

MIZZOU WEEKLY

Volume 35, No. 7

THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI: CELEBRATING 175 YEARS IN 2014

October 3, 2013

Inside

■ PAGE 3

$1.57 million gift

Gift provides funds for endowed chair at law school

■ PAGE 4

HR conference Oct. 22-23

■ PAGE 3

Crime numbers

MU Police releases 2012 crime report

■ PAGE 3

Jackie Jones to retire

► Visit us on the Web!
mizzouweekly.missouri.edu

Campaign Cabinet spends day learning about University of Missouri

Former cabinet member who donated $8.5 million during "For All We Call Mizzou" encourages financial support

AS MU GEARS UP for its "One Mizzou" comprehensive campaign, administrators sought feedback from select alumni on the fundraising goals of the campaign and the goals of the university.

To help the process, the 39 alumni who make up the Campaign Cabinet spent last Friday learning more about the $1 billion-plus fundraiser, and talking with deans, faculty and a handful of students.

The "One Mizzou" campaign is scheduled to kick off publicly in 2015-16 and conclude in 2020-21; its quiet phase started in January 2012.

The last major fundraising campaign, "For All We Call Mizzou," was from 2000 to 2008 and raised $1 billion for the university.

In April 2005, alumnus Bill Thompson, tri-chair of the "For All We Call Mizzou" cabinet, and wife Nancy gave $8.5 million to create MU's Thompson Center for Autism and Neurodevelopmental Disorders. Bill Thompson, who has a nephew with Down Syndrome, said at that announcement: "We have great confidence in these leaders to use our financial resources wisely to contribute the types of results that will make a difference."

On Friday, Thompson reiter-

PHOTO BY MORGAN LIEBERMAN

ated that point and told cabinet members it is important to serve as a volunteer and financially support their alma mater.

CABINET FEEDBACK

During his presentation, Tom Hiles, vice chancellor for advancement, rhetorically asked what the new chancellor's top priorities should be in his or her first year in the wake of Chancellor Brady J. Deaton's retirement Nov. 15. At a late afternoon reception in the Residence on Francis Quadrangle, some cabinet members weighed in.

Howard Russell Jr., BS Ag '79,

See CAMPAIGN on Page 4

Dinner Dialogue

Thirty-nine cabinet alumni and 10 faculty, along with spouses and administrators, dined Friday evening on the stage of the Missouri Theatre to close a whirlwind day on the upcoming $1 billion-plus "One Mizzou" fundraiser.

New University of Missouri Press director starts position Nov. 1

David Rosenbaum is a book author and has more than 15 years' experience in the publishing industry

DAVID ROSENBAUM, director of product development and project management for the American Heart Association, has been named director of the University of Missouri Press, Provost Brian Foster announced last Friday. Rosenbaum begins the position Nov. 1.

"David's experience goes beyond scholarly publishing, as he has been successful in commercial and not-for-profit publishing arenas, as well," Foster said in a statement. "It is this diverse background that feeds his unique perspective.

"He has some compelling ideas of how to create a more visible presence for the press in the world of scholarly publishing," Foster said.

By August, the search committee had narrowed candidates to three: Rosenbaum; Clair Willcox, associate director and editor-in-chief of Missouri Press; and Leila Salisbury, director of the University Press of Mississippi. A few weeks ago, the candidates were on campus for interviews and to each give a public presentation describing their vision for the press.

'I'm convinced that the university will support the press as long as the press is committed to making improvements to help itself financially,' Rosenbaum said.

At the American Heart Association, Rosenbaum managed the domestic and international publishing branches of the association. Prior to that, he served as senior acquisitions editor at Elsevier, a provider of science and health information online, in journals and in books; senior acquisitions editor at Delmar Cengage Learning, a textbook publisher; and senior publisher and production manager at the Iowa State Press. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of South Alabama.

"When I was on campus, I was gratified to hear the tremendous amount of support that faculty and staff had for the press," Rosenbaum said in a statement.

