DIAGNOSIS:

knife wound in the heart

UNDER THE blazing blue sledge hammer of a Chicago heat wave, the cramped, makeshift operating room shimmered like an oven, reeking of ether and carbolic. Six sweat-drenched, frock-coated doctors huddled in fascination, watching deft hands reach into a human chest and expertly stitch up a wound in the redness of a pulsing heart.

Would he live? The surgeon mopped his brow and hoped. The year was 1893; the operation, fantastic.

Live? Yes, he would live for many more years, thanks to the skill and courage of Dr. Daniel Hale Williams.

Abandoned as a child, Williams, a Negro, had struggled hard for his medical education. Now only 37, he had already founded America's first interracial hospital, Provident. And here he had just performed the first of the pioneering operations that would mark him as one of our country's great surgeons.

Sensitive and brave, Daniel Hale Williams was blessed with an abundance of the same urge to help his fellow man that binds and strengthens Americans today.

And it is these strong, unified Americans who are our country's real wealth—the real backing behind our nation's Savings Bonds. In fact, they're the true reason why U. S. Savings Bonds are considered one of the world's finest, safest investments.

For your own security—and for America's—why not invest in Savings Bonds regularly? And hold on to them!

About the Cover

What does a retiring football coach think about after 19 years at the helm? Athletic Director Don Faurot seems meditative as he views deserted Memorial Stadium after the season and his coaching career end. One thing sure, he'll always remember that thrilling finish over Kansas, and the triumphant ride his players gave him on the field. (Lower photo by A. B. Crank, K. C. Star).

is published monthly except August and September by the University of Missouri Alumni Association, 101 Read Hall, Columbia, Missouri and mailed to all active members in the Association. 4 new dormitories for men

The South Dormitory Group will be expanded from the present four units to include four more residence halls and a central cafeteria and service center.

The small cardboard scale model above indicates the general layout. In the foreground are the existing residence halls (Defoe, Graham, Cramer, and Stafford) which run north and south and face Hillcrest Avenue. The proposed cafeteria is in the center. Back of these buildings, to the west, are the four proposed halls which will extend east and west, perpendicular to the present dormitories. They will not be connected to the present buildings, nor to the new cafeteria building. Neither will the cafeteria be a connected and integral part of the four present dormitories, as originally planned. The food service center will be a two-story structure, completely air-conditioned. It will also contain lounges and recreation facilities.

Each of the four new residence halls will house about 110 men students. Each will be four stories high and approximately 115 by 39 feet in size. Construction will be financed largely through the sale of revenue bonds. The five units will cost a total of approximately $2,056,242 if the low base bids submitted by the contractors on December 11 are accepted. That total is below the architects' estimate.

The general area is just south of Rothwell Gymnasium and Brewer Field House.

AROUND THE UNIVERSITY

Four Go Uncapped

When the School of Nursing held its traditional capping ceremonies in Jesse Auditorium on November 11, some people wondered about the plight of the four male students in nursing among the forty-six women students—would they be fitted with caps too? No, as it turned out, they were merely presented, and the girls alone were capped in the colorful ceremonies. President Ellis, Dean Roscoe Pullen of the School of Medicine, and Miss Ruby Potter, director of the School of Nursing, were the speakers. The ceremonies mark the transition of students from academic to clinical studies upon completion of the first year and a half of courses.

Annual Giving Report

The first annual report of the Alumni Achievement Fund has been distributed as an Honor Roll listing those who have given to the University from July 1, 1955 to June 30, 1956. As explained by President Elmer Ellis in a foreword, for many years the University has received gifts through various sources, and rather than continue the solicitation of alumni in many different programs, the University has now coordinated all such giving under the comprehensive title, the Alumni Achievement Fund. A summary report shows there were 1,525 donors who contributed a total of $57,972.68. All allocated gifts have been assigned to the departments designated by the donor. Gifts in the unrestricted classification are in the process of assignment through an Alumni-Faculty allocation committee. This first annual report is a most encouraging one, and since the University must get about 60% of its total operating budget from sources other than state appropriations, it is to be hoped that the Alumni Achievement Fund will grow much bigger each year. The 1956-57 campaign is now in progress.

Dr. London Honored

Dr. H. H. London has been honored by the American Vocational Association. The professor of industrial education was presented life membership in the association at its annual convention in St. Louis this month. The membership was given on behalf of seventy-six men who are beyond their matriculation examinations or have completed the requirements for their doctorates under the direction of Dr. London.

Summer Construction

The $75,000,000 bond issue approved by Missouri voters a year ago is gradually materializing. The next step is to sell the bonds, now that the Missouri Supreme Court has ruled the bond issue valid. Now the plans and specifications for the buildings on the Columbia and Rolla campuses will be drawn up by the architects. The University hopes to get under way on these buildings next summer: At Columbia, the Fine Arts Building, the Business and Public Administration Building, the Engineering Building; at the School of Mines and Metallurgy, completion of the Engineering Laboratories Building and erection of the Civil Engineering Building. It is planned to start on the other buildings approved as soon as the supply of labor will permit.

Neff Hall in Pakistan

A year or two from now, any alumni who happen to be in Hyderabad, Pakistan may do a double-take upon beholding what appears to be Jay H. Neff Hall. The fact is that plans are afoot to duplicate that building as the home of the Journalism Institute at Pakistan's University of Sind. The head of the Institute, Mohammad Naseer Chaudhry, recently wrote to Dean Earl English of the School of Journalism for the original plans and specifications, along with permission to use them. University building authorities have given the go-ahead. In his letter to Dean English, Chaudhry said the Sind authorities have such a high regard for the University of Missouri, and particularly its School of Journalism, that they wish to duplicate this School's first permanent home as a monument to the close cooperation between the two universities. Chaudhry took graduate work in journalism here, receiving an A.M. in 1953, and plans to return next year to work toward his Ph.D. degree. In 1918 Ward A. Neff of Kansas City, B.J. '13, gave the University money to construct a new building as a memorial to his father, Jay H. Neff, publisher of the Corn Belt Dailies until his death in 1915. The building is now connected by an archway to a second structure of similar size, Walter Williams Hall, built in 1936. Ward Neff was a recent visitor at the School of Journalism.

Medical Center Dedicated

Dr. Roscoe L. Pullen, dean of the University's School of Medicine, could not have chosen a more ideal day for the ceremonies dedicating the new Medical Center on November 10. The program was held outdoors at the south entrance to the Teaching Hospital and was attended by several hundred persons in mild, sunny weather. All members of the Board of Curators were present, as well as several former members, and many state dignitaries also attended. University President Elmer Ellis presided and introduced the distinguished guests. Dean Pullen spoke on "Potentialities of the University of Missouri Medical Center." The address by Powell B. McHaney, present member of the Board of Curators and the Board president when the legislature approved the $13,500,000 Medical Center, is reprinted in this issue.

Growing Enrollment

Before the semester ends, let us tell you the final enrollment figures. In the Columbia divisions, 9,538; in the School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla, 2,404. The total of 11,942 in all divisions is an increase of ten per cent over the 10,843 on the two campuses last year. The enrollment in the Columbia divisions is an increase of 606, or almost seven per cent, over a year ago. The Rolla gain of 493 over last year's total of 1,911 represents a 26 per cent increase. The two engineering divisions of the University show the largest increases of any divisions. The Rolla enrollment includes 17 women and 2,387 men, while the Columbia campus has 2,251 women and 7,287 men students. The student housing situation was tight in Columbia throughout most of the summer, and 1,190 prospective students who requested permits to enroll in the fall did not actually enter the University.

Big Job for Wilson

George C. Wilson, professor of music and director of bands at the University, is resigning at the end of June to assume full-time duties as vice-president of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich. He has conducted the camp for the past several summers. President Ellis said the University "regrets exceedingly the loss of the services, year after year, of our fine band and orchestra leader." He said the opportunities for Prof. Wilson at the National Music Camp, which is affiliated with the University of Michigan, "are very great and we wish him every success. His work at the University of Missouri has been exceedingly fine and he will be a hard man to replace." Prof. Wilson came to M.U. in 1946 after work at the University of Arizona and Kansas State Teachers College.

The 1957-59 Budget

We roll around again to appropriations time, that biennial struggle of the University to obtain funds to carry on its program. Like the price of coffee and cars and practically everything else these days, the cost of education keeps going up. The University administration policy is to ask for funds to cover actual current needs and to prepare for the future; frills and items that can wait are not pressed for. Appropriation requests read cold and dull without the story of urgency behind them; but here they are, in brief, as they have been submitted by the University to W. B. McGregor, assistant state budget director: A total of $21,981,300 for the divisions at Columbia and Rolla, with the exception of the Medical Center and the Missouri State Crippled Children's Service. (The appropriations received for these divisions from the State for the 1955-57 biennium were $15,331,850). The amount asked for the Medical Center is $7,277,315, and the request for the Crippled Children's Service is $1,500,000.

