The day of vengeance has come and gone and the Tigers again lost to Oklahoma. However, they need not hang their heads in shame for they played a great game against a great team. Don Faurot again has produced an excellent team—a team that will be remembered as one of the best at Missouri.

There are still rumors of a 'Gator Bowl bid if the Tigers defeat Kansas and Kansas State.

Homecoming 1949 has been recorded as one of the most successful. It included a reunion dinner for the class of 1924 with a reception afterwards, an alumni luncheon Saturday, a Homecoming parade, and a one-point victory for Missouri over Nebraska, 21-20.

Plans are now being made for the reunion of the classes of 1900, '10, '20, and '25 next year so if you are one to make long range plans don't forget to include this on your calendar. (P.S. Don't forget to apply for your football tickets early.)

One of the most interesting highlights of Homecoming was the distance that many alums traveled to revisit their alma mater. They came from north, east, south, and west and a more cheerful bunch cannot be found. The widely scattered alumni included Robert F. Lloyd, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell N. Colvin, Madison, Wisc.; William N. Deatherage, Long Beach, Calif.; Dr. John A. Orris, Windber, Pa.; Mrs. A. M. (Delia Miller) Proctor, Durham, N. C.; Roy A. Burgess, Carmel, N. Y.; and many, many more.

THE COVER—Football may be on the downgrade in other sections of the United States, but here in Missouri it seems to become a bigger attraction every year. This picture shows a few of the thousands that attended the Oklahoma A&M game and even with addition of 5,000 new seats at Memorial Stadium many thousands of requests were turned down for the Tiger-Sooner game.

ON CAMPUS

Athletic Scholarships

Five students at the University have been granted athletic scholarships under the plan recently approved by the Board of Curators.

The five recipients, all residents of Missouri, are: Charles Darrell Sifford of Jefferson City; James G. Rutter of Shelbina; August Heineman of Versailles; Jack Richard Jones of Pleasant Hill; and Berton McVay of Princeton.

They will each receive $400 for the year, payable at the rate of $70 for fees and books for the first semester, $60 at the beginning of the second semester, for the same purpose, and nine monthly payments of $30 each, to be applied on living expenses.

Of the five, Sifford, Jones, and McVay are all freshmen in the University and were awarded their scholarships on the basis of their high-school records. Rutter and Heineman are continuing students, both juniors this year, who won the scholarships on their University scholastic records.

M. U. Professor Writes Southern History

Dr. Lewis Atherton, A.B. '27, A.M. '30, Ph.D. '37, chairman of the History Department at the University, is the author of a new book, "The Southern Country Store, 1800-1860," published in October by the Louisiana State University Press.

"The Southern Country Store" is a social and economic history of what eastern business men often called the "country and interior trade" of the Old South.

Leaves of Absence

A year's leave of absence has been granted to Dr. H. R. Long and Prof. Winston Allard of the University School of Journalism.

Dr. Long will spend his leave recuperating from a recent illness at his farm in Rochester, Ind.

Prof. Allard will use the time to pursue work toward a Ph.D. degree at the University of Oregon. He has been replaced by J. Linwood Cutler, former assistant professor of journalism at Florida State University, who will teach courses in book reviewing and feature and special articles.

Dr. Bower Aly, professor of speech and director of forensics at the University, has been granted a year's leave of absence to serve as a visiting professor of speech at Louisiana State.

DR. LOUIS A. EUBANK

Assistant Dean

Dr. Louis A. Eubank has been named Assistant Dean of the College of Education at the University. Dr. Eubank has been Director of Teacher Placement and Associate Professor of Education at the University for the past two years and will also retain these duties and titles.

In his new duties, Dr. Eubank will assist Dean Loran G. Townsend in the administrative duties of the College of Education.

New Banking Curriculum

The University will set up a special curriculum next fall for students seeking careers in the banking profession.

The Missouri Bankers Association is cooperating in the program and through its member banks will counsel prospective students in their communities on the special banking curriculum.

Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, president of the University, said that the University will combine an Agricultural and Banking Curriculum for students interested in a banking career in agricultural sections. It will also develop a Business Administration and Banking curriculum for those interested in an administrative career in banks of the larger cities.

Grandson Visits Mizzou

A surprise guest at the home of President and Mrs. Frederick A. Middlebush last month was Daniel Read Bacon of Monroe, N. Y., a grandson of Daniel Read, president of the University from 1866 until 1876.

Construction Program

At long last it appears that M.U. will get a student union building by 1951. After these many years of waiting plans are being made to construct one-half of the building in 1950 and complete it in 1951.

It had been planned to start construction in 1948, but contractor bids were higher than the funds available.

The new addition to Rothwell Gymnasium now under construction is nearing completion and will provide a dance floor that will comfortably accommodate 1500 students.

Work on the permanent dormitories for men is progressing rapidly with the northwest dormitory nearly completed and the other two expected to be completed in 1950. When completed, the entire group, including Defoe Hall, will house about 1000 men.

The new women's dormitory is expected to be completed by next fall. It will house 300.

A permanent addition to Connaway Hall has been completed, providing additional facilities for the enlarged School of Veterinary Medicine, and a huge army shop building has also been acquired and reconstructed on the campus as a veterinary clinic.

A new Engineering Laboratories addition has been completed and was occupied this fall on the campus, and construction is now underway on a new chemistry building.

'Miss Missouri'

Jane Stone, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carney Stone of Jefferson City, was chosen "Miss Missouri" at a contest held in Kansas City on August 12.

Miss Stone weighs 119 pounds and is 5 foot, 6 inches tall with ash blond hair. She recently was featured in a Life magazine feature in comparison with a Smith College student.

She also represented Missouri in the "Miss America" contest in Atlantic City in September.

Practical Nursing

A practical nurse training program to provide increased nursing service for the rural areas of Missouri will be initiated at the University about January 1.

The program, which offers twelve months of classroom and clinical training of practical nurses from 18 to 45 years of age, will be directed by Miss Virginia Harrison, Director of Nursing Education and Associate Professor of Nursing.

He circumnavigated the world at a profit in his early 20s as an advertising salesman.

In the depth of the economic depression in the '30s, when the company he was with liquidated, he took all of his active accounts to another agency and successfully established a foreign division for that company. Ten years ago he opened his own company, which for the past seven years has placed more advertising in export publications than any other agency.

He recalled vividly his first teaching job after graduation which was at Moberly, Mo. Aside from being principal of the grade school he was also coach of the high school football team and he laughingly relates that his boyish looks enabled him to play fullback on the team without anyone suspecting.