He is optimistic about the press' future. "I'm convinced that the university will support the press as long as the press is committed to making improvements to help itself financially," Rosenbaum said.

Childhood Obesity Symposium features university experts

A RECENT CENTERS FOR DISEASE CONTROL AND PREVENTION REPORT found that obesity rates in 19 states, including Missouri, fell slightly for low-income children between the ages of 2 and 4. However, MU researchers know there is still a lot of work to do.

Organized by Janet Famer, a professor of health psychology in the School of Health Professions, the MU Childhood Obesity Symposium Oct. 10 in Memorial Union North is bringing together experts from nine MU units, including the School of Medicine, College of Veterinary Medicine, School of Health Professions, the College of Education and the College of Arts and Science.

The goal of the symposium is to share information about the research being done at MU that will advance the prevention of childhood obesity.

The conference will also offer sessions on clinical and transla-tional science, school and community-based initiatives, and turning programs into public policy.

STATINS ISSUE

The necessity of daily physical activity for children and adults can't be understated, according to John Thyfault in his article "Type 2 Diabetes Sits in a Chair," recently published in the medical journal Diabetes, Obesity and Metabolism.

At the free all-day symposium, Thyfault, associate professor of nutrition and exercise physiology, will talk about the importance of increasing physical activity and decreasing sedentary time.

"There's accumulating evidence showing that, even if you exercise, the more you sit, the more risk you have for disease," Thyfault said.

To combat the sedentary lifestyle, Thyfault recommends getting 150 minutes of exercise

See OBESITY on Page 3

IN BRIEF

→ Fall wreaths

Tiger Garden is selling a variety of wreaths for office doors, home or other uses. Custom orders are also accepted. Tiger Garden is open 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday at 2-34 Agriculture Building. Call 884-1191 or email tigergarden@missouri.edu.

→ Self-publishing workshop

A free workshop at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 5, in The Mizzou Store will teach attendees how to self-publish their manuscripts. Guest speakers include Mart Ferguson, owner of Wordhound Writing and Editing Services, and John Brenner, editor of the quarterly State Historical Society of Missouri. All are invited.

→ Book giveaway

The University of Missouri Press will give away a press book to seven people who register online. A winner will be named each day Nov. 10-16 during University Press Week. Winners will be notified by email. Selection of books is first-come/first-served. To register, visit press.umsystem.edu/pages/bookgiveaway.aspx.

→ Cancer center extended hours

Ellis Fischel Cancer Center offers late-night digital mammograms for women over age 40 or for women who have a doctor's order. The exams are 6 p.m.-midnight Oct. 4, and 7 a.m.-noon Oct. 5. All exams are by appointment. To make an appointment, call the center at 882-8511.

→ 2012 campus crime numbers released

MU Police Department released Sept. 26 its 2012 Campus Crime & Fire Safety Report. Below is a breakdown:

- Forcible Sex Offenses: 6
- Robberies: 2
- Burglaries: 10
- Aggravated assaults: 8
- Arson: 3
- Murder and manslaughter: 0

One hate crime was reported on campus, categorized as "intimidation." The numbers are similar to those from 2011 except for Forcible Sex Offenses, of which there were 11. Read the entire report at mupolice.com.

Concerts & Plays

FRIDAY, OCT. 4

MU School of Music: Guest artist recital: Otis Murphy, saxophone, and Haruko Murphy, piano, at 7:30 p.m. in Whitmore Recital Hall.

SATURDAY, OCT. 5

MU School of Music: Guest artist recital: Stephanie Sant'Ambrogio, violin, and Peter Miyamoto, piano, at 7:30 p.m. in Whitmore Recital Hall.

SUNDAY, OCT. 6

"We Always Swing" Jazz Series: The Eldar Djangirov Trio will perform at 3:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. at Murray's. Tickets are available through Ticketmaster or by calling 449-3001.

University Concert Series: Aaron Neville, one of the famed Louisiana Neville Brothers, will perform at 6 p.m. at the Missouri Theatre. For ticket information, call 882-3781.