The Requests in Brief

A breakdown of the $21,981,300 sought for the Columbia and Rolla divisions goes like this: For the Agricultural Extension Service: Personal service, $2,228,300; operations, $100,000; total, $2,328,300. Agricultural Experiment Station: Personal service, $1,200,000; operations, $596,000; total, $1,796,000. Adult Education and Extension Service: Personal service, $172,500; operations, $52,500; total, $225,000. For the Columbia divisions with the exception of the Medical Center and the Crippled Children's Service: Personal service, $10,708,000; additions, $250,000; repairs, replacements and operations, $3,987,000; total, $14,945,000. For the School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla: Personal service, $1,987,000; additions, $75,000; repairs, replacements and operations, $625,000; total, $2,687,000.

Best Measuring Stick

President Ellis contends that the most important measure of an institution's ability to maintain high academic quality is the professional salary scale for teachers and those who engage in research. In the requests of two years ago a comparison of our salary schedule with twelve neighboring universities was submitted. It showed Missouri was paying appreciably lower salaries for instructors than any of them, and a lower scale for all other ranks of instruction than most of the other schools.

"We were pleased to receive funds from the General Assembly which enabled us to make some adjustments in salaries during the current biennium," President Ellis said. However, he added that, while these increases were very helpful, many other institutions were making increases at the same, and it is necessary again to request an increase in the personal service appropriation.

"It should be pointed out," President Ellis said, "that in spite of the increase in salaries we were able to make in the present biennium, we have suffered a loss of first-rate teachers and researchers to other universities, to business, and to the Federal Government because, in general, the salaries paid by such groups have been higher than those at the University of Missouri. And, to add to this problem, our salary schedule has made it exceedingly difficult to recruit new, young teachers of high quality to replace those who left."

Our Continuing Job

Powell B. McHaney, president of Curators when Medical Center won legislative approval, speaks at dedication of $13,500,000 plant.

This is a great day for all of Missouri. It has significance not only for the University of Missouri and future generations of its students, not only for the medical profession, but for the entire State of Missouri.

It was 46 years ago that the movement which we see climaxed here today first began. Since 1910—with brief interludes—men interested in the welfare of our State, in the progress of the University of Missouri, and in the advancement of medical education, have lent their time, efforts and talent to the creation of a four-year medical education program under the direction of the State University befitting the academic standards of the University and its prominence as an educational institution.

Through the years so many men have done so much in so many ways to help secure the authorization and funds for this modern Medical Center that it would be virtually impossible to name them all. They merit recognition, but neither time nor memory would permit recognition of each by name, nor could some be mentioned without mentioning others, for the efforts of no one individual or group of individuals could alone have realized this tremendous achievement. It was the combined effort of many over so long a time that brought about the development of an accumulative will on the part of all who were interested and could be benefited, that finally resulted in this important step toward adequate medical education and service for the citizens of Missouri.

To the faculty and administrative staff of the University of Missouri, we, the people of Missouri, owe a debt of gratitude for their dedication and perseverance in quietly but firmly urging the establishment of a full four-year curriculum. To the members of the Board of Curators for the past 40-odd years, who—despite changing membership from time to time—fostered and supported the conception of mature and complete medical education; to members of the alumni of the University who manifested their dedicated interests in countless ways; to citizens at large throughout the State who made known their views and will in support of the four-year program; and finally, to the governor and legislature of Missouri, who by their positive action made possible the authorization and funds—may I express, in behalf of all Missourians, living and as yet unborn, our deep and lasting appreciation.

Let all who have participated take full recompense and satisfaction in the knowledge that what they did will be beneficial to the State of Missouri and its people long beyond the lifetimes of those gathered here today.

In full enjoyment of that satisfaction, however, let us not find relaxation. There is about us here a magnificent Medical Center—attractive in style, functional in design, and splendidly equipped. That it has all become a thrilling reality constitutes a challenge and an inspiration for those interested in the

PRESIDENT ELLIS

MR. AND MRS. HOUCHINS

MR. BROOKFIELD

DR. MIDDLEBUSH

He Remembers University With Large Gift

CLAUDE M. HOUCHINS never attended the University of Missouri, but he has long held the institution in high regard. As he progressed in his successful career as a tax attorney in Washington, D. C., his desire to do something for the University grew stronger. This native Missourian has carried out his wish by arranging to bequeath to the Board of Curators securities having a current value of approximately $375,000. Income from the securities is to provide scholarship aid to deserving students from Mr. Houchins' native Pike County and the State of Missouri. Part of the income will be used for the partial endowment of a Distinguished Professorship at the University.

Although he is not an M.U. graduate, Mr. Houchins is now an honorary alumnus. When he and Mrs. Houchins visited the campus in October and were guests of honor at a dinner meeting of the Curators, he was awarded honorary membership in the Alumni Association "in recognition of his outstanding service to the University." Alumni President Dutton Brookfield said, "We feel that friends of the University should be recognized while they are still living."

Mr. Houchins said a major factor in his decision was the confidence he has in the governing board and officers of the University and the efficient way in which the business of the institution is conducted.

Other speakers at the dinner were President Elmer Ellis and James A. Finch, Jr., president of the Board of Curators.

After growing up on a farm, Mr. Houchins attended Gem City Business College in Quincy, Ill. Employed in a government bureau in Washington, he studied accounting at the Pace and Pace School of Accounting (now Benjamin Franklin University) and Southeastern University and law courses at George Washington University when it was known as National University. He was admitted to the bar and became a specialist in tax law.

Mr. Houchins is a lively conversationalist who leaves no doubt of his devotion to the state of Missouri and the University. Anything Missourian engages his whole interest. He attended the recent Alumni Club meeting in Washington, where he was introduced and spoke briefly.

Mr. and Mrs. Houchins, with President Emeritus Frederick A. Middlebush and Mrs. Middlebush, made a tour of the campus and were guests of President and Mrs. Ellis at the S.M.U.-Missouri football game.

Charnia J. Adelman, B. J. '50, is interested in organizing alumni in New York City. Her address is 3510 Ave. H, Brooklyn 10. Since July she has been assistant to the publisher of "Instalment Retailing" magazine, and previously was associate editor of "Baby Post" magazine.

Dr. R. H. Westveld, forestry department chairman, is the new chairman of the Council of Forestry School Executives, having served a year as secretary. The council is made up of the heads of the twenty-six accredited forestry schools in the United States.

As a follow-up to our article about T. Hartley Pollock, A.B. '28, in the September issue, we're glad to note that the St. Louis Bar Association has received the American Bar Association's award of merit for its "Law in Your Life" program of public relations and information. Pollock headed the St. Louis organization during the time that the award-winning program was initiated. St. Louis won the honor in competition with all of the large city bar associations over the country. Pollock and another alumnus, Tom K. Smith, '04, were among thirteen nominees for this year's St. Louis Award, which went to Mayor Tucker.

Do you remember a talented student of the early 40s named John Haymer Flieg? You may know him better in the future as Johnny Haymer, which is his stage name. He is one of the bright lights in the current Broadway production, New Faces of '56, in which he acts in five sketches. While at the University he built up solid experience in Missouri Workshop plays under the direction of Donovan Rhynsburger. He appeared in such productions as "Comedy of Errors," "You Can't Take It With You," "Francesca de Rimini," "What a Life," and "The Circle." In those days he was seriously considering a career as a Shakespearan actor. His acting at M. U. has surely served him well in handling a variety of character parts in New Faces, but his repertoire now includes singing and dancing. The 1942 Savitar pictures Johnny doing his Stalin impersonation at the I. M. A. War Party.

MISSOURI MEMO

Clarence W. Terry, '14, former University cross country runner, and now practicing attorney and realtor of Camdenton, Mo., was taking an extensive vacation trip at Homecoming time this year, and missed the occasion—the third time since 1908 that he has missed a K.U.-M.U. game. Mr. and Mrs. Terry were "down under," attending the Olympics, in November this year. They left San Francisco on Nov. 2 for Honolulu, then made stops at Canton Island, the Fijis, Auckland, N. Z., and on to Melbourne. The other two occasions when Mr. Terry missed the games were in 1912, when he was at Evanston, Ill., running cross country, and in 1940, when he was in the hospital with a fractured skull. Mrs. Terry, the former Isabel Nason, has been teaching in the schools of Camdenton, now that the daughters are grown and married.