By 1904 he teamed up with his father in the sheep business and remained in that business until he retired in the fall of 1946.

President of Surgical Group

Dr. Thomas G. Orr, A.B. '07, Med. '10, for the second time this year has been named president of a surgical group. On September 27 Dr. Orr was elected president of the Southwestern Surgical Congress at a meeting in Houston and in April he was chosen president of the American Surgical Association.

Alumnus Gives New Approach To Stories in the Bible

Houston Harte, publisher of The San Angelo (Tex.) Evening Standard and San Angelo Standard-Times and also affiliated with several other Texas newspapers, is responsible for a striking new approach which clergymen and art critics say will make the Old Testament characters more widely read, understood, and appreciated.

The new approach is through Our Image, a collection of narratives from the King James Version of the Old Testament, selected by Harte.

Harte, a close reader of the Bible since his youth, long has sought to reconcile the fact that the Bible, though more widely owned than any other book, has not been so widely read.

The 56-year-old Texas publisher is a native of Missouri and was graduated from the University of Missouri School of Journalism, Class of 1915.

Upon graduation, he and John Donald Ferguson, now president and editor of The Milwaukee Journal, purchased the Central Missouri Republican at Boonville, Mo. Upon returning from World War I, later being discharged with rank of captain, he established The Boonville Daily Republican.

The Texas newspaper at San Angelo was bought May 1, 1920, starting a career that has grown with the years in newspaper properties and recognition of his achievements. He received the 1930 alumni award for distinguished service to journalism from the University and further recognition came in his long service on the Associated Press Board.

He and Mrs. Harte, the former Miss Caroline Isabel McCutcheon of Pilot Grove, Mo., have two sons. Edward H. Harte now is on the staff of The Kansas City Star. Houston H. Harte is an undergraduate at Washington & Lee University.

Writer Leaves M.U. $500

Mrs. Fannie F. Cook, '14, author, painter, and St. Louis civic worker who died August 25, left $500 to the English department of the University to be used for the purchase of books.

Mrs. Cook achieved sectional and national fame in the literary field and as a result of her work in interracial understanding. She recently won recognition for her painting. She had three novels published, "The Hill Grows Steeper," "Boot-Heel Doctor," and "Mrs. Palmer's Honey."

Americanism Award

Jet Aircraft Author

Charles Edward Chapel, A.B. '26, is the author of Jet Aircraft Simplified, to be published soon by Aero Publishers, Inc., Los Angeles. This is one of the first books on jet airplanes written so that the layman can understand the subject, according to Chapel. His address is 135-A West Manchester Blvd., Inglewood, Calif.

Pritchett, 47, who managed the Kansas City Milk Producers Association from 1932-35 and worked for the agricultural extension and soil conservation services in Missouri, will make his headquarters here. A graduate of the College of Agriculture, he and Mrs. Pritchett have two children, Nancy, 10, and Roger, 8.

Denslow, who lives at Trenton, Mo., published a 28 page report on his findings.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming

Homecoming 1949 has come and gone, but for two short days many memories of the good old days were relived as hundreds of Mizzou men and women returned to Columbia on October 28-29 to visit the campus and meet old friends.

About 30 members of the Class of 1924 and 40 guests were present at a reunion dinner held in the auditorium of the Christian Church.

Dr. Herbert Bunker, director of alumni activities, welcomed the graduates back to the campus. In a seconding speech of welcome, Thomas A. Brady, University vice-president in charge of extra-divisional activities and a member of the class, brought greetings from President Frederick A. Middlebush, who was unable to attend.

"I hope to see you again in 25 more years—if I'm still here," Brady said.

Russell R. Castell, East Alton, Ill., was master of ceremonies. He spoke briefly on the way things had changed since 1924. Casteel said staircases were getting steeper, papers were using smaller print, people were speaking in a lower tone, distances were getting longer, shoe laces were getting farther away and harder to tie, and rain was getting wetter.

"My classmates seem so much older than I am," he said jokingly.

Representing the School of Business and Public Administration was John Smith, Stockton, Mo. Smith was a drum major while on the campus.

Bernard Gibbs, Columbia, Mo., and Washington, D. C., represented the College of Agriculture and Omer Avery, LL.B. '24, Troy, Mo., represented the School of Law.

"Don't try to find places like the Palms, or Jimmies," Avery warned. "Don't go out to Rollins Field to see the football game because it won't be there. You have to go a lot further before you get to Memorial Stadium."

"One familiar figure that is still on the campus is that perennial tradition, Jesse Wrench," Avery said.

Before and after the dinner and speeches, the graduates got together to swap yarns. "Andy" Anderson, president of the '24 class, said he used to see gray-haired men standing around at Homecoming and wondered if he would ever look like that. "I've got my answer now," Anderson chuckled.

S. E. Hargadine, remembered a skunk some of the boys had for a mascot. "They named him 'Little Loving Sam' after me," Hargadine said.

SALLY ROBINSON

Homecoming Queen

Sally Robinson, 19, was crowned 1949 Homecoming Queen at the University October 26 in an elaborate coronation ceremony at Brewer Field House.

Miss Robinson, a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, is a junior in the College of Education. She is the daughter of Mrs. Faye S. Robinson of Maryville.

The four other queen finalists were named attendants to the queen. They are: Joanne Ruddy of Webster Groves; JoAnn Ferguson of Webster Groves; Carol Harris of Kansas City; and Barbara Frese of University City.

Following the dinner many of the alums adjourned to Brewer Field House for a 1949 version of a pep rally, but it looked strangely familiar as Jesse Wrench was there leading the cheering.

A reception for the 1924 class was held in Gwynn Hall after the pep rally. Here again old friends gathered to exchange memories. Many of the faculty members including Coach Don Faurot, who is a member of the '24 class, were present.

Saturday morning each school and college as well as social and fraternal organizations held open house. An alumni luncheon was held at the Daniel Boone Hotel with 175 attending.

After watching one of the most colorful homecoming parades in years everyone headed for Memorial Stadium to watch a fighting Tiger football team come from behind to defeat Nebraska 21-20.

Governor at Homecoming

Governor Forrest Smith and other Missouri state officials and members of Missouri General Assembly and their wives were guests of the University at the Homecoming football game on October 29.

Homecoming Committee

W. Cooper Cotton, member of the 1924 class and now a Columbia business man, was chairman of the reunion committee for the 1924 class. Other members of the committee were: C. C. Lightner of Columbia, and Dr. Thomas A. Brady, vice-president of the University.