MU School of Music: Guest artist masterclass: Stephanie Sant'Ambrogio, violin masterclass, at 10 a.m. Guest artist recital: Loose Cannons at 3:30 p.m. Faculty recital: Alice Dade, flute, at 7:30 p.m. All performances will be in Whitmore Recital Hall.

MONDAY, OCT. 7

MU School of Music: Faculty recital: Darry Dolezal, cello, at 7:30 p.m. in Whitmore Recital Hall.

TUESDAY, OCT. 8

University Concert Series: The Hungarian State Folk Ensemble, complete with a full company of dancers and live orchestra, will perform "Gypsy Romance" at 7 p.m. in Jesse Auditorium. For ticket information, call 882-3781.

MU School of Music: Student ensemble: Symphonic Band/University Band at 7:30 p.m. at the Missouri Theatre.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 9

University Theatre Series: Spring Awakening, a Tony Award winner for Best Musical, explores the journey from youth to adulthood at 7:30 p.m. today through Oct. 12 at the Rhynsburger Theatre. For ticket information, call 882-7529.

Courses & Workshops

THURSDAY, OCT. 3

Computer Training:

"Dreamweaver CS6 2a: CSS Basics" will be offered at 8:30 a.m. in 25 Arts & Science.

"Excel 2013: data Management & Importing" will be offered at 8:30 a.m. in 18 Arts & Science.

"Dreamweaver CS6 2b: CSS Layout" will be offered at 10:30 a.m. in 25 Arts & Science.

"Transitioning from Waterfall to Agile" will be offered at 9 a.m.-5 p.m. in 205 B/C Locust Street Building.

"Illustrator CS6 1: Introduction" will be offered at 1 p.m. in 25 Arts & Science.

"Illustrator CS6 2: Learning the Pen Tool" will be offered at 3 p.m. in 25 Arts & Science.

Registration is required online at training.missouri.edu or call 882-5000.

TUESDAY, OCT. 8

Computer Training:

"Photoshop CS6 1a: Intro to Photoshop" will be offered at 8:30 a.m. in 18 Arts & Science.

"Photoshop CS6 1b: Layers & Style" will be offered at 10:30 a.m. in 18 Arts & Science.

"Webinar - InDesign Newsletter from Scratch" will be offered at noon at online.

"Web Design" will be offered at 1 p.m. in 18 Arts & Science.

"Access 2013: Fields & Tables" will be offered at 1 p.m. in 25 Arts & Science.

Registration is required online at training.missouri.edu or call 882-5000.

THURSDAY, OCT. 10

Computer Training:

"HTML5 & CSS: Tables, Layout & Typography" will be offered at 8:30 a.m. in 25 Arts & Science.

"InDesign CS6: Objects & Color" will be offered at 1 p.m. in 18 Arts & Science.

"InDesign CS6: Flexible Documents & Vectors" will be offered at 3 p.m. in 18 Arts & Science.

Registration is required online at training.missouri.edu or call 882-5000.

FRIDAY, OCT. 11

Computer Training:

"Word 2013: Formatting Thesis & Dissertation" will be offered at 8:30 a.m. in 25 Arts & Science.

Exhibits

Bingham Gallery:

"Dual Thesis Exhibition" by Chris Hall and Danielle Langdon will be on display through Oct. 24.

The gallery, located in the Fine Arts Building, is open 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday.

Ellis Library Colonnade:

"Divided Loyalties" will be on display through Oct. 26.

Colonnade exhibits may be viewed during regular Ellis Library hours.

Museum of Art and Archaeology:

"14 Rural Absurdities" by Tom Huck, an exhibit showcasing large woodcut prints depicting humorous events that allegedly occurred in Huck's Potosi, Mo., boyhood home.

The museum, located in Pickard Hall, is open 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, 9 a.m.-8 p.m. Thursday, and noon-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

State Historical Society:

"The Missouri State Capitol in Art/Art in the Missouri State Capitol," an exhibit that features Impressionist paintings by Jefferson City artist Lester Parker, will be on display through December.