C. F. Wasser of Jefferson City, Mo. (he was known as "Toad" Wasser when he attended the College of Engineering from 1912 to 1916) has taken out a two-year active membership in the Alumni Association for his daughter, Barbara, who received her B. S. in Education in June. We always applaud this gesture by parents; it makes a nice gift to go along with other remembrances at graduation time. Barbara B. Wasser is teaching math at Dana Junior High School, San Diego, Calif., where her address is 4344½ Montalvo. In 1954-55 she was president of Women's Pan Hellenic and was senior representative on the Student Council the next year. Mr. Wasser is completing his thirty-sixth year of highway engineering, the last 23 years being with the U. S. Bureau of Roads.

Mrs. William H. Elder, Nina, Patricia, and Prof. Elder.

The ne-ne goose is so rare that it's practically extinct, but why? That is the mission of Dr. William H. Elder, shown above with his family before they left for the Hawaiian Islands, the only place where the bird is known to exist. Dr. Elder, Rucker Professor of Zoology, has fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation, the Yale Bishop Museum, and the International Society for the Preservation of Birds. In seeking to learn why the ne-ne goose has become almost extinct, Dr. Elder will spend time high in the lava mountains, nesting place of the birds.

True D. Morse

True D. Morse honored

Alumni Citation of Merit is presented to Under Secretary of Agriculture.

AT THE ANNUAL BANQUET of the Association of Agricultural Alumni, True D. Morse, Under Secretary of Agriculture and president of the Commodity Credit Corporation, was awarded the Citation of Merit by the University of Missouri Alumni Association. Mr. Morse is a native Missourian (born on a farm near Carthage) who operated a 400-acre farm and retail dairy to earn money to attend the University. He was graduated in 1924 with a B.S. in Agriculture degree. On the campus he was vice-president of the student body, president of the Ag Club, director of the Horse Show, and was prominent in other activities.

Before going to Washington in January, 1953, Mr. Morse had been in the farm management and agricultural service business for twenty-six years. He was president of the Doane Agricultural Service, Inc., St. Louis, where numerous alumni hold responsible positions. He was editor of the Doane Agricultural Digest from its origin in 1938 until 1954. Before resigning from the organization to go to Washington, he had been elected chairman of the board.

Fraternity award to Haag

DR. HERMAN M. HAAG, B.S. '30, received a "Master Builder of Men" award at the national biennial conclave of Farm House fraternity which was held here this fall and commemorated the fraternity's fiftieth year. The recognition was for Dr. Haag's work with the active chapter, with the alumni, and as a national officer and national board member. A former faculty member, he is research director of the Missouri Farmers Association. The first chapter of Farm House was founded at Missouri in 1905, and two of the seven founders were present at the conclave, D. Howard Doane, B. S. '08, M. S. '09, and Prof. H. H. Krusekopf, B. S. '08, A. M. '16. Preston W. McDaniel, B. S. '39, is secretary-treasurer of the national organization and editor of its publication, Pearls and Rubies, with offices in Memphis, Tenn.

Alumni rank high in Rotary

THREE FORMER STUDENTS are officers of Rotary International. Carl E. Bolte, '23, of Kansas City is a member of the 1958 Convention Committee. Louis L. Roth, '17, of St. Louis is chairman of the Rotary Foundation Committee. Edward V. Long, '27, of Bowling Green, Mo. is a member of the Finance Committee. Mr. Bolte until recently was executive vice-president of Berl Berry, Inc. He is a trustee of three colleges and in Kansas City is vice-president of the Museum, a director of the Salvation Army, and vice-president of the Rotary Club and of the Oil Men's Club, and a committee member of the Chamber of Commerce and YMCA. Mr. Bolte is also a professional speaker. Mr. Roth is senior partner in the Roth Insurance Agency in St. Louis, a past president of the Rotary Club there, a director of the St. Louis Downtown YMCA and the Children's Home Society of Missouri. He is national president of Sigma Nu fraternity. Mr. Long, an attorney, is a former prosecuting attorney of Pike County. He is president of the Long Theater Co., Long and Co., Towner Loan Co., Farmers State Bank at Greenfield, Ill., and the Canton (Mo.) State Bank.

Breakfast for geologists

AN M. U. ALUMNI breakfast held at the Geological Society of America's recent annual convention in Minneapolis was attended by 28 persons. Dr. Raymond E. Peck, chairman of the Department of Geology, introduced the alumni and three other members of the geology department who were at the convention: Dr. Walter D. Keller, Dr. Daniel A. Bradley, and Richard D. Hoare. Dr. Peck served also as co-chairman for a series of papers on paleontology, and Dr. Keller was appointed to the membership committee of the Society for a three-year term. In addition to the faculty, the following alumni and friends attended the Missouri breakfast: Ken Larson, Ray Thomasson, Marge (Cramer) Mullens, Thomas Mullens, Carl C. Branson, Romaine (Littlefield) Kupfer, W. W. Rubey, Richard Gault, Frank D. Holland, Robert L. Heller, Jack Burst, O. R. Grawe, Fr. James Skehan, Carl Robbins, Chalmer J. Roy and Mrs. Roy, Edw. Owen and Mrs. Owen, William B. Arper and his mother, Leo Thomas and Mrs. Thomas, Roger Spitznas, and Charles A. Beckman.

Alumnus is college president

DR. BURKE W. BRADLEY, vice-president of Stockton (Calif.) College for seven years, recently was named president. He was president of Moberly (Mo.) Junior College for two years before going to California. He received his A.M. in 1932 and his Ph.D. in 1942 at the University and is a former president of the Missouri Association of School Administrators. Dr. Bradley attended high school in Wheatland, Mo.

Notes on Cleveland meeting

FRANK MUTH, president of the Cleveland Alumni Club, is well established as a photographer and now he turns reporter to give us some news notes on the recent chapter meeting at which Junior Wren, '53 and Bus Entsminger were speakers. Wren is with the Cleveland Browns. Some of Frank's report in capsule form: Roy and Virginia Talbert really wanted to be on hand; they drove 60 miles to get there, found out the meeting was the following night, and they came back. Vice-president Larry Hitti and his wife Vi told of their fall vacation which included a visit to Columbia and attending the Iowa State game. Secretary Bill McCarter upheld the custom of some member of the Cleveland group having a baby the same time as the scheduled meeting—Bill's wife delivered her fourth that day; Bill, on the sales staff of Republic Steel Co., started out as a salesman of Showme when Mort Walker and Bill Gabriel were editors. Al Andrews, Jr. of the Cleveland Plain Dealer attended the entire program for a change; he usually has to leave early, but this time there was no limit because his paper was closed by strike.

H. W. Prentis, Jr.

Coveted award to Prentis

HENNING WEBB PRENTIS, JR., chairman of the board, Armstrong Cork Company, Lancaster, Pa., received the Henry Laurence Gantt Gold Medal for 1956 for "distinguished achievement in industrial management as a service to the community." The presentation was made at a personnel conference of the American Management Association, Inc., at Hotel Statler in New York. The award was made under the joint auspices of the American Management Association and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The citation to Mr. Prentis read: "In recognition of the dynamic contribution he has made to management as a service to the community, state and nation through his personal participation in that service, through the successful direction of his company into this philosophy, and through his understanding and inspirational leadership of those associated with him."

Mr. Prentis, A.B. '03, was awarded the LL.D. here in '50. Other M. U. degree holders in the family include a sister, Mrs. William T. (Hallie) Nelson, '05, Columbia; two brothers, Joseph E. Prentis, '08, Hartford, Conn., and the late Morton W. Prentis, '06, Baltimore.

The Floyd C. Shoemaker portrait by MacMorris

Shoemaker portrait presented

AN OIL PORTRAIT of Floyd C. Shoemaker, for forty-two years secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri, was presented to the Society at its annual luncheon on October 19. The presentation, at the Memorial Student Union, was made by E. E. Swain of Kirksville, chairman of the finance committee, and the acceptance was by Dr. Elmer Ellis, president of the University and trustee of the Society. The portrait was painted by Daniel MacMorris, Kansas City.

Mr. Shoemaker has been with the Society since 1910, serving first as assistant secretary, and then as secretary, librarian, and editor since 1915. He holds three degrees from the University, an A.B. received in 1910, an A.M. in 1911, and the Honorary Doctor of Laws degree in 1954. Holder of the Phi Beta Kappa key and the Wells Key of Sigma Delta Chi, he has been called "Mr. Missouri" and "the dean of historical society directors of the United States." His leadership was cited by a Missouri Senate resolution in 1955. The Society leads other such state groups in memberships.