'09 Roper Team

Eleven of the fourteen original members of the 1909 football team were present for the Homecoming celebration and were introduced to the crowd at half-time at the Tiger-Cornhusker game.

The '09 team, which was coached by Bill Roper, is the only undefeated Tiger football team in the history of the University. During that year they defeated Monmouth, 12-6; Kansas "Aggies," 3-0; Rolla, 13-0; tied Ames, 6-6; Iowa, 13-12; Washington, 5-0; Drake, 22-6; and Kansas, 12-6.

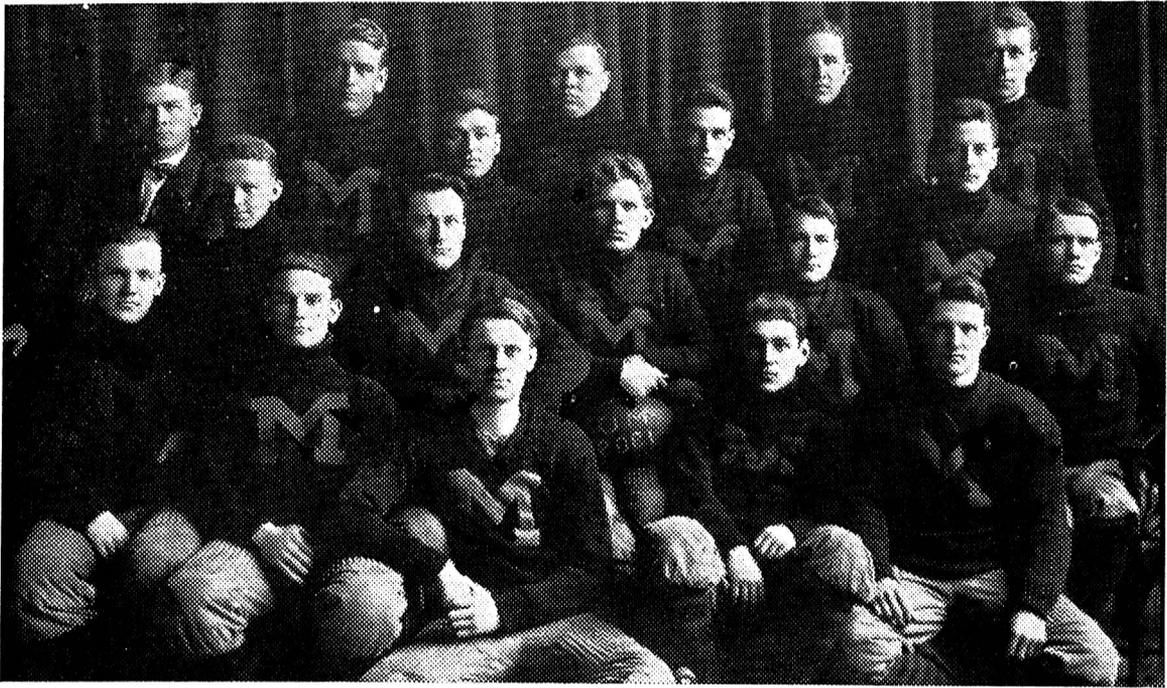

Former members of the team who returned for Homecoming are: W. H. Saunders, quarterback, Galesburg, Ill.; R. F. Johnson, tackle, Belgrade, Mo.; Art Idler, end, Webster Groves; E. C. Hall, halfback, Indianapolis, Ind.; Carl Ristine, captain, Washington, D. C.; Frank Thacher, guard, Poland, O.; W. H. Deatherage, halfback and end, Long Beach, Calif.; Ted Hackney, halfback, Fort Worth, Tex.; George Alexander, halfback, Fort Worth, Tex.; Warren H. Roberts, Ava, Mo.; and James E. Pixlee, Washington, D. C.

Deceased members of the team are: W. W. Roper, coach; Roscoe J. Bluck, Lloyd H. Curtis, Edward Klein, Glen B. Shuck, and E. P. Gilchrist.

An Apology

The Alumni office staff extends sincere apologies to H. W. "Tark" Crain of Springfield, Mo., for failing to get an invitation to him for the reunion of the 1909 football team.

