S.M.U., Illinois, Oklahoma, and perhaps a few more.

Francis Wallace, Collier's hotshot mystic, was the only pre-season prophet who had a crystal ball charitable enough to grant Missouri a 7-3 season and a runner-up spot in the conference.

* * *

The Missouri coach now has peddled the fabulous Faurot "Split-T" to no less than six 1949 football clinics.

Add another pretty fair football outfit to the ever-growing list of teams adopting the Faurot formation—the world champion Philadelphia Eagles . . .

While men like Bob Fuchs, Gene Pepper, and Phil Klein are making football history around the Columns this year, one of the lesser known gridiron workmen—Johnny Brandis—is setting a few records of his own.

Johnny, the first freshman to become senior manager of a Missouri football team now becomes the first fellow to nail down that unheralded job for the third consecutive season.

In spare moments between doing those thousand things necessary to keep an intercollegiate team functioning, Johnny has time to get some kicks out of it all. The stubby Navy veteran from Fulton has traveled 18,000 miles with the Faurot crew.

And, when a Missouri team fresh from a 35-0 victory over the Naval Academy stopped at Washington last year, one of those who visited the White House and squeezed the hand of President Truman was the Tigers' "chief-cook-and-bottle-washer"—Johnny Brandis.

* * *

Quarterback Bus Entsminger and tackle Chester Fritz, both '49, were further honored this fall when the 'Gator Bowl Committee added the two to its all-time, all-star eleven on the basis of their top performance in this year's 24-23 New Year's Day thriller.

Entsminger and Fritz replace All-American Johnny Rauch and Jack Bush, both of Georgia.

Entsminger recently gave the greatest tribute to All-American candidate Fuchs.

"Whenever the going got rough, and we needed a few yards," said the former quarterback, "I'd just grab the ball, lower my head, and follow the 'Brown Bear.'"

* * *

Mel Sheehan, all-conference end in '47 and '48, now back in Columbia to work toward an M.A., has played with some fine football teams this fall.

The towering Normandy lad edged a host of popular All-American flankers to get the starting nod along with Barney Poole in the 16th annual All-Star classic at Soldier Field, Chicago.

After the game, Sheehan joined the Cleveland Browns, three-time professional champions of the All-America association. The Browns, knee-deep in veteran wingers, released Sheehan to the Chicago Bears.

The Bears also had a full stock of ends.

Mel is slated to try again next year.

* * *

Missouri finished sixth among the nation's college teams in rushing in 1947. Last season the Tigers ranked seventh with a 267-yards-per-game average.

That prize standing came even though the Black and Gold was held to 66 yards on the ground in the 1948 opener at Ohio State.

This year Missouri pounded the Buc forward wall for 250 yards. By that standard . . . Now what?

* * *

Bob Maddock, new assistant to Faurot, was a starting guard on the 1941 Frank Leahy outfit at Notre Dame which finished with the first unbeaten record since the days of the immortal Knute Rockne.

* * *

In its 59 years of grid competition, Missouri has had no undefeated-united team. Bill Roper's 1909 eleven came close to a perfect record with seven victories and a tie in eight games.

FIELD STUDIES of lightning by General Electric use the Empire State Building as a laboratory. Knowledge gained from these and from . . .

LABORATORY BOLTS—the most powerful ever produced—aid G-E engineers in developing better and lower-cost protective equipment.

G-E LIGHTNING LABORATORY—world's largest—is new center for continuing lightning research.

'Tamed' lightning helps to write its brother's story . . .

LIGHTNING—when you consider it in terms of microseconds—is not nearly so impetuous as summer storms might indicate. Before loosing its charge, for instance, it sends down advance “streamers” to plot out the easiest path and makes sure that the earth sends up other streamers to meet it. In its downward course it may hesitate forty times and more before deciding on its next step. . .

Some strokes are extremely slow, building up and releasing their charges in a tenth of a second rather than the usual millionth. They produce no thunder. . .

More than 95% of our lightning comes from negatively charged clouds. . .

Facts like these are part of the working knowledge of the engineers in General Electric's High Voltage Engineering Laboratory in Pittsfield, Mass. It's their job to develop lower-cost equipment that will better withstand lightning and that will better protect electric service against it.

To aid these specialists, General Electric recently equipped them with a new laboratory, the world's largest lightning center. One of the main tools: the most powerful man-made lightning ever produced, rivalling the force of natural bolts, adding further to our knowledge of this “weapon of the gods.”

By emphasizing research and creative thinking, by encouraging fertile minds to follow their own imaginative bent, and by implementing their work with the best available facilities, General Electric remains “a place where interesting things are happening,” and stays in the forefront of scientific and engineering development.

To young men of the mid-19th century desirous of a fruitful career, the great editor, Horace Greeley, gave the now-famous advice: "Go West!"

Where do you go from here?

MAYBE you're stuck in an uncongenial job. Maybe you see a low ceiling on your prospects for the future. Or maybe you have no real idea as to just where your best business talents lie.

To young men in doubt as to their professional qualifications, we are happy to offer aptitude-preference and vocational-interest tests. There is no charge of any kind for this helpful service. Our reward comes in uncovering men of character and ability to whom we can offer a pleasant and profitable career in providing family security. Those who reveal no special talent for underwriting are guided into fields offering greater scope for their particular gifts.

These tests are available to you through our 55 general agents across the country. If you would care to take them, write to us for the name of our general agent nearest you. Remember, too, whatever your life insurance needs, you can look with confidence to National Life—famed for a century for thrift, stability, and friendly service.

"SURE,
it's a

"And I don't mean electric light bill, either. I mean a light electric bill. Because lights are only a small part of it. It's a cooking bill and a cleaning bill and a heating bill and a cooling bill and a hot-water bill, as well. It covers food preservation and entertainment washing and ironing and sewing and a lot of other things besides. It's the biggest bargain in my family budget. When the cost of practically everything else has gone

UP, the price of my electric service has stayed modestly LOW. I know I'm getting twice as much electricity for my budget dollar as Mother did 20 years ago—and electricity is doing many, many more jobs than it did then.

"It's a LIGHT bill, of course!"

LONG DISTANCE CALLS

Made to Your Measure in Less Than Two Minutes

IT WOULD BE NICE if we could keep a lot of ready-made Long Distance calls waiting in neat rows for you to take your pick. But it won't work that way.

You need too many sizes. Today, it's a 100-mile or 1000-mile call. Tomorrow, it may be our special 2947-mile size (the longest possible call in continental U. S.).

Whenever you call, wherever you call, we make it to your measure and deliver it in less than two minutes on the average!

It takes lots of planning to do such careful tailoring. It takes a lot of equipment. And it takes the skill and experience of many, many people.

Long Distance service grows steadily faster and better. And it's friendly service all the way.