FIVE COUNTY AGENTS in Missouri were among those receiving distinguished service awards from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents at its annual meeting in Houston, Texas this fall. All are graduates of the University College of Agriculture. They are Glen Mutti, '34, Monroe County, with the Extension Service since 1934; Fowler Young, '33, Clay County, with 22 years service; John Carr, '39, Crawford County, 14 years service; Walter Heidlage, '40, Bates County, 12 years; Herbert Rolf, '40 and M.S. '54, St. Charles County, with the service 12 years.

Forestry alumni hear Westveld

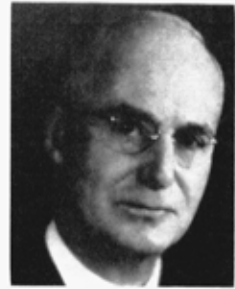

TWENTY FORESTRY ALUMNI meeting at a luncheon at the Chisca Hotel in Memphis, Tenn. on October 16 heard Dr. R. H. Westveld discuss some of the problems of the University's Forestry Department arising from the increased enrollment and the expanded research program. These alumni were in Memphis to attend the annual national meeting of the Society of American Foresters. In addition to the alumni and their wives, Dr. Peter W. Fletcher and Dr. Robert E. McDermott of the Forestry Department staff as well as Dr. Paul Y. Burns, former member of the University of Missouri Forestry Department staff and now Director of the School of Forestry at Louisiana State University, were present. Alumni and their wives attending the luncheon were: Lee K. Paulsell, R. L. Peipenbring, John R. Kullman, class of 1949; Harry Moran, Kerwin Hawner, William W. Purcell, Richard N. Deed, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Liechti, class of 1950; W. Z. Hawkins, Donald Smith, class of 1951; J. M. Nichols, Richard Taylor, Ralph H. Kunz and Mrs. Kunz, class of 1952; Ed. Grisham, Harold W. Smith, class of 1953; Alvin L. Gann, C. L. Biswell, Roy D. Ross, Jerry T. Davis, class of 1954; Douglas Mason and Mrs. Mason, class of 1955.

Reunion in Mobile Bay

in chance meeting aboard tender*

A NOTE FROM Mrs. George C. Gundlach tells of a meeting she and Mr. Gundlach had with Dr. Adrian J. Durant on a trip in Mobile Bay to the second largest dredge boat of the Corps of Engineers. Aboard a tender the first person they met was Dr. Durant, who was visiting a nephew employed in the same Corps office where Mr. Gundlach works at Mobile, Ala. "People of whom we had not spoken for years came to mind," Mrs. Gundlach writes. "We talked of professors we both knew well—Read, Duggar, Knudson, Whitten, Calvert, Conway, Elliff." The Gundlachs, who live at Pass Christian, Miss., recently observed their forty-sixth wedding anniversary. Among those attending the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Grandy, who also have M. U. backgrounds.

Roy H. Pinkley

Long milage in his career

UPON HIS GRADUATION in 1899, Roy H. Pinkley took a job as wireman's helper with the predecessor company of Union Electric and Power Co., St. Louis. This modest beginning launched him on a prominent industrial career, largely in the transportation field. In 1901 he went to Nashville, Tenn. for a year as consulting engineer and was in charge of design for the first municipal electric light plant in that city. He returned to St. Louis in 1902 and for five years was chief draftsman for Union Electric Co. Then he transferred to the associated company, Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co., in Milwaukee, for the special task of designing the Cold Spring Shops. He became engineer of way and structures in 1912, assistant general manager in charge of transportation in 1925, and four years later he was made vice-president in charge of transportation.

In 1938 the company changed its name to Wisconsin Electric Power Co., and the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Transport Co. was incorporated and set up as a wholly owned subsidiary, taking over all transportation operations. From that date until 1952 Mr. Pinkley was president and director and when passenger operations were sold to a new company, Milwaukee & Suburban Transport Corp., he continued in his position until January 1954, when he was made Chairman of the Board. A year later he was named Honorary Chairman of the Board and retained by the Transport Co. (trade name) in an advisory capacity. Last year the company had about 2700 employees and an annual revenue of more than 17 million dollars in its operation of street cars, trolley cars, and buses.

Mr. Pinkley was born near Chillicothe, Mo. At the University he earned the B.S. in E.E. degree and was a member of Tau Beta Pi. Mrs. Pinkley is the former Mabel Helen Duncan, A.B., '07, who was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. They have a son, George R. Pinkley, consulting oil geologist, San Antonio; and two daughters Mrs. Helen Kelly, Milwaukee, and Mrs. Margaret Varda, Madison. There are seven grandchildren.

Mr. Pinkley is a member of the American Transit Association, having served on its executive committee; the Technical League of Transport and Electric Companies; and the Engineers' Society of Milwaukee. In his civic activities he has served Milwaukee in various capacities, including the harbor commission and safety commission.

Hugh B. Terry

Terry is first recipient

HONORS CONTINUE to pile up for Hugh B. Terry, 1930 Journalism grad, who received the Paul White Memorial Award at the recent annual convention of the Radio-TV News Directors Association in Milwaukee. Terry, president and general manager of KLZ-TV and KLZ radio in Denver, is the first recipient of the coveted award, named in honor of the late CBS network news director.

Terry's selection was based on his leadership in conducting an editorial protest campaign against Canon 35, a legal ban on the use of cameras and recording equipment in the courtrooms. His on-the-air editorials were directly responsible for a public hearing called to determine the possible injustice of the ban, which later was revoked.

Terry was president of his graduating class in the School of Journalism. In 1955 he returned to receive the Honor Award for Distinguished Service in Journalism. He has held many important jobs in the broadcasting industry. He was named manager of KLZ in 1941 and has since compiled an enviable record of public service both to the community and the industry. The station has won scores of awards.

94 at Washington meeting

NINETY-FOUR ALUMNI attended the luncheon meeting of the Washington Alumni Club on October 30 at the Department of Agriculture. Walter John, vice-president of the M. U. group in the nation's capital, made the arrangements and was in charge of the well-attended meeting. The speaker was Bus Entsminger, who reviewed developments at the University and discussed the future. Claude M. Houchins, recently presented honorary membership in the Alumni Association, was introduced.

23 regional Ag meetings

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE Advisory Council recently concluded a series of twenty-three regional meetings held throughout Missouri. The programs were designed to tell of the work in research, resident teaching, and agricultural extension as carried on by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. Two or three faculty members spoke at each meeting.

Association board meets

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS of the Alumni Association, at the regular fall meeting in Columbia, voted to cooperate with two student groups in their plan to organize a parents' association. A meeting of parents was held during Homecoming and further organizational steps are scheduled. The student groups are Omicron Delta Kappa and Mortar Board.

The directors heard committee reports by William Toler of Kansas City, membership; Vice-president John Morris of Jefferson City, public information; Judge Cullen Coil of Jefferson City, Alumni Achievement Fund; Maurice Kirk of Higginsville, athletic advisory committee; and L. W. Helmreich of Jefferson City, awards committee.

Association President Dutton Brookfield of Kansas City appointed Richard J. Chamier of Moberly, former president, to head the nominating committee.

Others present included John Croll, New London; A. G. Anderson, Springfield; Chester L. Brewer, Kansas City; Edward W. Sowers, Rolla; Bud McLaren, St. Louis; Harold Niedrop, St. Joseph; Robert Neidner, St. Charles; and Hartley G. Banks, Columbia.

Ag reunion dinner in Chicago

A MISSOURI AG REUNION dinner was held in the Postillion Room, Stock Yards Inn, Chicago, on November 27 during the International Live Stock Exposition. About thirty-five persons attended the meeting. Speakers were Dean John H. Longwell and Associate Dean Sam B. Shirky of the University's College of Agriculture, and Bus Entsminger, director of alumni activities at the University. Gerald B. Thorne, '25, vice-president of Wilson & Co., had charge of arrangements, with an assist from F. L. Moritz, administrative assistant to the agricultural dean, who handled plans from the campus.

Kansas City tribute to Don

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF KANSAS CITY gave a tribute to retiring coach Don Faurot at its banquet and football rally held at the Hotel Muehlebach on November 29—two days before the Homecoming game here with Kansas. The speakers included Senator Stuart Symington, Governor-elect James T. Blair, President Elmer Ellis of the University, and Faurot. A thirty-minute portion of the program was broadcast over KMBC. Mr. and Mrs. Faurot were presented a tray. About 300 persons attended the affair, presided over by Bill Toler. The Diamonds came up from Eddys to sing, and Les Milgram led "the alumni band."