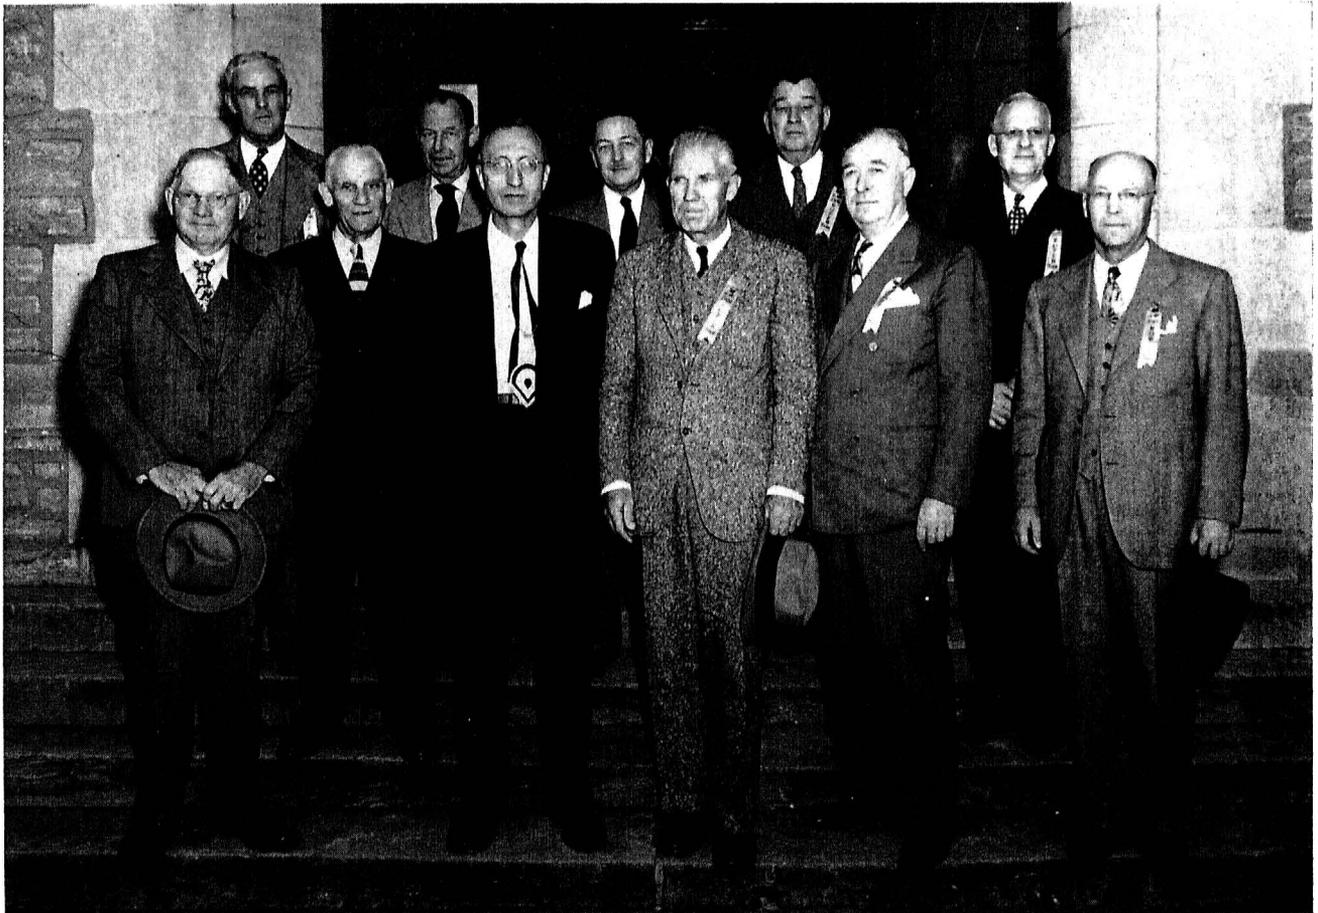

"Tark," who was an important member of that undefeated team, was sent an invitation to an old address listed in our office files. It was a regrettable oversight and an unforgivable error on our part, and we take this opportunity to say, "We are sincerely sorry."

The record of the Roper eleven in 1909 was seven wins, no losses, and one tie, a 6-6 deadlock with Iowa State.

Forty years later eleven members of the famous 1909 undefeated Roper football team returned to the site of their triumphs on the Missouri campus. From left to right, top row, are: E. C. Hall, Ted Hackney, W. H. Deatherage, George Alexander, and Art Idler; bottom row, Hill, W. H. Saunders, A. B. Wilder, Carl Ristine, Frank Thacher, and James E. Pixlee.

Student-Alumni Group

President Frederick A. Middlebush has announced the appointment of a Committee on Student-Alumni Relations at the University to foster a closer working relationship between students on campus, former students of the University, and the people of the State.

Composed of representatives of the faculty, the Student Government Association, and the University Alumni Association, the committee and its program was approved by the Board of Curators at its recent meeting.

The Committee includes: W. Francis English, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Science, chairman; Don C. McVay of Trenton, Mo., president of the Alumni Association; Winston Martin, a student in the College of Agriculture and president of the Student Government Association; Sam B. Shirky, associate dean of the College of Agriculture; and Guy H. "Bus" Entsminger, assistant director of alumni activities, who will serve as secretary of the committee.

Speaking of the proposed functions of the Student-Alumni Committee, Dr. Thomas A. Brady, vice-president of the University in charge of extra-divisional educational activities, said that its aim will be to give University students an opportunity to study some of the problems of the Alumni Association and the University administration in their relations with the public, and to give their aid in the solution of these problems.

The committee will set up a Student Alumni Council composed entirely of University students, and will serve as an advisory body to this council, Dr. Brady said.

Mizzou's 'Bing' Ewing Promotes a Country Club

By ALLEN BLACK

Crisp autumn air has caused the sports minded world to turn to football, but down in the southwestern Missouri community of Nevada they are still playing golf and praising the man who made it possible.

His friends told him that it could never be done. It was just a pipe dream. However, Boyd Ewing is not a man to be easily swayed by defeatist attitudes. He set his goal twenty years ago and last spring it was reached—a country club and golf course for his hometown of Nevada.

It was all done so quickly and in such an easy manner that Ewing found it difficult to understand why similar efforts had failed in the past.

Back in 1920 a group of Nevada golf enthusiasts leased a plot of ground just outside of the city limits and turned it into a golf course. Small membership fees were assessed to pay the rent and cut the grass, but that was the end. There wasn't any clubhouse or any place to relax.

Located almost in the center of the course was an attractive frame house owned by an Osage Indian chief named Harry Kohpay. Kohpay had bought the house because it was located on a former camping ground of his tribal ancestors. He even placed a sign above the door—Osaka Pa Teepec—(Osage Chief's House.)

The old chief was finally forced to sell his home for financial reasons. It was bought by Sam Carter of Nevada and the local golfers continued to drive to the right and to the left.

Boyd Ewing was just a young lawyer fresh from the University of Missouri campus when the idea struck. He purchased the old Indian chief's teepee with the intentions of someday turning it into a country club.

This was in 1929 and then came the depression. There were still plenty of golf enthusiasts, but money was tight and the idea had to be postponed.

Ewing temporarily shelved his dream, but every spring it returned. "Why couldn't Nevada have a country club like other towns?"

Several times during the late thirties he approached the owners of the golf course on the idea of selling to a group of sportsmen. They were willing, but the price was always too high.

It was not until after World War II that Boyd or "Bing" as he is known to his friends got the break for which he had long sought.

Early this spring Fred Sanders, local clothier and chairman of the golf association, stopped Bing on the street. He told him that membership fees had to be increased to meet added costs, and that several members had refused to pay because of the poor facilities.

That was Bing's cue—he headed for the office of the landowner. Now was the time to buy the land. Bing told Boyd "Bing" Ewing (right), Fred Sanders (left), and Dr. O. O. Dodge chat while awaiting lunch at the new Nevada, Mo., Country Club. It was through Ewing's leadership and the assistance of his two friends that the promotion of the Club was successful.

For His Hometown at Nevada, Missouri

The clubhouse is located on a hill in the center of the golf course and the scenic countryside may be seen for miles. It is the former camping grounds of an Osage Indian tribe.

his story, the membership was too high and the club was about to break up. What was his price? After a few minutes of bartering an agreement was reached—$7500 for 90 acres of land. Bing called his friend and fellow golfer, Dr. O. O. Dodge, an optometrist, and between the two they purchased the golf course.

Then Ewing sprung his 'ace-in-the-hole'. He would sell his attractive modern home at a sacrifice, $7500, to the golf association provided that it be made into a clubhouse.