The gallery, located in Ellis Library, is open 8 a.m.-4:45 p.m. Monday-Friday, and 8 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Saturday.

Lectures & Seminars

SATURDAY, OCT. 5

Saturday Morning Science: Jim Schoelz, professor of plant sciences, will present "Food Insecurity: Tracking Plant Disease Epidemics in the United States" at 10:30 a.m. in Monsanto Auditorium.

TUESDAY, OCT. 8

Food for the 21st Century: Christine Costello, assistant research professor of biological engineering, will present a talk on biology at 4 p.m. in 105 Ag Engineering Building.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 9

Diversity in Action Seminar Series: Soren Larsen, professor of geography, will present "Return to a Native Land: Place-Based Politics Among the Cheslatta Carrier Nation in British Columbia" at noon in S110 Memorial Union.

FRIDAY, OCT. 11

Workplace Diversity Series:

Miguel Ayllon, president of MU Voz Latina and international outreach coordinator for the college of engineering, will present "Exploring the Experiences of Latino Employees at MU: A Quest for Understanding, Reconciliation and Leadership" at noon in Student Center 2206C. Please register at diversity.missouri.edu/workplace-diversity.

SATURDAY, OCT. 12

Saturday Morning Science: Cathy Vogelweid, associate professor of veterinary pathobiology, will present "Save the Whole Family: Disaster Preparedness for Animals and Their Owners" at 10:30 a.m. in Monsanto Auditorium.

Films

FRIDAY, OCT. 4

Museum of Art and Archaeology: Tom Jones (1963), directed by Tony Richardson and starring Albert Finney and Susannah York, will be shown at 7 p.m. in 106 Pickard Hall. This showing is free and open to the public.

Special Events

THURSDAY, OCT. 3

MU School of Law Veterans Clinic Opening: The grand opening of the School of Law Veterans Clinic, whose law student workers will help veterans and their families secure disability benefits, is at 1 p.m. in the courtroom of Hulston Hall, featuring special guest David H. Myers, deputy director for case evaluation at the Veterans Consortium Pro Bono program, who represents veterans at the U.S. Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims.

A reception will begin at 2 p.m. in 204 Hulston.

TUESDAY, OCT. 8

Life Science Business Incubator Reception: Join the Missouri Innovation Center president and CEO Jake Halliday and the board of directors for a reception at the Founding Contributor Appreciation Reception. Tour the MU Life Science Business Incubator at Monsanto Place and meet company CEOs at 4-6 p.m. RSVP to Kelly Eaton at keev23@mail.missouri.edu by Oct. 4. The incubator is located at 1601 S. Providence Road.

MIZZOU WEEKLY

Volume 35 No. 7
mizzouweekly.missouri.edu

A publication for the faculty and staff of the University of Missouri, published every Thursday during the academic year and twice a month during the summer by Publications and Alumni Communication, a department of University Affairs, 407 Reynolds Alumni Center, 882-7357. News deadline is noon Thursdays.

Editor
Mark Barna

Advertising
Scott Reeter, Ryan Walker

Designer
Rebecca Fels

Photographers
Nicholas Benner, Rob Hill

Writers
Kelsey Allen, JeongAn Choi

Sick of your current provider? We get it.

QUANTUM

www.QuantumWirelessInternet.com

HIGH SPEED WIRELESS INTERNET SERVICE PROVIDER
FOR RESIDENTIAL, COMMERCIAL AND MOBILITY.

573.256.1166

Got an event coming up? Let us know. Email mizzouweeklycalendar@missouri.edu

From OBESITY on Page 1

a week and as much as possible throughout the day.

In a study, Thyfault investigated whether combining exercise with statins — a class of cholesterol-reducing pharmaceuticals often prescribed to individuals with obesity, diabetes and metabolic syndrome — would lower metabolic syndrome risk factors more than exercising or taking statins alone.

But the results he stumbled on might change how physicians think about statins, the most widely prescribed drug worldwide: The fat-soluble statins blocked the positive effects of exercise in obese adults.