The Faurot Testimonial

The Faurots receive a standing ovation as they enter the banquet hall. At right, Gov.-elect Blair, who pledged his continued support of the Missouri athletic program.

The tributes piling up on Don Faurot after he announced his retirement from coaching reached an impressive climax on December 14 in Rothwell Gymnasium, scene of the Faurot Testimonial Banquet. When it was over, Don drove away in a 1957 Cadillac hardtop, the gift of hundreds of admirers over the state and nation. With him were his wife, Mary, and their three daughters, and his 84-year-old father, F. W. Faurot. In addition, he owned an assortment of tributes. And still ringing in his ears were the echoes of the standing ovations he received at the beginning and at the end of the program.

Praise for Faurot and his accomplishments came from the speakers: Missouri's Governor-elect James T. Blair, Jr.; Dr. Elmer Ellis, president of the University; Paul Christman, All-American of 1937; Bill Corum, syndicated sports columnist of the New York Journal-American; James A. Finch, Jr., president of the Board of Curators; and Bob Maddock of Indiana University, a former coaching assistant. Faurot was presented the Citation of Merit from the Alumni Association by its president, Dutton Brookfield of Kansas City; a resolution signed by officers of the Missouri House of Representatives, by Rep. Robert C. Smith; and a certificate from the national, state, and local Junior Chamber of Commerce, by Bernard Wardlow.

"It would be a mistake," President Ellis said, "to think that Don's contributions to the University will stop or slacken with his turning his whole attention to the directorship of athletics." He made it clear that the Missouri plan will continue and said, "We are fortunate to have Don's vigor and enthusiasm to help direct its growth."

1942 when Julie was 9 months old,
Janie was 7 and Aileen was 5.*

A highlight of the testimonial evening came when Alex Estes, general chairman of arrangements, presented Don Faurot with the keys to his new car—the gift of some 600 banqueteers and about 600 other admirers. The well-known motorist is pictured immediately after the presentation with his wife, Mary Faurot, and their "grown up" daughters, Julie, Janie, and Aileen.

Faurot Farewell Is Homecoming Theme

IT WAS the final game of the season and the last one to be coached by Don Faurot. So the theme for this year's Homecoming week-end was a farewell salute to the retiring coach. The theme dominated house decorations, parade floats, and other events, including half-time ceremonies at the game.

Our one-man photography staff, looking for a double-page spread, embarked on a tour of decorated houses shortly before game time. He shot pictures at random, and as many as he could, without knowing which house might be a prize-winner.

Of those pictures that turned out good enough, we selected a handful, coming up with one winner—Theta, first in the women's division.

While the collection presented here is by no means complete, we think it illustrates that the students put in a terrific amount of work and showed a great deal of ingenuity.

Tiger cagers young and small

A young and small Missouri basketball team got the season started with a heart-breaking 71-69 loss to Purdue on Saturday December 8, then came back Monday with an 81-71 win over a South Dakota team that owned an opening win over Wisconsin.

The bright spot in the two games was the outstanding out-court shooting of veteran Lionel Smith of Madison, Mo., and sophomore Sonny Siebert of Bayless High in St. Louis. Smitty came up with 22 big points in the first half of the Purdue opener and Siebert, who had only limited action in the first half, kept the Tigers in contention with 6 baskets during the second half. They wound up with 28 and 14 points respectively. In the South Dakota game, which both started, they split scoring honors with 22 apiece.

These two bid fare to take up the scoring slack left by the graduation of point producers Norm Stewart and Chuck Denny, but the big problem facing Coach Sparky Stalcup seems to be rebounding size and strength to come up with the 25-per-game average maintained last year by Stewart and Denny. On the basis of these first two games, another problem seems to be the lack of scoring punch from the post position. In these first two games starting center John Stephens and his number one replacement sophomore Chuck Duren, the team's two tallest men at 6' 6", have scored a combined total of only 5 points. With only two other lettermen, Bill Ross and Roger Egelhoff, lack of depth appears to pose another difficulty; and, of course the biggest issue of all is the overall strength of the Big Seven Conference.

At the time this was written four of the conference schools Kansas, Kansas State, Iowa State, and Colorado were undefeated and Nebraska owned big wins over defending champion Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin of the Big Ten. Kansas led by Wilt Chamberlain's 91 points and 53 rebounds in its first two games is everybody's pick for the number one team in the country, and at least one of the major polls also has Kansas State in the nation's top ten.

All factors considered, it looks like it may be a long winter for Sparky and his embattled Tigers.

After meeting Arkansas here, four teams on the west coast, and playing in the Big Seven Tournament at Kansas City December 26-29, the Tigers have this schedule: Jan. 5, Kansas at Lawrence; Jan. 7, Iowa State at Columbia; Jan. 14, Kansas State at Manhattan; Jan. 19, Nebraska at Columbia; Jan. 24, Iowa State at Ames; Feb. 5, Oklahoma at Columbia; Feb. 9, Colorado at Boulder; Feb. 11, Nebraska at Lincoln; Feb. 16, Kansas at Columbia; Feb. 18, Marquette at Columbia; Feb. 23, Colorado at Columbia; Feb. 25, Kansas State at Columbia; March 2, Oklahoma at Norman.

A break worth waiting for Thirty-eight seconds from the end of the 1956 football season, the Tigers got their first big break. It was a year of breaks, mostly big ones, mostly against the Tigers, and mostly Tiger-made. It was also a year of frustration, with fumbles and touchdown passes reaching epidemic proportions. If statisticians bother with such things, our 29 lost fumbles and 12 enemy touchdowns by passes could give us national titles. In three of the five games which were lost (Oregon State, Southern Methodist, and Nebraska) and in the one which was tied (Colorado), the team far-outdistanced its opponent statistically.

Surely some power that tries to keep matters in balance was at work to provide the Tigers with their biggest break. It was the Homecoming game with Kansas, the last time around for retiring coach Don Faurot. It looked like a 13-13 tie with about three minutes to go. Once again fate had been unkind as a bad pass from center cost Charlie Rash a chance to make it 14-13, and he had missed only one of the seventeen he had kicked during the season. But Kansas chose to gamble for a win. One flirtation with fate, in which the Jayhawks sought to gain five yards on fourth down, gave the ball to the Tigers on the Kansas 32. It appeared that the year-long pattern was running true as a Tiger pass was intercepted behind the K. U. goal line on the next play.

After being pushed back from the 20 to the 4 on an attempted pass, Kansas gambled again on a deep reverse in the end zone with 38 seconds to go, a stratagem which football primers would describe as a calculated risk, at best. Senior tackle Chuck Mehrer downed the ball carrier behind the goal line, and Missouri won 15-13, a sweet victory for a fired-up bunch of kids who played the second half without all conference quarterback Jim Hunter.

Even though this team had lost its Orange Bowl chances on successive weeks, first with a heart-breaking one-point loss to Nebraska that featured a couple of fast whistles on fumbles during Nebraska's last touchdown drive, and then with a 14-14 tie with Colorado that just never should have happened (if relative ability is a factor in winning a football game); even though this team had folded 67-14 at Norman before the onslaught of the number one team in the nation on a week when they were out to prove it; even though this team never reached its potentialities during a season of heartbreak and frustration for its retiring coach; it will be long-remembered by that coach, by a colleague named Mather, and by thousands of others as the team that won "The Big One," and won it the hard way—with a fateful assist in the final seconds.

1956 Queen, Kathie Shannon

HOMECOMING Royalty

This year's Homecoming Queen can be said to be "the people's choice." After preliminary judging and eliminations the field narrowed down to seven nominees. Then the decision was put to popular vote among the students, a departure from the customary manner of selecting a queen.

Katherine Shannon, the winner, is a sophomore in Arts and Science. Her parents are alumni. They are Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Shannon of Kansas City. "River" Shannon, prominent in alumni affairs, was graduated in agriculture in '15. Mrs. Shannon is the former Katherine Diffenderfer, who attended M. U. in '23 and '25.

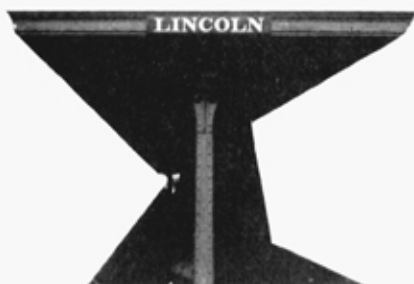

Kathie Shannon's attendants were Margy Blake, a senior in B&PA, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory E. Blake of Crystal City; and Ann Lewellen, senior in Arts and Science, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Lewellen of Jefferson City. Mr. Lewellen received an LL.B. in '29.