A few days later a meeting of all interested golfers was held. The idea as presented was that a new golf association of 150 members would be formed with an initial membership fee of $225. There were to be no cliques or any blackballing. Memberships were to be solicited on a first come first served basis with emphasis on those sincerely interested in golf.

Means were also provided for those who were not financially able to put up the initial fee especially former caddies and ex-servicemen. Credit was not extended by the association, but by individual businessmen.

A time limit of 40 days was set to sell the 150 memberships and each of the 29 present at the meeting was to help in the drive.

As you have probably suspected

Ewing was again the driving force. He sold more than half of the memberships.

The drive was so successful that it was necessary to increase the membership to 165. Among the members are doctors, lawyers, dentists, grocers, druggists, insurance salesmen, realtors, bankers, undertakers, car dealers, farmers, restaurant managers, newspapermen, salesmen, veterinarians, government employes, school teachers, photographers, ministers, housewives, carpenters, mechanics, plumbers, accountants, army officers, and others from all walks of life and occupations.

Boyd Ewing's dream had come true. The townspeople had taken to his idea that had failed to materialize so many times in the past. A month later he rented a house in Nevada and moved.

Carpenters, contractors, and housewives were contacted on the big job of remodeling the newly purchased clubhouse. Costs of material and furnishings were figured and the wives of the members were given the job of decorating.

Everything possible was purchased through some member at cost. Not one person complained or haggled over the price. The labor, of course, was paid for at regular scale.

Then came the big day, the Nevada

Country Club's First Annual Invitational Golf Meet. Some 90 players participated in the meet and it was only fitting that a Nevadan, Tony Knoderer, a former caddy and ex-serviceman, won first prize with a sizzling 62.

This was only the beginning. All summer the members and their friends dropped in at the clubhouse just to visit and early evenings found few empty lawn chairs. It was not just the same group day after day, but a mingling of all the members.

It now has become necessary to enlarge the clubhouse. A new addition is being added to provide dancing space and a name band is to play there this winter.

The facilities are not being limited to members alone. It will be made available to civic and private functions for a fee.

Included in this 90 acre golf course are several acres of undeveloped land. This ground is being cleared at cost by a member, and soon will be sold as residential lots with strict building requirements.

So instead of the Osaka Pa Teepee sign above the clubhouse door Nevadans may some day see—Former Home of Boyd Ewing, Founder of the Nevada Country Club.

James S. Moose—World Traveler

By DOROTHY SELF McGUIRE, A.B. '12, B.S. '12

James Sayle Moose, Jr., A.B. '22, is a world traveler, an accomplished linguist, and a trained diplomat. Although he is not yet 50, he has already had an important finger in the Near Eastern pie as a member of the United States Foreign Service for 21 years.

His latest assignment makes him chief of the Division of African Affairs, a post for which his recent work as Foreign Service Inspector prepared him particularly well. He returned to the United States last winter from nine months abroad, during which he traveled about 40,000 miles by plane, train, and boat, and inspected nearly every diplomatic and consular post on the African continent. He also visited Zanzibar and Madagascar and filled temporary assignments at Beirut and Paris.

His first appointment after joining the Foreign Service in 1928 was as vice consul at Salonika, Greece. Service with the American Legation in Baghdad followed. In 1937 he was assigned to the legation at Tehran, Iran. He remained there for five years during an interesting period of Persian history which included the abdication of the pasha, traditional ruler. Moose traveled so widely while he was in Iran that he came to know that country as only an occasional foreigner and very few Persians know it.

Because of his knowledge of the Persian language, he was assigned to open the first American Legation in Arabia at Jidda, Saudi Arabia, in April, 1942, and he was the first minister to that country. Saudi Arabia, one of the least known countries of the Middle East, is ruled by King Ibn Saud, one of the world's few absolute monarchs. Jidda, on the Red Sea coast, was the only city open to Europeans at that time.

Pictures in the January 10, 1944, issue of Life show Moose with King Ibn Saud on the occasion of a visit to Jidda of a United States military mission headed by Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, commanding U. S. Army Forces in the Middle East with headquarters at Cairo.

A temporary four-month assignment at Damascus intervened between Moose's work in Saudi Arabia and his appointment as Foreign Service Inspector nearly two years ago. When named to the latter post he was the junior of five men holding such positions.

A gifted linguist, the new Arkansas (Morrilton) member of the Department of State speaks Persian, Arabic, Turkish, some Spanish and Greek, and, of course, French. Foreign languages were a major interest during his years of undergraduate work at M. U. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1922 at the age of 18.

His wife is the former Eleanor Duncan Wood VI of Maysville, Ky. She also attended the University, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Journalism in the same class as her husband.

School of Mines Lauded

President Frederick A. Middlebush of the University in a Homecoming address November 5 at the University's School of Mines and Metallurgy, lauded the School's progress but warned that greater facilities are required for maximum efficiency of its program.

The school has grown from 843 students in 1941 to 2704 in 1948.

'24 Class Officers

Officers of the 1924 University senior class were: President A. T. Anderson; vice-president, Irvin A. Fietsam; secretary, L. A. Young; and treasurer, H. M. Trowbridge.

Dr. H. M. Hosford, vice-president of Southern Methodist University, and Clifton Blackmon, president of the Dallas Chapter of the Missouri Alumni Association, chat with Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, president of the University, at a luncheon sponsored by the Dallas Chapter prior to the Tiger-Mustang game.

Many Mizzou alumni turned out for the Dallas luncheon including three former Tiger football stars: R. Crosby Kemper, president of City National Bank, Kansas City; T. E. D. Hackney, Ft. Worth; and Aubrey Alexander, Ft. Worth.

Washington, D. C. Chapter Opens 1949-50 Program Series

By C. H. SCHOOLEY, B.J. '25

The Marshall Plan and ECA have prevented Russia from advancing its Iron Curtain to the Rhine, and perhaps to the English Channel, Col. Stanley Andrews, B.J. '21, told the Washington, D. C., alumni chapter in opening a 1949-1950 program series.

Col. Andrews, who spent 18 months as General Clay's head man in charge of agriculture for Western Germany, has returned to duties as Chief of the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations, in the Department of Agriculture. He described difficulties that followed division of Germany into zones, saying Russia got the food basket, Britain the industry, France the Black Forest, and the U. S. the scenery, but credited the Berlin airlift with solidifying western strength to produce the present stalemate.