To arrive at this finding, Thyfault took two groups of sedentary and obese individuals. Both groups followed the same exercise regimen, but about half also took a daily dose of statins. At the end of 12 weeks, Thyfault measured their cardiorespiratory fitness levels using the Bruce Protocol, a treadmill exercise test that gradually increases in speed and incline until the participant can go no farther. The exercise-only group increased their fitness by 10 percent compared to the exercise-and-statin group, which increased by only 1.5 percent.

Although more research is needed, Thyfault attributes the reduction in exercise benefits to a skeletal muscle phenomenon. With exercise, the number of mitochondria, the powerhouse of the muscle cell that consumes oxygen, increases. Thyfault also found that the mitochondrial content did not increase in participants taking statins like it did in the participants who only exercised.

A SECOND LOOK

The statins finding has large implications on how they are prescribed. Only five years ago, doctors advocated for putting statins in drinking water as a preventative tool for the public, including healthy individuals without high cholesterol.

“Everybody was saying that there’s no downside to statins, that there’s only positive outcomes, that it should be given to every male over 40 and every female over 50,” Thyfault said.

In an article published in the Journal of the American College of Cardiology, Thyfault recommended that cardiologists weigh the benefits and risks of statins, given their deleterious effects on exercise, before prescribing them to patients who might have other options.

“Statins aren’t going to go away. They’re too effective and too much a part of the medical system,” he said. “But if we can motivate people who are already at a low fitness level to exercise, the last thing we want to do is stop that fitness from improving.”

Obesity Symposium

To learn more about childhood obesity and how to encourage youth to embrace healthful lifestyles, register by Oct. 6 at healthykids.missouri.edu.

TIME: 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

DATE: Oct. 10

PLACE: Room 206, Memorial Union North

$1.57 million gift creates endowed chair at law school

THE TIMING COULDN'T BE BETTER for studying corporate governance, according to law Professor Thomas Lambert. So it is fortuitous that a $1.57 million gift from the Nancy and Charles Wall Family Foundation established Lambert as the Wall Chair in Corporate Law and Governance at the MU School of Law.

The endowed chair, announced Sept. 26 at the Reynolds Alumni Center, will help the school attract and keep top law teachers and scholars by supplementing the salary of Lambert and future Wall chairs, and supporting their research.

‘Scholarship should be part of what a teacher does,’ said Thomas Lambert, Wall Chair in Corporate Law and Governance at the School of Law.

“Scholarship should be part of what a teacher does,” Lambert said. “Law schools these days have separated themselves into schools where the professors just do scholarship and teaching as an afterthought, and schools where the professors just teach students how to pass the bar, but they’re not engaged in the life of the mind. A great teacher doesn’t just provide information; she also inspires students to come along on the intellectual journey.”

“Chuck” Wall, who did not attend the announcement, was described by School of Law Dean Gary Myers as “the consummate corporate lawyer.” Wall, JD ’70, is a retired vice chairman and general counsel for Altria and chairs the New York City Opera.

Lambert outlined three matters on which he and Wall concur: The corporate business model is unrivaled in its ability to generate and distribute economic prosperity; there is a need for strong and effective corporate governance; and Mizzou’s law school does legal education the right way.

Lambert practiced in a Chicago law office before entering academia at the Northwestern University School of Law and Washington University in St. Louis. He referenced legendary MU professors Lee Carl Overstreet and William H. Pittman, nicknamed the Fox and the Bull, respectively, in his speech.

“I would like to think that were there a Fox and a Bull today, I would be the Fox,” Lambert joked.

PHOTO BY NICHOLAS BENNER

“These individuals made Mr. Wall the lawyer he is today, so he appreciates the role of the teacher.”

—Marcus Wilkins

Law and Research

Thomas Lambert, the new Wall Chair in Corporate Law and Governance, said that law school faculty also need to be involved in legal research. Chancellor Brady J. Deaton (left) and MU School of Law Dean Gary Myers also attended the gift announcement of $1.57 million from the Nancy and Charles Wall Family Foundation.