These girls, with four other finalists—Phyllis Ellebracht, Linda Kemper, Carolyn Wilkerson, and Annette Noble—participated in half-time ceremonies at the Kansas-Missouri game.

Queen Kathie was presented a huge bouquet of mums and Governor-elect James T. Blair, Jr. bestowed the traditional kiss.

The Homecoming Queen and her attendants, in addition to appearing at numerous campus functions, had a busy whirl of activity in Kansas City and St. Louis during the week of Homecoming. . . . Television and radio appearances . . . calling on the mayors . . . attending Chamber of Commerce and Rotary luncheons and the Kansas City alumni dinner honoring Don Faurot.

The half-time ceremonies at the game, also in tribute to the retiring coach, were impressive with formations well executed by the combined bands of Missouri and Kansas.

FOOTBALL SPECIAL

Ever take one of those football specials? Some fans never miss them. It's an experience that everyone should have, any initiate will agree. The 500 Tiger followers who took the special train to Lincoln for the Nebraska Homecoming game on November 3 were a jovial and enthusiastic bunch, though temporarily jolted by the game's weird finish. The junket started at Kansas City, with a pause at St. Joseph where three cars were added. As the pictures at right show, the passengers occupied themselves in varied ways. On the opposite page, you see the junketeers outfitting themselves with Tiger football caps; this dressing for the occasion continued aboard the train, and there were Tiger shirts, too, with the sales staff including such volunteers as beaming Alex Estes. Going and coming, no one sat still for long; the aisles were bustling, and passengers with parlor car seats were likely to be found in the chairless baggage car ahead, standing around the snack bar there. It was a busy, chummy occasion, but at the end some were weary, like John H. Norton, Tiger back of '95 and inveterate follower of the team, who snoozes on the way back to Kansas City.

95 "GREETINGS. . . ." "With this, the first appearance of the Savitar, the editors present you with their best efforts, and greet you with best wishes for a long and happy existence. . . . It is with much fear and trembling that we submit our maiden effort to the mercies of a critical world. . . . may someone in the distant future 'rise up and call us blessed,' because of the fond memories brought back by the perusal of the "Savitar."

And so, with L. J. MARSHALL as editor-in-chief, was the first Savitar published in 1895 for the year '94-'95, and with a name chosen from the Vedic god which symbolizes the life-giving powers of the sun. In October of this year the same L. J. Marshall, who is more commonly known as the Rev. Marshall of Independence, Mo., was recognized by the Christian Church for his 50 years of service as an ordained minister. At his home at 710 S. Noland, the Rev. Marshall was presented with a gold pin honoring his ministry which began as a student at the University. He has spent all but one year of his service in Missouri, and most of this time has been in Jackson County. He had churches in Lee's Summit, Kansas City, Independence, and, for one year, Pueblo, Colo. Dr. Marshall was also a charter member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity on the campus at Missouri.

10 GEORGE CALVIN PAYNE, AB, is retired and lives at 88 Morningside Drive, New York 27, N. Y.

You've probably received one of our information blanks to be filled out with news for these columns. Occasionally someone will sit down and really write a newsy letter in response. Such a correspondent is Prof. O. R. JOHNSON, BS Ag '10, MS '12, chairman of the Department of Agricultural Economics, whose welcome letter follows:

"I suspect I stick around the Department of Agricultural Economics so closely that not many alumni are curious about my whereabouts or activities. In August I did have a chance to visit with several alumni in the West. My brother, W. L. Johnson, who graduated here in Engineering with a C. E. in 1912, was very busy looking after his contracting firm at Tucson, Arizona. Likewise his wife, Helen (McGill) who graduated here in 1911 and who was an Instructor in the Botany Department and an excellent basketball player in her undergraduate days, is very much alive and busy taking care of her numerous grandchildren.

"I also had word from H. J. Patrick, who is an attorney in Los Angeles and who was my roommate in Rothwell Gym about 1908 or 1909. Pat was a clarinet player in the band and secretary to J. C. Jones, who was then Dean of Arts and Science. He visits with my Mother and sister in Glendale rather frequently. That is the way he and I keep in touch with one another. The number of friends of my day in undergraduate work is decreasing. When I get out into the world I see more of my early students than I do of classmates. Two of them came through this office just before I went on my vacation this summer and I had a good visit with them. One of them, Mr. Howell, is Professor of Animal Husbandry at the University of California, Davis Branch. Another, Leon W. Wing, who was one of my earliest students, is a farmer and banker at Salinas, California. He was in my office for a nice visit in July. I did not get to his farm while near there but got all around it. 'Joe' is a modest guy but he is actually doing a lot of farming while running a bank in Salinas.

"I have to go to the Alumnus to get a line on some of my older associates. One of these was Bert Williamson, who is a retired electrical engineer living in Los Angeles. Bert came from my home community to the University and in 1906 when I first came to Columbia, Bert was my landlord in my freshman year. Bert and his wife lived in a little yellow frame house that used to stand where the new dormitory is now being built across the street from the Medical Building and just north of the old brick home of Professor Lipscomb. I guess I better stop. Only a few of the older alumni will be interested in these things. It is too ancient to be of much interest to most of the alumni leaders."

O. D. WILLIAMS, LL.B. has retired and recently moved from his former home in El Paso, Tex., to 1944 Hono Rd., Santa Fe, N. Mex. A son lives in Santa Fe, and this proximity, along with the climate and scenery, brought about the change.

11 CHLO FINK, AB, BS Ed., AM '17, was retired from Winthrop College, the South Carolina College for Women, at Rock Hill, S. C., in July, 1955, and in September of that year joined the staff of Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer, N. C., as associate professor of English. Her address is Box 5, Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer.

JAMES E. DUNN, BS, retired, of 2056 University Drive, San Jose, Calif., made a trip by air around the world last spring. Accompanied by Mrs. Dunn, he visited 23 countries. This was his second trip to the European area. The Dunns have a son, James Jr., who is with the Chevrolet Company in Portland, and whose son is James III. Their daughter, Marjorie, is with Rand Company in Santa Monica. Their next trip may include a visit to Missouri.

12 THOMAS C. REED, BS Agr., AM '14, is director of Southern Dairies, Inc., with headquarters at Greensboro, N. C. He represented the University at the inauguration of Willa Beatrice Player as president of Bennett College in October.

13 CLARENCE P. (Cap) LEMIRE, LL.B. has retired as a judge of the United States Tax Court, to which he was appointed in 1946. His home address is Apt. 722, 4545 Connecticut N.W., Washington, D. C.

16 BRICE T. SUTTON, attorney in the general office legal department of United Gas Pipe Line Company, retired on October 1, and plans to continue to make Shreveport, La., his home. He has been with United Gas at Shreveport since 1946, and prior to that service, he has been on the legal staffs of Phillips Petroleum at Bartlesville, Okla.; of Kanotex Refining Company, Arkansas City, Kan., and of Prairie Oil and Gas Co., Independence, Kan. Mr. Sutton is a member of the Missouri and Oklahoma Bar Associations. Mr. and Mrs. Sutton reside at 325 Boulevard in Shreveport. Their son, B. Lee Sutton, and a grandson, Randy, also live in that city. Mr. Sutton plans to enjoy golf and travel.

17 Rev. A. F. LARSON, AB, AM '19, of 731 Vine St., Fulton, Mo., retired this year after serving nearly 40 years in the rural churches of Callaway County. Familiarly known as "Preacher Larson," or as his acquaintances say, just "Dad," Rev. Larson has served the Liberty Christian Church near Shamrock for 38 years, and has been an instructor in the Bible at William Woods for more than 25 years. A keen student of Latin and Greek, he has a wide knowledge of both the Bible

Mrs. RALPH A. McCANSE, formerly JESSIE M. HILL, AB, BS Ed. '19, has been elected to the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association. Last year she was appointed as representative for Wisconsin on the national committee for public affairs, and met with the national board in New York City in October, when the election was held. While on this trip she visited her sister, Mrs. Edward Roberts, who was ESTHER HILL, AB '23, and her teenage son, John, of Princeton, N. J. Mrs. McCause and Mrs. Roberts are daughters of the late President A. Ross Hill of the University. The McCause home is at 3309 Blackhawk Drive, Madison, where Mr. McCause is an associate professor of English, University Extension Division, of the University of Wisconsin. Prof. McCause writes, "We are delighted with recent formats of the Alumnus." We understand that his book, "Waters Over Linn Creek Town," continues to win friends.