Dr. O. E. Reed, B.S. '08 and M.S. '10, president of the Washington alumni body, has just returned from Europe to inaugurate the fall meetings. Dr. Reed, Chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry at the Department of Agriculture for more than 20 years, headed the State Department delegation to the World Dairy Congress, held in Stockholm in August. Mrs. Reed accompanied him.

The senior Bureau Chief at the Department of Agriculture, Dr. Reed was honored when Purdue University, where he had served on the faculty before coming to Washington, conferred a Doctor of Science degree at the 1946 commencement.

Other officers for the year's activities are C. Herschel Schooley, first vice-president; Chester H. Gray, '97, second vice-president; Miss Katherine Helm, '09, secretary; John L. Graves, '25, treasurer, and Frank B. Sheetz, senior Washington alumnus, '88, re-elected sergeant at arms.

At spring meetings, the Nation's Capital alumni honored three freshman members of the Missouri Congressional delegation who are M. U. alumni. Clare Magee, LL.B. '22, First District; Morgan M. Moulder, LL.B. '26, Second District, and Paul Jones, B.J. '23, Tenth District; heard Sam B. Shirky, Associate Dean of Agriculture and longtime chairman of the University's Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics, in a Founders' Day talk, and received a fine summary of European agricultural conditions from J. Barnard Gibbs, B.S. in Ag. '24, Department of Agriculture editor newly returned from abroad.

Fall and winter meetings of the alumni group will be held this year at the Sheraton Hotel.

Central Ohio Alumni

Officers were elected September 23 at the initial meeting of the newly organized Central Ohio Alumni Association of the University of Missouri. About 75 persons were present including Harold "Bus" Entsminger, assistant director of alumni activities of the University.

President of the new organization is Ezra McCulloh; vice-president, Walton Holmes; and secretary-treasurer, Duane Tice.

Middlebush at Alumni Luncheon

President Frederick A. Middlebush gave a brief talk to members of the Law Alumni Association at its annual luncheon meeting in Jefferson City on September 30.

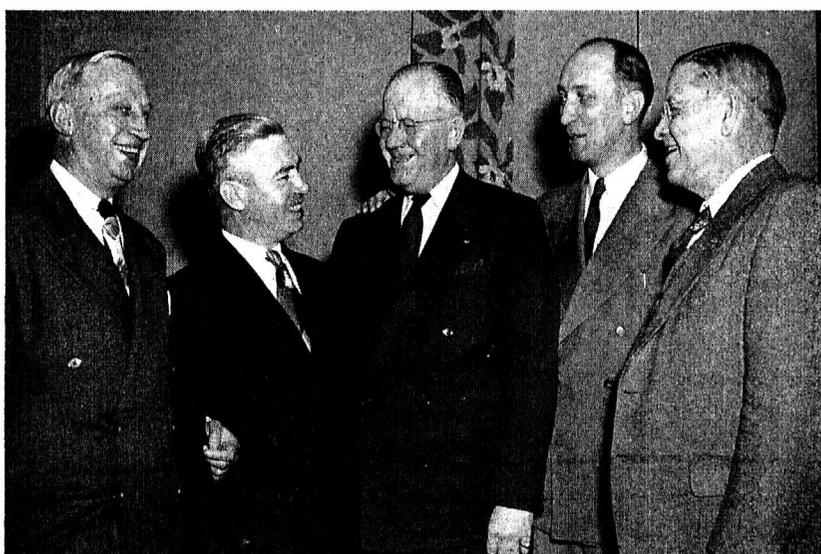

He outlined briefly the present trend in enrollment and said that officials anticipate another rise in enrollments to begin in the late 1950s, with the possibility that enrollment in the University about 1957 may reach or exceed the record of more than 14,000 in all divisions reached in the fall semester of 1947-48.

Dean Glenn A. McCleary of the Missouri School of Law introduced the members of the School's faculty to the 200 alumni and guests at the luncheon, and motion pictures of the Missouri-Chio State football game were shown.

Columbia Hospitality

Old grads and former students of the University who attended the Oklahoma-Missouri football game on November 12 lunched informally at the Daniel Boone Hotel with classmates and friends at a pre-game luncheon sponsored by a group of local alumni.

'Flying' President Meets Alumni

Even while aboard an airplane and at national meetings, the president of the University meets prominent alumni and holds informal discussions on University affairs.

As President Frederick A. Middlebush flew to Washington recently to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the Association of Land Grant Colleges, he had as traveling companions on the plane from St. Louis to Washington two prominent graduates of Missouri, Mervin J. Kelly of New York, and Grant Wyatt of St. Louis.

Kelly, executive vice-president of Bell Telephone Laboratories, received a B.S. degree from the School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla in 1914 and an honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering in 1936. He is president of the Alumni Association of the School of Mines and Metallurgy.

Wyatt is a graduate of the College of Engineering of the Class of 1917. Now vice-president of the Frazier-Davis Construction Company of St. Louis, he also is active in the University's Alumni Association.

One of the members of the executive committee of the Association of Land Grant Colleges with whom Dr. Middlebush met in Washington was Dr. Claude B. Hutchison, B.S. in Agr. '08, vice-president of the University and Dean of the College of Agriculture there.

On the plane returning from Washington to St. Louis, Dr. Middlebush met Jerome T. "Jerry" Duggan, A.B. '36, LL.B. '38, who is with the law firm of Gage, Hillix, and Phelps, and W. C. Dannevik, Jr., LL.B. '38, who is with Riss and Company, Inc., freight trucking firm. Both are from Kansas City.

Oklahoma 27
Missouri 7

A gallant Tiger football team fought a valiant battle against the strong Oklahoma Sooners on November 12, but went down to a 27-7 defeat before the largest crowd ever to witness a game in Columbia—37,152.

The entire student body of the University had been fired-up with enthusiasm all week and many thought the time was right for an upset, but came Saturday morning and the rain. It fell intermittently up to game time and the spirit that had ran almost to a fever pitch all week died down.

Oklahoma scored first on a 52 yard drive three minutes within the second quarter. The touchdown was made in seven plays, all rushing. Missouri came fighting back with an aerial attack that knotted the count at 7-7. Pass plays from Klein to Hulse highlighted the drive. The tie was shortlived as the Sooners drove 69 yards in 14 plays to take a 14-7 half-time lead.

However, the Tigers' hopes for making up the seven point deficit faded in the third quarter as the Sooners capitalized on a fumble and a pass interception to set up their final touchdowns.