Vice chancellor of administrative services to retire

Jackie Jones has worked for the university for 34 years

JACKIE JONES, VICE CHANCELLOR OF ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES, will retire on Dec. 31, Chancellor Brady J. Deaton announced Wednesday. Jones has worked for MU for 34 years.

Gary Ward, associate vice chancellor of Campus Facilities, will serve as interim vice chancellor of administrative services beginning Jan. 1.

“Jackie has been instrumental in transforming this campus into the vibrant and efficient environment that it is today,” Deaton said in a statement.

“Through her leadership, her team has consistently investigated ways to improve the academic performance of the campus, while being mindful of our environmental footprint. I am reminded of her hard work when I talk with visitors on campus who consistently remark on how beautiful and inviting our campus is. We will truly miss her and wish her well.”

Jones was appointed to her current position in 2001. She is responsible for the administrative oversight of financial and service operations, including

Cashiers, Payroll, Accounting, Campus Facilities, Human Resources, MU Police, Parking and Transportation Services, Printing Services, KOMU-TV, Show-Me State Games, University Club and Catering, Missouri Theatre/Jesse Auditorium, and Environmental Health and Safety.

She is also responsible for planning, business operations and facilities operations.

“Being an employee of the University of Missouri has been one of the most cherished experiences of my life,” Jones said.

“This is such a very special place. To be a member of the Mizzou family means having an opportunity to make a real difference in people’s lives every day, not just here on campus and in Columbia, but across the state, country and the world.”

Jones began working at MU in 1979 as manager of Business Services. Later, she was promoted to associate director of Business Services, director of Business Services, and associate vice chancellor of Administrative Services before being named to her current role.

“I’ve been very blessed to spend my entire career at MU within the Administrative Services division,” Jones said. “Administrative Services employees work tirelessly, and mostly behind the scenes, to keep Mizzou running. It truly has been an honor to work with such talented and dedicated individuals, and I’m very proud of all they have accomplished for and on behalf of Mizzou.”

Jones received a bachelor of science degree in business education from Truman State University, a master’s degree in counseling and guidance, and a juris doctorate from Southern Methodist University.

She is a member of the National Association of College and University Business Officers and the National Collegiate Licensing Association.

PHOTO BY MORGAN LIEBERMAN

Sharing a Laugh

On Friday, Trulaske College of Business Dean Joan T.A. Gabel and cabinet member José M. Gutiérrez, president of AT&T's Wholesale Solutions, head to the Missouri Theatre for "Distinguished Dialogues."

From CAMPAIGN on Page 1

is an area credit manager at MFA Inc., a regional agricultural supply cooperative serving more than 45,000 farmers in Missouri and contiguous states. Russell hoped the new chancellor would continue MU's emphasis on important research. "Research is how you make a difference," Russell said in the residence's east parlor.

He was impressed with the day's presentations. "We have people in positions of leadership to lead us well."

Cabinet member John D. Bies, PhD '72, said he hopes the next chancellor is an academic from an Association of American Universities institution.

Bies is an adjunct professor of comparative politics and government at the University of South Carolina Upstate, and the MU Graduate School representative on the cabinet. In 2013, Bies established MU's Graduate Student International Fellowship endowment, which helps students pay for international travel. He would like to see MU continue to expand its "international footprint."

'Our goal is for you to come away from this evening with firsthand experience of the quality of our teaching, research and service to Missouri, the nation and the globe,' Chancellor Brady J. Deaton said.

Bies also said the university has a stellar reputation in many parts of America and the world. In South Carolina where he teaches, MU is viewed as a "high-quality academic institution," he said.

DISTINGUISHED DIALOGUES

Following the reception, the group headed to the Missouri Theatre for "Distinguished Dialogues: An Evening with Miz-zou." In the lobby before dinner, Mizzou Forte, a choir of a dozen students, performed.