18 IRA DRYMON, BS Agr., Thoroughbred horse breeder of Lexington, Ky., is making steady progress toward recovery from a recent heart attack, and, now that he has had a warning, hopes to live a long time. In the past, Mr. Drymon has often been referred to as a horseman, president of this, or chairman of that, but now he is known as the father-in-law of the new President of the University of Kentucky, Dr. Frank G. Dickey. His son, two daughters and seven grandchildren all live near Lexington. The Drymon mailing address is Russell Cave Pike, Lexington.

20 WENDELL HOLMAN, BS Agr., AM '39, has been appointed chief agricultural training and extension adviser for the International Co-operation Administration, and left in November for New Delhi, India, to begin duties in directing an extension and community development program. This program is similar to the county agent system of the Agricultural Extension Service in the United States. Mr. Holman, a county agent for 21 years, 15 of which were in Boone County, has also been on the staff of the College of Agriculture. He spent two years in India, 1952-54, helping to establish an extension service and personnel training program. Since returning to Columbia in 1954, he has been a vice-president of the Boone County National Bank. Mrs. Holman, who was formerly Mrs. Rose Florea of Columbia, has been assistant agricultural editor for the past 11 years. She is also the author of stories and feature articles for many farm publications.

21 JAMES STEELE WILLIAMS, AB, AM '22, Ph.D. '24, with the U. S. Geological Survey in Washington, D. C. since 1930, attended the 20th International Congress in Mex-

LEO J. HARNED, AB, LLB '28, lawyer, has four children at the University this fall. Ben, the son, is enrolled in business and public administration. The three daughters, are triplets; they are Carrolee, Nancy Jo and Sara. Carrolee and Nancy Jo are enrolled in Arts, and Sara is in the School of Nursing. Mrs. Harned is the former Margaret Taylor of Columbia. Their home is at 414½ South Ohio in Sedalia, Mo.

23 Dr. HOWARD A. RUSK, AB, DS '17, who has gained fame for his work in rehabilitation of the disabled, was featured in October on a nation-wide television program, "Medical Horizons," which was telecast over ABC-TV. The show, "To Mend a Man," was a 'live' documentary, pointing up progress in aiding the disabled, and came from the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at NYU-Bellevue Medical Center in New York. Dr. Rusk told of methods developed at the Institute which help more than 28 million persons in the U. S. Dr. Rusk, head of the department of Physical

Telephones as Christmas Gifts

If you order early, we'll do our best to install your gift telephones before Christmas. If that isn't possible, then we'll come around after Christmas and install them wherever you wish.

There's a new idea in gifts and it's one of the best in a long, long time. It's the idea of giving telephones for Christmas.

Few things are so sure to be appreciated by everybody. For when you give someone an additional telephone you give three of the greatest gifts of all—comfort, convenience and security. And "it's fun to phone."

So this year, make it something different and "give the gift you'd like to get."

Save steps and work for Mother by giving her an additional telephone for the kitchen or bedroom.

Help Dad avoid puffing up the stairs (they may be getting a little steeper, you know) by giving him a telephone in his workshop.

Reward the teen-agers who are growing up so fast with a telephone for their very own. (That could be a break for you, too!)

Easy to do. The cost is moderate. There's a choice of eight handsome colors. Ivory, beige, green, blue, red yellow, brown and gray. Just call the Business Office of your local Bell telephone company.

In Memoriam

MANIE PRESTON COLEMAN, Arts '87, one of the first women graduates of the University, on October 24 in Columbia, Mo. Miss Coleman, born in Virginia in 1862, came to Missouri when four years old, began teaching school at the age of 12, and taught several years before enrolling in the University. Besides her career as a teacher, which she continued after graduation, Miss Coleman was active in political affairs, worked as a newspaper reporter in Galveston and Houston, Tex., and in St. Louis. She later was secretary to the Board of Public Improvements in St. Louis, was in the real estate business there, and also worked as assistant cashier at the Union Sand and Cement Company. She returned to Columbia in 1930. She is survived by one sister, Miss Gussie Coleman, of the home at 203 Fourth Ave., and by several nieces and nephews.

ARTHUR R. MCGOMAS, Sur., PeP/'88, on November 13, 1956, at the Boone County Hospital in Columbia, Mo. Dr. McComas, the first doctor to receive the University Alumni Certificate of Merit last April, had practiced medicine 66 years in Sturgeon, Mo., and surrounding territory, and his career fulfilled the popular definition of a "country" doctor. He has often been called the "father" of the crippled children's bill which was adopted by the Legislature nearly 30 years ago, served many years as chairman of the Missouri State Medical Association's health and education committee, and was leader in the establishment of the Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital here. For more than 35 years Dr. McComas worked toward the establishment of a four-year School of Medicine at the University, and was present at the dedication of the new Medical Center on Saturday before his death. One of the oldest active physicians in the country, Dr. McComas kept up to date on developments in the medical profession, and maintained always a keen and active interest in the affairs of the University and of his community.

continued progress of the University. It is, therefore, appropriate for us today to turn our eyes toward the future and its problems.

One of the problems that we have with us, and one that will be with us continually, is the problem of securing funds to adequately maintain and operate not only this Medical Center that is being dedicated today, but the entire University.

The fact is that we in Missouri have not kept pace with our needs in the way of higher education. Missouri ranks 18th among the states in per capita income, yet it ranks 42d in per capita expenditures in higher education.

For years, because of lack of adequate funds, we have operated with insufficient building space and grossly inadequate facilities. While the funds from the bond issue recently passed will help a great deal, the $22 million allotted to the University for buildings, repairs, and additions will do no more than place the University in a position to adequately care for the number of students that we presently have. We need now—not tomorrow—additional funds over and above those provided by the bond issue in order to bring the planning of additional buildings and facilities to take care of the increased student load that will certainly be here by 1960. Today is not too early to start planning for the tomorrow that will surely come.

Adequate buildings and facilities are necessary for a sound and great school, but one may have the finest and most beautiful buildings and yet not have a great university. It is the faculty that makes a great university.

In a recent study, issued by the Ford Foundation in connection with salaries paid to people in various vocations and walks of life, it was disclosed that the average salary of professors in state universities represented a 250 per cent dollar increase over the average salary in 1904, but that the real purchasing power of such salary actually represented 2.2 per cent decrease under what it was in 1904. This compares with a 57 per cent increase in purchasing power in the salaries of railroad engineers and a 131 per cent increase for workers in the electrical manufacturing industry. These figures are for the country as a whole, but the salaries paid the faculty of Missouri's schools of higher education suffer even worse by comparison. Three years ago, a study revealed Missouri's per capita expenditure per year for our University was lower than any other state surrounding the State of Missouri, except Tennessee and Kentucky, and yet our per capita wealth is greater than any of the states surrounding us except Illinois. Our figure was a munificent $1.64 per year per capita. Arkansas's was $2.45, Kansas's was $6.80, and we haven't improved very much, on a comparative basis, since the study was made.

Our professors, and others of our faculty, will stand this condition only so long, and then the better of them will leave for more fruitful fields. That has happened all too often to us in this State.

Missouri University is the oldest state university west of the Mississippi River. It has been of tremendous value to the growth of the State and to its people. We must not, through negligence and a lackadaisical attitude, let the condition that I have described continue.

The great Medical Center that we are today dedicating will cause a large increase in the appropriation for the University. That fact must not be permitted to militate against the obtaining of adequate funds for the other great schools and colleges of the University—the College of Engineering, the School of Journalism, the College of Agriculture, along with the other schools and colleges too numerous to mention.