Both Faurot and Wilkinson praised Missouri's line for the superb way in which they held the Sooners to 257 yards rushing, something that other teams haven't been able to do this year.

Wilkinson and his squad said that Missouri was undoubtedly the best team they have played since they defeated Texas 20-14 and the Oklahoma coach said that his team played their best game of the year.

Coach Faurot was high in his praise for Oklahoma, but said that it might have been different if our passes had been clicking.

In The Tigers' Lair

By MARSHALL LOEB

Coach Don Faurot's Tiger football men began to straighten out and fly right after two one-point losses at Ohio State and S. M. U. early this season.

Going into the crucial Oklahoma match, Missouri had a 3-0 conference record and a 5-2 mark against all comers.

The Missourians rebounded from their near-upset of Ohio State to match determined S. M. U. touchdown-for-touchdown. However, Doak Walker connected with all four extra point attempts (while John Glorioso booted a respectable three for four) to give the Mustangs a 28-27 decision and sweet revenge for last season's setback.

First Tiger victory came in the home opener with Phil Klein and Martin Sauer quarterbacking Missouri to a 21-7 edge over Oklahoma A & M. A two-touchdown offensive display early in the third period broke a 7-7 half-time knot to please the Missouri fans.

Next week Missouri invaded the (till then!) undefeated Illinois tepee, and promptly set down the Illini tribe, 27-20. The victory was the Tigers' first against a Big Ten opponent in 22 years.

Blocking back Win Carter developed into a first-class ball carrier so the Illini learned. Carter ripped off consistent gains through center all afternoon.

Another clean slate was wiped out by the steamed up Tiger outfit when Missouri opened the Big Seven season at Iowa State. The Cyclones, who had hit big time with a 20-20 tie at Illinois, were floating on the crest of four games without a loss before the Missourians came to town to upset the applectart.

The Black and Gold line consistently ripped through the Cyclone forwards to set back the Iowa State offense. Among the standouts were guards E. B. Cox, John Kadlec, and Gene Pepper, tackle Dick Scholfield, and end Bob Ebinger.

29,000 fans packed Memorial Stadium Oct. 28 in hopes of seeing Missouri mop up hapless Nebraska in the annual Homecoming classic. But the Huskers, onetime conference kingpins, got tired of being shoved around by the big boys—Oklahoma, Penn State, and Minnesota—and came to town with blood in their eyes.

Coach Bill Glassford's revived Nebraska eleven almost did the impossible, but fourth period touchdowns by Glorioso and Dick Braznell erased a 20-7 deficit and gave Missouri a 21-20 edge.

End Fred Hulse climaxed three years of varsity play by setting up the dramatic last touchdown by blocking half-back Ron Clark's attempted punt from the Nebraska 35.

Captain Bob Fuchs made good his pre-season build-up for All-American acclaim at center while playing against an arch competitor, Nebraska's Tom Novak. Fuchs was a brilliant line-backer throughout.

Again the next Saturday Faurot's charges had to come through with blue chips down in the closing minutes at Colorado to keep Big Seven title aspirations alive.

With the score knotted, 13-13, the inspired Colorado line held on downs when Missouri had three chances to push over from the 1-yard-line midway through the final period. Glorioso again saved the day with little more than a minute left as he nabbed an 18-yard Klein pass on the 10 and ran through, over, and around the whole Buff secondary for the score.

WIN CARTER

One of Don Faurot's most pleasant surprises this fall has been the play of his star fullback, Win Carter. Carter, a senior, was just an average ballplayer last season, but this year he has been one of the outstanding backfieldmen in the conference.

Dick Ault—Mizzou's Track Ambassador

By MARSHALL LOEB

Dick Ault, the shy, lanky Olympics star just returned from another successful tour of Europe, swears that his active days as track ambassador are over.

The 23-year-old towering St. Louis senior has good reason to sing a swan song now. At the peak of his career, fresh from three Atlantic excursions good for one matched world record and enough trophies, honors, and vital experiences to content a whole team, Dick feels that he has reached a ripe point to retire.

His last race in Oslo, Aug. 31,—a :52.2 in the 440 yard low hurdles—equalled a world mark set by Olympics star Ray Cochrane in 1942. And, whatever Dick may do in another race, he couldn't do MUCH better than that.

However, this fellow's face lights up when he sits down over a couple of cokes to talk about his first love—track. And he likes to talk about Lisbon, London, Helsinki, Berne, Basal, Dick Ault recently has been chosen the outstanding amateur athlete of the Missouri area by the Ozark A.A.U.

The Tiger star now will receive consideration for the National A.A.U.'s John E. Sullivan award, top amateur prize.

Glasgow, Oslo, Paris, Prague, Copenhagen, Interlocken, Dublin, Brussels, or any of the other three-dozen foreign cities that his track exploits have taken him.

Ask Dick which of the European capitols he liked best, and he'll chortle "Helsinki!"—which, by rare coincidence, happens to be the site of the 1952 Olympiad.

Dick now is pointing to his February graduation and the coaching career he then wants to follow.

Ault made his first trip abroad last July as Missouri's representative to the American Olympics squad. This season he was chosen for a 52-man all-star track unit to face the finest European talent in a series of meets. The team flew to London, June 4, and competed in England, Ireland, and Scotland before coming back to America to run in the NCAA meet at Los Angeles, June 17-18, and the NAAU races in Fresno, June 25.

Dick did so well against the top Americans in this meeting that he was picked to go across again, this time flying to Lisbon, July 7, and going on to Portugal, Belgium, Norway, Finland, and Switzerland.

Perhaps the high spot of the trip, next to Dick's record-tying effort, was the first of two visits to Oslo for the famous "Little Olympics," July 27, 28, 29. Some 158 athletes from Finland, Norway, Switzerland, and Ireland teamed to oppose the United States outfit. The meet was Scandinavia's largest since the 1912 Stockholm Olympiad. Ault contributed greatly to the Americans' slightly 238½-224½ margin by taking the 400 meter hurdles in :51.8.

This summer he won all but two of his 29 races, most of them 400 meter hurdles or 440 yard hurdles. He also ran the 220 yard low hurdles, the 110 meter high hurdles, the 1000 meter relay, and the 400 meter relay.

While on his double cross-continental jaunt, travelin' Dick was coached by Ohio State's Larry Snyder and California's Brutus Hamilton, onetime Tiger javelin and decathlon great.

In free moments between smashing records, prepping for meets, and rubbing elbows with other greats of the sports world, Dick met notables in different fields.