The group proceeded into the auditorium and took their seats on stage for dinner. Among them were tri-chairs Catherine A. Allen, BS HES '68, LHD '05, who founded the consulting firm The Santa Fe Group and is the College of Human Environmental Sciences campaign representative; José M. Gutiérrez, BS '84, M Acc '85, president of AT&T's Wholesale Solutions; and Richard Miller, BA '70, LittD '00, CEO of Miller's Professional Imaging, a photography laboratory.

The 10 faculty joining them were:

- Michael LeFevre, vice chair and director of clinical services in Human Resources training conference Oct. 22-23

HUMAN RESOURCE SERVICES will present its annual training conference Oct. 22-23 in Memorial Union. With more than 30 concurrent sessions over two days, employees can participate in a variety of sessions from professional development to wellness to retirement. The speakers are primarily staff, faculty and community members who are experts in their fields.

Reduced budgets make it difficult for departments to send employees off campus for training opportunities, but for several years the Human Resource Services division has come up with cost-effective solutions that allow staff to get free top-notch training and indulge in personal and professional development in their own back yard.

While the conference focuses on staff employees, faculty are invited to a demonstration on myLearn, a learning tool designed to supplement traditional training methods and provide faculty and staff with more opportunities for developing skills while minimizing the demands on the campus's limited training resources.

Information about the conference, course descriptions and registration forms are available online at hrs.missouri.edu under the Training tab.

Staff members without computer access can contact Human Resource Services at 882-4840 to register.

There is no registration deadline, but employees who enroll in a session and later find out they cannot attend should remove themselves from the course to open the seat for other interested parties.

For more information, contact Dawn Klinger, manager of Human Resource Support Services, at 882-2602, or e-mail klingerda@missouri.edu.

the School of Medicine;

- Marilyn Rantz, Curators Professor of Nursing;
- M. Frederick Hawthorne, director of the International Institute of Nano and Molecular Medicine;
- Michael Cook, a professor of agricultural economics;
- Junamaria Cordones-Cook, a professor in the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures;
- Carolyn Henry, a professor in the College of Veterinary Medicine and the School of Medicine;
- Shibu Jose, director of the Center for Agroforestry;
- Kattesh Katti, Curators Distinguished Professor of Biological Engineering, Physics and Radiology;
- Wilma King, a professor of history;

- Steve Watts, a professor of history whose most recent biography is Mr. Playboy: Hugh Hefner and the American Dream.

"Our goal is for you to come away from this evening with firsthand experience of the quality of our teaching, research and service to Missouri, the nation and the globe," Deaton told the guests.

Watts, who also has written biographies on Henry Ford and Walt Disney, said at the reception that he wanted to open up a discussion at his table on the "consumer culture of self-fulfillment as opposed to the Victorian idea of self-denial." The other faculty also planned dinner table discussions on an aspect of their scholarly expertise.

On the stage in a darkened theatre of empty seats, alumni, faculty, administrators and spouses shared stories, laughs and stimulating conversation.

For one day only, get 1/2 off Gold color!

That's right! You can add GOLD to your Mizzou Weekly ad for only $50 when you place at least a quarter page ad in the October 24th issue!

Show your spirit! Plus your ad gets more attention in GOLD! Make your reservations before 5 p.m. Oct. 14.

Contact Ryan Walker at 884-1278 or MizzouWeekly@Missouri.edu or go to MizzouWeekly.missouri.edu

University Libraries
University of Missouri

Digitization Information Page

Local identifier MizzouWeekly(print)

Source information

Format Newspaper
Content type Text with images
Source ID Duplicate copies University Archives weeded out
Notes

Capture information

Date captured July-December, 2022
Scanner manufacturer Plustek OpticBook
Scanner model A300 Plus
Scanning system software Book Pavilion
Optical resolution 600 dpi
Color settings 8 bit grayscale for majority of pages;
 24 bit color for color illustrations/portraits/photographs
File types tiff
Notes

Derivatives - Access copy

Compression Tiff: LZW compression
Editing software Adobe Photoshop 2022
Resolution 600 dpi
Color same as captured
File types pdf created from tiffs
Notes Images cropped, straightened, and brightened.