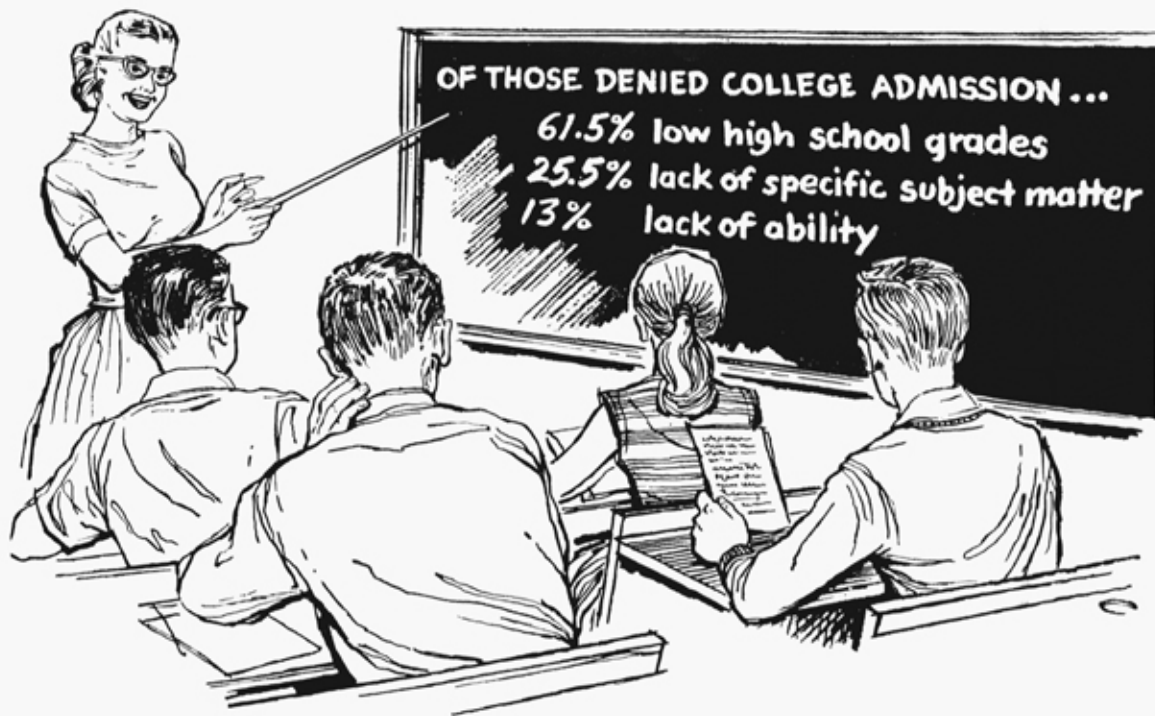

In appraising the value of this Medical Center, we cannot and must not evaluate it solely in terms of the numbers of Missourians that will be graduated from it as medical doctors. We must keep constantly in mind that this Medical Center, located at the University in the central part of the State, will furnish not only doctors for the people of the State, but that it will grant greatly needed hospital care to indigent people throughout the State—people who would otherwise needlessly suffer because of the lack of medical hospital care.

We must also remember that one of the purposes in establishing this Medical Center was to establish in the heart of the State an institution that would be of service to other institutions throughout the State in providing new methods and means of adequately taking care of the health of our people.

Nor must we forget that a medical school does not exist only for the teaching and for service of the type that I have referred to, but that any medical school worthy of its name must make its contribution to the field of research—research not only in the field of medicine proper, but in allied fields as well. As Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, former president of Columbia University, now deceased, said: "Medicine is no longer looked upon as something separate and distinct from other forms of science, study and service. Medical teaching must stand in close relation to the university's teaching in chemistry, physics, and zoology."

In view of these thoughts, it seems to me that today, on this day of dedication, on this day of recognition of accomplishment, that a word about the challenge of the future should be expressed, a word to indicate that while this improvement is a great one and redounds to the credit of all those who had part in it and to the people of the State, ours is a job that is not finished. It is a "continuing one."

Can your child go to your college?

Every one of us has the hope that his son or daughter may be so well prepared that the admissions officer will say: "Your application is accepted. We will look forward to seeing you in the fall." But sometimes plans go amiss.

We at General Electric have for years been urging youth to aim high, work hard, master the basic subjects, and go on to college.

Recently, we sent a questionnaire to 100 college-admissions officers. We asked: "What are the reasons some high-school students are admitted and others rejected?" The 78 replies we received contained a great unanimity of opinion.

We have summarized those replies in a booklet, Start Planning Now for Your Career; the illustration on this page, taken from the booklet, gives a clue as to its content.

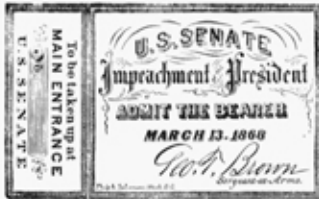

We believe that the alumnus can work for the best interests of his college by sending to that college young people prepared to receive a higher education.

We further believe that our summary of opinions of admissions officers is so persuasively compelling that the boy or girl who reads it must ask himself whether he is choosing his courses wisely and getting high enough marks.

Perhaps with this booklet in hand and supporting its thesis with your own experience, you can help persuade your child, or another child in whom you have an interest, to prepare against the day when an admissions officer will review his record. We invite you to write for a copy (or copies) to Dept. 2-119, General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York.

"I looked down into my open grave"

"MR. SENATOR ROSS, HOW SAY YOU?"

In the deathly silence of the Senate chamber, the freshman Senator from Kansas looked down, as he put it, into his own grave.

On deliberately trumped-up charges, the bitterly fanatic leaders of Ross's party were trying to vote President Johnson out of office—because Johnson stood between them and their revenge on the defeated South.

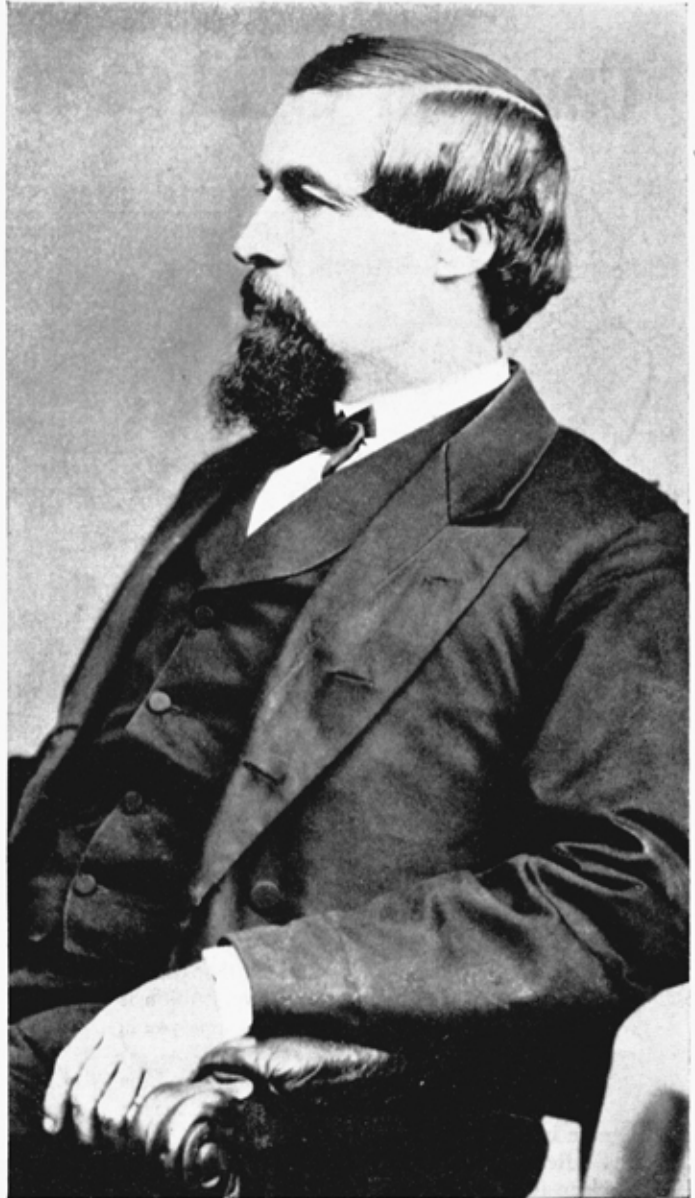

Ross, they knew, also disliked Johnson and wanted to punish the South. But, taking no chances, they had warned him to vote "guilty" or face political suicide.

And now, on that historic May morning in 1868, the verdict had come to hang completely on his vote. First faltering, then loudly, he gave it: "Not guilty!"

That was sheer moral principle speaking. Edmund Ross refused to join a move he thought would wreck the historic powers of the Presidency. For this, he lost his future, lost his good name, and saved for himself only what he had saved for everyone: our democracy.

Into the whole fabric of American democracy is woven the steel-tough moral fiber of men like Edmund Ross. Braver even than battle courage, it has helped America become strong in many ways. So strong, that, today, one of the world's greatest guarantees of security is U.S. Savings Bonds.

For it is not American principal, but American principles, that back these Bonds. So, for yourself and your country, invest in United States Savings Bonds regularly. And hold on to them.

It's actually easy to save—when you buy Series E Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. Once you've signed up at your pay office, your saving is done for you. The Bonds you receive pay good interest—3% a year, compounded half-yearly when held to maturity. And the longer you hold them, the better your return. Even after maturity, they go on earning 10 years more. So hold on to your Bonds! Join Payroll Savings today—or buy Bonds where you bank.