Lord Phillip Mountbatten of England chatted with Lord Richard of Missouri while Ault was burning the cinders on the British Isles. U.S. Ambassador Douglas also welcomed him to the Island. The Irish were especially hospitable; both the Lord Mayor of Belfast had special "teas" for Ault's crew. Another Missouri alum, movie actress Jane Wyman, met Dick in Europe.

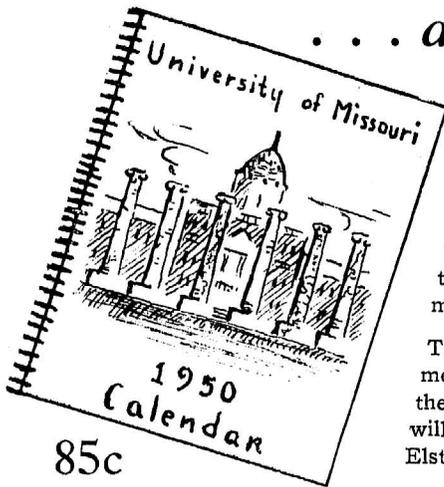

"Here come our best ambassadors," welcomed U. S. Ambassador Warren when Ault and his fellows reached Helsinki. "You men can do more to cement good international relations than

... a new tradition!

It's new . . . it's different. The 1950 spiral-bound calendar, in addition to daily appointment pages, includes 15 views of the campus, notes pages, and yearly calendars for '50 and '51 on the coverbacks. Its handy 6 x 7 inch size makes it a practical item for the desk or telephone table for use as a diary or as a memo for future events.

The calendar sale is a project of the women's governing body in co-operation with the three women's honoraries. The proceeds will become a part of the Sarah Gentry Elston Scholarship fund.

all the professional diplomats in the world."

Dick, too, leans to the viewpoint that one can do 100% more in an "unofficial" capacity." He feels that only when the people of the world get to know one another—through projects like exchange of students and athletes—we will have a basis for understanding one another.

"Everywhere we went, people treated us like princes," said Dick. "We ran before packed stadiums all over Europe; in Scandinavia (where the people are almost fanatic track fans) they had to turn folks away."

Ault is just the kind of fellow who can take the "Frank Sinatra" treatment gracefully. This outstanding athlete has had all sorts of praise heaped on him since he entered MU in the spring of 1946. The first Missouri man in some years to make the heralded Olympics squad was then the first Tiger star of modern years to captain a major team as a freshman. Dick was so outstanding as a cinder neophyte that year that his mates voted him the captaincy for the '46-'47 term, half of which was served while he was still one of the frosh.

Dick went on for the next two years leading the middle distance men for Coach Tom Botts' Big Seven championship teams.

Last season, his third with the indoor team and his fourth with the outdoor squad, he only improved the blistering times which won him the Olympic spot.

The coaching hopeful does not confine all his school activities to the athletic field. During the last school year, he was president of the Episcopal Student Center and a member of the Students' Religious Council. Besides working in the athletic department 40 hours a month, Dick found time to make 12 hours' "E" in his scholastic studies.

Missouri's own ambassador has made an international name for himself and for his school.

Perhaps Dick Ault really has hung up those golden track shoes for the last time—but a host of MU followers hope not.

McGuire Ineligible

Track coach Tom Botts' hopes for a fourth straight Missouri championship took a body blow when Bill McGuire, star miler, was declared ineligible for the semester because of scholastic deficiencies.

McGuire, who still has two years of competition ahead of him, was one of Botts' trump cards last year. As a sophomore he was rated the most outstanding Tiger distance man since John Munski, who burned the cinders here about ten years ago.

Dear Friends,

After a year away from the University and from the State, I was given some copies of The Missouri Alumnus and decided I should get on the ball and subscribe to my own issues. I sat up until late last night reading the issues from "Kiver to Kiver" and am now enclosing $3 for more of the same.

Yes, I am a missionary-teacher in a Japanese girls' junior and senior high school here in Tokyo. Just now I realize that one of the years of my three-year term has passed and I still feel like a new arrival in this fascinating country. Having a B.A. in 1948 with an Area of Concentration in political science and labor economics and 16 hours of German means nothing—I am now struggling with the Japanese language and teaching English conversation, composition, and physical education. My weekends are spent in a town about 35 miles northeast of Tokyo teaching 6 hours of English and Bible on Saturday, with a brand new choir and young peoples' group on Friday night.

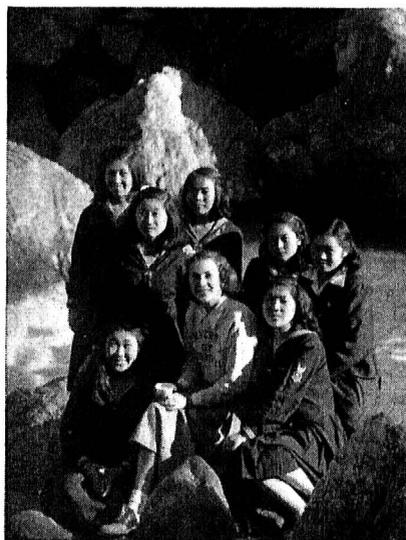

Five days of teaching in the high school here in Tokyo, with every week-end spent at the church in another town, still leaves time for other activities. This summer I have been attending a series of YWCA counsellor at the first International High camps for Japanese girls and also acted as School Girls' Conference here in Japan, under the sponsorship of the YWCA. I have just returned from a week of "roughing it" in the northwoods of Japan with 57 Japanese high school girls and six other leaders.

Three of my closest friends among the Americans in Tokyo are M. U. graduates, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Carpenter (faculty member on leave) and Pvt. Abe Abukoff, B.J. '47. Abe works on the Stars and Stripes with Major Fred May, editor and also M. U. graduate.

Sincerely

Alma Wyatt

"SURE,
it's a LIGHT BILL!"

"And I don't mean electric light bill, either. I mean a light electric bill. Because lights  are only a small part of it. It's a cooking bill  and a cleaning bill  a heating bill  and a cooling bill  and a hot-water bill,  as well. It covers food preservation  and entertainment  washing  and ironing  time-telling  and sewing  and a lot of other things besides. It's the biggest bargain in my family budget. When the cost of practically everything else has gone ^{UP,} the price of my electric service has stayed modestly ^{LOW.} I know I'm getting twice as much  electricity for my budget dollar as Mother did 20 years ago—and electric-ity is doing many, many more jobs than it did then.

"It's a LIGHT bill, of course!"
