

With the Alumni

At Leaders' Day, football games, local meetings and luncheons - alumni gathered throughout the state.

At left, Randy Puchta, district director from Hermann, Mo., discusses district 10 business with Rich Murrell of Rolla, right. At right, James Hanson, president of the Journalism Alumni Association and Joe Ewing, right, president of the Agriculture Alumni Association attend the meeting for divisional leaders.

During half-time ceremonies at the Mizzou-Air Force game in St. Louis, Tom Heapes, left, president of the St. Louis Alumni Association, presents Roy L. Tarter and Elmer Muschany, right, of Carondelet Savings and Loan Association with certificates naming them honorary members of the Alumni Association for sponsoring the annual St. Louis band concert and providing band scholarships.

Regional directors John Booth, left, from Oklahoma City, and Red Graham, from Westport, Conn., travelled to Columbia for the meeting.

Chancellor and Mrs. John W. Schwada visit with Alumni Association President Garth Landis, right, and member at large, Mitch Murch, left, at a luncheon.

Ed Holt, Grundy County chairman from Trenton, Mo., at left, and Paul Hess, district director, Macon, Mo., meet over coffee at Leaders' Day before the Minnesota game.

Savitar queen of 1919, Laura Owens, now Mrs. C.W. Moody, left, and the 1920 queen, Mildred Owens, now Mrs. Jack Cooper, were both present at the Alumni Association meeting in Springfield, Mo.

Representatives Don Blume, left, of Houston, Texas and Lynn Ewing of Nevada, Mo. came to Leaders' Day.

Don Faurot unveils a bust of himself sculpted by Dr. Donald Beckman, right, at M-Men's luncheon October 24, honoring gridders who played under the late Chauncey Simpson, including members of the '45 Cotton Bowl team.