The book of anatomical drawings was compiled by Clarence Martin Jackson. Jackson received a B.S. in 1898, an M.S. in 1899, and a Doctorate of Medicine in 1900, all from the University of Missouri. He served as a teaching fellow in biology while in Graduate School and joined the faculty as assistant professor of Anatomy and Histology in 1901.

Jackson served as president of the University’s Alumni Association from 1905 to 1907. He was dean of the Medical School from 1909 to 1913. The following year he took a position at the University of Minnesota where he retired as dean of its Medical School in 1941.

Jackson left over 12,000 items from his personal library to the University of Missouri medical and general library collections. A number of the volumes in this exhibit were part of Jackson’s donation.
